Because of the spontaneous public response and the annual co-operation of various mediums of publicity, the seven day period has gained yearly in influence and results. The newspaper world has been a potent force in giving the "week" Dominion-wide significance; many ministers, convinced that a sound body is most likely to house a sound soul, have delivered special "Sports Week"-sermons; based on relevant texts; radio stations have consistently left the story with special series of sports talks, supplemented by "Spot" announcements.

An example of newspaper co-operation is picked at random from a file of Sports Week clippings: "The value of sport to the world is a keen bowling or rugby, if it is be on a championship team or with a 'pick-up scrub'; the big thing is to Play—and play fairly The slogan of the sports world is "It Pays to Play"—pays not only in dollars and cents, but in the gaining of qualities and standards which cannot be reduced to the scale of mercenary measurements."

In our national life, the spirit of true sportsmanship is necessary if we are to keep prosper. It was the English writer Trevor Wingall who said: "Sport means nothing when it is concerned only with the winning of an encounter; it is a very essential ingredient of life when it prompts, in the minds of those who take part, the generality of playing the game."

"IT PAYS TO PLAY". That will be the nation's slogan from Saturday, June 19th to Saturday, June 26th, when the 11th Annual Celebration of Canadian Sports and Recreation Week will sponsor the story of "Sport for Sport's Sake".

CORBINS FORTIFY HEAD POSITION

Defeat Bell-Sargents 12-5 to go Two Games up in Standing

Corbins fortified their hold on the leadership of the local Senior Softball loop with a 12 to 5 win over the "lock-staking" rivals, the Bell-Sargents at Coleman Plate last even ing. Johnston secured the victory for the Corbins and literally coasted home to victory behind good hitting consisting of his four hits.

Bawden whiffed ten Bell-Sargent batters in seven innings, scattering well the seven hits garnered by the losers. Mellarkin's three-bagger was the outstant hitter for Bell-Sargents, although Cole plastered a triple in the three-run rally in the fifth that showed their only signs of aggression.

The Corbins hit well all down the line, Barriage leading off man, getting two timely singles. Ted Henn led the parade with a double and Johnston and Cole "Norman" Rigby pounded out a mighty circuit blow for good and added a single for good measure. St. Louis connected for a triple in the fourth when the Corbins added to their lead with the game safely away in the bat bag.

Bell-Sargents scored three runs in the second inning, but the Corbins came back to notch four, on two hits and two walks. They added two more in the second and scored another quartette of runs in the fourth to terminate the scoring. The Percivals clash with the Point Anne-Percivals in an important tussle tonight, while Friday night's game will be advanced to Thursday owing to Rotary Club playing in the city on Friday.

The line-ups:

Corbins—Barriage ss; Henn 2b; Bawden (c) 1b; Rigby rf; St. Louis cf; Hanna lf; Tuttle c; Bawden p. Harris and St. Dennis.

Bell-Sargents—Lapperiere 3b; McMartin cf; Cole 1b; Hughes rf; F. Mellarkin ss; Robinson c; Hall lf; J. McGuire 2b; Sager p, Ridley and Barriage.

Score by innings: R H E

Schmeling is dated up to fight Tommy Farr, in London shortly and Braddock also may be persuaded to go abroad to start his comeback. Promoters estimate negroes comprised only slightly over 10 per cent audience... A minister was in charge of a special bringing 900 from New York's Harlem...Col. Jess Willard wears the same style of broad-brimmed hat—turned up in front and down in the rear...Gene Tunney, who picked Louis, spent all evening rooting hard for Braddock ...Prior to the gathering at Comiskey Park, the largest fight crowd spotted here was one in front of the Chicago Theatre, watching Jack Dempsey get shaved.

BLUEBIRDS WIN MIDGET TITLE

"B" Section Winners Take West Ends 15-1 in Final Game

Grant Thompson hurled the Bluebirds into the midget softball championship of the local Ki-Y League last evening as the Blue-birds won 15 to 1 over their West End rivals. The Bluebirds won the "B" section of the Ki-Y midget group while the West End won the "A" group, last night's game being the play-off for the group title, of which the Bluebirds were always in command.

The winners pounced on the West End for a four run ashjurg in the initial frame and kept adding to that number until 15 runs had been scored. The Bluebirds' big inning was the fourth, when they scored seven times. Thompson was in rare form and was given splendid support by his champion team mates. The West End scored their lone tally in the fourth.

The lineups:

Bluebirds: Carson, Thompson, Bookua, Burley, Barriage, Archer, Tomkins, Morgan and Greene.

West End: Smythe, Symons, Langabeer, Sligh, Ingram, Peaver, Reed, McCormick and Reed.

Score by innings:

Bluebirds ..... 601 720 x—15 runs
West End ..... 000 100 0— 1 run

Umpires: High, Hale; Bell bases.

In a regular bantam series game the Workerbuzzers strengthened their hold on first position in the Ki-Y bantam league series by virtue of an 8-3 win over the Wildcats last night also.

GROSS RECEIPTS ARE $715,400.74

Braddock Receives $262,000 And Brown Bomber $146,000

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Gross receipts for the Braddock-Louis heavyweight championship fight amounted to $715,400.74, co-promoter Mike Jacobs announced today after a checkup.

This included $75,000 for the radio and motion picture rights, so that the actual gross ticket sale amounted to $640,400.74.

Jacobs said the total attendance was "about 56,000," of which 46,400 purchased cash customers.

After deduction of state and federal taxes, approximating $115,000, the net receipts figured around $525,000. Braddock's 50 per cent, the minimum he was guaranteed, $262,000 and Louis' 17 1-2 per cent, "cut" figured to be nearly $110,000.

Allowing $50,000 for promotion expenses, the promoters' profits were estimated at close to $100,000, to give all but Larry French and Iwoon starts.

Cards Appear Toughest

At present, the Cards appear the Cubs' toughest rivals. They called on old Pop Haines to take a turn as starter yesterday. Pop did an unexpectedly fine job, but was no match for Rookie Lake Mamlin, and the gas house gang went down before the Dodgers 3-1. Mamlin's four-hit effort was only one of a flock of crack elbowing performances yesterday. Moois Sirakusa, Chicago White Sox youngster, blanked the Athletics 2-0 with three hits. Old Bluh Manine, Yankees' relief veteran, made his 1937 starting debut and stopped the Browns 8-6 with five hits. Cy Blanton fanned seven and loosed a four-hitter as the Pirates pounded the Reds 5-1, and Leo Grissom, Cincinnati rookie, missed the Phillies 8-0 with six hits.

Washington walloped four pitchers, including Lefty Grove, in a two-inning relief role, and trampled the Braves 15-4. The Tigers and Red Sox were rained out.

Chicago Cubs Defeat Giants Holding Two Game Lead and Appear Headed for a Title

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

History—and especially the National League breed—has shown often and dismayingly that a pennant winner is never in until all the chips are counted, but at this writing it appears the Cubs will have to do a major job of kicking the crown away to keep it out of Chicago.

A bad case of broken legs on the part of Charley Grimm's crew and a large order of new life for such other hopefuls as the Cardinals and Giants seem the only developments able to stop the high speed forward motion of the Cubs now riding a two-game lead in the junior circuit.

Cubs have won 18 of their last 22 games, topping it off with a 5-0 job on the Giants yesterday, in which Bill Lee handcuffed the Terry Terriers with seven hits.

In that 22-game stretch, 15 of the pitchers have gone the route and so many of them are hanging around that Grimm has been able Lee at least seven days rest be-

A new heavyweight champion was crowned at Comiskey Park in Chicago last night when Joe Louis, the Detroit Brown Bomber, knocked Jim Braddock loose from underneath his championship crown. Not even the most prejudiced person would deny, that Braddock was one of the gamest champions to ever go down, but when he did submerge it was beneath the most horrid onslaught of leather in the recent heavyweight history. Louis, the latest, methodical son of an Alabama cotton picker, climaxed the scrap with a series of rights and lefts, that left the champ an easy victim for a rather one-sided, technical "K.O." After the fight Louis made one remark over the radio—"my left was good, but that old right won for me."

Louis is the youngest champion ever to wear the crown. Many were of the opinion he was ready for the chamion after Schmeling polished him off a year ago, but last night the Brown Bomber displayed all ruggedness of being vulnerable for that much-talked of right, as he took Braddock apart a day punch and went on to win in the eighth round. Louis is only one year younger than the great Jack Dempsey, when he wrested the crown from Willard in Toledo in 1919. Critics agree, however, that Louis' hold on the crown will never be secure until he meets Max Schmeling again and defeats him even the score with the Black Uhlan, whose face today must be of the most colorful hue.

Braddock was undoubtedly the most courageous champion ever to go down in defeat in recent times. His ability to "take it" was clearly demonstrated last night and as his handlers led him out to fight the challenger in the first two rounds will always be a mystery. Braddock endeavored to carry the fight for the first two or three rounds and was clipped soleley by the slow-moving, methodical negro even after knowing Schmeling had been over Louis by applying different practices. Louis is the second negro to wear the crown, Jack Johnson being the other negro who was the better fighter last night. Louis rose to championship heights quicker than any champion in history and only nineteen months ago he was now enjoys following his fight last night.

Prior to last night's fight Max Schmeling was to meet Tommy Farr, the British Empire heavyweight champion, in London later this summer. The fight will be held in one of the larger stadiums in England. Schmeling flew from Germany to England to complete his training period, but the surprise package came after the Germans, were told by both parties, when Farr's managers informed Schmeling, that the British champion had already signed papers to meet the winner of last night's fight. There is no doubt but that Schmeling was "jabbed out of his digs" with Sharkey and now "it looks as though the Black Uhlan is being given the well known run around in the heavyweight circles.

Gord Delaney, the man behind the guns in local lacrosse circles, returns to the Flying Dorens (Belleville) have signed a new home player in a lad named Drake from the Airport. Drake comes to the R. C. A. A. highly recommended as a scoring threat and should add power to the locals' attack. Probably the Norwood next game is in Norwood on Friday, where they must win in order to keep pace with the league leading Peterboro Auburns.

The pro wrestling season of sport hereton at the Arena tonight with that veteran favorite, Dan Petroff, the Russian Lion, meeting Chief Lynx, the Rama Reserve Indian, in the main scrap. Petroff has an impressive record in a local ring, having had some impressive victories in his favor last fall. The grappling fans think it a match in Petroff, since he's fast with his qualities, but also recognize the threat Chief Lynx always is against wrestlers, who have belittled his ability. Petroff, the well-mannered preliminaries precede the bout, the second being a main bout as over the hour limit between Tex Mosby and Floyd Byrne, the Texas adonis.

Harold Bawden's Corbins took a strangle hold on first place in the local softball loop last eve, when they whipped Johnnie Cole's Bell-Sargent batsmen as the Corbins made it two wins in two games. Bawden gave the Corbins the mythical "lockamaroo" strangle hold in the evening, Rigby and Henn blasted timely hits for the winners, while Johnnie Cole failed to get Mc-Martin of the Bell-Sargent out. Last night's match was a great bearing on tonight's Point Anne-Percival game as the "easterners" must win to keep pace.

Eddie Starr, first string catcher for the Peterboro C.O.B.L. club, is out of the game for at least two weeks. Eddie sustained a fracture of the finger, holding practice recently, when a bat slipped out of a team mate's hand, and struck Eddie in the face. The absence will be keenly felt by the Peterboro lads as the one main cog in the Liftlock City's baseball machine.

The touring South African lawn bowlers were defeated 113 to 103 in a splendid tournament at Peterboro Saturday.

Buster Whitton, of Belleville Redman hockey fame, is going great guns with the Peterboro lacrosse team. As the Liftlock City crew downed Cobourg 12 to 6 recently. That crack about Belleville Redmen fame surely gets the Peterboro sport scribe down. He's still squawking and writhing, under much pain, because the dinner was not good enough to win the intermediate O. H. A. championship, while his pals in Peterboro, were all through playing hockey early in February. At the time those Oshawa trimmed Norwood 18 to 8.

Louis Steward the boys a few things, too...One is, you can't believe all you see in training camps ...There was nothing about the Braddock punching Bocaller of Tuesday night to indicate the slugger, who lasted through his drills at Kenosha...Maybe that was part of the strategy...One fellow told us on, but we didn't believe him... Anyway, Joe is the same hard hitter of two years ago and may be champion for a long, long time... Providing he don't target again by Max Schmeling.

Holiday Bride

by ANN DEMAREST

Jeanne bit her lips and her blue eyes were angry as she spoke. "He can't stop drinking because he never started—at least, he never drinks when he is with me."

A flush crept up the girl's cheeks but when she answered Jeanne her voice was hard and assured.

"I shouldn't have told you, I guess. Mart probably doesn't want you to know he drinks." She bent forward and her voice was conciliating smile. "You see last summer I promised to marry Mart but when I found out what he was like I broke the engagement. My father would never dream of letting me marry a man like that."

"I don't believe you," Jeanne said in a low voice.

Marilyn laughed shrilly. "Oh, don't be so tragic, my dear. After all, you didn't think you were the first girl he wanted to marry, did you? He was simply raving when I said I wouldn't be engaged to him any more. I knew then that he would try to get some one else to marry him. I—I got jealous. As though I cared," she added with a scornful smile.

Mart's mother was silent for a moment. "You will ruin his life, Jeanne Hutchinson!" she said then in a harsh voice. "If you love him sacrifice himself for you when he can marry Marilyn Freeman and say time she wants to."

INSTALMENT 5.

It was agony to have to put up with Jeanne's insulting remark that she was saying and it was on the tip of Jeanne's tongue to tell this girl that she didn't care for Mart either; that he could have been engaged to Marilyn for all the difference it would make to her. But bitterly loyalty to Mart kept her silent. Furious as she was at him for getting her into such an embarrassing position she still could not let him down in front of Marilyn.

So with a murmured excuse that she had to hurry indeed Jeanne left Marilyn and hurried down Main Street. Mart's announcement of their engagement was making it impossible for her to stay in Hilton for a week. Several of Jeanne's old friends stopped to congratulate her on her way down the farm. She decided before she had gone half a dozen block that she would leave the following day for New York. She had to get a job right away so there would be money enough for her mother to hire old Janey.

That Marilyn would tell any one else about Mart's becoming engaged to Jeanne though spite did not occur to Jeanne until Mrs. Reed dropped in to see her that afternoon.

"Say, Jeanne, what's all this I hear about Mart drinkin' so hard and Marilyn Freeman throwin' him over on account of it?" he asked.

Jeanne knew Hank didn't mean to interfere. His interest in her was genuine.

"Mart doesn't drink, Hank," she told him wearily. "Perhaps he was engaged to Marilyn. I don't know." And to herself she said, "And I don't care, either."

"It's a shame the way she's talkin' around here," Hank went on sympathetically. "I bet everybody in Hilton knows her story by this time."

"It is a shame," Jeanne said suddenly in a strained voice, as she jumped to her feet. "And I'm going to put a stop to it."

"Say, take it easy. You can't do that," Hank said genuinely alarmed.

"Why not! Every one just goes in to her and lets her go ahead with her stories just because she's wealthy. I don't care what she says about me but she can't go around ruining Mart's reputation. He's down there in New York working hard to get ahead. I know he isn't drinking or much drinking. He couldn't be. He hasn't got the money, and I'm going to tell her so."

"Don't expect him to," Jeanne forced herself to say.

A sardonic smile curved the woman's lips. "Do you expect me to believe that, now that you have lost your job. Of course that is why you want him to marry you."

Jeanne clenched her hands to keep from crying out. Instead she said as quietly as she could, "It's true that I've lost my job but I'm going to get another. And I've told you because I don't want my mother to know I am out of work. I didn't announce the engagement, either. It was a great shock to me when I heard that it was in the paper."

"Nonsense. You don't think Mart announced it, do you, when he was planning all along to marry Marilyn?"

"I know he did." Jeanne said trying desperately to keep her voice from breaking. "I have a letter from him to prove it."

Mart's mother was silent for a moment. "If he did," she said finally in a sharp voice, "it was only because you worked on his sympathies with a hard luck story about losing your job. You will ruin his life, Jeanne MacDonald, if you let him sacrifice himself for you when he can marry Marilyn Freeman any time he wants to."

"I have no intention of ruining his life," Jeanne said proudly, her blue eyes meeting the woman's cold gray ones fully.

"Then I warn you, you'd better give him up right away," said Mrs. Downes as she turned on her heel and swept out of the station.

INSTALMENT 6.

With a sinking heart Jeanne boarded the New York train. The past few days had been a nightmare and the meeting with Mart's mother at the station was the last straw. With a gesture of despair she dropped into a seat at the far end of the day coach. Her head throbbed and her eyes ached with unshed tears.

What lay ahead of her in the city, she wondered. There was only one thing she was positive of and that was she would not ask Mart. He would have to find her. Since she had planned to be away for a week, he would not expect her back so soon and by then a few days she could be alone. By that time Mart's anger would have cooled. It was bad enough that people in Hilton had congratulated her but the humiliating scene with his mother had struck at her pride. Mart had been unfair to announce their engagement and then tell his mother that Jeanne had lost her job. Naturally the older woman, disliking Jeanne anyway, chose to believe she was marrying Mart as a way out. Marriage with Mart was impossible now, Jeanne realized. There was nothing for her to do but look for a job and save all the money she could to send home to her mother.

It was raining when Jeanne stepped off the train in Grand Central and started uptown on a bus to the rooming house where she had lived in the days before she knew Sandra and Bryan. It was the only place she could think of to go. There was usually a vacant room and the landlady would remember her.

COULD HARDLY RISE FROM HER CHAIR

Rheumatism Relieved by Kruschen

This woman was such a confirmed sufferer from rheumatism that she thought she would never get relief. But before she had finished one bottle of Kruschen her rheumatism was leaving her. Here is her letter:—

"I had rheumatism so badly that once I got into a chair I found great difficulty in rising again. A friend told me to try Kruschen Salts, but I thought it was a foolish idea, as there seemed no use to be nobbling that would relieve rheumatism. My friend gave me two doses to try. I took one dose on Monday and another on Tuesday, and by then my pain had moved to another part of my body. Well, that was a good start, so I bought a bottle and it gave me great joy to find my rheumatism disappearing, and now for a long time I have been free."—(Miss) A. B.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts, by helping to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, enables them to expel this uric acid from the system.

"What about expenses for entertaining on this trip?"

"Be generous with your Sweet Caps—all our customers like them."

SIGHTS AND SCENES ON CIRCUS DAY

COLE BROS. AND CLYDE BEATTY CIRCUS COMES TO BELLEVILLE FRIDAY, JUNE 25

SMALL BOY COUNTS THE MINUTES UNTIL THE CIRCUS ARRIVES

Strange Sights and Scenes and Sounds to be Experienced on That Day of All Days, Circus Day, With the Early Morning Wait at the Railway Station for the Circus Trains to Come in—Unloading—Parade from the Railway to the Grounds—Erection of Tents—Grand Glittering, Stupendous, Etc., Street Parade — Calliope, Bands, Clowns, 'Neverything —Afternoon Performance—Side Shows—Evening Performance— Gala Electrical Illumination — Band Music —Grand Concert—Etc., Etc.

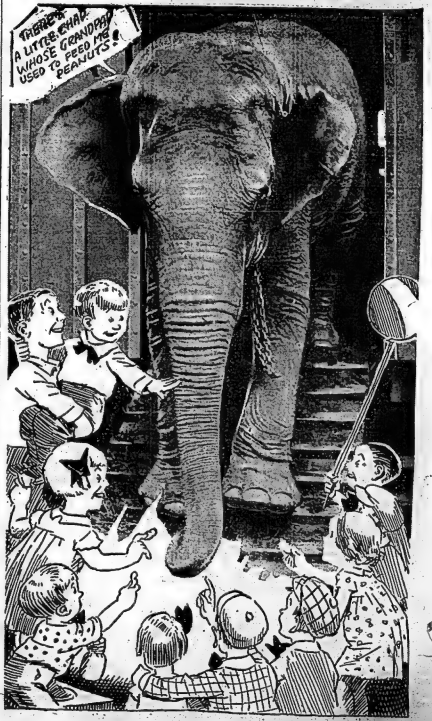
Cole Bros.-Clyde Beaty Circus comes to Belleville, Friday, June 25.

For the Small Boy the Circus is a great, outstanding event in his young life—greater than most grown-ups realize although they experienced the same thrills when young, or let us hope so. Trouble is with many grown-ups they forget the joys of childhood, or only dimly remember, while remembering vividly, perhaps, the sorrows, if any, big or little.



Circus Day is Children's Day, and nothing should be permitted to dull the pleasure of the day for the kiddies who have been gazing open-mouthed at the circus posters for days, and waiting with impatience for the glad day to arrive.

To Grown-Ups Circus Day affords an opportunity to be generous and help the kiddies to see the show, see everything, from early morning unloading to the last wagon at night trundling its weary way to the train. To stake a kiddie to a circus ticket is like laying up treasure in Heaven for the immediate thrill it gives the giver and the lasting satisfaction of doing a good turn.

The Small Boy hasn't been taking any chances on not seeing the Circus. He has been selling papers, collecting scrap metal, old papers, etc., and thus creating a stake which will give glorious returns on Circus Day.

Fathers who carried water for the elephants in the days before municipal waterworks made water carrying easy will do justice to their childhood and keep faith with resolutions made then—if they shuffle off the years and become young again, for Circus Day and take the kiddies to the show, as many as possible, for you cannot enjoy a circus to the full unless in juvenile company—Pink lemonade, peanuts, crackerjack, balloons, etc.

AND THAT'S THAT—a tribute to the circus as an institution, the complete circus with lots of elephants, menagerie, parade n'everything.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Horton, the Matchmaker

By Edgar T. Monfort

Old man Horton's eyes narrowed as he stood at the window and watched Sandy Banks and Ruth Forester slowly approaching the big office building. He saw Banks smile down at the girl as he took her arm and helped her across the street. At the curb they stopped a moment while Banks took two or three papers from his pocket, stuffed them away preparatory to entering the big office building and then smoking was allowed. Then as they started on again Banks said something to Ruth that made her up quickly and laughed, the merriest little laugh.

"So that's the way it goes," he thought. "Banks is dotty over her but he hasn't have her. I've got that right. She's young and she's pretty and she's smart and even if I'm not so all fired young I've got the dough and she's encouraged to make a living long enough to know how to appreciate it. Banks won't have a chance once I let her know my intentions. Any stenographer would jump at the chance of being Mrs. James Horton."

He leaned back complacently and eyed the young girl as she busied herself with her typewriter after she came into her office.

But then she was young and Banks was darned attractive, and reasoned further. Perhaps there was some danger. Should he propose to Izzy right away? No, he vetoed that idea immediately, for instinct told him that, as he had not yet shown her any personal attention, he would have to wait and let things develop a bit further. Should he dismiss her so he'd get her away from Banks? Probably a good idea, he mused. But in that case he would be sending her away from himself, too, and letting the opportunity of getting propinquity help her in his cause—and Sherrill Jr., chum of Banks? That would be difficult because Horton's partner might kick and ask for reason. Banks was a very valuable man. If he could only get rid of Sherrill without causing comment. But how?

After an hour of serious thinking, only one thing remained—clear in his mind: the two had to be separated at once. He wasn't going to have an underling cutting him out—nobody had ever beaten Horton yet and he didn't intend to be conquered this time. He felt certain of one thing: even under the circumstances there was very little danger of Izzy's refusing the hand of James Horton, but there would be absolutely no chance of Banks's ever getting a look-in.

Then out of nowhere an idea came tumbling into Horton's mind that almost made him jump up and down, for sheer relief and joy. And as the directors' meeting that afternoon he had his plans.

"Gentlemen," he said sententiously, "I've been thinking a lot about young Banks lately. He's a darn capable fellow. Why not send him out to South America to open our new branch? He's been right with me for five years and knows the conditions from A to Z. We might send him over on the right way to get the lay of the land and open a site."

The idea was discussed and finally adopted. The next morning Horton called in Miss Izzy to the inner office and made the offer which included a raise almost beyond belief.

"You'll have to give me your answer tomorrow morning and be prepared to leave on the midnight train," Horton answered, turned back to his desk. "Think it over."

"I surely appreciate the opportunity, Mr. Horton," Banks said slowly, gripping the older man's hand, "and I think it's be all right, but of course I'd like to speak to Miss Dunbar about it, too."

Then as Banks walked back to his desk it struck him like a blow that it would mean leaving Izzy and that he simply could not do so. Never before had he associated himself with her in that way. She was just the always there when he wanted to look at her. She was always willing to let him come over in the evening when he wanted to talk and get some symphony always on tap—and into the prospect of having her out there in Peru he had never fully realized just how much she was to him.

No, he couldn't get along without Izzy; then something dawned on him with a suddenness that was like an electric shock and sent little thrills of excitement through through his body. Why not marry her and take her along? If only she were willing. But he hadn't prepared the ground. How could a man make a proposal and get married all within twenty-four hours? Well, there wasn't none, but he was so enthusiastic about the idea that he made a date with Izzy for that evening and put the whole situation before her.

"It's up to you, dear; I've got my chance of promotion but I'm hanged if I go without you. How you on that for or break me."

"I believe I'll—make you," she laughed happily as Harold caught her in his arms and kissed her smiling lips.

The next morning in an outburst of joy Harold accepted the offer and told his boss of the approaching wedding and after he had left the office all Horton could say was:

"And so the match maker! Well, I'll be darned!"

With a lordly gesture, Kavandavanda dismissed the slaves of the apartment. As soon as they had departed, his languid air of detachment fell away from him like a cloak. He sprang from his couch and approached Ajor, his eyes alight with a strange fire.

Meanwhile, Tarzan, well ahead of his party, suddenly became conscious of a sound that disturbed the monotony of the forest. His every faculty was attuned to that faint note of discord, and he moved silently through the trees toward its source.

Presently he saw the dim figure of a man walking rapidly through the jungle, almost at a trot; he was breathing heavily, as one who had been running. This was a Kavuru and the ape-man moved on to capture and question him, hoping to gain valuable information.

Tarzan paused above him, then dropped down upon his victim. Both fell. The Kavuru lay still. Tarzan bent over him to determine if he had been killed by the fall but the man was pretending. Suddenly his hand flew to his belt, and whipped out his knife.

MAYOR ARNOTT CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

Belleville Barrister Wins On the First Ballot and Accepts the Nomination

Nine Nominated But Only Three Names on Ballot

ORGANIZER SPEAKS

Candidate Promises to Give 100 Percent Service to Party

Amidst the acclaim of assembled delegates from the four corners of the riding of West Hastings, Richard D. Arnott, Belleville's barrister Mayor accepted nomination as the standard bearer of the Conservative ranks for the riding at the next provincial elections at Marmora yesterday.

Mayor Arnott won the convention with a majority over two other candidates. Arthur L. Burke of Sidney Township and E. B. Pettety of this city on the first ballot taken. A total of 466 votes were cast by the delegates.

The convention though orderly throughout, was one of the most demonstrative Marmora has witnessed in the many conventions held in that historic hall.

Makes Fine Premier

In accepting the nomination, Mayor Arnott expressed appreciation for the honor conferred upon him. "If I can count on you," he told the crowded hall. "And I ask everyone to get behind the party and make it possible for me to carry this riding at the next election."

"My audience here, Belleville now, but West Hastings.

Voice from the rear: "Let us hope that when you get to Toronto you don't forget that."

"At the time I make just one promise," continued Mayor Arnott. "I'll give what address I possess to make the next election a win because I am in it to win. I want all who are on the ballot for next to stand up in this hall now." With one accord the assembly moved to its feet, cheering wildly. "Thank you," expressed the new representative simply.

Nine Nominations

Nine nominations were moved during the afternoon. Of these only three elected to stand. They were Mr. A. L. Burke and Mr. H. B. Pettety. At the opening of the meeting nominations of W. H. Ireland, moved by Geo. Bell and seconded by J. Galne; Geo. B. Thompson, Springbrook, moved by Clayton Sherry, seconded by Burton Bateman, were filed. The nomination of Mr. Pettety was moved by W. E. Wiggin, Bancroft, seconded by Everett Ball; Donald D. Graham, Trenton, moved by R. Strong, seconded by W. R. Ireland; Arthur L. Burke, Sidney, by E. Stott, seconded by W. A. Reid; R. D. ## Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Sunshine! There is always a lot in parts of the world during hot weather the fear of sunstroke. We have had very few after July 1. Some people believe that sunstroke is caused by the humidity; others blame them on a prolonged period of hot weather. There seems to be no doubt they are due to a combination of both excessively high humidity and unseasonably high temperatures. If the air were drier, cooling would take place. In neither of the Southwest the temperatures were higher than in the East, yet the sunstroke frequency is low. But there the humidity is much less. This seems to indicate that it is both high humidity and temperature that bring about sunstroke weather.

MAYOR ARNOTT

Mayor R. D. Arnott of this city, Ontario's youngest mayor, who yesterday was selected by Conservatives of the riding of West Hastings to represent that riding at the next provincial election in opposition to Hon. Dr. Faulkner, Ontario's Minister of Health, present sitting member.

Need For Goodwill.

During his visit to Scotland Mackenzie King specially emphasized the need for goodwill in the conduct of affairs. It is largely in furtherance of that idea, it is believed, that he now visits Germany.

Canadian delegations previously visiting London rarely included Berlin in their itinerary. Mackenzie King's idea is that the opportunity can well be taken to secure a firsthand acquaintance with the German viewpoint.

Mackenzie King and Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, are both guests of the French government during their present stay in Paris. Friday night they will be guests of the French government at dinner.

The Prime Minister leaves Paris for Berlin Saturday night, arriving Sunday. After a few days in the German capital he will return to Paris via Brussels.

Soviet Ship Cargo Of Arms is Seized By Spanish Cruiser

Berlin, June 24 (AP)—The German Official News Bureau reported tonight the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera captured the Soviet freighter Kuban with a heavy cargo of armaments.

The agency said the Soviet ship was taken to the insurgent-held port of Mahon, Spain, with a consignment of 720 airplanes, 64 tanks, 8,000 rifles, 1,000 machine guns, 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition and 4,000 tons of other war materials."

James A. Sangster, Glengarry M.L.A., Dies

Cornwall, Ont., June 24 (CP) — James A. Sangster, who sat in the Ontario legislature for twelve years as Liberal representative for Glengarry County, will be buried Friday in St. Andrew's Cemetery, South Lancaster.

Active in municipal and business affairs before entering provincial politics, he died in hospital here yesterday after a few months' illness. He underwent a recent operation but failed to survive.

He was born Nov. 19, 1861 at Alexandria, in Glengarry County.

Toronto, June 24 (CP)—Premier Hepburn expressed himself deeply shocked at the passing last night of the death in a Cornwall, Ont., hospital of James Alexander Sangster, M.L.A. for Glengarry County.

"The county has lost one of its pioneers, the Liberal party one of its stalwarts," he said. "All Ontario shares the loss of one of its ablest citizens. I counted Mr. Sangster as one of my closest friends, and I now treasure our close and intimate relationship during the time we were in public life in this province. The Ontario legislature will not be the same without the man from Glengarry."

RUNCIMAN HEADS EXECUTIVE

Feeds Cows Mulberry Leaves, Makes Silk Out of Milk

Canada 'World Granary' Makes Lead in Synthetic Silk Production

BEATING SILK WORMS

London, June 24 (CP)—Canada, known for decades as the "world granary" may some day become a major producer of silk—synthetic silk from milk. But—and this is the important qualification — the cows must be fed a daily meal of mulberry leaves, diet of the silkworms.

The experiment already has passed through the slow and costly stages of research and been declared a success. For ten years Benjamin Noon, 41-year-old Arnold chemist now residing in London, has been working on the idea. He has spent $35,000 (roughly $134,000) on his scheme, maintaining laboratories in four countries.

Tests submitted to analysis have come so close to the standard of real silk it has been difficult to distinguish between them. Noon, however, is not yet satisfied. He set as his objective of trying to obtain five essentials—beauty of color, strength, softness, elasticity and non-shrinkability.

An average cow can produce enough casein daily to manufacture nearly two pounds eight ounces of synthetic silk. It takes more than 30,000 silkworms, who will eat a ton of their mulberry leaves, to yield 12 pounds of raw silk.

PRIME MINISTER KING WILL MEET ADOLF HITLER

Visit Has to Do With Furtherance of Peace

NO DEFINITE PLAN

Aim is Better Understanding Between Viewpoints

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

Paris, June 24 (CP)—During his brief stay in Berlin Prime Minister Mackenzie King will have a frank exchange of views with Chancellor Hitler. An interview between the Canadian Premier and the German Fuehrer has been tentatively arranged for Monday.

The primary purpose of Mackenzie King's visit is to do anything he possibly can to further the cause of international peace. He is not taking with him any plan. He hopes rather by a friendly talk, to establish better understanding between varying viewpoints.

Need For Goodwill.

During his visit to Scotland Mackenzie King specially emphasized the need for goodwill in the conduct of affairs. It is largely in furtherance of that idea, it is believed, that he now visits Germany.

Canadian delegations previously visiting London rarely included Berlin in their itinerary. Mackenzie King's idea is that the opportunity can well be taken to secure a firsthand acquaintance with the German viewpoint.

Sad Day for Thrums as Barrie is Laid to Rest

300 Children, Who Regarde d Sir James as a Fairy Godfather Meet Caske t at Cemetery Gates—Most of those Present Are S imple Folk.

Kirriemuir, Forfarshire, Scotland, June 24 (CP)—Sir James Barrie, the creator of Peter Pan, was buried today in this little weaving village—the "Thrums" of his Scottish tales—where he was born 77 years ago.

At the village gates 300 children, who had been taught to regard Sir James as the fairy godfather of all children, met the coffin. Also there was 87-year-old Alexander Lowson, schoolmate and lifelong friend of Barrie, who said sadly:

"Our Jimmy. This is a sad day for Thrums, but I know he would na want us to muckle sad."

The famous author, who died last Saturday in London nursing home of bronchial pneumonia, was buried in the family plot in the hillside cemetery after services at St. Mary's Anglican Church.

There were a few visiting notables, but of those attending the funeral were simple folk who loved Barrie in their simple way. All hotels in the district were filled overnight and many sought accommodation in the red glens homes of the village.

German Fleet Moving Off Spain, is Reported

Foreign Secretary Eden Asks Great Reserve in Accepting Story

NO CONFIRMATION

Paris, June 24—(AP)—French officials declared today that an Italo-German attempt to patrol the Spanish coast without the authorization of the international non-intervention committee, from which both withdrew their naval patrol units yesterday, would be regarded as a blockade and, therefore, an act of war against Spain.

In such a situation, officials warned, France and Great Britain could not "remain indifferent."

Movement Reported

Rome, June 24— (AP)—Italian warships patrolled the coasts of Spain today under orders to strike back immediately and forcibly at any attack from the Valencia government.

Italy, acting in concert with Germany, withdrew yesterday from the non-intervention control to isolate the Spanish civil war, but the Italian fleet remained on duty off the eastern coast of Spain.

London, June 24—(CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden urged the House of Commons today to accept reports of German warship movements off Spain "with great reserve."

Eden said also that neither the European non-intervention committee nor British patrol ships could confirm reports of Italian troop landings in southern Spain.

In answer to a question by Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, Eden said:

"I would suggest to the House that reports of German warship movements eastward in the Mediterranean should be received with great reserve. Official information received by the Admiralty does not confirm them."

No Advice Received

To a question from Philip Noel Baker, Labor, as to whether he could give any information regarding the alleged debarkation of Italian troops at Malaga and other points, Eden said:

"The non-intervention committee did not receive any confirmation of the news and British warships patrolling the region did not advise that such an event had taken place".

French Ship Movement

Paris, June 24—(AP)—A French warship squadron led by two heavy cruisers anchored today at Bona, Algeria, due south of Italy's Mediterranean fleet.

The French ships, two heavy ranean island of Sardinia.

They conducted maneuvers by wireless between Bona and Algiers, 50,000 shillings, were sold by Christie, Manson & Woods, Ltd., London, auctioneers.

BRITISH PARTY HONORS BALDWIN, AS HE FAREWELLS

Place of Sacrifice in His Life Noted by His Successor

RESPECT UNIVERSAL

Earl Baldwin 'Cares And is Overwhelmed' With Tributes

By I. NORMAN SMITH

London, June 24 (CP)—Earl Baldwin took farewell of the Conservative Party today amid a remarkable demonstration of affection from all its members and a stirring tribute by his successor as Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain.

Routine discussions in the Conservative Council meeting were promptly shelved at noon when Chamberlain led Lord and Lady Baldwin to the platform. After some minutes of cheering Chamberlain was able to begin his speech, presenting Lord Baldwin with a bound volume containing 534 resolutions of appreciation by Conservative party organizations throughout the United Kingdom.

Volume of Tributes.

The volume was offered as a tribute of gratitude "for your leadership of the party during the last fourteen years and to record appreciation of your great services as Prime Minister of West Britain through times of stress and anxiety to the nation and empire."

Chamberlain stressed the degree of sacrifice in Baldwin's career. The former Premier had ever put self before the country's interests. He had met personal opposition, even that of his friends if he thought there were any following the right course. He said:

"Sir, I would not adequately complete this part of my task did I word or two by way of tribute to the lady who all these years has stood by your side, who, we know, strenuously supported you with encouragement and devotion. We rejoice that you both still have health and strength to enjoy leisure.

"I hope you will still give us the benefit of your ripe wisdom and experience, and I trust that both will many years longer, secure in the affections of your friends."

Cheering is Wild.

After several minutes of wild cheering the meeting sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" for Lord Baldwin moved from the dais to reply. Obviously moved by the warmth of the demonstration, he could hardly speak for some moments and then, in a voice which was heard clearly deliberately:

"In the course of my political life I have sat down on one or two other occasions when cheers came from the heart as they have come from the heart today, but indeed I care and am overwhelmed.

Touching Tribute

"I am so glad he (Mr. Chamberlain) said what he did about my wife. When I first came in parliament seven years I said to her: 'I am no use in London at all without you.' I am going to throw this game up and live in the country with you.' But I am not sure you are no good, I will agree to your coming." And on this following was really her fault. I do hope that for the happiness of our old age she is satisfied with her handiwork."

Lord Baldwin then turned in tribute to Chamberlain.

Several minutes of applause followed and then Lord and Lady Baldwin, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, walked out of the meeting slowly. At the door Lady Baldwin turned and waved her hand. Lord Baldwin bowed gravely.

Says Lake Boats are Bought To Ship Contraband Arms

Philadelphia Enquirer Charges Arms to be Taken to Europe

BOUGHT BY HUNGARIAN

Philadelphia, June 24 (AP)—The Philadelphia Inquirer said last night that three Great Lakes steamers had been purchased in Cleveland and placed in service shipping contraband arms to Europe.

One of the ships, the Inquirer said, left the port of Philadelphia six days ago, supposedly with a load of scrap iron bound for Izmir, a Levantine port. Two others, it said, along the waterfront were that arms had been concealed in the shipment.

The vessels were purchased by an Hungarian, the newspaper said. One of them is scheduled to call at the port of Boston soon to receive a contraband cargo, and the third is enroute to Philadelphia.

The vessel which sailed from Philadelphia, the Inquirer said, "carries ostensibly a cargo of scrap iron bound for Izmir, Turkey, but the Inquirer said,

People Lose Confidence In Hepburn Government Claims Hon. Earl Rowe

Conservative Leader Addresses Marmora Convention

SPEAKS ON LABOR

Criticizes Administration of Liquor Board in Province

"I am not endorsing the C.I.O. or the A.F. of L." the Hon. Earl Rowe Ontario Conservative leader told West Hastings Conservatives at the nomination convention held in Marmora Community Hall yesterday afternoon. "But I ask you to strip Mr. Hepburn of his conceit and ask him why he ridicules the C.I.O. at the front door and surrenders to them at the back door. I stand 100 percent for maintenance of law and order in Ontario."

In a spirited address in which he waged a concerted attack upon the administration of the Hepburn Government, the Conservative leader not only criticized the various activities of the present regime but outlined a three point policy of the Liquor Control question in which he condemned the present system and suggested certain remedial measures. His stand on the C.I.O. question, he said, was not as was published by certain newspapers which he charged misquoted and misrepresented his attitude.

Carries on From Distance

Following the opening congratulatory remarks to the newly nominated candidate, Mayor R. D. Arnott of Belleville, Mr. Rowe, launching an attack on the present Premier, "We have here in Ontario," he said, "a government, which functions in a mysterious way. The Premier can effectively carry on from a great distance, by telephone and telegraph. Maybe he is away on account of ill-health. If that is the case then we are sorry, but ill-health is no reason for the maladministration of his government.

"No Premier in Ontario," said Mr. Rowe, "has ever made such promises and forgot to fill them like did the present one. He must have known and felt during the election, that he would not have elected them. Now as he looks over his boulevard of broken promises, surely must feel a pang of forgotten man, the man of the north, concerning the many promises promises than he ever made. He forgot the farmer, he forgot the working man and by doing so has instituted a twisting, squirming policy. I am not going to be a critic of his than in his recent speech at the Exhibition.

Criticizes Action on Act

In a sharp criticism of the recently repealed School Act, the speaker pointed out the changes made by Mr. Hepburn during the recent East Hastings by-election. Mr. Rowe said in many of the meetings in the East Hastings rid-

AIRWAYS HEAD DEAD

Chairman of Imperial Airways and Duning Rubber Company, Sir Eric Geddes (above), died at his home in Hascomb, Sussex, following a short illness. Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty during the closing years of the great war, had been formulating plans for the opening of the transatlantic air service to be inaugurated early next month by his company and Pan-American Airways when he died. An English business man, he was discovered by Lloyd George and rapidly moved through government positions to become one of the driving forces behind England's war efforts.

REV. DR. CAMERON RESIGNS PULPIT AT DESERONTO

Presbytery Regrets That Severe Illness Causes Step

GREETINGS TO ROSLIN

The presbytery of Kingston in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in St. Andrew's Church, Gananoque, on Tuesday the third inst. The Moderator, the Rev. R. K. Earle, B.A., presided and the Rev. Dr. W. J. Craig, D.D., officiated in that capacity.

The resignation of Rev. Dr. A. G. Cameron of Deseronto was accepted with deep regret. Tribute was paid by several presbyters to Dr. Cameron's work and ministerial services during his sojourn within the bounds of the presbytery. A committee was appointed to draft a letter of sympathy to Dr. Cameron relative to his severe illness and inability to continue his pastoral work.

On request by Rev. J. W. McDonald of Roslin, Rev. W. J. Maclellan of Ruralbrae was appointed by presbytery to convey congratulations and greetings to the congregation of Roslin on the occasion of their celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the congregation.

Reports on Assembly

Rev. W. J. Walker of St. Andrew's, Belleville, Commissioner to the General Assembly, in Toronto, gave a most encouraging report of that assembly. A busy docket of business was despatched with remarkable haste and thoroughness. The Commissioner reported that the cry of the West and the far East is still evident for more ministers to serve in fields now vacant.

Mission Work

Excellent addresses were given on Home and Foreign Mission Work done by the church on the evening assembly devoted to those departments of the program of the church. Special reference was made to addresses given by Rev. Allan Reach, successor to Dr. Jonathan Goforth, in Manchuria and Dr. J. Gurnie Taylor of the Lepers' Mission at Formosa. Both inspired the Assembly regarding the outlook and progress of the Presbyterian Church in missionary enterprise. The report of the Commissioner was enthusiastically received.

At luncheon hour the members of presbytery were delightfully entertained by the ladies of St. Andrew's and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered by way of appreciation.

Centenary at Gananoque

Appropriate congratulations were extended to St. Andrew's Church congregation, Gananoque, on the event of very successful Centenary Anniversary services held during the current summer season.

Arrangements are being made for an itinerary by Rev. Allen Reach, missionary from Manchuria on furlough to visit several congregations within the presbytery during the first week in November.

It was agreed to send a letter of sympathy to Rev. James A. Kotfend of Stirling, who has been unable to attend his pastoral duties through illness.

The next ordinary meeting of Presbytery will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, on Tuesday, September 14th.

Mr. Searles' Statement

Oak Lake, June 24, 1937.

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

In answer to Miles-McGillivray's version of the accident on the roller coaster at Oak Lake, may I state that the regulations are "two on a toboggan" instead of one as stated and "used at your own risk." The rollers were inspected afterwards and found to be in perfect working order.

Eye witnesses state that McGillivray while standing on the toboggan which he should not have done lost his balance and pitched forward, causing the accident.

CONSERVATIVES EXPECT ELECTION

Believe Premier Hepburn Will Come to Country in September

Strong probability that Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn may call a general provincial election in September was voiced by leading Conservatives of the riding of West Hastings at the convention held in Marmora yesterday afternoon.

In the expectation of an "early and quick election," as it was so labelled, organization work throughout this and other ridings in the eastern district has already been commenced by the Hon. Earl Rowe and his staff of provincial organizers.

The possibility of a September election was declared in spite of statements by the Liberal leader that there would be no election until 1938.

"When will the election be held?" the Daily Ontario Intelligencer queried W. Ireland, President of the Ontario Conservative Association.

"In September," shot back the ex-M.P.P.

"May we quote you to that effect" asked the reporter.

"It seems to be the general opinion of Conservative ranks of the Province that the election will be held in that month. I'm only stating what has been said before.

"But even if it is a snap election, we're ready," said Mr. Ireland.

AGENT FOR DUKE BUYS AN ESTATE

Likely Windsor And Wife Will Settle in Lincolnshire

Birmingham, Eng., June 24 (AP)—An agent for the Duke of Windsor said today to have purchased a 100-year-old estate in Lincolnshire, leading to reports former King Edward VIII would go there to live after the echoes of his abdication have quieted.

The little hamlet of Harlaston, Lincolnshire, was excitedly rumored its former king will be its new squire within a year or so.

Harlaston Hall lies near the residence of Lord Brownlow, a close friend of Windsor who accompanied the Duchess of Windsor—then Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson—when she left the country at the height of the abdication crisis.

The estate is located in Hunting Country, only a few miles from Melton Mowbray, the center of the celebrated region where the Duke often rode to hounds as Prince of Wales.

POLICE BREAK UP CYCLE THEFT RING

Officers Led to Shed Where Bicycles Were Dismantled

Police yesterday unearthed a bicycle stealing ring that has been operated in and around Belleville for the past few weeks resulting in the theft and dismantling of a large number of "bikes."

Continued complaints relative to the theft of bicycles have been received by the authorities, but investigations proved futile until Detectives Fred Izard and Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien apprehended a seven year old lad riding a bicycle along the fifth concession of Sidney, yesterday. The fact that the bicycle seen had a little earlier made the police curious, it being held that seldom is a carrier seen on a farm boy's bicycle. Subsequent check-ups upon the serial number of the bicycle in question revealed the bicycle had recently been stolen in Belleville.

Further questioning by police led them to a drive shed on the 5th concession of Sidney where three bicycles were discovered, all having been dismantled and repainted. Three term aged Sidney Township lads are alleged by police to have been the originators of the bicycle stealing ring. The lads were brought to Belleville and confessed to Chief Kidd their thefts.

The bicycle-stealing racket had completely mystified the police until yesterday when the ring was broken up. Three bicycles were brought to Belleville and are at the police station. Police stated today two of the boys would ride an old bicycle into Belleville, abandon the bike and steal two practically new bikes with which they would ride home and in their improvised wrecking demantle these bikes, using the parts of other machines. One of the boy's parents stated they had questioned their son regarding a new bicycle he was riding and had been informed by their son that he had purchased the bike in Belleville for $2.00. "I thought that rather a small sum for such a good bicycle," stated the lad's parent to police.

Police stated today the cases will be quoted in Belleville Court next week, but in the meantime the bicycle stealing ring has been successfully smashed. they feel assured, most of the recently stolen bicycles in Belleville have been accounted for today.

SEARCH FOR CURES

"Simples" or herbs and minerals and many other things have been used to bring modern medicine to what it is. From the extravagant, superstitious views of the middle ages which made the queerest compounds for illnesses of man and beast, came in the course of time the modern pharmacopoeia, which is purified from many fantastic opinions.

But the end is not yet in discoveries. Science is seeking antidotes for poison in the snake venom. Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of mamals and reptiles at the Bronx Zoo in New York City, stated on his 61st birthday that he is conducting experiments in co-operation with medical men to determine the value of snake poisons in treating epilepsy, hemophilia and malignant growths. A serum from venom extracted from the moccasin snake has shown beneficial results, it is said.

So goes on the quest for the curative substances which are to eliminate diseases. Some diseases baffle the best expert and wholehearted effort, the co-operation of the entire scientific and medical world. For instance there is the common cold which is still a menace. Then there is the outstanding foe in disease, the cancerous growth.

The fight continues to add to the health guards about every man, woman and child, born into this world.

RISKS IN ARCTIC FLYING

Attention has been called to the fact that the Russian plane which rode the air from Moscow to the top of the world and then dropped southward through the Arctic wastes and Canada landed in Washington town through bad weather. Consensus of opinion seems to be that the Arctic area itself is not a stormy place, that there is greater danger in summer flying than in winter in that zone.

To meet the problem of fog and the formation of ice through small drops of moisture, the Russian conquerors of the Arctic and north polar expedition flew at high altitude to be out of the rain or fog area — that is they chose the atmosphere where it is always freezing and where there can be no rain nor fog. Snow is no difficulty as it is blown away by the currents of air.

So far this plan of theirs seems to have worked out well.

The fact that the descent came, not in the dangers of the Arctic or polar areas, but in civilized sections where planes can travel, draws attention to the hazards of flying through weather conditions. Of course the conquerors of the polar wastes had achieved what they set out to do and would have been foolish to attempt to continue on in the face of bad weather in Washington, when they could fly that course at any time. Conquering the Arctic was the main matter.

Russia has long had the notion in her head of capitalizing the Arctic for flying. It is at least eight years when a plane the "Land of the Soviets" flew nearly 14,000 miles from Asia to America via Alaska. Two years ago there was an unsuccessful attempt to fly over the north pole.

That the Russians should see in the airplane a means of conquering the icy wastes of the north, is very reasonable. Russia has the largest Arctic "frontier" in the world and it is natural her people, particularly the explorers and fliers, should think of it. Geographically, the flight up to and down from the pole would seem, outside of the hazards, the most convenient route.

Prospects of north polar aviation may develop in the years. It is recalled that ten years have passed since Lindbergh flew eastward and only now test surveys for regular routes are being prepared from Ireland to Newfoundland. Development of polar flying may be more rapid or more slow, who knows?

British journalism has had some great figures in its ranks, Rudyard Kipling who began his career in India as a youth, Gilbert Chesterton who wrote for many years for the Illustrated London News, Bernard Shaw who had his introduction to literature on a weekly, Sir James M. Barrie, who has just died, another of the great engaged in newspaper work. All these men have filled a high place in the public mind.

Love sought is good, but unsought is better.—Shakespeare.

Love that has nothing better than beauty to keep it in good health, is short-lived and apt to have ague-fits.—Erasmus.

Love looks not with eyes but with the mind.—Shakespeare.

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

The village doctor was weak and old;
Hungry, too, and his room was cold.
He'd been long forgotten by village folks,
'Ceptin', p'raps, as a butt for jokes.

So no one cared when the Lord reached down
And took his soul from the little town.
And no one cared when his clay they gave
To the potter's field and a nameless grave.

Life rolled on and the doctor slept,
Where only Nature a vigil kept,
Until ore day, as some youths passed by,
The forgotten mound caught a joker's eye.

Off he sped to a time-worn barn,
Where the doctor practiced in days-a-gone.
He snatched the sign from the make-shift stoop,
And then raced back to rejoin the group.

His friends applauded the laughing knave
A faded sign on a faded grave;
But a symbol, truee, of the Healer's love—

—Nick Kenny.

"BYE, BYE BLACKBIRD", MODERN SONG, was recalled Tuesday afternoon when a policeman, on beat in the vicinity of City Hall, drew the attention of passers-by to the antics of a blackbird perched on the minute hand of the Town Clock. The bird evidently enjoyed the ride for it remained on its moving perch for about ten minutes and according to the policeman slowed up the clock several minutes. Seemsif ever birds were interesfed in the march of time.

"THE WEE KIRK O' THE HEATHER", Hollywood, where the cinemactress, Jean Harlow lay enshrined in a beautiful bower of roses and other flowers, provided at an expense of $15,000, has witnessed the passing of many of movieg picture industry notables. The body of the actress was taken from the church to the $25,000 mortuary chamber, purchased by William Powell, her lover, situated in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, a modern model cemetery which has discarded the word "cemetery" with the unsightly stones and monuments which previously filled it. Hubert Eaton, a realtor, and one-time mining engineer, took over Forest Lawn twenty years ago, and the first thing he did was remove tombstones and monuments, replacing them with plain bronze markers laid flush with the grass. He named it Forest Lawn Memorial Park, and expanded it to 200 acres. In one form or other the dust of 55,000 humans rest here, with room for 150,000 more, and is divided into sections with names like Babyland, Vale of Memory, Eventide, Slumberland. There is a $4,500,000 Mausoleum-Columbarium with a Memorial Court of Honor, Memorial Terrace, Sanctuaries of Meditation, Vespers, Benediction, Trust and Truth. For Jean Herlow William Powell chose the Sanctuary of Benediction.

One is tempted to remark Oh Death, where is thy sting?" when contemplating such ostentatious surroundings for the least important part of life, the container.

"The Wee Kirk o' the Heather", has witnessed the funeral of Will Rogers, Marie Dressler, Irving Thalberg (husband of Norma Shearer) now resting in a $25,000 room in the Mausoleum, Jack and Lottie Pickford, Flo Ziegfeld, Lon Chaney, Wallace Reid, Rudolph Valentino, King Vidor, Senator Frank Flint, Edward L. Doherty, Jr., Alexander Pantages, Guy Bates Post. Among those who have reserved places in this Mausoleum are Harold Lloyd, Carrie Jacobs Bond and Jess Willard.

A GREAT SEASON

"Speakin' o' fertile soil," said Hiriam, when the others had had their say, "I never saw a place where melons growed like they used to up my way. The first season I planted them I thought my fortune was sure made. Howsomever, I didn't harvest one."

"Why was that?" asked the stranger.

"Wal, the vines growed so fast that they wore out the melons draggin' 'em around."

TORPEDOING OF GERMAN CRUISER MAY BRING REPRISALS

It was officially charged that the cruiser of was the target for two such attacks in the Mediterrean on June 15 and 18. It is feared that the German Reich cruiser Leipzig (above), by government will take speedy reprisals, such as the bombardment of Almeria that followed the air bombing of the Deutschland, unless the non-intervention committee takes immediate action.

Dear Mrs and Thomas:—

May the home that you shall make be filled with happiness. A good home has many sides and needs both together by love, faith, hope, money and work. It is the everlasting team work that works out the pleasure and sorrows and makes a happy home still in years to come.

Through all that comes of grief and pain
And hurt and care—may love remain."

In Seven Days Fiery, Itching Skin Gets Sure Relief

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by chemists at trifling cost, that will do more toward helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of Eczema is instantly stopped, the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other skin eruptions and inflammation.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) in the original bottle at Doyle's Drug Store or any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.

HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN — HIP

And How to Improve It

A Series of Articles on Suggested Home Improvements
Advisability, Value, Cost, Etc.

MOTHER IS LESS TIRED NOW AT END OF DAY

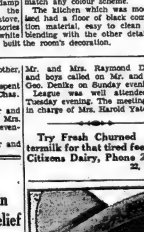
A kitchen that wastes no steps but has all the necessary equipment is the aim of nearly every housewife. Streamlined kitchens are as much in vogue as streamlined automobiles these days.



An old-fashioned large kitchen may be modernized through the aid of the Home Improvement Plan. The housewife will find that she is not as tired at the end of the day if she has less space to walk around in to locate the mixing bowl, the flour or a clean dish towel.

The kitchen of one house was divided in half and one side was made into a breakfast room. This, cleaned with a flick of a damp cloth, covered the walls of the modernized rooms. The stove, woodwork and other accessories were finished in glossy white with black trim. Closets were built where they were easily accessible. Drawers under the sink took care of bowls, silver and other utensils, pans, cleansers and soap. A screened door hid the plumbing from sight but allowed free circulation of air.

Indirect lighting in the ceiling over the sink gave an even light but avoided glare or unpleasant reflections. Outlets over the sink, however, took care of electric mixing bowls and other implements.

The fastidious housewife will be as particular about the little details of the kitchen as she would be of a guest room ensemble. Towels may be had in pleasing combinations, potholders have become things of beauty and even soap flakes may have the container hidden in an attractive holder to match any colour scheme.

The kitchen which was modernized had a floor of black composition material, easy to clean and blending with the other details of the room's decoration.

The members of both organizations assembled at their lodge hall on Front Street and led by the Stirling Citizens Band under the leadership of Mr. Maurice Bell, conductor, marched to the church in a colorful procession. An inspirational message was delivered by the minister Rev. W. J. Scott and special music was rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. O. L. Clute. The weather was exceptionally fine and the number of members representing both organizations was much larger than in former years. Spirited congregational singing of the old familiar hymns added much to the interest of the occasion added interest to one of the finest and most impressive religious services of the district. At the conclusion of the service the band again led the procession back to the lodge hall for dismissal and the choir under the leadership of regular members augmented by the presence of visiting members from sister organizations the march and parade was given added strength.

Baseball Park in Good Shape For Games

Local players of hard ball have worked enthusiastically in preparing the diamond on the High School campus for action. Early this week the services of the power-grader at work on the new highway was secured for the purpose of levelling and at present through the efforts of the committee in charge Stirling has one of the best baseball diamonds in the district. With interest in baseball definitely revived the crowds attending the schedule games of the town league are increasing at every game and the boys respond to the support of the crowd with a supply for brand of baseball.

Belmont Defeats Rawdon Softball League

Although Stirling ball fans have suddenly become hard ball conscious; there are plenty who still follow softball with a great deal of interest. Rawdon softball league diamond was revived this year after twelve years of inactivity is supplying the need of those who prefer the faster game.

Belmont defeats Mount Pleasant on the league leading Belmont diamond and took it on the chin to the tune of 22-13 in a game which contained plenty of spectacular plays. The lineups were as follows:

Mount Pleasant: John Coggins, Don Brodworth, Bert Jelfs, H. Bedford, N. McConnell, H. Smith, L. Potts, C. Dunlop.

James "Buck" Rulin officiated.

White Sox Win Over Athletics Accomplished by Two Homers, Team Getting Only Three Hits

Hubbell Back in Winning Form With 8-4 Victory Over Cubs

YANKEES BEATEN

Detroit Fails to Gain as Boston Red Sox Win

(By Bill Boni, Associated Press Sports Writer)

It served as a bit of encouragement to Manager Bill Terry today that Carl Hubbell is back on the winning track, recovered from the non-winning malady that set in the day the Dodgers broke his twenty-game winning streak at 21 straight games.

But the manner in which his Giants went about providing for Hub's ninth victory of the season, his 8-4 conquest of Chicago Cubs yesterday was equally heartening to the man whose club is locked in a three-way struggle for mastery of the National Baseball League.

While the Giants were disposing of the league-leaders and thus lightening an already close race, Joe DiMaggio and Dizzy Dean kept pace by turning back the Dodgers 4-2.

Two well-pitched games comprising the National League program, Hugh Mulcahy lifted the Phils into sixth place with a fourth, 3-0 win on Ize Reds, while young Russ Bauers turned in a six-hitter, that was good enough to cost the Bees their 11th straight loss by 5-3.

In the American League the front-running Yanks were spilled by the Red Sox, 7-4, but also no ground as second-place Detroit dropped a 6-5 decision to the Sox. Cleveland Indians continued to suffer their road-trip jitters in a 14-5 pasting by the Senators, and the Athletics, who have scored one run in their last three games, sustained their second successive shutout, a 2-0 performance by White Sox, who won on only three hits, two of them homers.

COMING STAR

John Roswell

Although John Roswell, a virtual unknown from Thornhill Golf club of Toronto, did not win the Ontario amateur golf championship, he served notice that he will be a strong contender in the future. The 20-year-old player registered a surprise victory in the semi-finals when he defeated the highly favored Jack Nash of London, Ont., to qualify for the final round against C. Ross "Sandy" Sommerville, also of London. "Sandy's " greater experience gave him the edge over his rival.

WITH the LAWN BOWLERS

by GEO. E. WATKIN

Kingston came in the limelight on Monday when they entertained the South African bowlers. The boys that went down from here all report a real time. The men from the land of diamonds, must be a real bunch of bowlers from the look of the scores. However Mrs. Jos. Black succeeded in winning a prize at Kingston. The players taking part from here were Harry McSherran, Joe Black, Arthur McGee, Mac McLean and Charlie Salman.

Harry Poste and his committee are arranging club doubles to commence on July 5th. Every active member of the club is requested to take part. The games will be played in three series, primary, consolation and hard luck, so that every man will have at least three games. The rules of the game will be posted in the club house, teams will be drawn up by the committee and it will be up to them to see that a partner is on the job. This should make a real interesting series of games.

Have you entered the 1st of July doubles yet. The Games Committee request that you two plus play together, to give our new players a chance to enter the contest. Tots I am sure will meet with the approval of all our older members. We want at least three entries.

I noticed on Tuesday afternoon the ladies bowling north and south on the lower green, when these have been used a few times they will be O.K. The runs that were in them this year have been taken out. They should be in real shape for July 1st.

In future our bowling notes will be taken care of by Harry Poste. Harry is in the city all the time and will be able to give the members a more up to date report than I have been able to do.

GEO. E. WATKIN.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)— Well, he was one grand, game guy, anyway, Braddock was. Never saw more of James J. Braddock as a fighter, and never saw less than a great stand he made against Joe Louis tonight. He's more than given one spot in which the champion could have taken the easy way out and on questions asked but he kept coming in for more until he simply could come in no longer.

Braddock's imported New York seconds—Ray Arcel and Whitey Bimstein—received $500 apiece for the evening's work... Harry Canny, manager of Ray Impellitteree, engaged at Bob Olin's and Ira Lou's corner, drew down $250... Louis not only is the youngest champion in heavyweight history, but one of the few challengers to go in the ring at his age. The bigger boxers up ever assembled for a fight—125 pounds—went into the blow-by-blow ...All that glitter right behind the working press was merely the Hollywood film delegation... J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, was Joe Louis's guest at ringside.

Jack Dempsey and his wife, the former Hannah Williams (you know, the cheerful little earfully rushed to the arena direct from the Washington Park races, Largest single bet reported was $3,000 to $1,000 on Louis.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who ran the show, didn't have a seat... He preferred to roam about the premises to see that everything ran smoothly.

It was a tough fight for the press ...One expert went down with "shingles" a few days before the battle... Another was pick-pocketed for $130... And many others (me included) were stranded when the Braddock limb broke down.

PETROFF WINNER OF MAIN BOUT OVER CHIEF LYNX

Russian Wrestler Scores Tenth Straight Victory in Local Ring

MEXICAN ON TOP

Tex Mobly Defeats Georgia Grappler in Second Bout

Dan Petroff, the methodical Russian wrestler, stood up to his local rating of grappling victories, when he won over Chief Lynx, the Rama Reserve Indian, in the main bout of last night's pro wrestling bout at the Belleville Arena. Petroff weathered a rather illegal attack served on him by the "red skin" to win the third and final fall, after split falls had been gained by each grappler in the earlier stages.

In his usual quiet and unassumed manner Petroff bided his time to win the first fall after 25 minutes or wrestling with a drop kick and press. The Indian, Chief Lynx, reverted to all means of attack to literally batter Petroff into submission and win the second fall with a mare act, as the Russian laid prostrate on the mat and an easy victim for the fall. Despite the fact the Indian applied rough tactics to endeavour to polish off the Russian, Petroff weathered the illegal practices of the "red skin" and came out of the merry series of chess smashes to surprise Chief Lynx and flattened well with a flying tackle and win a popular decision. It was Petroff's tenth consecutive victory in a Belleville ring.

Mexican Champ Wins

In the semi-final scrap, that was also a popular main attraction, Tex Mobly, the Mexican champ, won over Red Byrd, Georgia boy, with the initial fall with a drop headlock, which put the latter suddenly the patrons of the game. Despite the fact Byrd was the aggressor in the early stages of the second round, Mobly weathered the storm of attack and forced Byrd with a series of flying tackles to win with a pass. Byrd was then stronger to open the third round and seemed the ultimate winner after a series of drop headlocks, but when again the Mexican, Mobly, spilled Byrd and Mobly won with a deadlock.

The preliminary bout saw ample action as "Bad Boy" Brown grappled well to gain a draw with Jack Hamilton. The bewhiskered gent from Kentucky has grappled in the game well interested. A fight to the finish was advertised between Tex Mobly and Chief Lynx for next week's show. No time limit will be permitted.

POINT ANNERS KEEP IN RACE

Stage Rally in Late Innings To Defeat Percival Stores

Inaugurating their new softball diamond the Point Anne mushball players rallied in the late innings to keep pace with the league leaders by downing the Percival Store nine to 1 last night. The contest was the first of six tuneups the Percivals and the Point Anne nine will engage in before the league season opens on July 5th, according to Manager Bill Kerr, the Point Anne mushball pilot. Kerr, who played lacrosse with Brampton and is employed with the Agnew-Surpass shoe store, says that the young agile boy, who should add strength to the Flying Horses as he played home position for Brampton and any lacrosse player or so catch on with the Brampts should be an asset to the Rovers, we'd imagine. Kerr could be given a trial when the Rovers journey to Norwood Friday night.

Walter Gerow's Napanee Gibbons are on a winning streak at right. The Gibbards have won their last two games winning over the champion Cobalt team 9 to 7 and Percival 10 to 9. The elongated Tommy went to the hilltop and literally mowed the Napanee City squad like chaff before the wind. When Pointer is right he's just about tops in amateur baseball circles as a pitcher. Incidentally Rolling for the Gibbards when he threw his first two runs in the fifth, the inning in which Napanee scored all their runs. Rolling is scarce however, as Cobawa out-hit the Gibbards 5 to 2. The Amherst City squad started big "Doss" Ogden, but a wild streak, developed in the fifth took Tommy from the mound. Ogden breach and do some fine relief hurling, but it was too late, Pointer the headsman all day. Down in Kingston Joe Daley's new find, Parkyn-whitey (or whatever it is) let the Petes down with three scratch hits as the Ponies went on to win 10 to 2 over the Petes to pull ahead of the Cobawa squad in the league standing.

"Pop" Woodley's Belleville Kiwanis juniors broke the ice last night and registered their initial win of the year in the South Hastings League when they won over Shannonville 6 to 3 in an abbreviated game. Bill Cook was delightfully easy last night, giving up four hit runs to break up a spirited pitchers' battle between Stan Lofthouse and Ivan Smith, opposing moundsmen. The Point Anne squad gave Lofthaus the much needed hits in the later stages to assure victory and move the Point Anne nine into a contending position. Tonight the Percivals meet the Bell-Sargents in an advance game. Both will be scheduled for Friday.

Although Joe McCarthy, manager of the champion New York Yankees believes that catching requires no contribution to the success of pitchers, the evidence is against the Yankee leader, in the opinion of H. G. Salsinger, sports editor of the Detroit News.

"Joe McCarthy, who manages the New York Yankees, contended last spring that catchers have no part in the success or pitchers, that all they have to do is receive the ball and that that ryahie ends there,' Salsinger declares. "Bill Dietrich, interviewed over the radio, was asked what part a catcher plays in a pitcher's success. His answer: "I should say that a catcher deserves at least 75 per cent of the credit. He does three-quarters of the work." Dietrich pitched a no-hit game against St. Louis with Luke Sewell catching him.

"McCarthy never pitched or caught. He was a minor league infielder before he became a manager. If McCarthy, wants further proof he can review the records of Detroit pitchers while Mickey Cochrane was handling them and in the games they were handled by substitute catchers. The evidence will all be on Dietrich's side."

CANNIFTON WINS OVER FOXBORO

Pounded Rival Hurlers For Thirteen Safeties in Pastime

Canniffon, June 24 (Special) — The Canniffon "Sluggers" combined their slugging ways on their home lot last night as playing hosts to the Foxboro nine they pounded the rival pitchers for 11 safeties including home runs, triples and doubles to score an easy one sided victory, running their consecutive wins to seven in a row without a setback.

The Foxboro management presented a rather mediocre lineup for this important game, they turning up without a pitcher, but the Canniffon moguls kindly loaned a hurler to fill in. Foxboro seem to have a hard time fielding their regular team this year, for with the exception of the first game on the 24th of May their regulars have failed to show up, necessitating a lot of filling in by the substitutes.

To get back to last night's game, about the only thing that can be said is that it was all Canniffon, the Foxboro team falling down miserably both in the field and at bat. Foxboro hung up only four scratchy singles as against Canniffon's 11, thereby telling the tale. E. Jarrell led all the hitters of the night getting a triple and two singles. E. Smith smashed a homer, with Hughes getting a double and single and L. Jarrell a triple and single.

Foxboro started a threat in the final frame when V. Guay strolled, took second on Williams' single to score on two consecutive errors by Canniffon infield.

Line-ups:

Foxboro—V. Guay, Williams, Murray, Guy, Stewart, Wall, N. Guay, Shah and Peacock.

Canniffon—L. Jarrell, Hughes, Empson, Cole, E. Jarrell, Bleeckman, Knoll, Sharp, Smith.

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

Concluding their schedule without sustaining a single loss, the Belleville Collegiate midget lacrosse squad defeated the Queen Victoria School kids 8 to 4 to win the local school lacrosse league championship title. The game was keenly contested with the youngsters showing a decided improvement in their play. The B.C.I. gutted-stick artists were also polished around the nets for the Q.V.S. lads, while their system of attack was operated with a greater degree of accuracy. Virgil Laughlin, who is responsible for the midget squad's success, stated after the game, that efforts to further lacrosse in the schools would be launched next autumn, when the boys return to school. "We expect to play a second schedule in September," stated Mr. Laughlin. The B.C.I. kids having won the spring league will be favorites to win the fall loop also, as a number of the better lower school players will doubtlessly graduate into the Collegiate this month.

Although it may be a surprise to some, here's a tip for the Belleville Intermediates. "Shorty" Ellis, good lacrosse player in the city, and brother of Bill Kerr, the ball-played lacrosse with Brampton and is employed with the Agnew-Surpass shoe store. Kerr is a young agile boy, who should add strength to the Flying Horses as he played home position for Brampton and any lacrosse player or so catch on with the Brampts should be an asset to the Rovers, we'd imagine. # Holiday Bride

by Ann DeMarest

Tired with the trip and crushed by the events of the past few days, she was blindly conscious of the dashing rain and the cold November wind as she got off the bus and stumbled down the street with her bags. Her mind, so torn with the knowledge that Bryan was unfaithful, seemed numb now, and when she finally talked with the landlady and got a room in the old brownstone house it seemed of too much effort to go to dinner. And when she turned out the light and crept into bed she thought only dimly of the two people who had ruined her life—Sandra and Bryan. In order to go on living she must forget them. Dwelling unhappily in the past would be of no help to her.

"I must have courage," she murmured, "but, Bryan, it is so hard to be brave without you."

After ten weary days of job hunting Jeanne found it more and more difficult not to think of Bryan and the happy days and months when they were engaged. It was December now and the cold streets and shops were crowded with gay Christmas shoppers. Try as she would thoughts of the holiday ahead of her also thought of her bridegroom. Finally one morning, when she had almost given up hope of ever finding work, an agency called her just as she finished her frugal breakfast and was leaving the house. There was a fine position open. The woman told her, and with Jeanne's three years' experience as Carleton Conway's private secretary, she was the very girl for the job. It was the opportunity of a lifetime. Jeanne, disappointed so many times in the past few weeks, was afraid to let her hopes soar.

"Go to the Bartlett's penthouse on Park Avenue this afternoon," the woman instructed her. "The position is private secretary to the writer, Gordon Bartlett. He will interview you about four o'clock. You will walk right there to the apartment."

Jeanne thanked her and hung up the receiver slowly. The name sounded familiar. Gordon Bartlett! Why, that was Cecily and Jack's brother. It was Cecily whom Lance Larkin was interested in. It was an opportunity, Jeanne thought, growing more excited. The Bartlett's penthouse was one of the most magnificent in New York. Jeanne had seen pictures of it in the papers. And there had been something in the papers in the past year about Gordon Bartlett. He had been divorced, and there had been some scandal preceding it. His wife had run away with another man.

By half-past three Jeanne was ready to go to the Bartlett's. All day she had tried not to be too optimistic about getting the position but now as she hurried down town, slim and pretty in her brown tweed suit and topcoat, she felt her spirits rise in anticipation.

The apartment house was the largest Jeanne had ever seen, and the elevator ride up to the penthouse seemed like a trip in an airplane. It soared until Jeanne thought it would never stop but at last they reached the fiftieth floor and Jeanne stepped out into the foyer of the apartment. The butler took her name, and asked her to come in and wait in the hall while he announced her to Mr. Bartlett. Jeanne was awestruck at the furnishings as she sat down in a deep white leather chair in the hall, which was as wide and spacious as a room. Beside her was a low table with a blue glass top and on it was a crystal bowl filled with gardenias. Jeanne bent over to catch their fragrance and then sat up quickly as she heard footsteps coming towards her down the hall.

"Why, Jeanne, what are you doing here?"

It was Lance Larkin. His tanned face lighted with a smile as he strode rapidly forward and then sat down on the arm of her chair.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Larkin." Jeanne flushed, and looked at seeing him.

He took her gloved hand in his and pressed it warmly.

"I've been trying to get in touch with you ever since old Conway told me he had to let you go."

"I went home for a few days' vacation," Jeanne told him.

"Well, I'm glad you're back," Lance said simply. "I was worried about you."

Jeanne turned her head swiftly as a burst of laughter drifted into the hall from one of the rooms at the far end.

Lance laughed. "Cilly Bartlett is giving one of her famous cocktail parties."

"It's a beautiful apartment," Jeanne said looking about almost wistfully. "I never dreamed it would be like this."

Lance nodded uninterestedly. "Tell me, Jeanne, what are you doing now?"

But before Jeanne could answer him she heard a sound and looking up saw a girl standing before them in a stunning gown. The strapless gown, a girl so attractive that Jeanne almost gasped aloud. In her brown tweed suit she felt beautiful dressed creatures.

"A friend of yours, Lance?" the girl drawled, a puzzled look in her golden brown eyes.

Lance jumped to his feet. "Yes! Jeanne this is Cecily Bartlett. Cilly this is Jeanne MacDonald."

Cilly nodded her closely curled blonde head affably. "How do you don't know——" she hesitated smilingly.

"I've known Jeanne for years, Cilly," Lance said quickly. "She was Carleton Conway's private secretary. My lawyer, you know."

"Oh!" Cilly's hard little voice was definitely scornful and she raised an inquiring eyebrow at Lance. "Did you invite her here, Lance? You might have told me."

Jeanne bit her lip. "No, Miss Bartlett, I am waiting to see Mr. Gordon Bartlett about a secretarial position. I just happened to meet Mr. Larkin in the hall. I'll see him later, I'm sure. I'm unfortunate. You came in the wrong door. The service entrance is at the end of the outside hall. I will call Parks to take you to the proper entrance."

Jeanne clenched the white leather arms of the chair as she spoke to the girl who had spun around on her tiny high-heeled sandals toward Lance.

"Listen to me, Cilly," Lance took her arm roughly. "I'll tell you do this. Have you lost your mind?"

Jeanne held her breath as Cilly turned on him furiously.

"Take your hand away, Lance. I think you have lost your mind. Do you think it is fit for me to come out into the hall and find you sitting here with a——a——gorgeous? I know you don't care for my friends but if you are going to leave my party to sit and talk with a girl in the hall, you needn't come any more."

Panic-stricken Jeanne stumbled to her feet. She had only one desire and that was to get out of the apartment as quickly as possible.

"Please don't quarrel on account of me," she begged. "I am going now."

But before she could leave Parks, the butler, came towards them and told Jeanne that Mr. Bartlett would see her in the library. With a distressed glance at Lance Larkin Jeanne hurried after Parks. Lance, with a sharp exclamation, brushed past Cilly and ran after Jeanne. He caught up with her as she followed the butler around the corner of the hall out of Cilly's sight.

"I'm sorry I caused you so much trouble, Mr. Larkin," Jeanne said in a low voice.

"Listen to me, Jeanne. Cilly isn't usually like this. Honestly. She's had too many cocktails this afternoon. Don't let it worry you or keep you from calling by in the morning. He caught her hands in his as he was talking.

"You'd better go back," she whispered as she saw Parks waiting for her at the door of the library.

"Promise me you won't let it trouble you," Lance said. "Gordon Bartlett wants you to work for him, please take the position. You will like the job and I'll be very glad to pay well."

And Jeanne promised, but she followed Parks with a sinking heart. Needing the position so desperately she knew that she could not let Cilly Bartlett's fiery outburst stand in the way of Gordon Bartlett deciding to hire her. Because of Cilly she would be forced to accept any offer he made but the flirtatious she had had about the beautiful blonde's words was smashed. With plenty of money, a luxurious home and beauty Jeanne saw only the discontent that twisted the girl's pretty face as she quarreled with Lance. It seemed that after all money did not make people happy.

INSTALMENT 7.

"Won't you sit down?"

Gordon Bartlett rose and spoke to Jeanne as the butler showed her into the library.

"Thank you."

Jeanne had difficulty keeping her voice steady as she took a chair by the desk. While Bartlett arranged some papers she looked at him with curiosity. He was a tall, thin man and his face looked very pale in contrast with his dark hair. There was a network of hasty soup to his shoulders and that, staring at his steel-rimmed glasses, made him look like a professor.

"You are Miss MacDonald, the young lady whom the agency was sending?" he inquired.

Jeanne nodded. "Yes, Mr. Bartlett."

He leaned back in the chair and looked at her closely. "I hear you have had much work for Mr. Larkin, Mr. Conway. But my work is very different. I am a writer and must explain it to you and then we can decide if you can handle it. I live a great deal of time in Mexico and there will be a lot of research. I hope you don't mind that."

Bartlett broke off abruptly as a burst of laughter from the nearby living room. With a frown he turned to Jeanne.

"If you have a houseful of servants and no peace and quiet," he said in low tone and stretched out to close the door to the hall. "If you work with me perhaps you will be able to get more done. No one is to come into this library while I am working and I keep the door to be kept closed always."

Jeanne nodded sympathetically. She found herself liking Gordon Bartlett. He looked tired and worn but his face was kind and he had none of the spoiled petulance of his sister Cilly.

For half an hour he outlined his work to Jeanne. She found him interesting and the work he was doing was far more exciting than anything she had ever taken down.

"I am sure you will be satisfactory," he said at last, getting up to walk with Jeanne to the library door. "I would like to have you start here tomorrow if you can."

Jeanne left him, promising to be back at the apartment at nine next morning at 9.30. She walked hurriedly down the hall past the room where Cilly Bartlett's noisy cocktail party was in full swing. It is very possible she wanted to get out of the apartment without seeing Cilly and Lance again. Gordon Bartlett might change his mind about hiring her as his secretary if Cilly told him of the unpleasant happening with Lance Larkin.

Fortunately no one came into the hall and Jeanne left the apartment with a sigh of relief. But as she turned down Park Avenue she heard a voice calling her name. Jeanne did not recognize Lance Larkin until he jumped out of his roadster and crossed the sidewalk to take her by the arm.

"Why, Mr. Larkin," she said and her voice was distressed.

It would be far better, she thought, if they never saw each other again now that she was going to work for Gordon Bartlett.

"Come over to the car, Jeanne. I'm going to drive you home." There was a definite note in Lance's voice, which was usually so casual and cheery.

Jeanne looked up at him with surprise. "It's awfully kind of you" she murmured. "But, I can't feel that I should——"

He laughed shortly. "Nonsense, Jeanne. Why shouldn't you? Besides I owe you an explanation for the upside up in the apartment. Did you get the job?"

Faced with such problems, many people reluctantly sell good, sound securities at sacrifice prices; and yet, a little time spent in consulting with the bank would have enabled them to secure a loan.

Such loans can be retired by regular payments out of income, and when the loan is repaid the securities are returned to the owner intact.

Responsible men and women are invited to discuss such loans at any branch of this bank.

ing. "If I cannot show the farmer that this act is not sound and true, I will leave office."

"But inside of four months after that declaration," said the speaker, "we heard the term 'I beg to differ' closing the act. 'A clumsily-drafted, unworkable act and which will be repealed tonight' was the comment of the Globe and Mail came out in headlines, and this same Globe was guilty of statesmanship."

"Never have we seen such a triumph of cowardice, of retreat, or such an about face on the part of a Premier, since the last time he had the complete confidence of the people of Ontario." It looked like public school supporters and it betrayed the supporters of public school supporters. It tricked one and deceived the other, and deserves the support of neither. It was a trick piece of legislation made to fool the people. Our policy is sane and sound as is ours to be established a solid policy for the schools, which is made for the one and fair for the other."

Speaks on Hydro

Directing his remarks to the Hydro question, the Conservative leader stated that prior to the present administration, the Hydro Electric Commission was the finest set enterprise, owned by the public, in the world. Now it is the shame of it, a commission which was the greatest obstacle, and sound, then Hepburn came along and kicked out capable men in order to create commissioners, at least one elected by the public."

"In order to secure advice," the speaker continued, "he spent $15,000.00 in a foreign country for advice which he could have got in Canada. He has shown by his actions, that the Hydro Electric Commission here today, for it is nothing but a political machine, which is kicking the Hydro around like a political football. You know as well as I do that the Hydro Commission as established in the old days, was the finest set up ever obtained down through the years up to the Hepburn regime, in any part of the earth in the world. Hepburn and his cronies should not have been rewarded, but they have got no finding, that the 126-demand for power is more than 50% of what power. While his cabinet struggled with the problem in the present question of the contracts, Hepburn was negotiating for more power. What confidence can the people have in such a cabinet or such a government? It is time, it is high time that this is a new kind of a cabinet, part of which belong to this riding today. I don't think there is another cabinet in the Dominion like it. If its members do not agree with the head they are promptly kicked out."

Directed by Paper Claim

"This province is not being run by Hepburn and his cabinet, charged the Conservative leader.

"Why was Roebuck kicked out. Why did Croll resign? Why was Hon. McCullagh," Hepburn has had to the past few weeks nearly as many portfolios as Mussolini, and the end of week he has had one more."

"They are going to create 'supermobiles,' charged Mr. Rowe. Turning to the Attorney-General, the speaker called the attention of his colleagues to the Premier's consideration of this transaction. 'Hepburn said that not a single horse-power should be required in this district,' Mr. Rowe said. "To-day every single horse-power that has been contracted for and twenty miles major industries are using it.

"How long Canada can maintain stability in this country. People are becoming restive, dissatisfied and cannot be trustful of a government which shows such an open attitude to its friend. "Hepburn has said 'I will break the contract but I will have no right to appeal to people like you in West Hastings for you come from the kind of stock, which does not sell its integrity," declaring the speaker.

Attacks Liquor Board

Attacking the present Liquor Commission, the Conservative leader stated that it was one of the most important systems we have had in twenty-five years. "It is unfair," he said.

The speaker criticised sharply the Hepburn method of distribution of beverage rooms. "He has opened the floodgates of liquor," he said. In advocating his policy, Mr. Rowe stated that the provincial Liquor Commission should not be conducted as a medium of distribution and not for profit or political distribution. "It should be directly opposite to that set out by the government," the speaker stated who has declared that so long as he is in business affair he is running it for profit.

Premises Orderly Distribution

"We will," declared the speaker, "after the next election, establish an orderly distribution through an orderly Liquor Control system. This will be the first and basic principle of the Liquor Administration policy of the party I have the honor to represent.

"Secondly," said Mr. Rowe, "the Liquor Control Commission must be shorn of its political patronage. The multiplication of beverage rooms throughout the province has become alarming, being opened where they are not wanted nor needed. This political patronage has become a shameful disgrace to our present Liquor Administration, and the action of its members in creating a conflict between government and will not be tolerated after the next election. The Liquor Administration should be subjected to a corrective influence of public opinion expressed in a democratic fashion.

"We will restore a Liquor Commission composed of men of character and principle instead of politicians who are there for the profit for the government," the speaker continued. "and I am satisfied that as far as the Commission is concerned, people of wide knowledge and ability will realize how the Government has made six appointments to it.

"While Hepburn had boasted of promises he forgot to tell the people that he had abolished certain services, that he increased taxation, his record regarding the Separate School issue was not a happy one, that the Hydro Electric Commission was one of vicious patronage; that the cost of government had increased, yet he had to admit on the floor of the House that the provincial debt was $25 millions of dollars higher than when he came into power. He cannot face the future without drawing red herring across the trail," said the speaker.

Essential Services Cut

"Hepburn got the surplus he brags about," asserted Mr. Rowe, "because he deprived you of essential services you had down through the years previous. He spent 14 millions less on education: he spent $288,000 less on agriculture and while mental patients lacked for proper hospital care he only expended $97,000 on hospital buildings. Why shouldn't he have a surplus. He should be ashamed to take that surplus when he abolished the services that you have had for so many years."

"The Ochawa interference was the greatest political fiasco ever experienced in this province," declared the speaker referring to the other phase of attack. "Hepburn knew this was a matter for the Dominion and he knew he had no power to put anyone out of Oshawa. This was an open Conservative Hall expediency. Why didn't he turn to Mackenzie King? His responsibility was to act as a conciliator. Why didn't he go to Oshawa when asked by Mayor Hall of that city? Instead of going there as he should have done, he sent to Oshawa for 700 mounted policemen. These were put up in Toronto and then sent for by the government, and then he sent for 200 more but he did not send for Ottawa, they were needed for political purpose. Ottawa refused. Why send police for a law-abiding strike?

Discussed Labor Trouble

"With regard to unions," said Mr. Rowe, "will people stop to consider that it was the Trades and unions affiliated with international unions for a number of years? Hepburn did not send a single policeman to Oshawa to show that labor unions are fair and square to things across the way. Sarnia did not need Hepburn's help. The gentlemen there walked in the plant, drove out the sit-down strikers, insisted the Union Jack and went to work. But in Oshawa, Hepburn saw a new form of strategy. These people, it was hinted were Communists who will not recognize any union affiliated with the C.I.O. or the A.F. of L. Here again Mayor Hall did not ask Hepburn's help. He walked to be left alone. The strikers were only exercising the rights they have enjoyed for fifty years. They had the right of free association to join the union of their choice.

"Ask yourselves the question. We stand on our rights of free association as long as we maintain law and order and prosperity, but this Hepburnism strikes at the heart of social freedom.

"If Hepburn can say with any degree of soundness that men cannot join the C.I.O. why say that they can join the A.F. of L. But why draw this red herring of Communism across the trail now. The U.S.A. is one country, and Canada is another. Law enforcement is different. Ours is a respect, for British ideals.

"I asked the Globe and Mail" challenged Mr. Rowe, "What position is the C.I.O. in? Is it going to take during the coming election? Will it back the Hepburn party or his party. On top of all this he comes out with the statement that he is through with Mackenzie King. If he only knew it King was through with him long ago."

Only United Party

"The Conservative party," declared the speaker, "is the only united party in Canada to-day, and one which has the endorsation of every responsible citizen, all ranks, and every single member of the Opposition Party in the House.

"Is everyone out of step but Hepburn?

"I am not endorsing the C.I.O. or the A.F. of L." Mr. Rowe declared, "but I ask you to strip Hepburn of his conceit and ask him why he is defending the C.I.O. at the front door and surrendering to them at the back door. As for the C.I.O., it stand 100 per cent for the chain-tenance of law and order in the Province of Ontario, and I will help Hepburn at anytime to enforce order which has been shot down out of power than have one law for the C.I.O. and one for the poor. Such a policy strikes at the heart of social democracy and at the root of religious liberty."

"And I tell you here and now," declared Mr. Rowe emphatically, "There will be no coalition except that which exists between the people like you. Behind this C.C.F. bulyboo there lurks the desire for union between Bay Street, Toronto and James Street, Montreal. They are planning a great Dominion-wide Hepburn amalgamation, but the only amalgamation that will go into power is the great Conservative party of Canada, such as you."

Mr. Harry Rollins moved a vote of confidence and was heartily applauded. The convention was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

BELLEVILLE BARRISTER WINS

and G. Soulmes; W. H. Hollins, Belleville, moved by David Bateman and seconded by Geo. Stokes; R. A. Elliott, of Deloro, past president of the West Hastings Conservative Association, moved by R. K. Bowler, seconded by C. Ketchenson.

R. A. Elliott Declines

In opening the nominations, R. A. Elliott declined to stand as candidate, pleading as his excuse, that other candidates could devote more time to the work, and, he believed, be more worthy prospects.

"I can only echo the sentiments of Mr. Elliott," also declared W. H. Ireland, ex-M.P.P. "I wish to withdraw my nomination in favor of whoever is elected your standard bearer. I can, however, pledge my whole hearted support for the one you will finally name. Whoever is elected will be the supporter of the next Prime Minister, Earl Rowe, a prophecy that Mr. Ireland.

Howard D. Graham, former Mayor of Trenton, also declined to stand.

"I'd like to," he told the delegates, "but personal affairs at this time preclude the possibility. However, I'll be behind the man who is picked to the last ditch."

Harry Rollins, Belleville, declared that only a half minute was needed by him to announce his name. "You've put my name on the Conservative list because that is the only party I can be in. Once I was born a Conservative, and I will die a Conservative. I hope that man elected is one we can all get behind. The man, who is elected will have the march into Queen's Park, and that march will be commenced on the march of the Liberals from East Hastings," he added above the clatter and applause.

Geo. Thompson, Springbrook, simply announced his withdrawal.

Had to Change Plans

Geo. Reid, ex-Mayor of this city, declared it was his intention of letting his name go to the convention but he had a few days ago. Since then illness at home had caused a change and he declared he realized that his loyalty was first for his own home. "But I will also be loyal to whomever you elect here today. I hope all here will seriously consider this just a candidate's convention, but a Conservative convention, and the choice of this convention must receive the backing of the voters of West Hastings for a fortnight coming forward to the Province of Ontario, and I will help Hepburn at anytime to enforce order which has been shot down out of power than have one law for the C.I.O. and one for the poor. Such a policy strikes at the heart of social democracy and at the root of religious liberty."

"And I tell you here and now," declared Mr. Rowe emphatically, "There will be no coalition except that which exists between the people like you. Behind this C.C.F. bulyboo there lurks the desire for union between Bay Street, Toronto and James Street, Montreal. They are planning a great Dominion-wide Hepburn amalgamation, but the only amalgamation that will go into power is the great Conservative party of Canada, such as you."

Mr. Harry Rollins moved a vote

Briefly he sketched his earlier career in Hastings County, having been born in Sidney township and worked there as a farmer for many years on land, that had been settled by his forefathers. His education had been gained in Hastings County, and his service to the township had been a lengthy one as deputy reeve and reeve.

"No matter who is the choice of the convention here today I will always be found one hundred percent behind him and the leader of the party. Due to my early training, I believe I am fitted for the task of giving assistance to the working out of the many problems connected with agricultural life and the working man. Unity in the ranks of the Conservative party is the need in order to return a government of the people for the people, by the people," declared Mr. Burke.

Agree With Policies

R. D. Arnott, also declaring his intention of allowing his name to stand said that any might be in favor of some candidates, who might be selected, but that some doubt might have existed regarding his own age. "For the past ten years, though I am not called the age myself, I have been practicing law in Belleville, the city in which I received my education and have resided. For the last three years I have been a member in the city council, honored this year by being chosen Mayor.

"It is up to the convention to select a candidate they choose to lead them in this banner, one who is best fitted for this job. If you choose me, I will do my best, and I am behind Earl Rowe, and the party, because I believe in Canada's leader," he continued amid outbursts of applause. "I am behind the principles of the Conservative party, and the policies which have been enunciated by its present leader."

Pledged Support

H. B. Fetterly, also declaring his decision to stand pledged support to the convention, declared in conclusion, "No matter who is selected I will be behind him." Briefly Mr. Fetterly recalled his residence in the county and his service to it as educator, being former principal of the Ontario Model School, for six years "until I was kicked out," he declared.

"This however, was not the reason why he sought the nomination, but that he felt he was qualified through experience and training to do this end I am offering my name."

Affairs in the Department were discussed by Mr. Mc Cauley of Stirling, Mr. Mc Cauley, Mr. Fetterly, "if I am elected as your representative, I can assist in putting this department into shape. To this end I promise to devote my full time to the duties of the task of being your representative."

Following the balloting for the ballots a pledge to the nominee was signed by each, Mr. Mc Cauley, president of the West Hastings Association by a standing vote. With three cheers for the candidate on his feet.

A motion for a standing vote advanced by one member of the audience, was defeated by a chair-man's out of protests. "You have to elect your man by ballot," informed secretary Mr. Mc Cauley.

Resolutions Committee.

Howard D. Graham was named chairman, with Mrs. Bateman, Mr. Bateman, Dr. Klinnear and Geo. Ketchenson were appointed scrutineers.

Organizer Heard

During the interim of casting and collecting ballots, Elmer Johnston, Brockville, Conservative organizer for Eastern Ontario seized the opportunity to address the assembly.

"I congratulate you upon your convention, and the spirit of harmony that has now been established here today. One thing, today's candidate can feel confident of is fair and square deal.

"The best man will win, and when the convention is over and a man has been named, preparations must be made for an immediate start at the work, that lies just ahead, to bring back to power the Hon. Earl Rowe and party.

The enthusiasm developed at a meeting of the sort he was addressing did not count for so much, when the day of election came. It was the ballots cast in the polling booths, which made the difference between a "right and wrong government," continued the speaker.

"Certainly, if good Judgment prevails, there will be a return to sound business-like administration at this next election, and administration we sadly lack at the present time."

Rubber Stamp Govt. Claim

"Today the province is being left to run itself. A rubber stamp government operates at Queen's Park and never before have the various departments been so hampered and held up in their progress. Instead of attempt to do. People of Ontario are realizing that the government which they have confidence, and this is the type of government, that will be given to them just as soon as the Hon. Earl Rowe is elected Prime Minister of the Dominion."

Briefly the speaker sketched the present government labelling it as a spending government instead of one which was attempting to reduce expenditure.

"They said when they went in they would reduce taxes. Did they cut them? Instead of taking away fifty millions they put on a paltry fifty million. Instead of reducing the number of servants at Queen's Parks, more are in jobs. Instead of spending fifty millions in administration, they spent eighty millions.

"Hepburn is looking for some kind of an issue which may put him back in power. But when we realize the general record of his administration we have nothing but condemnation for it. It is up to the residents and people of the riding to redeem West Hastings and to be ready for the call to battle at the time, and the time when the electors will decide whether it is this September or next October," concluded Mr. Johnston.

Following the naming of Mayor Arnott as candidate with the acclamation of the result of balloting, Mrs. Arnott was introduced to the gathering following a brief expression of appreciation from Mr. Arnott. The same applause, that had greeted the announcement that Belleville's Mayor had been selected, followed the name of Mrs. Arnott.

Immediately following the announcement of the name of Mayor Arnott, Mr. H. B. Fetterly moved that the nomination be unanimous. This was seconded by Mr. A. L. Burke.

Vote of Confidence

At this point, previous to the conclusion of the meeting a vote of confidence in the Hon. Earl Rowe and the Conservative party was moved by Dr. Klinnear, unanimously seconded by the gathering who showed its enthusiasm by standing and cheering with zest.

Included among those on the platform during the afternoon were R. H. Hollins, Mr. Mc Laughlin, Mrs. J. Kenny; C. H. Ketcheson; R. H. Ketcheson; C. C. Angus; Geo. Ketcheson; Mrs. H. Naylor; Howard Graham; W. House, Jr.; R. Richardson; H. J. Maddill; Col. A. P. Allen; Mrs. R. Bailey; Geo. McCullough; C. N. Ketcheson; R. E. Bonter; I. McCoy; W. A. Sanderson; L. E. Neal; C. Carrying water for the elephants seemed to be a favorite method when one had to get a pass into the circus, said a Belleville Old-Timer in recalling circus days of long ago. Carrying water for the elephants was no cinch—for in those days there were no water works and it was a case of carrying from the nearest pump—and how those great beasts did lap up the water. We are sure earned our bleacher pass, and for the elephants circus days.

Folks who have read and remembered David Harum's visit to the circus when a bare-footed boy as the guest of the rich man of the village will sense the thrill of carrying water

DAILY SHORT STORY

Just Over the Fence

By Ad Schuster

Quite often when Owen Dalton stood in her mother's kitchen she could see Jane, the sweet, Prof. Winville Larned working in his garden.

The girl wished she knew the young professor but realized there was little chance.

One day came a remarkable letter from an uncle in the West. It told of a homestead opportunity, described the fact that Owen was a girl instead of a boy, and concluded by suggesting that she break away from that hide-bound city and take a try at real life. "I don't suppose for a minute you will," Uncle Dick wrote, "but will see that you are fired up fine if I get a wire saying you are coming."

Uncle Dick met her at a station on the end of the prairie, drove her into the hills and established her in the little cabin which was to be her home for fourteen months.

"Not so bad?" he said. "You ain't it out and all this, most as far as you can see, will be yours. It will be worth a lot some day."

It was lonesome at first, but Owen soon grew to like some of the neighborhood women friendly. She fished, broke broncos and took great joy in riding to the foothills. Before many months she had organized a woman's club, was presiding over a circle in home cleaning, and was a member of another which was making dress forms.

"The farther apart people live," she said with the discovery, "the more neighborly they are. I never knew what it was to have so many friends." And she thought of Professor Larned, just over the fence at home, aged and his figure remote and unapproachable.

It was a little later the professor arrived. He was writing a book on geology and wished to devote a week or two to study of formations near the little prairie town.

"We will give a little party for the stranger," she suggested. "He comes from the East and we'll make it real Wild West, a costume affair."

She wanted to add a suggestion that all combine to shake the professor out of his dignity and occupied air, but that would be giving away the secret that she knew him.

The friendliness of the Western town won Winville Larned. A man could not be formal here and his thawing, in some ways, was more remarkable than that of the snow Winville entered the spirit of the party, dressed himself as a garmer out of fiction, and was thoroughly at home.

Then entered Owen, in red waist and leather skirt, a dashing figure from a poster of the cowgirl. She would make him stare and rave, in his astonishment to see a backyard neighbor queen of a Wild West ball!

Winville stared, but he did not recognize her. Even when he was introduced he was no wiser. But he stayed over three weeks and paid more attention to the ranch than he did to his book of the rock formations. Then Owen reached the end of her legal residence and went home. Exacting a promise of secrecy she departed with a promise to return. Winville, discovering she was gone, was angry that she had not told him of the fiasa.

"I had thought," he said, "we were good friends. Surely, she voted as if she thought so, too. I had intended ....." He shook his head. The girl had been playing with him. Perhaps it were better he go back to people of his own kind.

Thinned and heavier, but sad at heart, the young professor reached home, unable to shake from his mind the thoughts of the cowgirl who had jilted him. He wondered how if he would be able to settle down to the old rut. Well, if he must, he would start with the garden. A few square feet of spaded earth to take the place of rolling plains, a fence to stand for a row of foothills:

And over that fence bobbed the head of a girl.

"Hello, neighbor," she called, "how's everything on your ranch?"

Winville Larned stared. He dropped his hoe and gave his whole attention to staring.

"Owen! You here? Where did you come from?"

"Winville," she answered trying to mock his tone, "this is where I was born and where I have been always—except for a blessed fourteen months—and where you could have seen me, hundreds of times!"

"No, I couldn't," he answered with inspiration. "I couldn't see over a fence in those days. But my eyes have been opened. Owen, let's go back. Let's....."

"Yes," said Owen smiling "Let's!" Now they are married and gone away. It makes no difference that the town still talks of the scandalous behavior of the modern generation and of a pretty state of things when a professor kisses a girl over the back fence.

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood poison should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Take Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite kidney remedy.

TARZAN'S QUEST (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Tarzan's hand flashed out like lightning, seized the wrist of the Kavuru, and wrenched the long knife from his hand. The man thought surely he would die, but the ape-man said sternly: "Answer my questions truthfully, and no harm will come to you."

So that he would lose no time, he commanded the Kavuru to march ahead while he snapped out curtness about Jane and Annetie. The man answered them well, for this was Ogdli, who had tried to lead the two girls from Kavandavanda's temple by the secret passage.

Tarzan was a creature of sick calm, but now his heart leaped and pumped within him when he learned that Jane was alive. A frown clouded his brow, however, when Ogdli said: "I am sure that Kavandavanda intends to take the one called Jane for his mate."

"Show me the hidden tunnel, at once," Tarzan commanded. Ogdli nodded. "But the doors cannot be opened for this side, except by Kavandavanda, who knows their secret. For others, it is easy to pass out of the temple, but it is impossible to return."

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE (Unofficial)

Toronto June 24 (CP)—The Toronto Market succeeded today in staging a downhill rally and a few exchange indices were up at the close. Volume was not so good on the rise as it was on the declines during the week on the decline and buying figured out quickly in the last hour but the closing note was one of firmness. Base metals supported along apparently encouraged by faster buying of metal in the London market, nickel posting a net gain of more than a point and the others doing nearly as well. Oils and the industrials were more moderate in their pick-up.

Secondary and junior golds clamored about considerably. Activity tends to slow 10 to 30 cents up for the day included Pickle Crow, Reed Authier Offices, Central Patricia, Sherritt, Hard Rock, East Malartic, Sylvanite, Little Long Lac, Pioneer, Teburn, Macassa, New Golden Rose, Jellicoe, Kerr-Addison and MacLeod-Cockshutt.

Nickel closed above the 59 mark for a gain of 6 points. Noranda added 1-2. Consolidated Smelters 1-2, Vermilion 50 cents and gains of 10 cents or more were boarded for Waite-Amulet, Sudbury Basin, Sherritt, Hermosa, Lake Falcon-bridge. Eldorado turned up, adding about 10 points. Coniagasian gained 8.

O.P.R. was a strong spot in the industrial group, showing a net advance of about a point and fractional gains were posted by Brazilian Traction, Walkers Common, Distillers-Seagrams, Walkers Pfd., Canadian Car and Foundry issues, United Steel, Dominion Bridge and Dominion Steel.

Senior oils were slow to follow the firming tendency while the western issues lightened up moderately.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 24—(AP)—With foreign diplomats on one edge as a strong German war fleet lay off Portugal, traders gave Coppers a whirl today as the stock market rose irregularly.

Most other sectors of the list lacked energy and at times the stock ticker came to a standstill. Volume ran at the rate of around 900,000 shares.

Minor gains were made by Canadian Pacific, Distillers-Corp. Seagrams and McKesson. Dome mines offered slight resistance. Canadian Government issues were inactive while Dominion Funds lost 3-64 of a cent to 99.27 1-2 cents. On the curb, Lake Shore mines showed somewhat

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Services.

Market Comment

Considerable nervousness has developed as a result of the very sharp break in the mines. The public has suffered very large losses and those who have not been forced to sell out have lost confidence. Several things stand out in connection with the current setback.

The decline in the mines is not now attributed to any nervousness over the future price of gold. It is reasoned that if this were the case the senior golds would be the first to react, whereas little or no such issues as Lake Shore, Wright-Hargreaves, Sisco, etc. have sold up well. The reason for the selling must be looked for elsewhere.

Admittedly during the past year the public was offered more new issues than it could comfortably absorb and the reckoning has to come, this being aggravated in many instances by the persistent rumours of a cut in the price of gold. Forced liquidation of this sort were unable to put up additional margin was the principal factor for Tuesday's sharp break., in the mines.

Many of the mining issues have declined to levels that make them appear very attractive, but it is only the exceptional trader who has the courage to acquire equities in a declining market. Developments at the mines are progressing fairly well and the next few months should witness considerable activity in the various Canadian camps. From the properties with adequate finances have the best chance of moving up and a little study of the position and possibilities of some mines should pay handsome rewards over a period of time.

The run-up the other day in International Nickel was based on the expectation that June would see nickel output in April set a new monthly record. Nevertheless, failure of traders to follow up the movement caused it to sink. In a rising market a sharp rise in any particular stock attracts a following but in a declining market the public cannot be tempted.

The industrial news of late has been of a comparatively routine character with several reports making favorable showing better movement as compared with last year. In the United States, traders are awaiting the results of the second quarter's earnings, although these reports do not begin to make their appearance until early August.

Cape Town had a near panic all of its own when the London Stock Exchange did gold mining shares, in reaction to the depression on the South African market. As a matter of fact, English traders and investors have been wary of all shares on the South African market. As a matter of fact, English traders and investors have been wary of all shares on the South African market. As a matter of fact, English traders and investors have been wary of all shares

Circus Day is Almost Here Kiddies Wait Impatiently

Every Red-Blooded Circus-Loving Laddie Will be up at Dawn Tomorrow (Friday) to See the Circus Unload and Watch the Big Tents go up—Oldsters Will Renew Their Youth and Try to Recapture the Thrill of Circus Days in the Long ago—Street Parade Will Leave Show Grounds at Eleven—Revival of Street Parade Feature of Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus

Tomorrow's dawn will bring the circus!

While Belleville sleeps tonight, three special trains travelling over the C.N.R. from Kingston will bring here the great Cole Bros. Circus with Clyde Beatty, famous wild animal trainer and Ken Maynard the screen's greatest western star. Afternoon and night performances are scheduled for Friday at Pine St. and Dufferin Ave.

The first of the circus trains, known as the "flying squadron," is scheduled to reach here at 3 a.m. It is due to leave Kingston at 12 o'clock tonight. The others will depart at intervals of two hours. And about the time the "flyers" are making his rounds the freight yards promise to be filled with long lines of red and yellow cars packed odylties and curiosities from all parts of the world.

As fast as the trains arrive tomorrow morning they will be parked on convenient sidings where the work of unloading will go forward. Some 30 odd baggage wagons, cages, dens, allegorical floats and other vehicular appurtenances will be transferred to the show grounds as quickly as possible.

Twenty-two tents covering 12 acres of ground, are used to house the immense city. The largest tent is the "big top," and is among the largest reaches of canvas ever used by a circus. It is almost two city blocks in length. The Menagerie tent is of great size, being 80 feet longer than any similar tent used by a circus. It is supported chiefly by nine centre poles, larger than the masts used on the largest sea-going vessels.

Ah! The Street Parade

One of the largest, finest and costliest street parades will be seen on the downtown streets during the afternoon. Seventeen cages with thirty elephants and two caravans of camels from the great desert will be seen. In the picturesque line of march will be three more elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats tableau wagons and open dens and cages displaying the Clyde Beatty menagerie.

Due to the recent absorption of the Clyde Beatty zoo by the Cole Bros. circus, the menagerie is now the largest travelling zoological collection. It contains upward of 80 cages of wild animals gathered from all parts of the world, 30 elephants, two caravans of Arabian and Siberian camels and the largest hippopotamus in captivity. The amalgamation of the two shows forms the world's largest travelling amusement institution.

There are 400 performers who will be seen in more than 200 separate acts in the three rings, elevated stages, steel arena, aerial cleave and on a giant hippodrome track.

Great stars from 18 foreign countries, the respective champions in their lines, participate in the gigantic displays of arenic numbers. The trained wild animal displays are headed by Clyde Beatty, acknowledged to be the greatest wild animal trainer of all time.

Many Famous Riders

Among the 60 equestrians will be the Aurelia troupe of nine champions of Europe. The petite and charming Cyse O'Dell, intrepid bareback equestrienne from the Antipodes to thrill and amaze you. From Germany will be the amazing Christena troupe who perform on a wire high up in the dome of the big top; other stars will be the Flying Harolds, the Aerial Illingtons and Harold Barnes, the dancing, tumbling somersaulting juvenile on the tight wire. Sixty clowns headed by Otto Griebling will furnish fun for the little folks.

There are 500 head of horses with the show this season including 200 performing equines. They will be in charge of Jorgensen Christensen, famous horseman.

The "Serenade of Spain," an immense spectacle will start the ball rolling in the big show and will serve as a prelude to the main performance. It is picturesque extravaganza of the golden age and embraces the efforts of more than 1,000 men, women, horses, elephants, camels, yaks and other strange beasts of the forest and jungle. There will be great Oriental and trained singers and vast orchestras; golden-tinted arches and gilded cymbals. More than 100 dancing girls will be seen.

Upwards of $70,000 was expended on the wardrobe used in the colossal pageant. It is presented in a series of radiant visions, vast ballrooms and moving spectacles of iridescent splendor. Yet forming but a single feature of the circus.

AT THE BELLE

Ken Maynard in Tepeetch Drama of the West, "Hit Parade".

Tues.-Wednesday

Romance and the rattle of six-shooters are mixed in equal proportions to provide a thrilling western drama as we have seen in Ken Maynard's "Western Courage," on the Belle screen tonight and Friday, matinee and evening.

Desperadoes, worthless fortune-hunter and a beautiful heiress are the ingredients of this new Maynard outdoor picture.

Ken is foreman of a dude ranch and when a beautiful heiress comes to the ranch with her parents, Ken becomes interested in the girl and decides to tame her, because, as he says to Shorty, his pal, "the girl is like a wild mare, totally worthless until you tame her."

Complications arise when the girl, infatuated with a handsome but worthless fortune-seeker who wants only her father's money, agrees to marry the man. Ken forcibly stops the elopement and the girl is furious. Because of her foolhardy action, she is captured by a gang of desperadoes and is held for ransom.

Single handed Maynard races after the girl, directly into the bandit's lair. From that point on the story steadily gains in momentum and rises to a spine-chilling climax. The story is exceptionally well told and the action of the picture is rapid and thrilling.

Geneva Mitchell is lovely and charming as Gloria, Ken's leading lady, while Betty Blythe as Gloria's mother, the prim Mrs. Hanley does a splendid piece of acting. "Tarzan" Ken's marvel horse again comes through with a performance that will amaze and delight.

"Hit Parade." Funny

A new deal in musicals is promised in "The Hit Parade," the companion feature on the same program.

As for vital statistics: The cast includes the beauteous Frances Langford, Phil Regan, Louise Henry, Peri Kelton, William Newell, Ranny Weeks, Max Terhune, Al Pearce and His Gang, Molasses and Januery, Carl Hoff and His Parade Orchestra, Eddy Duchin and his Knights of Melody, Duke Ellington and his Band, The Voice of Experience, Ed Thorgersen, Ben Grauer, George Olivet, the Tic Toc Girls, Oscar and Elmer and a score of others prominent in radio circles.

The plot is a refreshing one, having to do with an enterprising young press agent's attempts to star a beautiful but unknown radio singer. To review the ensuing complications would spoil the fun of hundreds of Belleville and vicinity screen lovers, but for eighty minutes of good wholesome fun thickly studded with tuneful melodies see "The Hit Parade."

Oscar and Elmer, two crack comedians deserve special mention for their hilarious comedy sequences. Those lads should be watched. They're going far.

Little Benny's Note Book

segieSmingn thobetite

This afternoon the little barber was cutting my hair and tawking to the big barber, saying, After all, Fred, why should you and me and everybody be so fixiriated in Mrs. Simpkin and whether her real name is Mrs. Duke or Mrs. King or Lady Winner, I mean after all, Fred, why do we seem to care so much?

Well, it's true that you'll probably never have the occasion to invite the Duke to a glass of beer, Joe, and your wife's bridge club will have ot keep struggling along without the addition of the Duchess of Winser's sparkling personality, but you can still discuss their private affairs with me as if you'd gone to school with them. And your wife and her friends can still speak of Wally in the same tone of voice they'd mention Sally or Sue or Daisy, and so really that gives us an advantage over the Duke and Wally because it gives us much more of a feeling of equality than what it would give them if they was discussing our private affairs, the big barber said, and the little barber said, There's some in that, Fred.

And it's the same thing all up and down the line, the big barber said. Take Mrs. Twombly Puff the famous horse show siren and society leader. It would cost her a fortune to hire a castle somewheres and entertain the Duke and duchess just for one meal, but the way things are, what with the headlines in the paper and everything, she can tawk about them as familiar as her cook and the butler do. In other words, Joe, it makes the poor feel richer and the rich feel better, so who can say it dont do more good than harm in the present unsettled state of the world? he said, and the little barber said, There's sense in that, Fred.

Wich just then I felt a poke in the back proving my hair was all cut.

Europe's Chancellories Asked to Weigh Words; 'Rash Phrase Dangerous'

Maiden Speech of British Prime Minister Touches Danger in Europe

RISK OF 'SPARK'

Reference Made to British Treaty With Russia

London, June 25 (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain urged Great Britain today to "keep cool" and promised the House of Commons he would push every effort to prevent the Spanish civil war from exploding into a general European conflict.

Chamberlain, prime minister less than a month, outlined his views to keep peace as he threw open to debate the whole question of the crisis growing out of the 11-months-old war, he advocated:

1. Filling the gap left in the non-intervention patrol when German and Italy withdrew.

2. Renewing efforts to withdraw foreign volunteers from Spain.

Danger in Lack of Caution.

A single incautious move "or even a nudge," he said, might easily start the conflagration that will smoke Europe into war. Chamberlain told the House.

He appealed to the men who wield power in the chancelleries of Europe "to weigh their words very carefully before they utter them and to keep in mind "the rash consequences that might flow from some rash phrase."

The prime minister congratulated Germany for the reserve it displayed in its skirmish with the warship sent back on the cruiser Leipzig.

Chamberlain said it was "reasonable" on Germany's part to feel it could not permit its people to be endangered by risks of that sort".

Incident Unlikely To Be Repeated.

"The result of the unfortunate visit of German and Italian ships from the patrol in Spanish waters is that there cannot be any longer any danger of further incidents of that kind," he declared.

"I conclude with a very earnest appeal to those who hold responsible positions in this country and abroad to weigh their words very carefully before they utter them on this matter, bearing in mind the consequences that might flow from some rash phrase.

"I do not read that in the high mountains there are sometimes conditions to be found when an incautious movement or a sudden loud exclamation may start an avalanche. That is just the condition we find ourselves in today. If we can all exercise caution, patience and self-restraint, we may yet be able to save the peace of Europe."

The Premier further prefaced his speech with the announcement he would confine it entirely to the Spanish situation alone. Foreign Secretary Eden, he said, would deal with other aspects of the international situation.

Hopes Are Not Hopeless

He promised Great Britain would not "say or do anything to precipitate a situation which everybody wishes to avoid."

"The situation is serious but not hopeless," he declared.

"Although it may be true there are governments which desire to see one side or the other victorious, there is no government or country which wants to see a European war."

Britain's policy, he said, has been directed to only one end — that of the peace of Europe by keeping the war within Spain.

"We intend to pursue that policy as long as there is reasonable hope of avoiding spread of the conflict," he added.

Cries of "rubbish" greeted Chamberlain, after declaring incidents involving foreign warships "are bound to occur as long as the civil war lasted, but he was confirmed" was inevitable as a result of

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Goin' in swimmin'!

The water in rivers and lakes has warmed up by now for swimming. No matter what the air temperature, one can not get chilled and get too hot. Thunderstorms, hold no terrors for the swimmer, for he can view the storm by lightning in the water, and the water from the skies can spoil no swimming skill. If the temperature of the water is right by day, it will be equally pleasant at night, because water and air cool off as quickly as sky.

"So Near —!"

"Hon. yak," said grimy urchin this morning as he landed a printed bill advertising the current program at the Bell-Theatre to a handsome well-built stranger in front of the Queens Hotel this morning.

The stranger glanced at the bill, smiled, then said the boy who was featured in the show.

"Dorchakanow," shrilled the youth, "it's Ken Maynard, the Western fella, and boy, is he good."

The stranger smiled and the boy darted away, unaware of the fact that he had been addressing the famous movie star himself, who is here today, being featured with the Cole Brothers' Circus.

FRANK BRENTNALL DIES IN TORONTO

Native of Belleville And Former Treasurer of C.N.E.

Toronto, June 26 (CP)—Well-known to all Great Lakes yachtsmen, Frank Fairfield Brintnall, native of Belleville and Honorary Secretary-Treasurer of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club since 1920, died today in Toronto General Hospital. He had been ill for some weeks.

Brintnall was a part owner of the Gardenia and before that had sailed, with many well "known skippers. He resigned as treasurer of the Canadian National Exhibition in 1934.

The late Frank Brintnall was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Brintnall, his father being a cheese buyer here in the days when Belleville was the chief cheese market of the world. He was born and educated here, and self-restraint, we may yet be able to save the peace of Europe."

The Premier prefaced his speech with the announcement he would confine it entirely to the Spanish situation alone. Foreign Secretary Eden, he said, would deal with other aspects of the international situation.

Bantam Rooster Back on the Job As an Office Boy

Henryetta, Okla., June 25 (AP)—Billie, a five-year-old bantam rooster, had a choice between farm life and a career. He was back on the job today as an office boy.

His boss, O. T. Hale, proprietor of a produce firm here, said if the diminutive fowl wanted to be an office boy he would have to report to work each morning and keep the place clean, keeping hens to return to the coop.

Billie accepted the offer and began keeping hens to return to the coop.

About ten days ago Hale brought a sleek brown and white bantam hen to give the rooster "companionship".

"He doesn't crow exactly. It's a kind of a screech, and he only uses it when he wants to call me," Hale said.

But after the advent of the Bantam hen Billie "just let his job go to pieces".

"Things finally got so bad, I was forced to give the hen away," said Hale.

"When the boy I gave her to carried her away, Billie ran after her. I shouted for him to come back. After he'd trailed her a ways, he finally made his choice, and back he came."

NATIONAL GOV'T RETAINS 2 SEATS

Conservative And Liberal Members Get Big Majorities in By-elections

London, June 25 (CP)—The National Government retained two House of Commons seats in by-elections today.

Reginald, Lord Baldwin's old Worcestershire constituency, Capt. R. J. E. Conant, former M.P. for Chesterfield, was elected Monday as a Conservative, he polled 15,056 votes against 8,511 for Dr. Donald Johnson, Liberal, for three years a medical officer in the service of the International Grenfell Association at Harrington Harbor Hospital, Labrador.

Conant's majority was 6,543. In the general election Baldwin was returned by acclamation.

In the Holland-with-Boston division of Lincolnshire, made vacant by the death of Sir James Blindell, Herbert Butcher, Peterborough businessman, was elected as a National Liberal. With the backing of the Conservative party he polled 21,946 votes against Lt. Col. Ernest Reynolds, retired school teacher who carried the Labor banner.

Butcher's majority of 7,260 compared with a majority of 11,808 obtained by Sir James Blindell also a National Liberal, in the 1935 general election.

Bewdley and Holland-with-Boston were two of seven by-elections pending. Since the Chamberlain government took office a month ago seven by-elections have been held, six of which have been won by National Government candidates. In the other, Cheltenham, the local mayor was elected as an Independent Conservative candidate.

ADMIRAL FISHER DIES AT AGE 62

Was Former Commander of Mediterranean Fleet

London, June 25 (CP-Havas)—Admiral Sir Willis A. Fisher, Commander of the Mediterranean fleet, died today, it was learned.

Fisher entered the Royal Navy as a cadet in 1889, was promoted to a lad of 13 and in the Battle of Jutland was in command of H.M.S. St. Vincent. He was in 1919 made Admiralty as Director of the Anti-Submarine Division.

He became a Rear-Admiral in 1926, Vice-Admiral in 1930 and Admiral in 1932, in which year he became Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean fleet, a position he held through the crisis growing out of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

He was Naval A.D.C. to King George V. 1931-32.

Sir William died during the night at a London clinic to which he was taken after illness made it necessary for him to suspend his work at the Portsmouth base.

'Nothing Dramatic' Ahead, Says Italian Newspaper

Rome, June 25 (AP)—The authoritative Virginio Gayda, often the mouthpiece for Premier Mussolini, predicted today nothing dramatic would happen in the Spanish situation unless "new and intolerable complications" arose.

In Il Giornale d'Italia, Gayda wrote also "only these warnings necessary to safeguard Italian and German interests will remain" in Spanish waters following Italian and Germa withdrawal from the Islands off Spain's coast.

"He calm!" Gayda told Italians.

The Italian cabinet met but apparently did not touch on the Spanish-International crisis.

Berlin, June 25 (AP)—A German Foreign Office spokesman said today the Reich demanded the International Non - Intervention Committee take steps to prevent foreign arms and volunteers from reaching Spanish government forces.

Although no longer a member of the "Hands Off Spain" naval patrol, Germany insists that control of foreign participation in the Spanish civil war be "really effective" by measures following the Germa withdrawal from the Islands off Spain's coast.

"He calm!" Gayda told Italians.

The Italian cabinet met but apparently did not touch on the Spanish-International crisis.

Increase is Necessary By Unsettled Situation Says Sir John Simon

Compelled to Make Provision Against Movements Into Sterling

TO GIVE DETAILS

Recent Drain of Sterling to France Paramount Reason

London, June 25 (AP)—Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today asked the House of Commons to increase Britain's equalization fund by £200,000,000 ($986,000,000) to support Great Britain's monetary alliance with the United States and France.

This jump, he told the Commons, would bring the stabilization fund to £550,000,000 and was made necessary by the unsettled international monetary situation.

Sir John said he would explain later if France and the United States joined similar moves.

"In addition to the recent release of hoarded gold by France," there has been much financial disturbance abroad and a general tendency for capital funds to move to London.

"While I consider there is no reason why the present unsettled conditions in connection with the international movement of capital should be permanent the situation compels me to make provision as an insurance against additional movements into sterling."

The Chancellor said was essential if Britain was to maintain the present financial policy and support our undertakings and objectives under the tripartite monetary agreement which has been so widely approved."

No Change in Policy

Sir John indicated there would be no change in the general government policy. Present low cost additional funds were necessary for protection of the pound in relation to the French franc and the United States dollar.

Debate on the measure will start Monday at which time the Chancellor said he would go into greater detail on the reasons for asking the funds.

The recent drain of sterling to France was considered to be the paramount reason behind Sir John's surprise move. French interests in the last few days have been selling francs and buying sterling because they believed the "franc would again be devalued."

The franc, financial quarters said at least hoped for possibility of depreciation in terms of dollars and pounds, thus making francs for securities based on francs more valuable in France.

In order to keep sterling from becoming "over-valued", the exchange fund said Britain must maintain the stability of the triangular arrangement for the franc, dollar and sterling.

The equalization is carried out through the purchase and sale of sterling, making the additional £200,000,000 reserve necessary.

The fund now stands at £150,000,000 and in 1933 was increased to £350,000,000 through loans and various kinds of government securities.

(Virtual exhaustion of France's and pound, thus making francs for 10,000,000,000 francs (about $450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed Wednesday in a letter of resignation from two of the fund's managers.)

AN OLD WOMAN'S TALE SAVES CITY FROM CAPTURE

Tells Loyalist General City of Avila is Strongly Held

ONLY 100 DEFENDERS

By EDWARD J. NAIL

Avila, Spain, June 26 (AP)—To the gullibility of the old, the reverence for simplicity, rich in religious fervor and devotion go ancient beliefs, is added the valor of the Fighting Falcons of Avila, Teresa, and bow she saved this city from destruction in this bitter civil war.

It seems the troops of the Spanish government, 2,000 strong under a newly-made general who knew the country from top to bottom, were set to capture the walled city.

Behind the walls were but 100 insurgent soldiers behind the walls, and the city seemed doomed.

Then there appeared a bent old woman, with a bundle of sticks on her back, walking across the plain, and the general of the government army summoned her before him.

"Who are you, old woman."

"Are the defences strong?"

"Defences, defences, I know not."

"Terribly strong," she said "with many strange engines of war, guns with huge mumbles, and row upon rows of men."

The general paused, surprised, and turned to his staff.

"We must turn back," he said. "We have not the equipment."

Meanwhile the old woman wandered among the troops, begging food and vanished from sight behind a single large gun bristling from the wall. The general not quite sure, turned from his staff, looking for her.

"Where is the old woman?" he demanded of his soldiers.

"Behind that rock," they pointed. "Get her and bring her back. I want to question her further."

They searched behind the rock, but there was no one there. The general, frightened, withdrew with his army, and before he could return with reinforcements there were many insurgent soldiers in the city, more than enough to hold it.

The woman with the bundle of sticks, the soldiers believe, was Santa Teresa herself, the only saint the woman always have done in the great emergencies of the past.

Whether or not whether this story is true, but the soldiers who told me believe it.

Russia, Italy, Germany Shipped Arms to Spain, Eden Tells Commons

"Keep Cool" Over Crisis is His Advice to Nations

LLOYD GEORGE DEBATES

Eden Says Every One Knows Russia Shipped Arms to Spain

London, July 25 (AP)—Great Britain and France have decided to send their own warships to fill the gap in the "hands off Spain" sea patrol which was created by Italo-German withdrawal, it was learned tonight.

The French fleet will move to defend the supervisory warship control by themselves means they will take over patrolling the eastern, or government-held coast of Spain, where Germany and Italy left off.

Purpose of Cordon.

The cordon is intended to help keep foreign arms and men from delivering their cargoes in Spain. Germany and Italy waived their hands of the patrol because the Spanish Government's armed forces bombed their ships and Germany sent the torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

France and Great Britain intend to notify the non-intervention committee of their plan at its next meeting. British also is willing to consider the placing of neutral observers on each patrol ship. Italy and Germany still are on the non-intervention committee.

"Keep Cool" Eden Advises.

Foreign Secretary Eden stepped into a House of Commons debate over the Spanish crisis today to declare that Soviet Russia, as well as Italy and Nazi Germany, had "large" shipments of arms into Spain.

He dunked with David Lloyd George, and joined Prime Minister Chamberlain in urging a "keep cool" attitude toward Italo-Germany withdrawal from the Spanish non-intervention pact.

With Chamberlain he stressed the need to "cool heads," that Italy and Germany still may stay with the 25 other nations who are pledged to keep their hands out of the Spanish civil war.

Charges by Russia In It.

"We know this (non-intervention) policy has not worked satisfactorily," Eden declared. "I refer to the right honorable gentleman (Lloyd George) who has just spoken. I would not be expressed it at session of Division of Geneva.

"Another ten years would have been soon enough to say the Judge told Henry Chad, when the court learned he had been married at 18. Chad was fined $10 and costs or five days in $130 board bill.

"Married at 18, did you say you are?" asked Judge Wearing.

"Yesterday," said Chad.

"How in the world did you come to get married at that age? You might as well have tied a millstone around your neck and decided to carry it through life," the judge told the boy.

"You just shackled yourself for life. You're a smart looking boy, you can't be a bad boy by your look, or you wouldn't have married at that age. Where is your wife?

"You shouldn't have married for ten years because you owe your mother board money."

Then turning to the mother, Judge Wearing said:

"The trouble is, your son is married. The chances are he will start a family right away and won't pay you anything."

Payment of the court was for $10, to be paid at the rate of $3 each week.

Itched to Eat Russian Caviar, Itch Because They Ate It

Edna May Oliver And Others Have Experience

New York, June 25 (AP)—Edna May Oliver, of the movies, and a score or two of otherwise dignified persons, itched today to eat gray caviar and itched because they had eaten it.

Fiery itching, they scratched their way across the Atlantic, past the Statue of Liberty and right out into the streets of New York after the Italian liner Rex reached here yesterday.

It seems that every year about this time the Rex lays in a big supply of the Russian caviar, delicious, but you're likely to get the hives. And you have to scratch when you get the hives.

The one genuine regret the sufferers felt, they agreed, was that it would be hard, if not impossible, to find any caviar left. And they were all itching to eat some.

Marriage at Nineteen Condemned by Judge

London, Ont., June 25 (CP)—Marriage at 18 is just a lifetime attachment to a millstone, in the opinion of County Judge Joseph Wearing, as he expressed it at session of Division Court today.

Another ten years would have been soon enough to wed, the judge told Henry Chad, when the court learned he had been married at 18. Chad was fined $10 and costs or five days in $130 board bill.

"Married at 18, did you say you are?" asked Judge Wearing.

EUROPE'S CHANCELLORIES

powers' efforts to keep arms and men from Spain.

Intervention Goes on

"Although we have had to express very definitely our dissatisfaction with the failure of the scheme of non-intervention," the Italian minister said "it is true that intervention has gone on and is going on—in spite of the non-intervention agreement.

"Yet it is also true that up to the present time we have succeeded in achieving the object which has been at the bottom of setting the whole machine."

Chamberlain said this to say on the thirty-fifth day of the meeting of the Spanish government submarine attempted to torpedo a British merchantman.

Chamberlain officers were convinced of what they thought was indisputable evidence they had been the subject of a torpedo attack, if it did not exclude the possibility of the mistake.

German Claim 'Reasonable'

"In the circumstances, the German claim that they are not below their ships to be exposed to risks of that sort was a reasonable one.

"I go a little further than that. When I think of the consequences to the German Navy and the natural feelings of resentment and indignation which would be aroused by such an incident, I must say that the German government in withdrawing its ships (from the International patrol) and treating the incident as it has done have shown a degree of restraint we should all recognize."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Opposition Liberals, led off the debate. Both ministerial and the Opposition benches were packed and in the diplomatic gallery the distinguished strangers' galleries were noticed the representatives of France, Belgium, Spain, Russia and Portugal, and the ministers of Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Turkey.

Empire Backs League

Sir Archibald declared the Imperial conference found a common loyalty throughout the Empire towards the League of Nations. He hoped the Government would derive encouragement from Empire sentiment and pursue in the immediate future a more active league policy.

He also hoped more general cooperation would be found at the forthcoming. The opportunity to grasp this union, he said, was fleeting, and if not made now the United States opinion would sour. Another important thing arising from the Imperial Conference was the situation in the Far East. Public opinion wanted a restoration of good terms between Great Britain and Japan.

Good Relations With Japan

"It is our duty to recognize the justice of Japans claim to improved access to markets and raw materials, and show our willingness to co-operate effectively with her in the maintenance of peace."

Turning to Europe Sir Archibald was thankful that the relations with France had never been firmer or more loyal.

French Friendship Cheered

Cheers greeted this statement, as they did the commendation of the government over the close solidarity in the present situation between Great Britain and France.

"There is at least one thing to be thankful for," he said, "that is our friendship with France, never more firm and loyal than it is now, based on a common ideal of freedom and peace and loyalty to the League of Nations."

He declared Germany should be made to understand that the whole Britain's old friendships could not be sacrificed for the thrill of new Germany and that Britain remains faithful to its obligations as a signatory of the league covenant.

Wants Germany in League

The government should tell Germany that Great Britain desired her to rejoin the League, providing Germany equal status providing Germany accorded Russia similar equality.

"Once Germany returned to the League, joins in a measure of general disarmament and agrees to bids by third party judgment in international disputes, there is no reason why friendship we are unwilling to pay."

Regarding Spain, if the government found it impossible to withdraw foreign troops from Spain it should propose that the French and British governments announce non-intervention had failed and that they, therefore, intended to supply arms under normal commercial arrangements to the Spanish government.

"Tarzan" Knows Twenty Words of Command and ... is 9 Years Old

Six feet, of rugged manhood, a face tanned by the sun and wind of the western plains, a charming personality that immediately draws one to him, a well modulated voice, the charm enhanced by the soft nuances of the western drawl and a manner which can not but impress all with whom he comes in contact. If one can imagine these characteristics confined in one man alone then a fair idea of the idol of the boyhood of Canada and perhaps one might say the world will be had of the man whose death-defying acts in the silver screen, whose potent guns have many times saved a fair lady from the clutches of screen villains; Ken Maynard motion picture star, who today is appearing with the Cole Brothers circus.

The handsome star paid a visit to the Ontario Intelligencer this morning and his appearance was the signal for increased heartbeats on the part of the feminine members of the staff and a wide-eyed interest on the part of the remainder of the staff.

Contrary to the general opinion that motion picture stars are a "high-hat" class of people, the Western star exuded an atmosphere of friendliness and unaffectation bearing that immediately caught on with his listeners. He talked easily and fluently, while his general bearing and dress was "at home" attitude made it easily understood why he is so popular.

"Where born?" he laughed, "why yes, I first saw the light of day at Vevay, Texas, and the first real collection I have of this world, is bouncing along on the horn of a western saddle and the back of my father. From that day on the smell of horses and leather has always been in my nostrils. My mother was a ranch owner, and I was reared in an atmosphere of horses and cattle."

"So strong did the "horse appeal" become, that young Maynard lived practically all his younger days on the "hurricane deck" of a western bronco, and so proficient did he become that soon he left the homely atmosphere of the ranch and joined a roving riding act in a circus. Here his exceptional talent with horses and saddle caught the eye of movie scouts and he was offered a contract. That was 12 years ago," he laughed, "and I have been making motion pictures ever since."

"Eight times a year," he said, "I return home (in Texas) to rest in between pictures tour the country with my cowboy congress. So you see the life I live is not one of rest sitting in easy chairs, breathing in smoke and moving around in an atmosphere of pretty girls. Oftimes we are in the location at seven o'clock in the morning and remain there until two and three o'clock the next day."

Maynard, and his beautiful wife, who had been married in Virginia, and who is not connected with the movies, live in a home in Los Angeles. "It is only a stone's throw from Hollywood," he said, "but I have no desire to Hollywood but a suburb of Los Angeles," in making their home.

"Are the motion picture people the glamorous easy-living set that they are?" he was asked.

"No, emphatically not," he replied. "The motion picture industry is big business. It has its payroll, its employes and every one of them hard-working. The studios are factories of production and must keep up their standard in order to supply the demand. And the general public is one of the severest critics on the face of the earth. In our business, one is a star tonight, and a nobody tomorrow. The majority of the motion picture people are hard-headed business men and women. Fame is fleeting, you know, and the stars of today have got away from the ancient idea of riotous living and extravagants spending of money. Of course there are rare exceptions, but we have them too, but in the majority, Hollywood actors and actresses are in keeping with the times and devote the most of their time to their work."

"The depression hit taught them that?"

"That is right," he laughed, "we had the depression out there as well as you did here. Money was not attracted and many of the film producers suffered. Some of the smaller studios closed down, but the depression, and I had the good fortune to keep on working."

Has Pilot's License

But the thrill of riding his horse "Tarzan" is not the only thing in life for the big westerner. Since years ago he applied for and received his pilot's license. Today he has a fine plane of his own. "Flying is all a hobby of mine," he said, "in fact such a hold did it get on me that I at first had to bought myself no less than seven planes before I could settle down to the plane and cruise down to Mexico, and other places. At one time I held a solo flight to South America. It is a lot of fun."

Ken Maynard; Western Ace, and motion picture star, who is the exclusive interview today gives Ontario Intelligencer readers an insight in the life of motion picture stars. With his wonder horse "Tarzan" Mr. Maynard is appearing today with Cole Brothers Circus, and in a picture entitled "Courage" at the Belle theatre tonight.

Maynard's first love is his beautiful horse "Tarzan." This cream-colored equine beauty is a Palomino and is twelve years of age. He has been in the care of his master since he was a yearling colt.

"He is strictly a one-man horse" Maynard said, "and I have trained him to be that way. I never allow anyone else to ride or to handle him. He knows me, of course."

"Tarzan," smiled the star, "I think is one of the best trained horses in the motion picture business today. He was a star in the silent days" and has since risen to equine stardom in sound productions. But he had to be trained all over again when sound came into effect. He is very intelligent, and knows at least twenty words. Two, are all of one animal, and he readily understands what is being said to him.

"Then, he can fight, and fight viciously—that is in pictures, but "private life" he is gentle, docile and any one can go near him."

An Admirer of Canada

"Canada is a swell country," said Maynard, "I toured it several years ago with the Ringling circus, but it looks much more beautiful now than it did then. Everything looks so green, and you "have natural colors here in your trees and shrubbery that we seldom see in California. Out there things appear to dry up very quickly, and here they appear to be fresh and green."

"I fell in love with your country the minute I set foot in it, in fact my wife and I have been getting a real scare about the time the morning taking in the natural beauty of the surrounding districts. Before long you have down one road in a beauty. That caught my eye, and I would have to have seen more of it."

The husky westerner will leave the circus at the beginning of November to resume production on motion pictures, at which he is the movie colony. He is at present under contract to Grand National Pictures, and expects to make four more before he goes on a vacation. He takes about six weeks to make a western feature," he said, "actually there is a lot of hard work connected with it. But Los Angeles is peculiarly adapted to the making of pictures. Within a radius of two hundred miles, scenes representative of nearly every corner of the world from the sands of the Sahara Desert to the snow-capped mountains of Canada, are to be had."

Asked by several members of the staff for his autographs, the smiling westerner, graciously consented, then generously added a sample of his picture of himself.

Mrs. Maynard, a beautiful young lady, and as charming as her famous husband, smiling acknowledged an introduction. "Did you tell all about yourself," she asked her husband. "Yes, I told them all about it," he laughed. "I know," she replied "but you did not tell them your middle name." All of which is a standard joke among celebrities when being interviewed. The point being some "dark hidden secret" which they did not want published.

NO PLEA ENTERED IN THEFT CHARGE

Raymond Lawrenson Remanded a Week on His Own Bail

Raymond Lawrenson, Thurlow Township youth, who was apprehended on charges of theft of bicycles yesterday, appeared in Belleville Police Court held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., today, charged with the theft of two bicycles from Belleville. Lawrenson was not asked to enter a plea, his case being enlarged for one week.

"This is a serious matter. This time you should procure the services of a solicitor, I'd suggest," interrupted Crown Attorney J. Donnan. Lawrenson made his remarks to the Bench.

"Perhaps you are right, case enlarged for one week," retorted His Worship. Lawrenson being permitted his liberty upon his own bail.

Police state in the apprehension of Lawrenson they have broken up one of the largest bicycle-stealing rackets in this province in recent years. The accused was not operating alone, police state, he having two or three accomplices, who may be summoned into Juvenile Court at the conclusion of investigations. All these investigations, that are still needed to clear up the large number of bicycle cases still confronting the authorities.

Exposing at the police station today are five bicycles, that were recovered in a drive shed on the fifth concession of Thurlow yesterday, where the stolen bikes were being dismantled, rebuilt and painted after being stolen off the streets of Belleville during the past few weeks. This bicycle-stealing ring had the police completely baffled until early this week when information received by Sergeant Harman reculted in Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien of the Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien apprehending a teen-aged lad riding what proved to be a stolen bicycle on the third concession of Sidney. It was through the apprehension of this lad that the drive shed used as a cache point for the stolen bicycles was located. The stolen bicycles are today being returned to their owners.

MEETINGS CLOSE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

C. M. Reid Guest of Meeting Tells of Florida

The last weekly meeting of the directors of the Belleville Board of Commerce until September was held on Thursday and considerable routine business was disposed of. Mr. C. M. Reid, a former director and a past president of the Chamber, and Mr. Clarence Morgan of Toronto, were guests at the meeting and were welcomed by the President, Mr. W. J. Biggs.

Mr. Reid gave a very interesting talk on Florida, where he has spent the last winter, and also at Miami and five at St. Petersburg. St. Petersburg, Mr. Reid said, has a population of about fifty thousand during the summer, but in the winter the population reaches well over 300,000. The Chamber of Commerce of St. Petersburg is recognized as the greatest force engaged in advancing the interests of the city and has given complete co-operation and liberal support to the civic authorities.

In addition to the President, Mr. Leo B. Riggs, the following directors were present at the meeting: Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, K. V. Tilley, H. E. Marshall, C. Gallaway, J. R. Boyce, John McIntosh and Secretary-Manager J. C. Herity.

Youths Push Boat Ashore, Police Wait and Nab Them

Charge Two Youths With Theft of 300 Pounds Scrap Iron

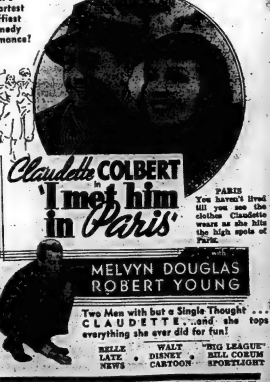
Seen in the middle of the Moira River transporting, it is alleged, 300 pounds of scrap iron across the river opposite the Fruit Machinery Company premises, Randall Street, Douglas Smith, two local youths, were taken into custody by local constabulary afternoon, as police waited on the bank for their arrival.

The Smith brothers were arraigned before Magistrate F. J. Butler, K. C. on today's local police court charged with the theft of 300 pounds of scrap iron from the premises of the Fruit Machinery Company. Randall Smith pleaded not guilty when charged. "We didn't steel the iron. We found it in the river and took it," explained Randall Smith. His case was remanded for one week after Crown Attorney R. G. Donnan, K.C. suggested that a plea of not guilty be entered.



Douglas Smith, a 16 year old brother, pleaded guilty to the same charge, however. This is this lads first offence and I believe he should be released on suspended sentence," Prompted Mr. Donnan. His Worship meted out the proposed six months suspended sentence, while brother Randall was remanded to the custody of the county jail for one week.

According to local police the Smith brothers had taken a boat and rowed across the Moira River at a point opposite the Fruit Machinery Company. After loading some 300 pounds of scrap iron in the boat the Smith boys are alleged to have commenced to push the loaded boat across river to the west bank, wading in the water up to their waists. Upon their arrival at the west bank the Smiths boys walked directly into the hands of the police, who had been watching the entire proceedings in ambush and nonchalantly walked out and arrested their men.

J. A. McFEE EXPERIENCED OPTOMETRIST

Jeanne nodded and reluctantly allowed him to help her into the car. It was dangerous she thought to take such a risk. If Olly Bartlett saw them it might mean more weary days of job hunting. With a shiver she sank into the comfortable upholstery of the car. It was pleasant though not to have to walk, she told him as she gave him her address.

"First of all, Jeanne, I want to know what the matter is with you?" Lance deftly swung the car out on the avenue. "The last time I saw you I thought you were as happy as a lark, but from your note how you look different. Something has happened."

Jeanne forced a little laugh. So Lance Larkin had noticed the change in her. Bryan had broken her heart for all the world to see.

"I think you are imagining things," she said lightly.

He must never know that all of her hopes had been shattered and that now she marred his cynical outlook on love.

He looked down at her quickly and Jeanne could feel the flush creep up to her cheeks but she swallowed hard, grew tight.

"Really there is nothing the matter," she said, her voice betrayed her.

"I see," he said in a grave voice. "Well, perhaps some day you will tell me about it. Until then, Jeanne, remember that if you ever need any help, call on me. I'll be very happy to do anything I can." It was silly of her to be so moved by his words. Jeanne told herself fiercely, handing away from him so that he would not see the hot tears that flooded her eyes. Without saying anything more Lance Larkin drove on and Jeanne was grateful to him for not talking.

"My house is the third from the corner," she said as they swung around the corner and down the quietest past the long row of shabby brownstone houses.

"Aren't you living with your friend Sandra any more?" he asked her as he stopped the car at the curb.

Jeanne shook her head. "No, the apartment was too expensive. I thought I'd live here for a few months until I was certain about a job. It's not a very attractive place but it will do for the present."

She glanced up at the bleak, illlighted house in time to see a man slide down the front steps—a man in brown weeds whose swinging walk was familiar. Jeanne bent forward, her eyes shining. It was Bryan! Impulsively she reached for the door handle and then she saw him looking first at her and then at the car. And without a word or even more than a casual glance he raised his hat to her and walked swiftly down the street. Jeanne stared after him blankly. Why hadn't he stopped and said at least a few words? With difficulty she restrained the impulse to jump out of the car and hurry after him. She turned back to Lance Larkin who was regarding her inquiringly.

"Was that a friend of yours?" he asked.

A friend! Bryan! Jeanne pressed her hands to her mouth to keep from crying out.

"Yes, a friend," she said after a moment and her voice sounded strange to her.

Lance Larkin was still watching her but he said no more about Bryan. Instead he leaned over and patted her hand gently.

"It hurts me to see you like this, Jeanne. You are the one person I was betting on. Have you too found that love isn't what you believed it to be?"

Jeanne nodded her head slowly. "Perhaps I expected too much," she said more to herself than to him.

"One always does," Lance said soberly. "Olly and I....." He broke off with a short laugh.

"She's very beautiful," Jeanne said.

"Yes," he agreed after a moment. "Beautiful and spoiled. She can have anything she wants with the result that nothing interests her any more."

"Except you," Jeanne interjected softly.

"No, she doesn't want me," he said harshly. "I'm just around. Good old Lance. But I can't seem to give her up. You see we played together when we were kids. Olly Bartlett has been part of my life ever since I can remember. She'd be all right except for that crowd she runs around with. I can't stand them but I go to her parties so I can see what they are up to."

"Why don't you marry her?"

He hesitated. "Sometimes I'd like to, but most of the time I just feel like paddling her. Olly is really a swell girl but Norma Carteret isn't doing her a kind of good."

"Norma Carteret?" Jeanne repeated the name thoughtfully.

"Yes, the actress. Or at least she was on the stage for a time. She had that manager, T-Cup Thorne, hang around Olly all last time just for what they can get out of her. There isn't an honest intention in either of them."

"She may grow tired of them after awhile," Jeanne said.

"I've been hoping so but it's been going on for a long time," Lance told her bitterly. "But I'm a fine one, pouring out all of my troubles for you to bear on your slim little shoulders."

Jeanne smiled wanly. "Don't apologize. I'm only sorry that you aren't happy. I always thought that a person like you with everything you wanted would never have anything but pleasure."

"Money doesn't mean very much," he said. "I think it's almost better to have just enough to keep you alive. After that it's just a burden."

"I'd like to think so." Jeanne said ruefully. "It has always seemed to me it would make things a lot easier. I'm beginning to agree with Sandra that it is money and not love that counts."

But Sandra hadn't taken money. She had taken love and Bryan.

Lance took her by the shoulders gently. "Don't say that, Jeanne. I don't want you to get like other girls. Money is all they care for. Her mother's the same. You must have had something all or the other girls lack."

"Until now," Jeanne interrupted him in a bitter voice.

And then she was ashamed for saying such a thing. After all one had to meet life without whining. She couldn't let Lance think that one bitter experience had undermined her courage and ambition.

"Forgive me," she said. "I'm just tired tonight. I don't mean what I've been saying."

"That's better," he said in a relieved voice. "It's not like you, Jeanne, to let things get you down."

"From now on I won't," she told him with forced gayety. "And now I must go. I've probably made you late already."

"I'd love to have you dine with me," he said unexpectedly.

"It's sweet of you, but I think we'd better not, Mr. Larkin."

He bent forward impulsively. "Don't call me Mr. Larkin, Jeanne. Please make it Lance."

"All right, Lance," she said shyly.

"I hope you like your work with Gordon Bartlett," he said a. he helped her out of the car. "You're a swell girl, Jeanne. Perhaps if I'd met you sooner life might have been different."

Jeanne shook her head with a smile. "I think you are tired tonight, too," she said. "Tomorrow you'll feel better."

He looked down at her, his keen eyes on hers. "Perhaps there is still a chance for me," he said in a quiet voice. "I've admired you for a long while."

INSTALMENT 5.

Without another word Lance Larkin turned and walked rapidly down the steps of the ugly brownstone rooming house to his invitations rooming house to his car, leaving Jeanne to stare after him, bewildered. What had he meant? It wasn't possible, she told herself, that a man like Lance Larkin would ever be really interested in a girl outside of his own world. He couldn't grow fond of a tired, discouraged Jeanne MacDonald when there was a beautiful and gay Olly Bartlett in his life. Things like that happened only in stories.

When the yellow car was out of sight Jeanne let herself into the house and walked slowly to her room. With a gesture of despair she dropped her hat and coat on the chair and threw herself on the hard narrow couch. She should have been happy about her new position; instead she was filled with doubts. That encounter with Olly Bartlett left her shaken and uncertain. There was the constant possibility of trouble with the girl because Lance probably called at the Bartlett's almost every day. Only Jeanne's desperate need for money made her feel that it was right to accept the position.

"I must work," she cried silently but now she wasn't thinking of the necessity of the weekly salary, of her mother's need of care, but of the crying need to keep busy so that she could forget Bryan. Even knowing what he had done to her life did not keep her from thinking of him constantly. Why had he come to the house? And why, when he did see her, did he turn away? For a moment she was tempted to call him but her pride held her back. If Bryan wanted to see her he knew now where she lived.

It was after Jeanne had eaten a cheerless supper of crackers and milk in her room that the tired, overworked landlady called to her from the lower hall.

"There's a young man down here to see you," she snapped as Jeanne came out into the hall.

Jeanne hurried down stairs wondering if Bryan had come back.

"So this is where you live!" Jeanne crossed the lower hall to find Mart standing in the doorway of the living room.

"Hello, Mart." Jeanne's voice was tired.

"At last I've found you." He was looking down at her angrily. "Where can we sit down in this place?"

"Here in the living room." Jeanne led the way to a hideous sofa.

"I don't know what your idea was, hiding away from me like this." Mart said disarmedly as he sat down beside her. "It gave me a hell of a lot of trouble. I finally had to write your mother to find out where you were living. It made me feel pretty cheap."

"I was going to call you as soon as I found work," Jeanne said in a low voice.

"Well, have you found it?" he demanded.

She nodded. "Today."

"And you rushed right to the telephone to let me know," he said sarcastically.

Jeanne bit her lip. "Please, Mart, don't talk like that. I didn't call you before because I was sure Fred You had no right to announce our engagement in Hilton?"

"Why not? I told you the night you lost your job I'd take care of you," he said stubbornly.

"I know, Mart, but you should have warned me. Every one in Hilton was congratulating me."

"And you didn't like it, did you?" he shouted. "You prefer to have people think you would be willing to marry Mart Dowler."

"It's not that at all, Mart, and you know it." Jeanne said hotly. "But if you pretended such a thing you should have told me."

"I now it, Jeanne." Mart said, his voice suddenly humble, and his dark eyes pleading. "But it was the only way I could get you. I thought if I asked you—well, you'd turn me down. It seemed to me that by putting it in the paper you might be willing to see it through."

Jeanne shook her head slowly. "Now I never will," she said.

He clutched both her hands in his. "Why not? I still mean to marry you. I want to take care of you. Why can't we make a go of it? You're the only girl I've ever mean anything to me. Marrying you would make up for the rotten deal I've gotten at the office."

"Even if I wanted to marry you, Mart, I wouldn't now," Jeanne said evenly.

He stared at her bewildered. "What do you mean?"

"You told your mother that I lost my job. I met her in the station just before I left and she accused me of wanting to marry you so that you would support both Mother and me."

"Oh, so that's it," Mart said dully, turning away from her.

"That's it." Jeanne echoed in a terse little voice.

He buried his face in his hands. "I might have known Mother would make trouble," he said after a moment.

"That's not fair, Mart." Jeanne's blue eyes were flashing. "You must have given her the impression that you were marrying me because I needed help."

He was silent.

"Did you, Mart?"

"Well," he said reluctantly, "I knew she would never like my marrying you and the only way I thought it would work was to have her think you needed me so much I couldn't let you down."

Jeanne jumped to her feet. "That was a terrible thing to do. I know your mother wants you to marry Marilyn Freeman but there was no reason for you to tell a lie to get her to consent to your marrying me."

W. H. MORTON, PUBLISHER

CALLS IT MOSTLY SELFISHNESS

"Just plain, everyday selfishness" on the part of motorists is responsible for 75 per cent of Ontario's huge annual cost of traffic accidents, in the opinion of Jos. H. King, superintendent of the automobile and casualty branch of the Canadian Underwriters' Association.

"When motorists can show a substantial and permanent decrease in the accident and death rate on our streets and highways, they will unquestionably reap the benefit of their careful efforts in lower insurance rates," according to a statement made yesterday by Mr. King.

Referring to the current "Try Courtesy" campaign of the Ontario highways department, he remarked that its objective could be the means of saving tens of thousands of dollars for motorists who carried insurance. Many drivers, he thought, are paying a heavy price for selfishness and lack of courtesy in their insurance premiums or forcing other motorists to carry the burden for them.

In his opinion, many accidents are caused by "cut-in" drivers who create the circumstances for a mishap but do not participate in it themselves, and usually insist belligerently "they had nothing whatever to do with it."

This type of road menace, says Mr. King, is usually in a great hurry to get somewhere "but if you asked him what he was going to do with the few minutes he saved at the risk of his own and several other lives, he would be hard put to give you a reasonable answer."

He painted a vivid word-picture of several hundred thousand motor vehicles swooping down simultaneously on the towns of Napanee, Newmarket and Tillsonburg and killing or maiming every single inhabitant—nearly 11,000 men, women and children.

"Fantastic you'd say," exclaimed Mr. King, "yet every year, largely through selfishness and lack of courtesy, we are allowing this very thing to happen in Ontario. How much longer are we going to let this annual massacre continue?"

Because of the many factors involving conditions of roads, drivers, weather, automobiles, and other circumstances which bear on traffic accidents, Mr. King thought it would be difficult to compile accurate statistics showing the actual cost of discourtesy to motorists, but stated there was no question in his mind or in the minds of other automobile insurance experts that motorists are paying a heavy toll for thoughtless and inconsiderate driving.

In his experience women are outstandingly more courteous behind the wheel than men, although they may not generally be as good drivers.

"But," he added, "courtesy will go a great deal further in preventing accidents than a good driver who seems to think he is on a race track."

More extensive efforts are necessary, he maintained, to eliminate the night-driving hazards of "one-eyed" cars and glaring headlights and to abolish the danger presented by "parade leaders" who hold up a line of 10 or 20 cars by driving at an unreasonably slow pace. Such cars, Mr. King believes, should be made to accelerate their speed to meet the demands of traffic, or made to travel on secondary roads where their ambling pace will not interfere with safe highway conditions.

WAR DEBTS

Finland stands out among all the nations as the best payer of war debts in the world. The other day this nation alone of all debtors of the United States followed its own custom of making a half yearly payment.

The debts from the war keep mounting year by year and the likelihood of payment is taken less and less for granted. If it were not for the semi-annual payments by Finland, many people would quite forget about them though losses at the helm of finance not only in the U.S. but also in debtor nations know only too well this situation of mounting war debts which seemingly cannot be paid as conditions are at present.

There was some talk recently that the question might be opened up almost immediately but then it was officially denied. That is sufficient proof that the settlement by payment is so far away or so unlikely under the immediate outlook that there is little advisability in the holding of a conference on this problem.

The likelihood is that Finland will go on as she is doing with her regular six-month payments of $163,143 and that others will continue defaulting.

Nations seem to have too much to think about for the time being, economic questions are pressing at the exchequers, and present payments seem more and more impossible.

Still time has a strange faculty of changing the whole complexion of affairs and who can tell what the final arrangement will be.

x x x

TWO THOUSAND PASSENGERS mostly young folks, have a swell time every evening on the Showboat, singing and dancing, with Kay Parsons as master of ceremonies and she sure does get the crowd going. Here's some of Kay Parson's patter as reported by "Candide", of the New York Mirror, who took a trip to get a story for her daily column:

"Now I want you young folks sitting on the floor there to just move back. After all, the old folks have a right to see my show and they've been in their seats for an hour. . . ."

The old folks cheer, the young folks boo, but move Capt. Kay still sticks:

"All right, before I start swing in over you fellers that are giving me the bird will be apologizing and saying you are sorry. All together now, let's have our theme song . . . Le-e-e-t me call you-u-u-u swe-e-etheart . . ."

And the battle is won, Capt. Kay Parsons the winner. It simply couldn't happen anywhere else. No mother ever handled a big and brawling family better. She talks to them:

"Now we've got a lot of parties with us tonight all arranged by our good friend Mamie Lemlein. I want a big hand for the Ladies of the Eastern Star . . . they're on board tonight . . ."

It's a camp meeting crowd, half young, half old—lots of them half girls. Next to the cool fresh air most fun they have is to sing old songs—Captain Kay at the wheel:

"Even the kids like the old songs. They don't know the words, but they hum the tunes. I guess "Frivolous Sal' is about the favorite. And they love the tear-jerkers like 'Only a bird In a gilded Cage.' The truth is, they just like to sing."

Up the Hudson for an hour or two from the Battery, under the pearl necklace of the George Washington Bridge lovers looking up saying nothing, but feeling much.

The captain of the "Bear Mountain" could marry a young couple if they had a license and the wish—none ever asked him. It's a mighty fine place to propose. . . up the Hudson then back to the Battery.

And the young lady columnist voices her reaction in these words:

Like a stranger in a new world, Candide stood up forward and watched the passengers streaming off, reluctant subdued. Only one man was a little drunk and wobbly. He apologized to Captain Kay, where she stood, saying "Good night, good night . . ." And the man who had kissed her loudest, h e apologized too. "Good night . . . good night."

Candide stood and watched, amazed—we had seen 2,000 New Yorkers relax.

When You Stop for Coffee you are Courteous—

Try Courtesy

When You Start Again On Your Way

AT THE refreshment counter we all stop at times, clerk, truck-driver, sportsman, president, farmer, schoolboy and merchant. Here we tarry for a moment with a pleasantry, a word about the weather, a query about direction—an interesting group of courteous people.

Then we climb in behind the steering wheels again but do we continue to think and act as courteously towards each other as we did at the refreshment counter? We should because we are all still the same normal, decent, human beings.

We should respect the rights of the other fellow—give him half the road—warn him with our horn when we are about to overtake him—dip or dim our lights when meeting him at night—drive fast enough to keep traffic moving but not so fast as to have to keep "cutting out" and "cutting in"—pass him with an ample margin as we move to crowd him—and in a dozen other ways think of him and treat him as courteously as we did at the refreshment counter.

The safety and pleasure of driving will be greatly increased when every driver resolves to Try Courtesy in all his thinking and driving. I, shoulder to shoulder, earnestly recommend that you do your part in bringing about safer driving and "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

Serious Consideration To Extension Voluntary Health Insurance Plans

Medicos of Western Ontario Explain System

TUBERCULOSIS TEST

Establish Resistance in Patient's System to The Disease

Ottawa, June 25 (CP)—Joint convention of the Canadian and Ontario Medical Associations closes today with the Ontario body electing a course in which it will give "serious consideration" to extension of voluntary health insurance plans.

Assurance that such consideration would be extended was given late last night by Dr. R. G. Paterson, newly-installed President, after Dr. W. K. Colbeck of Welland, retiring President, had outlined work done in Essex County in evolving a "punch card" system for recording health costs, that could be used as a statistical basis for voluntary health insurance efforts.

Dr. Colbeck said the "punch card" system had been evolved as a result of an "unprecedented situation" which faced the medical profession in the southwestern Ontario county of supplying services to those on relief. By applying methods of modern business to their own work, Dr. Colbeck declared, the profession in Essex had planted what might prove "the little acorn from which a great oak would grow."

So successful had the work proven, he said, that Rockefeller Foundation, for the first time in history, had granted funds for medical economics and told those in charge of the Essex county work they might have more if they needed it.

Used in Dakota

Already, he added, the system had been lifted complete and was being used by medical authorities in the Dakotas and the State of Washington after they had watched it work in Ontario.

The retirement announced also after the meeting that the association had given its endorsation to Incorporation of Associated Medical Services, a permanent voluntary health insurance organization growing out of experimental work conducted during the past year in three areas of the province. The services will give all-inclusive medical attention without extra charge to subscribing members who pay on a basis of $3 a month for married men and $1.50 for single. It will operate in Essex and Norfolk counties and in Toronto.

"Voluntary health insurance which is to be adopted in three Ontario areas is medical services on the pre-payment plan. I hope the people of Canada will awake to the value of subscribing for people hospital service as required" said Dr. Colbeck. Such a system gave local autonomy, direction and control.

Hope Industry Will Help

"We who have been interested in it and have watched the work of these men hope and pray that industry will see the light and will come forward and contribute a large part of the cost of these activities for the good of the workmen and artisans of this province," he said.

Within six months or a year, he declared, "we will not only have figures on relief costs but also have accurate figures on hospitalization needs of 275,000 persons."

The retiring president made a plea for establishment of a liaison organization to work with the profession, the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, industry and labor. Such an organization would contain representatives of all four bodies, he hoped, and would provide the greatest possible measure of co-operation in improving the workings of the Board.

Discussing the relationship of the medical men of the province to the Workmen's Compensation Board, he said: "Some fair employers' angle it is a very serious question, because industry and the employers of this province have turned into the Workmen's Compensation Board, since 1917, some $130,000,000—a direct tax on them and on us who constitute the population of this province. So financially it is a big problem.

Flax Important Part

"Our investigations quickly showed to us that we who are on the executive—and we know it from doctors on all over the province—did not realise the important part that the doctor plays in the administration of the Workmen's Commensation Act."

Many doctors, he said, had not realised in filling out the Workmen's Compensation forms that they were certifying not only for cash benefits but for a cash pension that might go to the injured man or to his widow and children. It was borne upon them what a "terrible and fearsome responsibility they carried" and they quickly came to the conclusion that from their viewpoint organized medicine in Ontario required more cooperation between medical men and the Workmen's Compensation Board, he said. They had been going along with "laisses faire" methods since 1917, the year it was constituted.

Checking Tuberculosis

Dr. W. E. Ogden of Toronto Western Hospital, Toronto clinic described work he and nine colleague, two of them women, had done during the last fifteen years in developing and checking a serological test which reacts to a tendency a patient may have to tuberculosis years before it develops in an otherwise recognizable form and long before it reaches the disease stage.

He said the test, something like the Wassermann syphilis test but more complicated to administer, gave the physician up to five years in the incubation period in which to establish resistance in the patient's system which may overcome the onset of the disease and leave him immune.

The Toronto physicians made the test part of a tuberculin test and questionnaire scheme they had worked out which "precludes tuberculosis as a disease, or, failing this, practically guarantees against advance disease."

POLICE COURT

"How long will it take you to get out of the city?" asked Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. of Frank Demisky, transient who appeared in local police court today charged with vagrancy.

"Just about 20 minutes," replied Demisky as he was on the move and out of the prisoners' dock before His Worship added—"all right get going."

Demisky was apprehended following complaints of a transient panhandling on Church St. last night. "He was under the influence of drink and panhandling," reveal ed Chief Kidd as Demisky appeared today. "I've a job to go to in Port Colborne, I'm a sailor, you see," pleaded Demisky. It was following this statement, that His Worship gave the accused as little time as possible to evacuate the city.

Earl Mowers, Dalhart; Ralph Gilmour, Point Anne and George Dalnard, Prince Edward County, all appeared for sentence today, after pleading guilty to the theft of 2,300 pounds of scrap from the premises of the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne recently. "This is the first offence for these lads and restitution has been made," pleaded Crown Attorney Donnelly. A suitable sentence leniency would meet the ends of justice.

"Well you young men have been in jail for ten days now. I hope you have learned your lesson and will be of good behaviour in the future. The sentence of the court will be ten days dating from the day of your arrest, so you are now at liberty to go, but let this be a lesson to the three of you," commented His Worship. The trio promised never to return.

Two L.C.A. cases saw the accused youths accept a jail term in default of the minimum conventional fine.

CALLIOPE WHEEL SNAPS ON PARADE

Trouble Department of Circus Replaces Wheel—Traffic Untangled

When the right front wheel of the steam calliope of Cole Bros. Circus buckled beneath the wagon at the intersection of Pinnacle and Bridge Sts. during the circus parade today the largest traffic congestion in the history of this city resulted. It took the united efforts of three uniformed police and plainclothes constables to straighten out the traffic difficulties, many scores of automobiles and hundreds of pedestrians being affected.

At the vanguard of the parade the mammoth steam calliope of Cole Bros. circus parade approached the intersection, proceeding north on Pinnacle St., where the spic appearing brown four horsed team negotiated the righthand turn onto Bridge St., when in some manner the right front wheel of the steam calliope wagon became it is thought, lodged in the east track of the Canadian National Railway tracks. The horses strained and with an united effort pulled the vehicle around and the wheel snapped off at the hub. The horses were immediately hailed and the remainder of the parade continued leaving the calliope wagon in the rear.

The trouble department of the Cole Bros. circus was immediately notified, after the horses had been unhitched and driven light back to the circus grounds. It was while awaiting the arrival of the motorized trouble wagon, that the congestion of traffic became acute. Upon the arrival of the 'trouble' department, the large steam calliope was raised by means of a jack and a new wheel placed in the position of the broken one. The steam calliope was then transported to the grounds by means of the motorized tow truck with no serious damage being reported. It took fully 30 minutes before traffic was restored to normalcy, however.

HEAD KIWANIANS

LEAVES PEACE PARLEY

Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, is pictured as he left the peace conference with the steel mediation board at Cleveland, Ohio, for his home Executives of three other steel corporations who were at the conference, also left for their homes, featuring Clyde Beatty and Ken Maynard, moved into the city.

Being one of the first citizens to appear on the circus lot to watch the wonders of the erection of 'canvas city,' Mr. C. J. Longwell, 242 Front Street, chose himself an ideal parking position for his automobile on Bleecker Ave. right on the direct route the circus wagons had to pass enroute from the railway to the circus lot.

Large motor tractors' swung into action, hauling behind them miniature trains of circus wagons up Bleecker hill and into the circus lot. While negotiating one of the street intersections, however, the driver of one of the circus tractors failed to allow sufficient clearance, with the result that the rear wagon being hauled by the tractor, struck the left side of Mr. Longwell's car causings considerable damage to the fenders and body.

Constable Peter Thompson and a circus traffic officer were immediately on the scene of the trouble and before Mr. Longwell was even so much as notified of the accident, arrangements for the settlement of damages had been entered into. Mr. Longwell seemed satisfied with the negotiations, that proved amicable to all parties concerned.

Although the general populace forgot momentarily the unloading of the circus wagons and the erection of canvas city during the excitement of the moment, the process of circus work and daily endeavours was carried on quietly and in unison. "The show must go on."

DAMAGE TO AUTO QUICKLY SETTLED

It wasn't exactly a case of the circus coming to Belleville, but it appeared more as if Belleville was going to the circus early this morning when the Cole Bros. Circus, featuring Clyde Beatty and Ken Maynard, moved into the city.

Toronto Baseball Club to Conduct a Training School

Open to Boys of The Province Between 18 And 21 Years

PAY EXPENSES

Filling a long-wanted need in the Province of Ontario a baseball training school is to be conducted at the Maple Leaf Stadium in July, with free coaching and tuition by specialized major league players, being afforded by the Toronto Baseball Club of the International League.

The school is open to Ontario boys aged 18 to 21 years with information being available from Bert Perry, Director of Publicity for the Toronto baseball Club. Application forms for interested youthful baseball players throughout this district may be procured at the sports department of the Ontario Intelligencer, however. These application forms must be filled out and returned to the Toronto Baseball Club prior to the opening of the school. The school will be conducted from July 19th to 26th, inclusive.

The work will be in charge of competent coaches, including Manager Dan Howley of the Maple Leafs, Assistant Frank Shaughnessy of the International League and former baseball manager, Clyde Engle, former Boston Red Sox infielder and now baseball coach at Yale University, along with other members of the Toronto Leafs and other former baseball league stars, whose services are being sought.

Reasons For School

The reasons given for holding this baseball school are listed as follows:

1. To improve amateur baseball in Ontario.

2. To give players the benefit of expert coaching.

3. To instill in them a desire to improve and encourage them to consider a career in professional baseball.

4. To pick out the best and offer them an opportunity to go south with the Leafs next spring, not necessarily to sign a professional contract, but in line with the O. B. A. rules permission to take players south as has been done in the past.

5. To determine, if possible, how many amateur baseball players there are in Ontario who have a good chance to make good in professional company.

Players taking advantage of the Maple Leaf baseball training school must provide their own transportation to and from Toronto and must meet living expenses during their sojourn in Toronto and their playing equipment, such as gloves, shoes and uniforms. The Toronto Club will supply gratis bats, baseballs, the use of the Stadium and the competent coaches that will be provided.

Stay Any Length of Time

It is not necessary to attend the entire baseball school if it is not within the means of the individual players. A local baseball enthusiast, the youngster desirous of increasing his baseball knowledge may procure an entry blank and attend the school for two days or more, all in accordance to the financial standing of the individual. As stated above application forms are now procurable through the sports department of the Ontario-Intelligencer and will be supplied players aged 18 to 21 years upon personal request. There are no strings attached, except the applying player must meet his individual transportation and living expenses only.

For players showing promise it is not essential they sign contracts with the Toronto Club or any other such organization unless willingness is shown on the part of the applicant.

BUFFALO BISONS IN SECOND PLACE

Leafs Win From Rochester With Davis Hurling One Hit Game

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bisons are back in second place in the International League and agree they have the ably right arm of veteran Bill Harris to thank for the step upward.

The 36-year-old veteran chalked up his fourth win in his last five starts as he twirled a five-hit 2-1 win over the Montreal Royals. Bill was good and had to be for he was faced by some nifty hurling from Orip Polli. Polli, who pitched a no-hit, no-run game his last time out the last time the Royals have been able to win in their last six starts, limited the Bisons to seven hits.

Fine twirling, prevailed through out the league with young Woody Davis of Toronto's Leafs heading the parade. Davis narrowly missed base ball's hall of fame as he let the Rochester Red Wings down with one hit as the Leafs eked out a 1-0 triumph.

Newark's Vito Tamulis and Syracuse's Jake Mooty allowed only eight hits each but the Yankee farmhand got the benefit of four Chief errors to earn a 6-3 win.

Baltimore's rejuvenated Orioles sent the Jersey City Giants down into the cellar as Pete Sivara hurled six-hit ball to score a 4-1 decision.

CREDIT CATCHERS FOR PROGRESS OF BOSTON RED SOX

Cronin Says Team Has Better Balance Than Last Year

CUBS LEADING

Maintain One Game Lead in National by Defeating Giants

By SID FEDER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rick Ferrell will just love this, but he'll have to blame it on Joe Cronin.

It seems (to Cronin) that the sudden surge of his Red Sox—eight wins in nine starts—dates from the trade that sent Ferrell to Washington, and that a large part of the recent success is due to the fact that Ferrell's successors at backstop are getting more stuff from the Boston pitchers.

How Joe has figured it out is a mystery. In eight years up there, Rick has repeatedly been regarded as somewhat better than a green head among the big-time shinkers and-pads men, yet Joe claims that the erudite Moe Berg, who was never good enough to take Ferrell's job, or Gene Desautels, fresh up from the minors, are bringing the business out of the throwers in better style.

It's that and balance, Joe said today, that has shot the Sox into the first division. The way Cronin tells it, those gold "flops" of 1936 have as much balance now as a set of chorus girls.

Yanks Rally

After topping the White Sox in four straight and the Indians in two out of three, Cronin's last wound up taking two in a row from the Tigers, while losing the Detroits 9-2 yesterday behind the rejuvenated elbowing of Lefty Grove.

Since the Yankees after spotting St. Louis Browns eight runs in three innings, came from behind to club out a 9-8 win, this defeat for the Tigers leaves the "other two pennions" league lead to three full games. The White Sox like every other club in the loop, had a lot of fun with the weak and woeful Athletics and bested them 7-2 triumph.

Chicago's Cubs retained their one-game National League lead by banging out four hits in each inning in the eighth-inning splurge, to whip the Giants 10-3 in the windup game of the series. Pat Cardinals bunched all their runs making three in the fourth and trampled Brooklyn Dodgers 11-3, thereby boosting their second-place margin over the Giants to a full game.

Lou Fette, the new "old dependable" of the Bees, stopped the Pirates 3-0, and Cincinnati's idle the Phillies' sixth-place standing by whipping the Quakers City Cloniers 6-4.

The Canadian Club in the South Hastings Baseball League is filing an application with the Ontario Baseball Association for affiliation with the provincial baseball moguls in the "C" series. We also hear the Pinkoro team, of the same league, may disband any old day now. They should well consider such a move if for no other reason than they are league champions of 1936.

Plenty of lusty hitting was seen when Alex Percival's beat the Belleville Sargents on the new Coleman Flats diamond 12 to 7 last night, a total of 22 hits being made, 14 each. A Bills more work around the shallow outfield positions where some Bills fill is needed, and the new Coleman Flats diamond will be an asset to the game in Belleville. At least the patrons of the game can enjoy a softball game in peace and comfort, sitting in newly erected bleachers. The Percivals gained a peg in the league race last night.

Says the Oshawa writer: "It isn't definite yet by any means but put the Oshawa Legion baseball executive down as one of the Toronto to Lake Ontario Baseball Association for the coming season. Oshawa is getting away from those long jumps to Toronto to keep in Central Ontario company. (Peterboro Examiner).

The heavyweight boxing situation today has all of the earmarkings of a Major Bowes programme around and around she goes and where she'll stop, nobody knows." Louis and Braddock have departed for Chicago having Promoter Mike Jacobs with a lot of contracts, but little opposition, Now Louis wants Schmeling for Louis, but the black Hhulan is tied up with a contract to fight Tommy Farr in England, Jacobs has threatened to take Louis and his crown across the pond and chisel in on the proposed Schmeling-Farr date by locating Louis in against Len Harvey or Jack Doyle. What's the matter with Mack Barr, and his clown antics? There is no use denying that Louis and Schmeling are the top fighters of the day, although Braddock is much more popular, now that he is the ex-champ, than he ever was before. His courage on Tuesday night won him many friends.

SCHMELING MAY MEET BRADDOCK

Mike Jacobs Outlines The Situation to the Newspapermen

By EARL HILLIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, June 25—(AP)—Producer Mike Jacobs pulled the curtain on another act of his heavyweight show today and cued on the stage—bedge, nightstick and all—walked officer James J. Braddock, the heavyweight champion of the world.

Likewise, impresario Jacobs may reverse the skit on short notice, equally brief call-down in a long-distance telephone call. But he insisted that if Max Schmeling hopes to get a crack at the new titleholder, Joe Louis, the German first will have to meet Braddock, which appears to make Jersey Jim "Policeman" to the title he lost this week to the Brown Bomber.

This was the latest of a series of developments which broke out like a rash from the moment that Louis' right hand tipped Braddock over at the Comiskey Park Tuesday night. Others were (1) That Louis has an offer of 42 1-2 per cent of the ring receipts, with a $75,000 guarantee, to meet Jack (Camay) Doyle or Len Harvey in Wembley Stadium, London, next August, and (2) Braddock and Max Barr, the clownish ex-heavyweight champion, will fight in August, either here or in Los Angeles.

To Chill Match

Back of the sudden renewed burst of promotional activity on the part of Jacobs—who seems to have the heavy situation well under control—apparently was a desire to do something about the "Synthetic Championship battle between Schmeling and Tommy Farr, British titleholder tentatively set for August 9 at London's White City Arena.

Jacobs had planned a joint promotion with the Calgary Maestro, General A. Critchley of White City to match Farr with the winner of the Louis-Braddock engagement, but the White City group lined up Farr to meet Schmeling for the "title," inferring, of course, that Schmeling was champion by virtue of once knocking out Louis and then being walked out on by Braddock last June 3.

With the idea being that any match involving Louis might "chill" the Farr-Schmeling event, Jacobs said he was seriously considering the Louis-Harvey-Doyle offer.

PERCIVAL STORES DROP LOCKMEN

Belle-Sargents Could Not Make Their Hits Count

Making their hits count into runs the Percival Store softballers stopped the onrush of the Belleville Sargents with a 12 to 7 victory over the "lockmakers" at the new Coleman Flats softball diamond last evening. Although both teams were hitting the ball hard and well, the Percivals made their hits count into runs. Wildness on the part of the Bell-Sergent hurlers paved the way for their own downfall, however.

Dan Ridley starting on the hilltop for the "lockmakers", but was replaced by Eddie Schrieder in the sixth, when the Percivals batted around their batting order to score seven runs. Earl Clarke hurled for the winning Percivals, Each team found the opposition pitching for a total of 14 hits each, however.

Clarke helped his own cause with a double and two singles, Pointer had a brace of two base blows, while Thrasher and Philp hit in the clutches. Lupenette led the Sargents batters with three. McMartin, Hughes and Ridley adding lusty hits to their average. The Percivals, trailing by two, scored four runs in the second and were never headed from that point. Some exceptionally fine fielding was afforded the patrons of the game.

The lineups:

Belleville Sargent: Lupenette 3b, Mcdartin cf, Kiser lf, Hughes rf, Ridley p, McClure ss, Sharpe 1b, Robinson c, J. McGuire and Pointer 2b, Ridley and Schrieder p.

Percivals: Wilkins rf, Bairrage lb, Sinfield lf, Clarke p, Smith and Thompson cf, Thrasher 3b, Pointer c, Riggs 3b, Philp ss.

Youth Celebrates Circus Day From First Break of Dawn

Cole Bros. And Clyde Beatty Combined Circus Arrives on Schedule and White City Speedily Covers Show Grounds—Many Interesting Sights and Sounds Including Unloading—Tent Erection—Street Parade —Steam Calliope—Elephants and Clowns

Today is circus day!

Kiddies of Belleville went to bed last night dreaming clowns with funny painted faces, giraffes with necks that reach up into the clouds, elephants with flopping heads and wiggling trunks, pretty girls in pink tights and fluffy skirts blowing kisses while cavorting upon the backs of broad-beamed horses, fat as butter, and goodness knows what else.

And today the dreams come true for the circus—not one of your ordinary circuses—but the gigantic affair featuring the magic partnership of Cole Bros.—with Clyde Beatty and Ken Maynard, known to all youthdom and oldsters as the "Big show" is in Belleville and in addition to the performance this afternoon will serve up another exhibition tonight, on the show grounds, Pine Street and Dufferin Avenue. All for the delectation of popeyed youngsters and their elders who are secretly rejoicing that the circus has come to town that they may attend "just to take the children."

Excellent Street Parade

Thousands thronged the downtown streets and office windows shortly before noon when the gorgeous and picturesque street parade passed in review. There were scores of elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats and tableau wagons and hundreds of horses from the heavy Clydesdales and Percherons to the tiny Shetland ponies. Trumpeting bands tooting calliopes, lumbering elephants and humping camels were all to be seen. It was by far the longest and most elaborate seen here in a decade.

The circus came from Kingston—where it exhibited yesterday, the first of the three long trains chugging into town early today. Other trains arrived at midnight and this morning the railroad yards were filled with long trains of yellow cars loaded to the last inch of space with all the strange, weird polyglot collection of the "big tops".

Crowd at Unloading

Shortly after the arrival of the first train began the work of unloading and the transfer of the red wagons, tableaux allegorical floats and dens to the show grounds. Urchins that ordinarily loaf upon getting up at a reasonable hour to do their family chores slept last night with one eye open and cord attached to their big toe to be pulled through the window by a neighborhood chum so as to be on hand with the arrival of the circus. And they were on hand, hundreds of kids—to welcome the red wagons, to lead the Shetland ponies and in general acting as a sort of reception committee.

With the circus in town, belle-ville Kidland is agog and grandmothers of ruthless office boys are about due for such a devastation as comes only with the circus or the opening of the baseball season. Also there is considerable anticipation in the ranks of the grown-ups with many a dad getting ready to brush up the bromide of going to the circus because "the kiddies want to go."

"Some Circus," He Says

And if one may believe half of what the circus man says, it is "some circus," answering even the dreams of a Nero and better than the most gorgeous dream a kid ever had. No need fussin' through the dictionary, says the circus man, to give vent to bent up enthusiasm, for Webster never made provision for such a bunch of the thrills as the circus promises to uncork here today in the five rings, the steel arena and upon two stages, upon the hippodrome oval and plain aerial centre. In addition to the time honored acts and features, without which no circus would be complete, there will be a whole flock of new acts.

Clyde Beatty, famous wild animal trainer, is this season battling two more lions and tigers, newly recruited from forest and jungle. Ken Maynard, famous Western screen star, will appear with a great congress of cowboys, cowgirls, broncho and a troupe of 24 Sioux Indians. Harriet Beatty, wife of the famous Clyde, not to be outdone, is presenting for the first time in an arena together a Nubian lion and royal Bengal tiger that simultaneously ride an elephant.

From Europe come the Aurelia troupe of nine bareback equestrians; the Zoeppe Family, equilibrists, newly imported from Spain, are seen in an amazing act; in the dome of the big top, the Grevinas add thrill upon thrill in a lofty wire act; Harold Barnes, the juvenile dancer on the tight wire, and the Aerial Illingtons together with the Flying Harolds, are other stars. Sixty clowns furnish fun for the little folks. There are 1,000 people with the show. The menagerie contains upwards of 50 cages and dens comprising the finest animal collection, together with 30 elephants and the largest blood sweating hippopotamus in captivity.

"Serenade of Spain"

A monster pageant with scores of fancy book characters beloved by the children starts the circus performance proper. It is called the "Serenade of Spain" a gorgeous processional fiesta participated in by upwards of 1,000 men, women, horses, elephants, camels, yaks and other strange beasts, in the forest and jungle. There are 100 dancing girls; great choruses of trained pigeons, rare orchestras and golden toned organs. The wardrobe used in the vast spectacle represents an expenditure of $70,000. An entire train is used to carry the equipment used in the monster prelude to the main performance.

Reserved and admission tickets are on sale at Doyle's Drug Store, 194 Front Street. On the show grounds the white ticket wagon is continuously accessible for the purchase of reserved seats. General admission tickets will go on sale at the red ticket wagon simultaneously with the opening of the doors.

At midnight the last of the circus trains will be pounding over the Canadian National railroads Hamilton for exhibitionr Saturday. And circus day will be a memory.

This way for the big show!

Ma took me downtown shopping and it was such a wind day men's hats was blowing off and pieces of paper was flying around like kites making me feel grate and making ma tawk to herself mad, saying, the idea of my coming out on a day like this, I should of had more sense and know better.

Why, ma, O, what's a matter with it? I said, and ma said, What's a matter with it? Haven't you any sensations? she said.

Sure, ma, O, my sensations feel wonderful, I said. Holey smokes, ma, if I didn't have my pa's jacket way down over my ears I wouldn't be able to keep it on without holding it on, I said, and ma said, Well goodness knows I'm holding my hat on, but the fact doesn't fill me with any such glee and satisfaction, quite the contrary This is yaaly, and such dust, we mite as well be in the mist of a desert, she said.

O boy I can feel it blowing rite through my clothes, aint this grate, ma? I said, and she said, You heard my sentiments unless you're deff as well as impervious. Goodness my hair, she said, and I said, O boy look at that newspaper, it looks like Linberg. Jimminy ma, do you think it could ever blow strong enough to scalp a baby? I said, and ma said, If anybody ever gets me out in weather like this again it will serve me rite for not learning from experience.

Well good nite, ma, what's better than fresh air, and the harder it comes the more of it you get, I said, and ma said, I cant stand this another second, I'm not going to wait for a trolley, I'm going to call a taxy regardless of the expense.

O, why dont you, ma? I said.

A taxy sounding like even more fun than the wind, and ma called one and we rode home in it.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 25.—(CP)—More cheerful loan pervaded the Toronto share market today on news of improved sentiment toward gold in London. Base metals failed to hold all the day's gains but golds were strong throughout. Action, however, was much slower in the last hour, all groups were up for the day.

Net gains of about 50 cents were showing at the close for O'Brien and Macassa and 20 to 25 for Buffalo-Ankerite, Sisco, Pickle Crow, Central Patricia, Premier, Read-Authier, Slave Lake and Sylvanite. Smaller gains were boasted for Pamour, Little Long Lack, Teck Hughes, Argosy, Rusk Malartic, Bankfield Consiaurum, Gunnar, Kirkland Lake, Mackenzie, Paymaster, Moneta, Chibougamau Perron, Toburn and Towagmac.

United Steel, Loblaw B, Canada Cement and Gypsum. Canadian Dredge closed 2 1-2 up at 40.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The stock market took the downhill path today after making early gestures towards extending a previous climb.

Losses ranged up to about 3 points for the most active shares in the fourth hour, with Steel and Copper shares in the forefront of a slow retreat as traders accepted profits at the week-end.

The decline seemed to have originated more in the lack of buying interest than in any extensive shift to the selling side.

Trading continued at a small pace with transfers at the rate of about 350,000 shares for the day.

Market Comment

The break in the mining market in the last month or so is being compared to the industrial smash of 1929; some of the declines in the mines amount to as high as 60 per cent. from their high which gives one an idea of the losses suffered by the public.

The peculiar thing about the break of the last few days, when the majority of mining issues were under severe pressure and suffered their sharpest setback, was the fact that the question of the price of gold was not heard. This would appear to conclusively indicate that an over-extended position is being adjusted. Practically all traders specializing in mining stocks on small margins have been wiped out.

As always happens in a wide reaction, stocks declines to levels not at all warranted by conditions. In the case of the mines this is particularly true in a large number of cases. Yields on the majority of producers have mounted to ridiculous heights and a few months hence, traders and investors will be pointing to the bargains now available and wondering why they couldn't muster the confidence to acquire equities that looking exceedingly attractive.

It should be borne in mind that the break in the mining market will not affect the workings of producing mines. In other words, whether Lake Shore is selling at 50 or at 40, work at the property will continue uninterrupted. This applies to the entire group of producers. The only unfortunate factor in the entire situation is that the public has again taken a bad trimming, but those holding the better class mining issues would be well advised not to sacrifice their securities at current depressed levels.

In the past six months a great change has taken place in the southwest part of Turner Valley, present activity being at greater volume than at any time since the hectic days just preceding the big smash in the fall of 1929. Private advices from Calgary say that no time in the past has optimism been as high as now and that in the plains has done much to make the public forget social credit and the problems of the Aberhart Administration.

British American Oil

A dividend of 25 cents a share quarterly is being paid on the common stock of British American Oil. This augurs well for the future, because, current business is showing an improvement over a year ago besides the results obtained from their subsidiary in the United States are very gratifying. Under such circumstances, it is natural to surmise that the $1. a share regular dividend will be reinforced by a bonus payment once the final figures for 1937 are available.

Bulwarks of Prosperity

Scarcely less important than the dependable news service they provide every day is the contribution the Canadian daily newspapers make, as an industry, to the economic welfare and prosperity of the nation.

Apart from the work of collecting, transmitting and editing news from every corner of the world, many subsidiary trades and enterprises have been established and prospered that the personal service your daily newspaper provides could be extended and maintained.

Directly and indirectly the daily newspapers of Canada provide employment to tens of thousands of Canadian citizens in all parts of the Dominion, from logging camps and paper mills to the printing presses of your local daily newspaper.

Today, it is estimated that more than a half million Canadians are dependent for their livelihood upon the newspaper industry.

Consequently, in addition to providing an essential service to more than two million families every day, the Canadian daily newspapers make an important contribution to the economic and industrial welfare of the nation.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Tom and Daphne's Difficulty

By Jane Osborn

At Daphne's suggestion Tom Yates had come for a visit and that bleak mid-winter afternoon, and there sat Daphne looking very small and a trifle bewildered on the divan of the formally furnished drawing room where Tom met her at last twelve feet away looking to Daphne much more self possessed than she had ever thought of him.

Daphne walked across the room to Tom and laid the little box containing her engagement ring over pig-crust table beside his chair.

Tom rose as she came and sat down sedately when she had gone back to her place on the divan.

"Of course it will be embarrassing for me—breaking the engagement after every one has been told." Daphn bit her lips and looked at the floor that seemed so bare and forlorn now that Tom's diamond no longer sparkled there.

"I suppose it is better to feel embarrassed than a life-long regret," said Tom not daring to look at Daphne.

"Please, Tom, don't make me feel any worse than I do. It really was my poor fault that the whole affair came to such a sad end. The only reason why Aunt Marion objected to you was because she wanted to make a match for me with some young friend of her own, and father didn't really object—only he said that if you did marry me you would have to give up your own ideas of a profession—and work in with him. It has always been that way in the family and so you would some day share the fortune made from the factories he thought it was only fair for you to also shoulder the responsibilities."

Naturally I refused to accept that proposition" said Tom grimly. "It is just as much a tradition in my family for the sons to study law."

"And mother's objections are not real objections. It's just general principles with her—selfish. Is it with your mother. You know your mother—that she wouldn't come to the wedding."

"Naturally I am as fond of my mother as you are of yours—and Daphne—" Tom shifted his gaze from the portrait to Daphne's face. Their eyes met and two tears welled, trickling down Daphne's cheeks.

"If there was only some one whose advice we could ask" said Daphne, "some older person who had had experience. We may be doing the best thing Tom, and we may be wrecking our chances for happiness. Tom, isn't there some one in your family who can be consulted—and who could help us decide?"

Tom thought for a moment. This idea of Daphne's struck him as admirable.

"I know, Daphne," he said at last. "There's your grandmother. Perhaps she could help us."

Daphne protested for a moment or two, for Daphne had always been a little afraid of the majestic old lady. But together they went to the grandmother's rooms and after having persuaded the middle-aged companion that they would not do anything to gift her charge in a bad temper they sat down beside the old lady and explained rather falteringly the entire situation.

The old eyes followed the expression on Tom's and Daphne face with the keenest scrutiny. She listened silently and then leaning toward them, broke forth loudly.

"What right have either of you to think of your own wishes" she cried. "Don't you know that your life, all you have, you owe to your family? Can you expect ever to be happy if you fail to consider their wishes? Even if the young man did go into the factories—I'd object, Marian is going to cut you off in her will as it is, Daphne. And I intend to do the same, and don't forget, young woman, that I am still owner of the factories." On she stormed, her old eyes growing brighter and brighter as she did so, still eagerly watching the change of expression on the young people's faces. Finally they rose and Tom gently laid his hand on Daphne's arm and with a ceremonious bow to the old woman led Daphne from the room.

In a corner of the mail downstairs they stood very close together.

"It was my fault, Daphne," said Tom. "I should never have made the suggestion." Daphne's hands were clutching Tom's arm for protection. "She had no right to speak to you as she did," she said. "Even if she is a million years old, I shall never speak to her again unless she apologize—and as for her money I don't care a snap."

"And you know I don't care, either," said Tom. "You know that—Daphne? You know I'd marry you if you didn't have a cent."

"You would marry me still?" begged Daphne.

"I'd marry you this afternoon if we had the license. Let's go get it now so we can be married tomorrow."

And while Tom and Daphne made their plans below, Daphne's grandmother laughed aloud to herself above. She had decided that if Daphne had spunk enough to marry Tom anyway she would change her will making this grandchild the sole beneficiary. "And if she doesn't marry him," said grandma aloud, "I'll cut her off without a farthing."

TARZAN'S QUEST

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Soon Tarzan and his captive came to the edge of the forest, and across the plain the ape-man beheld the formidable ramparts of the Kavuru village. He saw, too, the strange airplane, and beside it the bodies of the pilots who had been slain by the Kavuru.

While he paused, considering some means of entering the village, his partly caught up to him. "This man has told me that Ann and Annette are alive," he explained to Brown; "but they are in great danger. They are in the temple, in the canyon beyond the village."

"I don't see what good it does us to know just where they are," Brown sighed; "we can never get into that place." For several minutes Tarzan was deep in thought; then he spoke, proposing a mad and dangerous scheme as the only solution to their problem.

Brown shook his head. "We might be able to get in that way, but how in blazes would we ever get out?" "Our problem is to get in," the Jungle Lord answered calmly; "we shall not have the problem of getting out until later. Perhaps we shall not come out."

Home Improvement Loans Boon To Many in Belleville

One Man Converted Home Into Duplex And Enjoys Revenue Provided—Home Improvement Becomes Epidemic, Bringing Out Private Funds—Bachelor Apartments—How it Works in the Country.

Not only is the Home Improvement Plan providing employment for many classes of trades and people beautifying homes and adding much needed improvements to city and rural residences in Belleville and district, but it is also opening up hitherto unexploited channels and sources of revenue.

For instance there is the case of an elderly citizen of Belleville at present employed but who faces retirement on pension in the near future. Under the system of the Home Improvement Plan, he borrowed sufficient money to convert his home into a duplex dwelling, and is now renting the newly acquired addition to his home at a good rental. He now has no need to worry for the future, for not only will the revenue derived from the new source pay for his loan but will add substantiality to his income when the loan is paid up. Thanks to the Home Improvement Plan, his home is beautified, has been added to substantially, and is paying a dividend which in all probability would not have been made possible had the new plan not come into being.

Bringing Out Private Funds

Another important phase which is directly responsible to the Plan is the fact that a large amount of private funds which in all probability would have lain dormant are now being utilized in the remodelling and beautifying of many homes throughout the province. This was typified here in Belleville recently when a lady called upon her banker with regard to borrowing a sum of money under the new system with which to remodel her home. Upon being given the information and told the benefits to be derived, the lady in question decided to utilize private funds of her own. Consequently more money is being placed in circulation, more people are being employed, and building and business in general is undergoing a stimulation which it otherwise would not have experienced to such an extent.

Bachelor Apartments Produce Revenue

Another instance of the tremendous possibilities and practicalities of the Home Improvement Plan is seen in the case of a city resident who through the medium of loans secured under this system converted a practical "wilderness" into a land of plenty. This particular case is the story of a man who realized the possibility of not only supplying business and labor with an added stimulant, but utilised the money secured by loan in providing a source of income.

14 hundred square feet of waste land underwent practically overnight a magical transformation. Now instead of the drab colors of unused property, there stands a trim, modern building containing three three-roomed bachelor apartments, which will provide sufficient income within the next year to more than liquidate the amount of the loan. In a short time this fine property will bring in a revenue to its owner which will not only pay for taxes, etc., but also supply a handsome income.

Machine Shed and Electricity

Not only have residents of the city taken advantage of this fine opportunity to improve and add to their dwellings, but many rural dwellers have realized their ambition to beautify their homes and erect much-needed additions and improvements to their buildings. One farmer today boasts a modern machine-shed, one which will house practically all of his heavy farm equipment. Others have, in conjunction with the Hydro Commission, installed electricity in homes and farms. New additions have been added to farm homes in many instances, and in some cases the installation of a modern bathroom has been the result of the advantages offered under the Home Improvement Plan.

Further instances of how the Home Improvement Plan is working in Belleville and district will be given in Saturday's issue.

VOTERS BROUGHT ABOUT HIS RESIGNATION

Inspecting one of the items in the collection of warrior swords, Premier Minister General Senjuro Hayashi, of Japan, is pictured in his home at Tokio, Japan on the day that his government suffered the greatest defeat ever administered to a major party in Japan. Millions of voters through the medium of the ballot box expressed their desire to support a constitutional government. Shortly after this picture was made, General Hayashi donned frock coat and silk hat, bied himself to the Imperia palace and tendered his resignation to Emperor Hirohito.

A very interesting Newsreel introducing varied up-to-the minute World News events, a funny Walt Disney Silly Symphony Cartoon in Color "Mother Pluto," and "Big League," a very interesting Bill Corum sports reel introducing Big League baseball stars in action.

Ken Maynard, Tonight Daredevil - riding, two - fisted, gentlemanly Ken Maynard galloped into action and the hearts of an appreciative audience at the Belle theatre last night where his new picture "Western Courage" is showing, and which will be presented for the last times tonight.

In a cyclorama of thudding hoof beats, gruelling bare-knuckle fights and rattling gun-fire, Ken Maynard aided by his wonder horse "Tarzan" again proved he is tops in the sphere of outdoor pictures.

"The Hit Parade," Funny "The Hit Parade," the second feature attraction on the same program an hour and a half of unalloyed pleasure and entertainment such as hasn't been seen in many a day.

Ozzie Nelson, Frances Langford, Phil Regan, Director Gus Meins, orchestra leader Eddie Duchin, Carl Hoff and Duke Ellington, comedians George Girot, Newell, Kelton et al, for splendid performances.

The film, throughout, is full of gay surprises, such as the hilarious funny dialogue sequences between Molasses and Janeary, the specialty song number by the Tic Toc Girls, the antics of Al Pearce and His Gang, the celebrated Lord Bilgewater at his best....not to mention "New Deal," the ventriloquist's dummy, who tosses off many a neat epigram.

For an evening of sheer fun and recreation we heartily endorse "The Hit Parade." It stands head and shoulders above the run-of-the-mill Hollywood musical production.

"It's a Living," a very interesting topical reel was well received. The entire program will be repeated again tonight for the last times, the last complete show begins at 8.30 p.m.

QUICK SOLUTION SOUGHT BY GREAT BRITAIN

Three Immediate Steps To Ease Europe's Crisis Are Considered by Eden

Tension Felt to be Somewhat Easier Today

SERIOUS WARNING

British Press Favorable to First Speech of Chamberlain

London, June 26 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden mapped his "peace at almost any price" today, with Great Britain's hope for a quick end to the Spanish crisis hinged upon the ability of Germany, Italy and Russia to get together.

Eden had in mind three immediate steps to ease the tension of Europe and a sub-committee of the 27-nation non-intervention committee was called for Tuesday to consider them.

The Three Possible Steps

The steps were:

1. To fill the gap along the eastern Spanish coast with British and French warships, replacing those withdrawn by Germany and Italy.

2. To place neutral observers aboard patrol vessels in the non-intervention cordon, which seeks to keep men and arms from the Spanish combatants.

3. To resume four-power (Italy, Germany, France, Great Britain) collaboration in the patrol.

Germany and Italy would have to agree to the first step and there were indications from both nations they might look with disfavor on any effort to enforce their ships.

Chamberlain Speech Popular

Continuation of four-power collaboration, observers said, rested largely upon Russian capitulation. Russia's delegate in London has warned the Committee last week criticized the four-power plan to patrol Spain because other European nations were not consulted.

Some observers thought Great Britain alone might seek to patrol the entire eastern coast of Spain with France sharing the remaining Spanish waters—aloof with some aid from Italian.

In addition to the Franco-British patrol plan, it was indicated Great Britain will present her own plan for withdrawal of foreigners now fighting or engaged politically in the civil war in Spain.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Lightning rods! It is wise to protect your home lightning, especially if the protecting is expertly done. Statistics indicate that a wooded house has about 16 times the chance of being hit as a roofed one. An isolated building in the open country requires protection more than one in a city square. Lightning rods do protect when properly installed. Installed, protection means that the rods must be of copper; they must be properly placed and grounded deep in damp soil. The point about lightning is that there is no one does not ...an absolute protection, but that increase safety many fold, and that is a comfort.

Apostles of Peace Warned by Italians

Rome, June 26 (CP)—Havas—The advice of Prime Minister Chamberlain to keep cool had best be heeded by the "so-called apostles of peace" who are making more than enough noise to cause the avalanche of which Chamberlain spoke, the Popolo d'Italia said today.

The British Premier said "even a sudden loud exclamation" might start the avalanche and "set the pacific pace into war."

Reports Denied.

Reports appearing in foreign papers within the last few days were denied by the Popolo d'Italia. These included the assertion Germany and Italy would blockade Spain's coasts, that 15,000 Italian soldiers disembarked at Majorca and Cadiz, and 50,000 more were being concentrated in Italy for transport to Spain.

The paper also denounced the "more subtle lies" which it said were published by the French press, which tended to interpret every move in terms of the Rome-Berlin axis.

"Italy is not afraid of the avalanche to fall, it is solely thanks to the sense of responsibility of Germany and Italy that Europe is being kept out of a more serious crisis," the paper said.

"Trade of Bolshevism"

The crisis will be completely terminated, the paper went on, "when Geneva, Prague will have dispersed the last Basque resistance and will be able to send the neutral front all over the galvanized by victory."

"Spain, which the Reds said was to be the tomb of Fascism, will be the tomb of Bolshevism in this struggle which has developed into two types of civilization face to face," the paper declared. "Spain today was not neutral, but fought for the victory."

Strike Ordered At Brockville

Employees of Stetson Company Want Higher Wages

Brockville, Ont., June 26—(CP)—Employees of the John B. Stetson Company (Canada) Limited, hat manufacturers, who recently won the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers Union of New York and Vicinity, a charter which of that organization, struck today for higher wages, a 40-hour week and a closed shop. ## Spare Hairbrush, Spoil Wife, Say Modernistic Men's Wives

Delight to Tell They Get Spanked When They Need it

SPANKING, HAPPINESS

Sioux Falls, S.D., June 26 (AP)—Spare the hairbrush and spoil the wife" is the slogan of a new club formed by nineteen Sioux City wives, they disclosed today.

"Our club is made up of women who get spanked by their husbands when they need it," cheerfully announced Mrs. Lena Lazar, Sioux City, the organization's voluntary publicity agent.

"They call it the W.O.M.M. Club, Mrs. Lane added. It means "Wives of Modernistic Men."

"Our husbands don't beat us," Mrs. Lane said, "they just turn us over their knee and give us a good sound spanking.

"Spanking makes home life happy and it saves lots of homes from the divorce courts. It also keeps us women feel as if her husband really cares for her and creates a much better understanding between man and wife."

Council Members Use Their Fists

Windsor, Ont., June 26 (CP)—A fist fight between members of the City Council took place outside city hall's council chamber following a meeting last night, it was learned today. The combatants were Alderman Dr. L. L. Crowley and Alderman Reginald Morris, only Communist in Council.

Reports differed today from the rounds by spectators who sought to act as peacemakers, and only one was injured. Morris was led away for repairs with a badly-split ear and a bloody nose, while Dr. Crowley retired from the scene, uninjured.

According to Crowley, the battle started when Morris called him names after a relief discussion. Crowley said Morris began speaking of two families from Saskatchewan, refused relief, and Councils began shortly after he told Morris such families are no residents for more than a year, self-supporting, before they are entitled to relief.

Third Group, 'National Party' Formed in Quebec

DEATH TOLL IN MONTREAL BLAST NOW NUMBERS 3

Wreckage Ripped by Third Blast Early Today But Fire Under Control

DAMAGE $200,000

Evacuation of Buildings Two Blocks From Scene is Ordered

Montreal, June 26—(CP)—A minor blast early today ripped through the Sherbrooke Street and Lansdowne Avenue Garage while workmen cleared away debris and firemen poured water on smouldering ruins of the six-storey building.

No one was hurt, but the explosion, fifth since the hours of violence that shattered the burning structure yesterday and early today, brought fresh alarm, spurred precautionary evacuation of the district on the north.

The explosion yesterday roaring up from the basement of the rented basement after fire had broken out, killed fireman Armand Senecal and critically injured Joseph Page, 47. Crushed beneath the wreckage when part of the building toppled in, fireman Irene Martin, 40, died in hospital here eight hours 10 hours after the blast shook Montreal's northern shopping area.

Damage $200,000

More than 100 persons in the garage, on the street and in stores and dwellings along Laurier Avenue, the scene of the fire and explosions, were evacuated but only four were injured. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

The blast, which was also accounted for by the fact that hundreds of firemen and volunteer fighters battling a blaze in the garage basement, when the explosion occurred.

The front of the building was smashed out and large chunks of concrete and metal rained into the street. The watchers ran for their lives. Some fireman, all windows for a block around were blown in or shaken.

Panic reigned on the scene until police and firemen could restore calm and charge. The territory was cut off from traffic and minor injuries were treated at first aid stations. Injured persons were rushed to hospital.

It was hours before an accurate death and injury count could be made. Early this night police announced all persons had been accounted for.

The explosion was Montreal's first since the Maison Canadien Fur Store blast that killed three firemen last Aug. 17.

Firemen and police will remain on duty until all possibility of further explosions has been ended, it was announced by Chief Fire Commissioner Arthur Laporte.

Fear that flow of free gas into sewers might occur prompted orders for evacuation of dwellings for two blocks around the wreckage and prohibiting lighting of matches near the scene. Gas was tested for constantly against gas near manholes in the district.

Mary and Buddy to Wed In Simple Ceremony

Couple to Spend Honeymoon in Honolulu—Will Wed in Congregational Church With Only Few Intimate Friends Present—Reception to be Held at Pickfair

Hollywood, June 26 (AP)— Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers will say "I do" at 3 p.m.(7 p.m. E.D.T.) today.

The arms of a giant oak in the garden of their friends, the Louis B. Lightons, will shield them from the sun. And a dozen Los Angeles policemen will shield them from the inevitable crowd of sightseers.

The ceremony will be simple and will be heard by only a few relatives and close friends. It will be read by the Rev. James Dolliver Lash, pastor of the Hollywood Congregational Church.

Mary, native of Toronto, Ont., will wear "sky blue", with a small empire waist and full skirt of net (dregs of wine) Her gloves will be the same shade. Buddy will be formally attired.

The maid of honor will be Mrs. Lighton, known professionally as Hope Loring. It was she who wrote the scenario for Mary's first picture years ago, in which Buddy, then a film newcomer, was Mary's leading man.

Lighton, a movie executive, helped make Buddy's starring picture in early talkie days.

Best man will be Buddy's younger brother, B. H. Rogers.

Many Witnesses

Witnesses to the wedding include: Miss Gwynne Pickford of Toronto, Mary's niece and adopted daughter; Frances Marion, Pickford paid woman scenarist and Mary's long-time friend; Mrs. Selmer Chalif, Mary's cousin, and her husband, who will give Mary in marriage, and their son, Don; John Lock, husband of the late Lottie Pickford; Mrs. F. The steamship man will see Mary and Buddy leave Pickfair in time to insure catching the Malolo at Honolulu. Chief Blair will have a motorcycle escort handy in the event the steamship man isn't persuasive enough.

The wedding will be the third for Miss Pickford. Her first husband was Owen Moore, whom she married in 1911, and from whom she was later divorced. Mary was 16 when she married Moore, who was then 25.

Both Quite Wealthy

Miss Pickford married Douglas Fairbanks, ten years her senior, in 1920. He divorced him in 1935.

The marriage will be the first for Buddy, eleven years younger than Mary, who is 35.

Mary, at 22, already was a $4,000 a week movie star when she became a boy of 17. She went on the stage in Toronto when five—before her husband was born.

She and her second husband, Capt. Sylvia Ashley, were the social royalty of the film colony when Buddy began making his pictures.

Miss Pickford is estimated to be worth at least $3,000,000. Rogers, a relatively unknown, had a fortune of only a few thousand.

Man Checks Out.

Officers went to a cheap hotel where the bartender had been living. They found he had checked out suddenly a short time earlier.

In the room they found two copies of a New York tabloid from which were clipped stories of the murder of Veronica Gedeon, the pretty New York model, and of the arrest of a male boarder at the Gedeon home.

The Gedeon murder case was committed March 26. The man believed to be Erwin escaped at the same time Cleveland hotel April 8 first under the name of Jack Murdock.

Police theories said the bartender invited her to pose for him. Erwin was a sculptor.

Shown pictures of Irwin at police headquarters, the kitchen girl told police he had Manuel Meridas, gave positive identification of Irwin as the bartender.

Machine Aids Cancer Cure

Hon. Dr. Herbert Bruce Sees Device While in England

London, June 26—Speaking as a doctor rather than in official capacity, Hon. Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, told The Star that great hope seemed to be offered sufferers from cancer by a machine brought to a recently devised machine which he had seen in London during his present visit. Dr. Bruce was returned to Canada on the Empress of Britain from Cobh on the Irish Free State.

This enormous voltage, he explained, is directed against cells, enabling the operator to apply it to a malignant growth without injuring the patient or himself. Most important of all, it could be applied to the inside of the body, able to the surgeon's knife.

Asked if he thought the machine would be practical in Canada, Dr. Bruce said there was no reason why such a perfected agency could not be employed if someone would provide the money — about $75,000.

150 Employees Out of Work by Oshawa Fire

Lives of 25 Night Workers Imperilled by Quick Spread of Flames

FOREMAN BURNED

Oshawa, Ont., June 26 (CP) —A fire-gutted ruin, Coulter Manufacturing Company plant stood idle today, its 150 employees thrown out of work. Last night an oil explosion spread flames through the factory, causing $200,000 damage and imperilling the lives of night workers.

Tony Beno, plant foreman, suffered minor burns about the hands and back. Other members of the night shift escaped from the building as flames shot quickly through the whole structure.

Low water pressure and lack of hydrants as the plant is on the outskirts of the industrial city hampered the firemen. They could reach the building with only four streams of hose. The fire, fed by chemicals and oil, was intense and sent volumes of black smoke high into the air.

So situation that might have become a counterpart of that in Montreal where a garage explosion brought forth a score of spectators developed when some 2,000 persons crowded around the burning building. Police and volunteers had their hands full keeping them at a safe distance.

Blaze Confined

Firemen meantime kept the blaze from spreading to a 800-gallon gasoline tank and to a store of spectators developed when some 2,000 persons crowded around the burning building. Police and volunteers had their hands full keeping them at a safe distance.

Firemen meantime kept the blaze from spreading to a 800-gallon gasoline tank and to a store of spectators developed when some 2,000 persons crowded around the burning building. Police and volunteers had their hands full keeping them at a safe distance.

Inquiry was opened into the cause of the fire, it is believed here started in the fire box beneath a newly-installed die-casting machine. The company manufactures fittings for General Motors, Chrysler and Ford automobile motor car plants. Two months ago employees went on strike but returned under an amicable settlement.

An Oshawa syndicate, formed under the Chamber of Commerce as Oshawa Foundations Limited, was reported today as considering plans to rebuild the factory which cost $60,000 in 1931. In the past few years thousands of dollars worth of modern equipment had been added to the manufacturing plant of the Coulter and Cliff Griffin, both of Toronto.

WILL NOT PROMISE TO REDUCE DEBT

Hon. Earle Rowe Makes Statement at Convention At Toronto

Durham, Ont., June 26 (CP)—The Conservative bid for power in the next general election in Ontario will not include a promise to reduce the Provincial debt, Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative party leader, declared here today in addressing the convention which last night chose Dr. T. B. Armstrong on the first ballot as candidate to represent Grey-Bruce riding.

Mr. Rowe charged Premier Hepburn spent more time in the United States than he did in his office at Queen's Park.

"He squandered $83,000 in raising an army to quell the Oshawa (General Motors) strike and then he criticized signs of Fascism in this province," said Mr. Rowe, promising if returned to power he would give a "working man and every one of us wages."

The Conservative leader said he would abolish the Hepburn dictatorship if elected and would fix a date for a vote by municipalities on whether or not they would allow beer or liquor sales in their municipalities. He warned against a "serious shortage" within 12 months of Ontario beer.

Farquhar R. Oliver, only United Farmers of Ontario member in the Ontario House, represents Grey South riding. He has been supported by Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P. for Grey-Bruce, and last night Mr. Rowe declared he regretted Miss Macphail would "desert" Oliver in the next general election and supported Conservative nominee, a son of David Jamieson, former M.L.A.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS AT A MINIMUM

Motor vehicle accidents were at the minimum yesterday despite the congested traffic owing to circus day. Only one motor accident was reported to the police department after 10.00 a.m., that being the result of the traffic congestion on Bridge St. that directly followed the circus parade. Three automobiles were involved with fender damages being the only result of the collision. The matter was amicably settled by the parties concerned, as they reported the collision to the police. No charges were deemed necessary. "Motorists seemed inclined to protect their personal property by careful driving during the hours of the congestion of traffic, that followed the parade and at the termination of the two circus performances," stated police officials today in referring to the matter. "Only two speeders were apprehended all day," they added.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE IS SOON REMOVED

City police and Public Works Department officials received compliments from irritated motor vehicle operators regarding the strewing of sand last night over the hill yesterday afternoon. Investigation by police officials revealed the tacks were of the carpet tack variety.

The circus canvas posters, that had been affixed on Front St. buildings, the tacks being tossed onto the street by careless circus employee, who were employed in removing the tacks, the farsightedness of the bill removers proved effective in Public Works Department of the city, as members of that department were buried in the hot sun, removing the numerous tacks from the pavement of Front St., where they were a menace to motor traffic, the tacks causing several punctures to passing automobiles, after the circus management was later notified and the practice immediately discontinued, it was reported.

Circus World Moves On

Thousands Upon Thousands of Circus Fans From All Parts of Belleville District Have Memories Today of Fine Performance at Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Shows

The Circus has gone.

Cole Brothers' "Big Tent" with its kaleidoscopic pageantry, glamor and glitter, its beauty and bustle and panoramic splendor of performance has departed from the plaisti fields. But it has left indelibly printed on the minds of upwards of eight thousand people who attended the evening performance yesterday an impression of one of the cleanest, most variable and highly entertaining shows of its kind ever to visit the city.

The cool of the evening brought a welcome respite from the heat of a typical circus day, and the large crowd settled back in comfort and alternately gasped in wonderment and roared with merriment as the various acts followed each other in a rapid sequence of events.

The Clowns

Grotesquely painted in clothing the idol of thousands of children and grownups kept the large audience in a state of continuous merriment with their funny antics throughout the entire performance. Besides their acrobatics and other gymnastic feats the clowns well performed their parts of the gathering; lumbering elephants, with human intelligence obeyed the commands of their masters in performance that was outstanding; cowboys and cowgirls in a western rodeo executed feats of roping, shooting and riding that excelled. In all it was a colorful show and one that truly deserved the spontaneous applause that greeted practically every act.

"Dead Pan" Clowning

Outstanding in a show of hits and really the star of the whole circus performance department, Emmett Kelly, super-clown, had his audience in paroxysms of laughter throughout with his dead pan make-up and permanent looks of innocent curiosity, with which he gazed at members of the audience and at the outstanding evening of the circus. His pantomime was perfect, and his droll mannerism rate him as one of the best in the realm of clowndom.

Famous Wild Animal Act

Clyde Beatty's famous wild animal act thrilled the tent with its daring. With a blacksnake whip, chairs and lions and tigers, his uncanny powers over the Kings of the Jungle, and the performance of Bengal Tigers who rolled and spun at his word and act of command mark this highlighted performance that stood out with its thrills and at time, chills.

Harriet Beatty's Great Act

Harriet eBatty, wife of the famous trainer, who showed her experience at handling the animals. Her act in which she mingles those ancient enemies of the jungle, the lion, tiger and elephant fraternize in an atmosphere of near friendliness was one of the highlights of the show.

The atmosphere of the wild and woolly west was brought home to the audience in a thrilling exhibition of riding, roping and shooting by Ken Maynard, famous movie picture star, and his congress of cowboys and cowgirls. Maynard's uncanny skill with the rope and rifle, and the splendid horsemanship of members of his troupe Cossacks from the Russian Steppes and Sioux Indians from the western plains rounded out a thrilling western exhibition.

Aerial Equilibrists

But for sheer thrills and which brought gasps of admiration and at times fright especially in their thrilling climax, the famous Gretona Troupe of aerial equilibrists easily held the circus spotlight. Balancing precariously on the shoulder of a man in turn balanced on a chair on a bar held by two others, balanced on a light wire, a daring young lady gracefully acknowledged the plaudits of the large crowd. It was thrilling to say the least.

Another thriller is the act of Mlle. Rita La Plata, a diminutive French trapeze star who swings from her high bar, reaches for another, which breaks to the earth with a resounding thud. But the petite "Mlle" came up smiling and unhurt, as she was swung to safety by means of ropes attached to her feet.

Fine Horsemanship

Lovers of fine horses found plenty to thrill about last night when three ringmasters put a number of splendidly trained horses through their paces. In the centre ring twenty-four cream equines answered the whip of Ringmaster Christianson in a fine display of horse tricks. A tiny black pony added much to this performance.

Trained seals handling a large ball like an expert; elephants who loved to played "dead", stood up and then, down; a bull fight in which three small bulls straight from Spain and three trained dogs but equipped with miniature horns provided fine amusement especially the last and most ferocious "bull" which "gored" and charged at his matador's opponent all contributed to the fine show as provided by Cole Brothers.

Artists of Trapeze.

During flying trapeze artists whirling dizzily at the top of the Big Tent in a performance that reached them as one of the outstanding acts of the show, gained the well-earned applause of the crowd, as did a gymnastic display by a troupe of Arabs who climaxed their act with a human pyramid "five high".

During rests of horsemanship, riding and shooting features of the Wild West Show of Ken Maynard and his troupe, Thunderbird the wonder horse and arrow on the part of a grizzled Sioux Indian Chief, with which he performed a number of clever trained horses, seals and other animals thrilled with their acts; splendid feats of horsemanship, daring acrobatics and other gymnastic feats by the well performers delighted the gathering; lumbering elephants, with human intelligence obeyed the commands of their masters in performance that was outstanding; cowboys and cowgirls in a western rodeo executed feats of roping, shooting and riding that excelled. President "Dick" Hennessey Says Majority Opinion Favors Action

The merchants of Belleville will keep their stores open on Wednesday afternoon of next week, the day preceding the holiday of July 1st, and remain closed during Dominion Day, it was learned today as the consensus of opinion of the Board of Directors of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association, and many of its members, according to a statement given by President "Dick" Hennessey this morning.

A check of several of the stores and places of business revealed a desire to remain open on the usual day of observance of the fact, that Thursday is a statutory holiday and with the exception of business will be closed.

The opinion on the part of the merchants causes a change from former plans, President Hennessey stated, and accordingly stores will remain open all day on Wednesday, June 30th.

Smallest Increase to Food If Wage Increases 10 P. C.

American Scientists Hear Result of Survey Basis on 1936 Figures

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Denver, June 26 (AP)—Every dollar bodges item would drive a greater share from a 10 per cent wage increase for workers than food. It was reported today in a U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics study.

The report was based on the spending in 1936 of 245,000 United States families in 226 cities large and small, with incomes ranging from under $500 a year to over $20,000. It was made by A. D. M. Kaplan of Washington to the American Association for the advancement of science.

Fuel and Light Second Lowest.

The median income (that is the one with as many persons above as below) was $1,350 to $1,800. If, said Kaplan, a 10 per cent raise went to all those receiving up to $16,000, the next smallest portion would go to housing, fuel and light.

A bigger share of each added dollar would go for clothing.

Next up the spending scale would be home equipment. Above that would come transportation, particulary automobiles.

It is an odd fact Kaplan added, that a family receiving a 10 per cent increase would spend more than 10 per cent for his extra. They would reach back into the original income to get the car.

"Personal Share"

But of the 10 per cent raise, even more would go for life insurance than for transportation. Still more would go for recreation. Above them would come the item, "Personal Care" meaning soap, cosmetics, toilet and other personal articles.

Education and reading would get an even larger proportion.

Medical care, he said, is the most fluctuating of all the family expenditures. It is almost never budgeted.

School Histories

Wellman's School

The early settlers were for the most part English, although there was an occasional family of Dutch descent. It is interesting to note that Chas. W. Morton has in his possession papers showing that in 1803, the land contained in the farm and that of Robert Wallace was occupied by Captain Ross Hill. He also has a deed showing that in 1833 this land was sold by Asahel Hilton to Rev. Peter McGill for £100. At the time of the first school at Wellman's in 1836, Wm. Hilton occupied this farm. This school was a log building with a shingled roof and only rough benches for seats.

The next school was a frame building. It stood on the same lot as the present school and faced north. The teacher's desk was at the south end, in front were log benches, and behind benches to show who missed a word were to sit on these benches. The young man who attended school at this time often refused to do so. Nothing happened, no one was ruled. But let a small child misbehave in the slightest and was punished. The pupils studied mostly (not the same as in all schools at the same date.) There were also seats in the school. The building was used for the church, Sunday School and meetings of the Society of Friends. The property was a rail fence along the road. Teachers in this school were Margaret Lucas, Mr. Fair, father of the late Mrs. Geo. Heagle, and Geo. Sherry, who later became a lawyer and died just a few years ago.

In 1868 the present brick was built. It also faced the north. The teacher's platform was angled and extended into the room. Desks ran from the south end. The room was lighted by six windows, three each on the east and west. There was also a window in each lobby on the north wall. There were two entrances. The seats were double, boards were pushed under the desk part. The blackboards of painted pine boards. The heat was on the lobby walls. The school was heated first by a box stove later by a Quebec heater and on the ventilator in the ceiling over the teacher's desk. The property was enclosed by a fence of six inch boards, split rails in posts. It was quite customary to find children bringing nails to school to repair the division fence on the property. The school was swept by the children, two at a time, who took turns on the school course of these days.

The history stick was frequently used as a means of punishment. Ella Horkins, from Campbellford, introduced the stick which had a slit in the end. The teachers who served in this school were Miss Nancy Mosher from the Oak Hill; Mr. B. F. Butler, who afterwards graduated from Albert College and in partnership with Dr. Parker in the Bowmanville corner where Dr. J. S. Morton, Stirling, is located; later going west. Two years ago he visited old friends here but since then has passed away. Then followed Miss Ella Horkins who later ran a tannery in Belleville; Mr. Watkins, a very retired old fellow; Mr. Spencer. He spoke broad English and was a beautiful writer. One day while writing a copy he gently climbed up through the ventilator. Some boys thought he had come down were not obeyed and they spent a pleasant (?) afternoon in the fresh regions of the air. Miss Jacks, Miss Palmer, Mila Connor and Miss Annie Connor were for short time. Miss Ella Horkins was teacher for five years from 1874 was followed by sister Barbara. Mr. T. S. McKee served in the year 1875. Donald Mc. a fifth class pupil of the school in 1936-37 has in his possession a book "Sayings of little ones at home," which was presented to his grandfather by Bertram Pitt as first prize in second division senior first class on December 19th, 1876, for T. S. McKee.

The first stove school was condemned and in 1883 the walls of the present school were erected. The reason was that the old school was why had a splendid reputation and everyone felt sorry to see it pass into decay. The entrance was the same as at present. There were eight windows, four each on the east and south. The blackboards were along the front and between each window. The seats were moved from the former style and faced the new platform at the front. The library was a cupboard standing at the back of the room. It was locked by a box stove. On the roof of this school was a large belfry built with a Japanese type of roof and a large weather vane that is still there.

This school burned during the night of February 10th, 1927. It was rebuilt that summer on the same walls. The present school is heated by a Kinsline circulator. There are six windows on the south wall, one at the west end of the north wall and three in each lobby. Along the entire front and north side are the blackboards. The library which stands in the southwest corner has been lined since the fire, contains over five hundred volumes and is modern in every respect. In 1936 five history maps or pictures, 36" x 22" were purchased. In 1936 a lavatory, wash basin and 2½ gal. tank with tap was installed. Paper towels and soap are provided. In 1930 the school was equipped with first aid supplies. In 1935 art, agriculture and library equipment was purchased for Fifth Class. In 1936 four swings were erected as playground equipment.

Music was introduced as a special subject in 1929 with Miss Hamby as supervisor. During 1931 and 1932 Mrs. Blanche Alexander was in charge. The the school board purchased a piano and organized with services of a supervisor.

Agriculture was introduced as a special subject in 1931. In 1935 land was rented for a school garden. This has proved both interesting and successful. The same year the pupils started a perennial border around the flag pole. In 1936 a lawn mower was purchased and the grass kept cut all summer.

Years ago, there was a well on the school lot but for some time now water has been carried from Mr. Russell Johnson's well.

In 1915 Rawdon's second school fair was held on the school grounds at Wellman's. Since then the school has taken active interest in the activities of the school fair. In 1936 Lorne Wiaters won the silver medal for public speaking, and in 1936 James Watson won the Mardon's medal, Colonel R. Vanderwater's cup and the W. Mann Grau and street dance on Monday and Mrs. Sherry bronze medal for second place in Belleville district in a similar contest.

On Sept. 4, 1936, Dr. J. B. McDougall, assistant Chief Inspector of Public and Separate schools in the Province of Ontario, paid a friendly visited to the school, supervised a music lesson and spoke to the pupils of the resources of Northern Ontario.

The teachers in charge since 1885 are: Miss MacGilvary 1885; Mabel Young 1887; Fredericka Tuller 1888; Bert Deville 1889; S. T. Williams 1890-91; Roy MacMillan 1892-1900; Chas. Bailey 1901; Jos. In considering those who have served Wellman school the names of Daniel and Mary Wootton stand first. They came to Canada from England in 1863. They had a family of nine children. Five of these were born in England. In 1864 they built the farm where Mrs. Hay now lives and lived there the rest of their lives. Mr. Wootton was secretary of the school for years and used to visit it twice a week for offence. When Miss Ella Horkins was teaching he walked in. He acted with a cane, a stick which he held by a dog chain. Mr. Wootton's visits were welcomed by the pupils and teacher.

Many former pupils of our school have made their mark in their profession a few. James Duncan, who became a Reeve of Rawdon township of the County of Hastings; Alex. # Many Men Put to Work On Home Improvements

Belleville Responds to Home Improvement Urge—Four Trades Benefit on One Job—Duplex Houses Popular—Modern Bathrooms in Demand— H. I. P. Makes Many Improvements on Farms—H. I. P. Urge Brings Out Private Funds —Belleville Bankers Report Increasing Demand for H.I.P. Loans.

While the wide-sweeping possibilities of the Home Improvement Plan, as set down by the National Employment Commission of Canada, has met with a splendid response on the part of the general public of this province, the avenues of benefit to be derived from the plan have scarcely been touched.

Such is the consensus of opinion of a number of business and tradesmen of Belleville.

Designed primarily to inaugurate a restoration of building activity and consequently a return to prosperity, the plan has met with the universal acclaim of a large number of residents of Belleville and farmers of the surrounding rural districts.

Locally, men in close touch with the H. I. P. activities state the plan is enjoying universal appeal, and is opening up to people of limited means an avenue to obtain funds which they could not get from any other source over the length of time granted them under the plan.

Covering a wide scope of activity, the reaction of the local public has resulted in a stimulation of building and a pronounced increase in the actual workings of many of the trades.

FOUR BELLEVILLE TRADES BENEFITED

Evidence of this is seen in the instance of one resident who changed his dwelling into a duplex apartment. Four different trades, carpenter, plumber, painter and electrician benefitted directly from this single loan while supply firms also noted an increase in business.

The general urge on the part of the borrowing public, however, is to enlarge their places of residence. Many have taken up the H.I.P. loan entirely and modernized their homes along a "double house" system whereby they not only derive sufficient revenue to pay their indebtedness but assure themselves of a definite income in the future.

MODERN BATHROOMS INSTALLED

Another noticeable feature of the people taking advantage of the plan, is the number who have at last fulfilled a long-felt desire to install modern bathrooms and plumbing fixtures.

FARM IMPROVEMENTS MADE POSSIBLE

Many rural homes and buildings have benefited greatly from the use of money secured under the plan. Farmers notably of the district where the easy payment plan have taken advantage of the new system and have remodelled and beautified their homes, installed electricity, made much needed additions to house and buildings, erected modern barns and machine-sheds and in some cases where the proper facilities have been available, installed bathrooms. Many a rural home and barn sadly in need of repair have received a new lease of life through the medium of H.I.P. loans, and today these once neglected looking barns a new appearance. Coats of paint and repairs have caused many a family homestead to reinstate itself once again as the family pride.

PRIVATE FUNDS BROUGHT OUT

An indirect result of the plan, and one which perhaps was not foreseen by its originators, has been the expenditure of the private funds of individuals in the remodelling and beautifying of their own private homes. Without the plan, probability would not have occurred had not the advantages and feasibility of the plan been exemplified to the individual. Details of the plan and the easy financial arrangements applied on a new vista which feels have been closed either by neglect or procrastination. The resulting beneficial effects to all concerned with perhaps on earnest desire to help bring the long-delayed prosperity prompted people in all walks of life to take advantage of the plan. Increases in Belleville centre and throughout the district to utilize private funds for the beautification of their homes. This in turn has added to the stimulation to business, building and the trades concerned.

SEE YOUR BANKER

On the other hand, as one official puts it, the plan has brought to home owners who have neglected their properties through lack of immediate funds, or limited means, the opportunity to fulfill a long felt want in the securing of funds through their banker which otherwise they would be unable to obtain.

But as has been previously stated, the surface has not yet been scratched. There are plenty of homes in Belleville yet which could be converted into a home of beauty with a little effort.

Help Prosperity!
See your banker.
Borrow, Build and Beautify.

The Control of Raspberry Mosaic

(Experimental Farms Note)

Raspberry mosaic is caused by a virus present in the sap of diseased plants, even in the roots. The symptoms are visible only on the leaves, which become mottled in the spring season. The leaves are mottled and often more or less crowded and dwarfed. The fruit is inferior and usually stunted, and the crop is small and of poor quality. The disease is spread by sucking insects (aphids).

The use of certified nursery plants.

The first step necessary for controlling raspberry mosaic is getting out a new plantation with mosaic-free plants. Certified plants are available, and the only one that can be recommended for planting.

Isolating the new plants.

The new plantation should be set out at least 200 feet away from all other non-certified raspberries, including those across the neighbour's line and wild raspberries. If the plantation is set out adjacent to raspberries affected by mosaic, it is certain that the disease will spread into the new plantation.

Keeping the new plantation.

The new plantation should be carefully and periodically inspected during the first two years, and any plant found to be affected with mosaic should be dug up, root and all. The vacant space should be filled in each year during the rest of the season. Rogued plants must not be left in the plantation, because they will leave the willing plants and crawl on to healthy plants and contaminate them. The mosaic plants should be carried immediately, at least 300 feet away, to the plantation, or be completely destroyed. Care should also be taken not to leave any diseased plants not to shake off the aphids. After the plants touch each other in the rows in a new plantation, it is no longer practical to rogue out mosaic plants.

The use of resistant varieties.

Although varieties will be chosen largely for hardiness, yield, and quality or berries, yet some attention should be given to resistance to mosaic. one of the varieties commonly planted in recent years are here listed, those being the most resistant being first, and the least resistant, last: Herbert, Newburg, Adams 57, Viking, Latham, Cuthbert, and Newman.

Celery Blackheart

(Experimental Farms Note)

In many celery growing districts of Ontario blackheart, or heart-rot as it is sometimes called, is responsible for considerable loss.

The disease is largely confined to the early crops and generally appears during the subsequent periods of high temperature or high humidity in late July or August when the plants are nearing maturity.

The symptoms are quite characteristic and appear as a watersoaking of the young heart leaves, which later shrivel and turn black. If the attack is slight, the plants are able to outgrow the trouble and produce new hearts, the affected leaves remaining as blackened tips at the ends of elongated stalks. If however, the attack is severe, the growing point is killed and the plants become utterly useless.

Under certain conditions blackheart may be complicated by soft-rot-producing bacteria and destroyed plant bugs. While each of these kinds of trouble sometimes occurs on celery, the former, a soft, light brown rot, can only appear after part of the plant, and the latter, severe injury and browning of the leaf tissue, which also is liable to bear some relation to the problem. Although soil is important as a secondary decay following the physiological disorder, stimulated plant bugs are not connected with the trouble.

Experimental tests with blackheart at the St. Catharines Laboratory of Plant Pathology indicate that considerable losses may be avoided if transplanting to the field be delayed by several days and if the crop is harvested before it reaches maximum growth.

In view of the above findings, growers who have been troubled with this disease would be well advised to delay transplanting and advance harvesting. If, however, blackheart appears before cutting is considered, the remainder of the crop as speedily as possible.

DEVELOPMENTS AHEAD IN AVIATION

At the same time as the North Polar enterprise of the Russian fliers is attracting the attention of the world, the inauguration of routing of planes across from Ireland to Newfoundland is at hand. Other services are under way. The flying service to the islands in the Pacific, the new transcontinental route in Canada, all focus the thought on the immensity of the enterprise of flying when it gets into full swing as it is likely to do within the next few years, with the momentous change in manners and ways of living as one of the inevitable results.

Just as the stage coach gave way to the steam engine and train, so the new means of travel will expedite the movement of persons from one place to another far distant spot on the earth.

There is evidence on every hand of an international race for the establishment of airlines across lands and seas for airplanes mean rapid transport of man, freight, and mail. In the long run it means trade expansion, one of the things on which civilization has always depended.

Canada stands in a position likely to make it one of the great highways of the argosies of the air of the future, from the fact that the coast is nearer to Northern Europe. Should polar traffic develop, she will be the gateway of the western world, as she will be of North America for over-ocean flying.

MADE LIFE HAPPIER

A tribute to Sir James Barrie as one who made life happier and who was "only too happy to arrange things in a pleasanter way" than some other writers who have pondered over the problems of mankind and the world appears in the Christian Science Monitor. Speaking of him as one who made people laugh with him and who never laughed at them, the Monitor says:

"Barrie brought to readers and playgoes moments through which few people can pass without acquiring a scrap or two more tolerance, a readier kindness, for which fortunately they are required to pay dearly from their hoards of egotistic superiority. How many of his readers have found life's traveling lighter for losing a bit of their cherished superciliousness no one may know. But what one of them would disown his debt to the shy Scot who only with difficulty could have brought himself openly to accept the public's gratitude?

"Even Bernard Shaw found the Scotsman's kindness contagious. When Shaw wrote a criticism of Barrie some years ago in which he was bound to confess a certain discrepancy between things as they are for other people and as they were for Barrie, Shaw seemed almost content that Barrie was 'only too happy to be able to rearrange things in a pleasanter way.' The rest of us have been only too happy to have him do so, and we should never have quite managed it without him."

THE CIRCUS

A very real world, into which the citizens of this district delighted to step and enjoy themselves with a myriad of attractions which only the circus can give, has come and moved away. The circus—for such its name to the Roman people, whose "circus" was a large roofless structure where public chariot races, exhibitions of pugilism and wrestling and other games were held. Today on the lavish Roman style the canvas city, which moves by day journeys through a large part of the civilized world and draws from vast areas some of the largest crowds ever gathered with one purpose. It is the modern circus with its ancient rather sinister elements, such as gladiatorial combats, removed and with a multitude of all kinds of attractions which appeal.

The circus seems to be of all ages and climes. Its rough and its subtle comedy in the antics of the clown is as old as civilization and as new as the youngest spectator. Some of the old is repeated today in the hippodrome race with which the grand finale comes, in the contest of athletes and the scenes of wild life either in the menagerie or in the ring.

It is one place in the modern world where the great outdoors appears. There is the trip through the menagerie, part of which acts in the rings and there is the appeal of the trapeze artists. There were contests with wild beasts in the old Roman circus but the modern counterpart never had this element, and the appearance of animals is only to indicate man's command over the animal kingdom through the use of training, skill and courage. There is the music, with a peculiar quality of "circus."

Then the sideshow with its marvels and mysteries, and all in all the totality of effect stimulating to the mind.

The circus seems all ages rolled into one which every man, every woman, every child can understand. It is a panorama of interests of man from the earliest ages to the present; even Mother Goose walks and the Old Woman who lives in the shoe lives again in very actuality for the children and adults.

The skill of its artists, the horsemanship, and magnificence of the entire moving scene, speak for every age of time and life. The circus is a world, peculiar in itself and part of every page of history.

WALLFLOWERS

By a low sunny wall in an old cottage garden,
The wallflowers doze on their way through the year,
With mignonette, pansies, and herbs like sweet marjoram,
Make riot of perfumes to conquer the air.

No muse has enthused o'er its beauty of blossom,
Perfection of contour or bright vivid hue,
It's a blurred mass—like haphazard velvety flotsam,
With blending of every color but blues.

Our grandmothers plucked them to garnish their chambers,
They loved the exotic, rich, haunting perfume,
And the poor of the cities besought the remainder,
From hawkers who sold penny bunches of bloom.

So to-day when we quite unexpectedly find one,
What thoughts are engendered, what morals we draw,
For the roses, camelias, and orchids oft' blind one
From seeing the beauty our grandparents saw.

Toronto —John Hole.

YANKEE JOURNALISTS AT THE CORONATION were greatly impressed with the dignity, grandeur and solemnity of the ceremonies. Even those who "came to scoff" really remained (almost) to pray. But while describing in brilliant language the high spots they did not neglect the sidelights of the great occasion, the little comedies and tragedies unfolding constantly among the thousands of loyal subjects who watched day and night, in rain and sunshine, cold and fog, so as not to miss the supreme spectacle of a lifetime. One of the little stories of Coronation Days as told by a newspaperman concerned a wee cockney lad who had a penny Coronation souvenir cup in his hand, dropped it to the pavement where it smashed, then set up a heart-wrenching wailing. A crowd soon gathered about him, someone passed the hat and the lad's tears were dried with a collection amounting to many shillings. He expressed his sincere gratitude as best he could then departed—to make his pitch on another well populated street with another cup which at the psychological moment he would drop and repeat the previous performance to his great financial reward, or of those sponsoring the act, remaining discreetly in the background—until the pay-off.

WELL THE COLE BROS.-CLYDE BEATTY CIRCUS, really "bigger and better than ever" has been and gone and if it did nothing else it sure revived a flock of fine youthful memories—when barefoot kids carried water for the elephants, Lugged boxes and helped to put up the seat sections—or tried the old gag of slipping under the tent flap and wriggling up through the seat tiers. Occasionally our pants got dusted and a circus kick or club is no soft thing even when applied to a rapidly moving target trying desperately to get out of range. We always liked the elephants, the Indians, and the cowboys best, when we were young and now that we are older have no reason to change that youthful opinion. Those who have never experienced the real circus thrill have really missed something worthwhile in life—in our humble opinion.

OTTAWA PARADE

Back Stage in the Dominion Capital with

WILFRID EGGLESTON

Leslie A. Mutch, who represents Winnipeg South in the House of Commons, tells a good story of himself arising out of his election campaign in 1935.

"Late at night I dropped into a small confectionary to buy a packet of cigarettes," he says. "The shop-keeper was a personal friend and above the counter was displayed a large and flattering picture of myself.

"The night I entered the proprietor and the one other person in the store had been taking a drink together, and were in the thick of a political argument.

"When I came in, the customer, a complete stranger to me, pointed to me and said: 'Now I'll bet that fellow's a politician!'

"My heart warmed up toward him," says Leslie, telling the yarn. "It was clear to me that I had the qualifications for the campaign I was engaged in.

"The proprietor turned to the customer. 'Don't you know him? That's the Liberal candidate. Look. There's his picture over the counter.'

"The slightly inebriated gentleman looked me up and down, then studied the picture at some length," says the member for Winnipeg. "Then he turned again to me and said:

"'Is that really your picture?'

"Expansively, I agreed it was.

"'Well,' he said, 'I'll be jiggered if I don't mind me saying so, but if that's really your picture I'd advise you for Heaven's sake to distribute a lot more of them, and stay at home yourself.'

"Completely deflated," admits the member, "I turned homeward."

Leslie Mutch describes in entertaining language some of his own background and personality.

"At the age of 21 in 1911, I participated in my first general election, and when the vote was called, I sat down and wept for Canada. I swore then that when I saw a Tory head I would kick it. I'm still trying.

"At 19 I stood on Parliament Hill, enroute overseas, saw the ruins of the old buildings and promised myself that if I lived I'd be back. Without any definite program, I've been on the way ever since. Since 1919 I have been an actor in every election, never before as a candidate, but always a worker in the ranks.

"If the depression was an accident, then by being here I am an accident. I'm a political 'depression baby'. You remember the 'War Babies.'

Asked about his unfulfilled ambition, the member replied: "I still long to be able to really enjoy leisure. I can be busy but it isn't much fun. I should like very much to be an adept French linguist. Without French, one is a foreigner in Ottawa. I'd honestly like to do something for the thousands of people who believed in my sincerity and voted for me. I have no unfulfilled material ambitions—if I cannot get what I want, I don't want it."

Concerning his hobbies: "I like my garden; in it I find relaxation. I like company, perhaps because I find the people the most interesting subject in the world. I like to travel, because I like to meet new people and the exchange of opinion or, as is often the case, of expressions which are not well thought out. I like to read, interestedly ideas."

Repeating his favorite reading: "It is a question of mood. Easier to say what I do not like. I do not like detective story novels. I do not care for problem plays. In general, I like biography, I like history—I taught it for years. It is the story of people. I like historical novels. I like books that contain historical facts. There are to my mind only two reasons for reading: the acquiring of factual knowledge and relaxation. Perhaps I should add another, reading to catch the majesty and power of expression. In the everyday mind, the King James version of the Old Testament is beyond compare."

With so many political speculators busy choosing new leaders for the major parties, it is interesting to recall that it was not until the late Sir Robert Borden told of his own choice as a leader of the Conservative party in 1901.

"I received intimation that the party members were to meet at Ottawa a few days before the opening of the session to consider the selection of a new leader. Sir George Foster, the most outstanding figure in the party, had been offered to Saint John by Mr. Blair before this meeting I had no idea that the leadership would be offered to me.

"When we met at Ottawa on February 5th, 1901, there was much desultory discussion, and finally, to my amazement, I was proposed as leader. Expressing the astonishment which I naturally felt, as I had been in public life only four years, I told my fellow members that I could not possibly undertake the task.

"The discussion proceeded until late hour without any result, and we adjourned until the following evening. At the adjourned meeting the proposal that I should be elected began to gather momentum.

"While I was endeavoring to reason with Sir George, and in company with the late W. F. Maclean, was engaged in drafting a proposal for delay, two members became more impatient, and insisted that decision should be reached then and there. They urged that inability to select a leader at an so-journed meeting would be construed as lamentable weakness.

"Finally, under very strong pressure, I agreed to accept the task for one year, and coupled my acceptance with the stipulation that, in the meantime, a committee should be appointed to select a permanent leader of great ability, experience and aptitude, one who would pertains desire the position from which I shrank. This stipulation was accepted, but was not carried out. As I said later on, the Sons of Scrubah were too strong for me."

Holiday Bride

By ANN DEMAREST

"Please sit down, Jeanne," begged. "Let's talk it over."

Jeanne looked at him and a wave of pity for him made her drop down on the sofa beside him.

"Poor Mart," she thought. "He will always be a bungler. Nothing will ever go right for him."

He reached for her hand again. "I know I was wrong but at the time it seemed the only way out. I'll write mother that it isn't true, that you never wanted to marry me for that reason. She'll believe it when I tell her you have a job now."

"She'll never believe it." Jeanne shook her head wearily. "She has never liked me. The only thing we can do is let people in Hilton know that we aren't engaged."

"No!" Mart cried. "Please don't do that, Jeanne. You can't let me down now. Why, I'd be the laughing stock of every one in town. They'd know you broke it off because I've always been crazy about you, ever since we went to school together. They know we'll never give you up."

"I suppose it doesn't matter what people have been thinking about me. Your mother has probably been telling them exactly what she told me."

He shook his head vehemently. "No, I'm sure she hasn't. She might say it to you but she'd be proud to tell any one else. Let it go at that, Jeanne. Promise me, will you? It won't hurt to let people in Hilton think we are engaged as long as we're both in the city. They'll never know and then sometime later you can go home and say you've left me. Please, Jeanne."

"What about my mother?" Jeanne asked in a low voice. "She thinks I'm engaged to you."

"Let her think so, can't you, Jeanne?" As long as you aren't going to marry me, what difference does it make?"

Jeanne looked very tired eyes. "All right, Mart. I don't care. Let them think so. It doesn't really matter if it means so much to you."

Mart was jubilant. "You're a swell girl, Jeanne. I'll never forget this. But let's go and eat some time after the excitement of the year we can say we've changed our minds."

Jeanne nodded dully. "Yes, Mart."

"You'll go out with me some evening, won't you?" he asked as he got up and started to the door.

"Why, yes. Not this week, though Mart. I'm pretty tired and I have this new job."

"Where is it?"

And Jeanne told him about Gordon Bartlett but she didn't mention Lance Larkin and she trouble with Cilly Bartlett.

"Bartlett's a snob," Mart snorted. "It doesn't sound right to me. Why do you have to work there in the apartment with him? Doesn't he have an office?"

"He's a writer, Mart. They don't have offices. He works at home. It's perfectly all right. I got it through a good agency."

"It may be all right but it strikes me pretty funny. Why couldn't you have gotten a regular office job?"

"Please," she begged. "Don't let's argue. I looked for work and couldn't find anything for days, and now I have this and I hope it will work out all right."

"It's a shame you have to work at all," Mart said, suddenly sympathetic. "I wish you'd give it up and marry me, I don't think much of these rich people."

"That's silly, Mart. Gordon Bartlett is no different from any one else and I'm lucky to have the job."

"I suppose so," he said moodily. "If you married me we'd be pretty poor. Well, I've got to be getting along. I'll call you next week."

Jeanne walked to the door with him. "Good night, Mart."

With a sigh of relief she watched him stride down the street, and then slowly she turned back to the stairway. Why Mart wanted to put off telling people that they weren't engaged no longer interested her. She wanted only one thing and that was to go to bed and forget about Mart and Bryan and Cilly Bartlett and all the people who seemed to be making life unbearably complicated lately.

"Is all of life made up of quarrels?" she cried to herself as she slipped out of her clothes and prepared to go to bed.

Long after she turned out the light she lay there huddled under what trick of fate had brought about all of the unhappiness of the past three weeks. It had all started with Bryan and Sandra.

Bryan and Sandra!

She went to sleep with their names on her lips.

INTERLUDE 3.

The next morning Jeanne laughed at her fears. The work with Gordon Bartlett she found fascinating. He had placed a desk for her by the long windows in the corner of the study where the bright December sun streamed in over her books and papers. He had none of the nervous temperament that Jeanne expected of a writer. Patiently he explained the work to her and she realized how interesting it would be if she could go on working with him until he finished the book. He planned to take a year to do it.

At one o'clock he sent her into the small breakfast room off the terrace to have her luncheon. He preferred having his on a tray at his desk. Jeanne served by Parks, found the room delightful with its ivory furniture and blue draperies. And the lunch itself made her think back without regret to the hurried sandwich and glass of milk that had been her usual midday meal when she was working in Mr. Conway's office.

Before she finished her dessert and coffee, Cilly Bartlett came in, her short golden curls tousled, her face flushed with sleep. Jeanne thought that Cilly, in her blue lounging pajamas, was the prettiest girl she had ever seen.

"Tomato juice and coffee," she called to Parks in a clear voice as she took the chair opposite Jeanne. "Isn't it a grand day?" she said to Jeanne without a trace of yesterday's petulance. "I should have been up hours ago but Norma and Doug persuaded me into going to the opening of the Scarlet Swan last night and the orchestra was divine. I just couldn't stop dancing!"

Jeanne found it difficult to talk to Cilly as if her whose life was so different from her own but Cilly apparently expected no answers. She went on happily about the new night club and the cocktail party she was giving that afternoon.

"For heaven's sake, keep the door to the library closed when my friends come," she warned Jeanne as she was leaving the dining room. "Gordon has a fit if he is disturbed."

Jeanne promised, thankful that her second meeting with Cilly was over. She was beginning to understand now what Lance meant when he said that he felt like spanking her sometimes. Cilly Bartlett could be as charming as she could be spoiled and disagreeable, and there was something about Gordon Bartlett that she was in a mood to be pleasant.

The cocktail party got under way shortly after four and Jeanne could hear the radio and loud bursts of laughter through the closed door of the library. Gordon Bartlett looked up once or twice with a frown but he said nothing and Jeanne hoped it wasn't disturbing her father, Mr. J. G. Sprague.

Three Steps

Anxiety for Solution

Eden gave indication of his government's eager desire to find a quick and solution of the situation, caused by Italian-German withdrawal from the patrol after asserted Spanish bombardment of a vessel by a Nazi cruiser Leipzig.

Reversal from Berlin and Rome indicated such objections were likely to be raised when the Non-Intervention Committee meets again next week in Whitehall.

Immediate Operation

If the committee's approval is gained, however, it was hoped to put the scheme into immediate operation to keep arms and volunteers from reaching Spain.

A further plan was understood informed quarters to be under consideration. It would provide British aims take over the eastern Spanish coast patrol which has been under the eye of Italo-German warships. The French naval units, many of which are now massed in the Mediterranean off Algeria, then would be withdrawn to the Atlantic out of the region where tension has been greatest.

Tension Eases Somewhat

The departure of Prime Minister Chamberlain from Downing Street was taken, meanwhile, to indicate Britain considers the tension eased and no ministerial conferences are planned in the next 24 hours while Chamberlain spends his first weekend as Prime Minister at Chequers, the official country home.

Most British newspapers received Chamberlain's speech in the Commons favorably, and much stress was laid on his closing words emphasizing the situation is "serious" but saying that "if we all exercise caution and patience we may yet be able to save the peace of Europe."

Such words, it was remarked, contrasted the most serious warning offered by a British statesman in many years. It was felt the new Prime Minister would not use them without good cause.

The Times called his speech on the Spanish situation 'commendably free from balance.'

An Anglo-French declaration terminating the hands-off-Spain accord was suggested by the News Chronicle.

"Firm action of this sort will not make war more likely but less likely," the newspaper declared.

The Manchester Guardian said "a renewed effort must be made to make non-intervention effective."

The Daily Herald, Labor, said Chamberlain "evades and ignores the issue that has indefensibly wrong in German policy."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was tawking to Mr. Riley the hooken bidder drive around at the fire house and another fireman went passed and him and Mr. Riley stickled in passing each other mad. Mr. Riley saying, Dont pay any attention to that, thats just pure frendship. There was only one fireman ever in this company that I couldnt get along with, and nather could any of the other boys, that was Mr. Archibald, he said.

Why, what was a matter with him? I said, and Mr. Riley said, He was a punster, do you know what a punster is?

No, what? I said, and Mr. Riley said, A punster is a person that's werd crazy. He'll twist up werds so their own mother wouldn't reckon-ize them if it wasn't for the sound. For instance if you say to a punster, Have the werder hey liief to anser, Anyhow, weather or not. Do you see what I mean? Mr. Riley said.

Kind of I said, and he said, Well Archibald was a terrible example of a punster. The wider he opted his mouth to involve the more he came out. The other boys would kick him under their chairs, but that only acted like applause on Archibald, but they were on all punsters. In other werds you cant cure a punster unless you kill him, and that's against the law. Otherwise Archibald was a nateral fireman and could breathe in smoke the why a chimbey breathes it out, so that's why Captain Scnoken couldn't make up his mind to fire him till he made that awful pun at the gas tank fire, Mr. Riley said.

O, what pun was it? I said, and Mr. Riley said, Well, the pun was bad enough, but Archibald chose the very werst time to make it. A gas tank fire is bad enough, but this gas tank was rite next to a big echidol collarbution factory, and you can imagine what a few sparks would of done to that. So Captain Snooken kept beseeching the boys to keep the flames away said from the echidol factory, and Meaning the end of the subject.

Library Corner

by K. G.

Mary Ellen Chase, author of those popular novels of Maine-farming life, has lived for the last two years in England. In her latest book "In England Now," she tells of the many new things she has discovered about England. Her American background and her familiarity with France, has endowed her with a shrewd perception. She discusses the characteristics of the English people and the aspects of the English scene with humour and understanding. Her essays touch on such topics as The Weather, English manners, English sources of American irritation, "This royal throne of kings," and English railway travel. Throughout the book there pervades an appreciation of the steadfastness, dignity, and beauty of English traditions.

"Under Sail in the Last of the Clippers," is a book to touch "the heart of all who love the sea. Frederick William Wallace, author of many sea stories, has written in this book of a unique voyage made in the year 1920 from Montreal to Liverpool. The trip was a reminiscence on "In the first place," says the author, "Montreal hadn't birthed a single millionaire during the last years prior to the arrival of this ship, and in the second place, in all the marine history of the noble St. Lawrence—which has seen thousands of fine vessels launched—no greater river had never floated a finer sailing ship and never would again." This great ship had been sailing the seas since 1877, first as the Hesperus, an English ship bound for the Orient and then, after a long period of training, a ship under the Czarist regime in Russia. Under the Russian flag she was luxuriously transformed and re-named the Grand Duchess. Mr. Wallace's book is a worthy tribute to this fine old ship. Himself a sailor, he sees things through a seaman's eyes. He has told his tale so well that it will interest those with but a casual interest in ships as well as the initiated. The photographs taken during the voyage are resplendent with white sails and spray.

The latest trends in English poetry are illustrated in the representative selection from the Year's Poetry 1936" compiled by Denys Kilham Roberts and Hilary Saunders, among the outstanding poets are W. B. Yeats, who writes of "Parnell's Funeral", T. S. Eliot, Lawrence Binyon, Robert Nichols and the youngest poets, Herbert Read, C. Day Lewis, W. H. Auden, Stephen Spender and Louis MacNeice.

AT THE BELLE

Claudette Colbert Splendid In Sparkling New Comedy

"I Met Him In Paris", which brings Claudette Colbert, Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young to the screen of the Belle Theatre Today and Monday, matinee daily, is a comedy as crisp and sparkling as the shows of the Swiss Alps, against which most of the action takes place.

Miss Colbert, in the role of a young American girl on a long-planned vacation in Europe, is given plenty of opportunity to display those comedy talents which she used so well in "It Happened One Night", and "The pride Comes Home". In this new film, she has two leading men with whom to spar in conversational give-and-take. Not only is the dialogue keen and snappy, but the rough-and-tumble action and incidental hi-jinks are equally mad and delirious. "I Met Him In Paris" is played with delicious freedom and sidesmacking in action.

As the story runs, Miss Colbert goes in Paris, where she runs into a couple of writers, also Yanks; Melvyn Douglas, a suave, man-of-the-world playwright, and Robert Young, a playboy novelist. Their impetuous courtship for the brunette beauty takes the trio from Paris to St. Moritz, smartest of the Swiss winter sport centres, and then back to Paris again. In the strange romance, Miss Colbert's heart swings first, to one, then to the other of her mad suitors, until she is forced to a showdown.

Every member of the cast, from the three principals down to the lowliest extra, turns in an outstanding performance. Wesley Ruggle's direction, as always, is loose, and the outdoor scenes, laid in the Alpine sports capital, are thrilling and beautiful. The story is as sparkling, and the three stars as brilliant as the shows of St. Moritz.

The Market Place of Industry

Domestic looms and local workshops supplied the simple needs of each community when the industries of Canada began. Customers were all friends or neighbours. The ability and integrity of every craftsman were well-known and created a demand for the commodities he made; his success was measured by the goodwill he enjoyed.

Communities grew and prospered; new settlements were established and thrived; the demand for manufactured products rapidly increased. Distant markets became accessible as transportation facilities improved. The scope of industry widened; goods were shipped farther and farther from every plant, and it became necessary to gain goodwill towards products and their makers in remote towns and villages where they were unknown.

The newspapers have provided this vital service to Canadian industry at every stage of its development. No other medium could ensure the frequent, friendly contacts with consumers, needed to establish confidence, or afford effective territorial control of merchandising activity, when local or national emergencies arose.

Today the manufacturing industries of Canada serve a national market; their products are on sale from coast to coast. Production has been centralized, distribution systems organized, but the success of every enterprise still depends on customer goodwill.

Therefore, progressive companies continue to use the local daily newspapers as an integral part of merchandising. Experience has proved that the daily newspapers of Canada, bought and read by more than two million families every day, provide the most economical and effective means whereby any industry can create public confidence in its policies and profitable demand for its products.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Two Bites to a Cherry

By Martha M. Williams

Loraine had climbed to the granary without a thought of trouble. Her pal Abraham had ridden a steer somewhere here and since Loraine had searched all the likely places she had turned to the unlikely. The ventilators were too high for chicken flights especially for the short-winged, heavy-bodied.

Adventuresome climbing the ladder by whose help the high openings were shut, she saw instead, upon a few loose boards, and a handful, no more, of bright straw, seven beautiful lay eggs, white at first view but pinkish pearl if you studied them. Clean out of reach unless you took chances. The boards lay loosely upon the wind beams, so might up if one strained to reach.

A swift thought set her laughing silently. If she fell, the clean wheat heaped below would save her bones, but what a mess the breaking eggs would make of it! And dad so proud of it—it's bright color, its weight and plumpness, its uniformity, scarcely a weed seed to a bushel. Already he had sent samples to the state fair which opened next week, and chary as he was of kidnegs and settings, Loraine knew positively that he would go himself and take her with him. He wouldn't think of it, though, if she spoiled more than a handful of the wheat.

But she wanted her prize eggs. Spee's neck ought to be wrung for what she had done—only one does not wring necks of feathered folk that win prizes.

By crawling lightly across the wind-beams, Loraine reached the lowermost nest and gathered in seven eggs. Her heart beating with excitement, she thought, "What can I do with them. Then the sleeves of her blouse flashed across her consciousness. Carefully she lifted by she stripped it off, knotted the sleeves together and the eggs, weighed them as equally as the number seven made possible, slung the improvised carrier over her back, and began a slow and cautious descent, finally a merry: "Don't shoot—I'm nothing worse than a wheat buyer coming up to see the wonder crop all the neighbors have been bragging about."

"Better not! It's three dollars a bushel just to look at it—and thirty to take away half a handful," she cried, intent only on sending merry away. He laughed, a hearty, wholesome peal; mounting the steep stair two steps at a time, and darted out to the wheat bins, to plunge arms and elbows into the splendid grain, then all but bury his face in it, before looking about him.

The granary was oddly dusk, yet softly lighted—rose-lighted—indeed from the double row of ventilators. Those westerly let in narrow ribbons of gilded motes that crisscrossed into a weird lattice with the gray-blue plaza dreams from the east. They wove a magic garment about the girl upon the ladder, her bare arms flashing white against the brown dusks of the wooden wall.

Huddling herself into the narrowest compass she said plaintively: "Oh, please go away—I'll fall in just another minute."

"Not with me here" the stranger said airily, darting to the bottom ladder, and firming it with his shoulder. "You come down—quick! I won't look—on my honor! Now!"

"Take care! Eggs are the meanest things!" Loraine advised.

"Right you are," he assented, then setting her feet on firm floor: "I'll wait outside—and never tell anybody just how and where I found you."

"Go to the house—dad's at home maybe I'll see you later," Loraine murmured, making haste to nest the eggs in the far corner of the farthest bin.

Cliff Byram, wheat buyer, obeyed somewhat clumsily; the girl had laid upon something inside him never before stirred. His pulses had leaped as he lifted her down. He did not put into words what he had felt—simply because he could not. He'd see her again—many times—for the last bin is right. By this time he had reached the porch where a comfortable looking gentleman sat smoking a cob pipe. Followed explanation. By time that was all settled came the call to supper. Byram accepted it in matter of course fashion. It was the custom of his country to feed his stranger within the gates. He could not violate any other.

He sat next to Loraine, but without looking across the table at the light, rosy, honey and butter, such as he had dreamed of, yet never before tasted.

The state fair was the very best ever. Burton grain swept the boards and Loraine's yearling heifer carried off the blue ribbon in her class, also the sweepstakes prize. Possibly that was why, when Byram ended his week's stay at the Burtons, the spirit said with a chuckle: "It's a-set the dogs on you if I had known in time what you were up to. But no use crying over spilt milk—one can't be angry—because they are young. Come again, young man, when you can spare the time."

"I'm coming in two weeks—it's all settled. Loraine's going to visit me. We agree there can't be a better time for the wedding—as she is taking two bites to a cherry."

Quite Burton whistled—there being no fit words to speak.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 26 (CP)—A sharp advance for Royalite and Beauharnois featured the closing session of the week for the Toronto share market while the general tone was firm to strong on moderate turnover. Royalite advanced 6 to 48, leading the western oils in a rally and Beauharnois, at 8 was up 1½. Industrials generally were slow in the trade. Utilities were generally inantly higher with fractional gains showing for Power Corporation, Montreal Power, United Fuel pfd. and Winnipeg Electric A. In the food group rises were up for Loblaw A., and Dominion Stores. Banks were steady, implements mainly unchanged and in the steels gains were boarded for Dominion Foundries and United Steel.

Beverage issues including Distillers-Seagrams and Walker's common took fractional losses and the paper issues were unchanged except for a narrow gain for Abitibi common.

The big oils, British American and Imperial, strengthened with Royalite and among the cheaper issues closing prices were up 5 to 15 cents for Home, Calgary-Edmonton, Dalhousie, Foothills, Okalta, Vulcan and Foundation.

Higher-priced golds were moderately strong. Gains of 10 to 15 cents appeared for O'Brien, Macassa, Teck Hughes, Read-Authier and Toburn and loses of similar size were posted for Pamour, Little Long Lac, Pickle Crow, Pioneer, Premier and Perron.

Senior base metals held steady while the cheaper issues improved. Gains of 3 to 5 cents were held by Pend Oreille, Sherritt and Sudbury Basin. Mcdrado weakened a few cents and the other silvers were unchanged.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 26 (AP)—Steel and rail shares were at the fore of a slow downward movement in the stock market today, with leaders off fractions to more than a point.

A more unfavorable outlook in the Mediterranean crisis, plus uncertainty over steel strike developments in the United States kept traders out of the market.

The pace was slow and toward the finish most prices were near their lows for the day.

All divisions shared in the downturn. Motors, oils, metals and specialties suffered from the general lack of interest. Some of the earliest were at new lows for the year.

Transfers approximated $250,000 shares.

Canadian Pacific, Distillers-Corp. Seagrams and Dome Mines were somewhat soft. Dominion Government 4½ firmed a bit, while Canadian funds held about even at 99.85 15-16 cents. On the curb, Lake Shore Mines was inactive.

Conspicuous losers were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Chrysler, Allis Chalmers, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda Copper, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Westinghouse, General Electric, Fox, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Great Northern Preferred and Woolworth.

Down to a lesser extent were Goodyear, Goodrich, Electric Power and Light and International Nickel.

Rails continued their slide of yesterday to the surprise of some observers.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Services.

MARKET COMMENT

Everything from bear raids to international pleading have been advanced to account for the break in the mining market, but close analysis of the situation reveals the fact that over-speculation combined with the public offering of too many new issues resulted in a correction that carried prices down lower than was warranted.

Those who bought stocks at or around this week's low would be well advised not to accept quick profits for the moment. A considerable recovery is in prospect after the very severe decline. Once conditions are righted a sharp upward trend should be resumed and a number of issues, today, present quotations may look quite cheap.

From a study of the many facts presented by Nesbitt and Co. Ltd. it will be seen that the Canadian newsprint industry contains the elements making for real prosperity in the years to come, provided the lessons of the past ten years have been well learned. Because of the apparently favourable outlook for the industry, brokers have selected Canadian newsprint securities offer excellent opportunities to investors if held over a period of time.

Home Oil Has Fear Interesting Development Prospects

Four development projects are actively underway for Home Oil at present:

1. Aerial survey in Pouce Coupe country where company has taken permit covering 107,000 acres bordering on the B. C. boundary, southwest of Grande Prairie. Actual well is planned after the aerial map is prepared.

2. Reseismic drilling will be started as soon as new road is completed into the fields and standard rig taken in. All necessary equipment has been ordered for this test, which is expected to be under way by August 1st.

3. The derrick is erected in North Turner Valley and equipment is being rigged up for an early start.

4. Arrangements have been made with Imperial Oil authorities to permit the immediate bringing in of a crew with rotary equipment for drilling as International boundary, midway between Red Coulee and Del Bonita fields.

MacLeod Cockshutt in Good Ore on 350 Level

Drifting east on the new north MacLeod-Cockshutt ore on the 350 ft. level now shows a length of 150 ft. The last 50 ft. is of slightly better than three-quarters of an ounce found in the first 100 ft. stretch.

This week a second crosscut reached the north ore 250 ft. east of the drift face. The crosscut followed a diamond drill hole which cut three and a half feet of $3.50 material. The drift hole east and another west both cut high values and it is presumed that the middle face is in the vein part of the vein. Drifting both east and west from the second crosscut, and this should make for quick exploration of the new ore zone which is at length indicated by diamond drilling of 600 ft.

The Money Question

There is an old saying—in The Street, that only two men in all the world understand the money question, and that these two men disagree. The writer received a curious confirmation several years ago when Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University named ten men, who, he believed, possessed an understanding of the money question. Someone wrote to each "of these men asking some leading questions relating to money. A number of them answered his questions; and the straightaway investigator found in a book. The book is a valuable contribution to the gaiety of nations.

Sailors Few, Says Britisher

Capt. Frogbrook Regrets No Sign of Revival of Sailing Ships

Toronto, June 26 (CP)—If more would "have to be dug out of the cemeteries" to run them, according to Capt. H. E. Frogbrook of the English barque Fontaine II, now in Toronto harbor after a cruise up the Great Lakes.

Asked if he thought there was any possibility of the old time sailing ship crossing sailing ship staging a comeback he ruefully admitted he didn't think so. "All my life ever since I was 13, I've been sailing them," he said, "and now with 34 years at sea behind me I'd be foolish to believe their day isn't over."

Too Little To Do.

He lamented that "sailors" nowadays had little to learn besides how to chip paint and steer.

The shipmaster, who has made several world cruises in the barque, said of the Great Lakes: "Frankly I got here I've been looking for the fellow who called them lakes. Tell me they look more like seas. And as for freshwater sailors, I can't say enough for their skill.

"How in the world they handle those big long freighters the way they do, I don't know. Where the saltwater men would take two or three hours and the assistance of three or four tugs to get into a dock the lakers follow just steam right up under their own power and are fast in fifteen minutes."

REPORTS T. B. CONTROL

Dr. W. E. Ogden (ABOVE), Toronto, who announced before the Canadian Medical Association meeting, Ottawa, treatment which would preclude tuberculosis as a disease. Dr. Ogden's report was based on findings made by himself and nine colleagues, members of the staff of the Toronto Western Hospital. The control of tuberculosis, according to Dr. Ogden, is made possible by serological tests which indicate the latency of the germ in a patient. The average time before the disease shows itself after a positive test is five years giving the doctors sufficient time to eradicate the germ through the prescribing of a daily routine of exercise and diet.

CALMNESS IN CRISIS URGED BY CHAMBERLAIN

Europe's Chancelleries Asked to Weigh Words; 'Rash Phrase Dangerous'

Maiden Speech of British Prime Minister Touches Danger in Europe

RISK OF 'SPARK'

Reference Made to British Treaty With Russia

London, June 25 (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain urged Great Britain today to "keep cool" and prevented the House of Commons he would push every effort to prevent the Spanish civil war from exploding into a general European conflict.

Chamberlain, prime minister for less than a month, outlined two steps to keep peace as he threw open to debate the whole question of the crisis growing out of the 11-months-old war. He advocated:

1. Pulling in the gap left in the non-intervention patrol when Germany and Italy withdrew.

2. Repeating efforts to withdraw Spanish Volunteers from Spain.

Danger in Lack of Caution.

A single British casualty, he even a sudden loud exclamation" may start the avalanche that will tumble Western into war, Chamberlain told Sir House.

He appealed to the men who wield power in the chancelleries of Europe "to weigh their words very carefully before they utter them" and to bear in mind "the rash consequences that might flow from every rash phrase."

The prime minister congratulated Germany for the reserve it displayed in its attitude toward the alleged attack on the cruiser Leipzig.

Chamberlain also urged the "reasonable" on Germany's part to feel it could not permit its airline "to be exposed to raids of that sort."

Incident Is Closed, He Declared.

"The result of the disappearance of German and Italian ships from the patrol of the Spanish coast is that there cannot be any longer any danger of further incidents of this kind," he declared.

"I conclude with a very earnest appeal to those who hold responsible positions in this country and abroad to weigh their words very carefully before they utter them on this matter, bearing in mind the consequences that might flow from some rash phrase.

"I have read that in the high mountains there are sometimes conditions to be found when a loud exclamation may start an avalanche. That is just the condition we find ourselves in today. If we can all exercise reasonable caution and self-restraint, we may yet be able to save the peace of Europe."

The Prime Minister prefaced his speech with the observation that he would confine his remarks to the Spanish situation alone. Foreign Secretary Eden, in a subsequent address, dealt with other aspects of the international situation.

Serious, Not Hopeless.

His promised British attitude would not "say or do anything to precipitate a situation which everybody wishes to see."

"The situation is serious but not hopeless," he declared.

"Although it may be true there are governments who desire to see the end of the other governments there is no government or country which wants to see a new war."

Britain's policy, he said, has been directed to only one aim, to keep the peace of Europe by keeping the war outside Spain.

"We intend to pursue that policy as long as there is reasonable hope of avoiding spread of the conflict," he added.

Cries of "rubbish" greeted Chamberlain, after declaring incidents involving foreign powers were bound to occur as long as the civil war lasted. He said non-interference was inevitable as a result of the Cold in winter and cool in summer is most rivers and lakes has warmed up by new for certain to be better what the air temperature, one can also safely generalize not hot. Thunderstorms hold no terrors for the swimmer, for he one was ever struck by lightning in the water, and the water from the skies can spoil no swimming skill. If the temperature of the water is right by day, it will be equally pleasant at night, because water does not cool off as quickly as air.

"So Near—!"

"Here yah," said a grimy urchin this morning as he handed a printed bill advertising the current program at the Bella-Theatre to a handsome well-built stranger in front of the Queens Hotel this morning.

The man stopped, glanced at the bill, smiled, then asked the boy who was featured in the show. "Doncherknow," he ahrtlied the youth, "it's Ken Maynard, the Western fella, and boy, is he good."

The stranger smiled and the boy darted away, unaware of the fact that he had been addressing the famous movie star himself, who is here today in time featured with the Cole Brothers Circus.

Bantam Rooster Back on the Job As an Office Boy

Henryetta, Okla., June 25 (AP)—Jack, five-year-old bantam rooster, made his choice between love and a career. He was back on the job today as an office boy.

His boss, O. T. Hale, proprietor of a produce firm here, and the diminutive black and white chicken calls him to the front office when a customer comes in, and frequently occupying hens to return to the coop.

Jack's love affair began when a neighbor hen and white bantam hen to give the cooper "companionship".

"He doesn't crow exactly. It's a kind of a screech, and he only uses it when he wants to call one," Hale said.

But after the advent of the Bantam hen Billie "just let his job go to pieces."

"Things finally got so bad, I was forced to give the hen away," said Hale.

"When the boy I gave her to carried her away, Billie ran after, shouted for him to come back. After he'd trailed her a ways, he finally made his choice, and back he came."

Itched to Eat Russian Caviar, Itch Because They Ate It

Edna May Oliver And Others Have Experience

New York, June 25 (AP)—Edna May Oliver, of the movies, and a score or two of otherwise dignified persons, itched today to eat gray caviar and itched because they had eaten it.

Freely itching, they scratched their way across the Atlantic, past the Statue of Liberty and right out into the streets of New York after the Italian liner Rex reached here yesterday.

It seems that every year about this time the Rex lays in a big supply of the Russian caviar. It's delicious, but you're likely to get the hives. And you have to scratch when you get the hives.

The one genuine regret the sufferers felt, they agreed, was that it would be hard, if not impossible, to find any caviar here. And they were all itching to eat some.

NATIONAL GOVT RETAINS 2 SEATS

Conservative And Liberal Members Get Big Majorities in By-elections

London, June 25 (CP)—The National Government retained two House of Commons seats in by-elections today.

In Bewdley, Lord Baldwin's old Worcestershire constituency, Capt. R. J. E. Boucher, Conservative, was elected, Running as a Conservative, he polled 15,054 votes against 8,511 for Dr. Donald Chesterfield, Liberal, who came to a medical officer in the service of the International Grenfell Association at Harrington Harbor Hospital, Labrador.

Conant's majority was 6,543. In the general election Baldwin was returned with 14,000 majority.

In the Holland-with-Boston division of Lincolnshire, made vacant by the death of Sir James Blindell, Herbert Butcher, Peterborough businessman, was elected for the National Liberal. With the backing of the Conservatives, he polled 21,846 votes against 1,556 for Ernest Reynolds, United Socialist, who carried the Labor Party standard.

Butcher's majority of 7,290 contrasted with a majority of 11,984 obtained by Sir James Blindell, also a National Liberal, in the 1935 general election.

Bewdley and Holland-with-Boston were two of seven by-elections pending. Since the Chamberlain government took office a month ago seven by-elections have been held, six of which have been won by National Government candidates. In the other, Cheltenham, the local mayor was elected as an Independent Conservative candidate.

ADMIRAL FISHER DIES AT AGE 62

Was Former Commander of Mediterranean Fleet

London, June 25 (CP-Havas)—Admiral Sir William Fisher, Commander of the Mediterranean fleet, died today. He was 62.

Fisher entered the Royal Navy as a cadet in H.M.S. Britannia at the lad of 13 and in the Battle of Jutland was in command of H.M.S. St. Vincent. In 1917 he went to the Admiralty as Director of the Anti-Submarine Division.

He became a Rear-Admiral in 1932, Vice-Admiral in 1934 and admiral in 1932, in which year he became Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean fleet, a position he held through the crisis growing out of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

He was Naval A.D.C. to King George V.

Sir William died during the night, in a London clinic to which he was taken after illness made it necessary for him to suspend his work at the Portsmouth base.

King George Gives Two Audiences To Chamberlain

London, June 25 (CP)—Before going to the House of Commons today to direct his maiden speech on foreign affairs as Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain was received in audience by King George at Buckingham Palace. The Prime Minister motored from his home early for an hour.

Following the long debate in the Commons the Prime Minister returned to Buckingham Palace for a second audience with the King.

'Nothing Dramatic' Ahead, Says Italian Newspaper

Rome, June 25 (AP)—The authoritative Virginio Gayda, often the mouthpiece for Premier Mussolini, predicted today "nothing dramatic" would happen in the Spanish situation unless "new and intolerable complications ensue."

In Il Giornale d'Italia, Gayda wrote also "only those warships necessary to safeguard Italian and German interests will remain" in Spanish waters following Italo-German withdrawal from the patrol off Spain's coast.

"He calm!" Gayda told Italians. The Italian cabinet met but apparently did not touch on the Spanish-International crisis.

Berlin, June 25 (AP)—A German Foreign Office spokesman said today the Reich demanded the International Non - Intervention Committee take steps to prevent foreign arms and volunteers from reaching Spanish government forces.

Although no longer a member of the "Hands Off Spain" naval patrol, Germany insists that control of foreign participation in the Spanish civil war be "really effective", the spokesman said.

He denied the initiative in devising effective control measures now lies with Great Britain and France because German navy vessels cannot be expected to do anything except protect German ships from "acts of piracy."

British and French Warships to Fill Gap in Sea Patrol

Increase is Necessary By Unsettled Situation Says Sir John Simon

Compelled to Make Provision Against Movements Into Sterling

TO GIVE DETAILS

Recent Drain of Sterling to France Paramount Reason

London, June 25 (AP)—Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today asked the House of Commons to increase the exchange equalization fund by £300,000,000 ($1,500,000,000) to guard Great Britain's monetary agreement with the United States and France.

This fund, he told the Commons, would bring the stabilization fund to £500,000,000 and was made necessary by the unsettled international situation.

Sir John said he would explain later if France and the United States placed similar moves.

"In addition to the recent release of hoarded gold," he declared, "there has been much financial disturbance abroad and a general tendency for capital funds to move to London.

"Indeed, I consider there is no reason why the present unsettled conditions in connection with the international movement of capital should be permanent, the situation compels us to make further provision as an insurance against additional movements into sterling."

Sir John said he would explain later if France and the United States placed similar moves.

"In addition to the recent release of hoarded gold," he declared, "there has been much financial disturbance abroad and a general tendency for capital funds to move to London.

"Indeed, I consider there is no reason why the present unsettled conditions in connection with the international movement of capital should be permanent, the situation compels us to make further provision as an insurance against additional movements into sterling."

Reason

This the Chancellor said was essential if Britain were to maintain "our general financial policy and our international commitments and objectives under the tripartite monetary agreement which has been so widely welcomed."

No Change in Policy

Sir John indicated there would be no change in the present government policy but made clear additional funds were necessary for protection in the event of inflation to the French franc and the United States dollar.

Debate on the measure will start Monday at 4 p.m. when the chancellor said he would go into greater detail on the reasons for asking the fund.

The recent drain of sterling to France was considered to be the paramount reason behind Sir John's surprise move. French interest in the last few days have been selling francs and buying sterling because they believed the franc rate would again be devalued.

The franc financial quarters said at least faced the possibility of depreciation in terms of dollars and pounds that the weight francs or securities based on francs less likable in France.

In order to keep sterling from becoming "over-valued", the exchange fund could add sterling to maintain the stability of the triangular relationship for the franc, dollar and pound.

The equalization is carried out through the purchase or sale with sterling, making the additional £300,000,000 necessary.

The fund was originally £150,000,000 and in 1935 was increased to £350,000,000 through the sale of various kinds of government securities.

(Virtual exhaustion of France's 10,000,000,000 franc (about $450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed Wednesday in a letter of resignation from two of the fund's managers.)

AN OLD WOMAN'S TALE SAVES CITY FROM CAPTURE

Tells Loyalist General City of Avila is Strongly Held

ONLY 100 DEFENDERS

By EDWARD J. NAIL

Avila, Spain, June 25 (AP)—To the legends of Spain, land of romance, of conquistadors, rich in religion and in ancient fighting buildings, added today the tale of the Patron Saint of Avila, Teresa, and how she saved the city from destruction in this bitter civil war.

Behind the troops of the Spanish government, 2,000 strong under a newly-made general who knew the country and the people, were sent to capture the walled city.

Against them, standing about 100 insurgent soldiers behind the walls, and the city appeared doomed.

Then there appeared a bent old woman, with a bundle of sticks on her back, walking across the plain, and the general of the government army commanded her before him.

"You have come from Avila?" he demanded.

"Yes," said the old woman.

"Are the defences strong?"

"Strong as the mountains."

"Terribly strong," she said "with many strange engines of war, guns with long muzzles, and rows upon rows of men."

The general paused, surprised, and turned to his staff.

"Let the old woman back," he said. "We must have more men."

Meanwhile the old woman wandered off with her bundle of sticks, and vanished from sight behind a hill. The long standing order stands. The general, not quite sure, turned to his staff, looking for his aide.

"Where did she go?" he demanded of his soldiers.

Behind that rock," they pointed.

"Get her and bring her back. I want to question her further."

They searched behind the rock but there was no one there. The general, frightened, withdrew with his army, and before he could return with reinforcements there were many insurgent soldiers in the city, more than enough to hold it.

The woman with the bundle of sticks, the soldiers believe, was Santa Teresa, patron saint of Avila, a woman always have done in the country's moments of peril.

I don't know whether this story is true, but the soldiers who told me believe it.

Russia, Italy, Germany Shipped Arms to Spain, Eden Tells Commons

"Keep Cool" Over Crisis is His Advice to Nations

LLOYD GEORGE DEBATES

Eden Says Every One Knows Russia Shipped Arms to Spain

London, July 25 (AP)—Great Britain and France have decided to use their own warships to fill the gap in the "hands off Spain" sea patrol which was created by Italo-German withdrawal, it was learned today.

The Franco-British move to extend the supervisory warship control, by themselves means they will take over patrolling the eastern, or Mediterranean, coast of Spain, where Germany and Italy left off.

Purpose of Cordon.

The cordon is intended to help keep foreign arms ships from delivering their cargoes in Spain. Germany and Italy waited their hands of the patrol because the Spanish government's armed forces bombed their ships and allegedly tried to torpedo the German pocket battleship Deutschland.

France and Great Britain intend to notify the non-intervention committee of their plan as it is put into effect. Britain also is willing to consider the placing of neutral observers on each patrol ship. Italy and Germany still are on the non-intervention committee.

"Keep Cool" Idea Advises.

Foreign Secretary Eden stepped into a House of Commons debate over the Spanish crisis today to declare that Russia, Italy and Germany had, by their secret, and "very large" shipments of arms into Spain, "let the genie out of the bottle," Lloyd George, and joined Prime Minister Chamberlain in urging a "keep cool" attitude toward Italo-German withdrawal from the Spanish non-intervention patrol.

With Chamberlain he stressed the outlook is "not hopeless"; that Italy and Germany still may stay with the 25 other nations in the pact designed to keep their hands out of the Spanish civil war.

Says Russia In It.

"We know this (non-intervention) policy has not worked satisfactorily," Eden declared, "that Russia, despicable gentleman (Lloyd George) has kept Russia out of it by her actions."

No Provoking Step

Foreign Secretary Eden, replying to Lloyd George's charge that government cowardice, said that considering the strength of British armaments and the power of Britain's friends it was not always necessary to take a strong line in a way where vital British interest were concerned. He said there was no provoking step that could be taken by a similar purpose it was no excuse for the German Foreign Minister to control. The public demanded that the country be kept out of the Spanish war.

Eden asked the House to consider whether, if the withdrawal of non-intervention really would aid the Spanish government. Supposing there was no non-intervention and Valencia was free to trade in arms, what would the government be going to get supplies of planes and other materials?

State of Armament Considered

The United States had placed an embargo on arms and of the House concerns of the United Kingdom selling large numbers of planes when at this moment it had "grave anxieties" about the state of armament considered.

Regarding France he left it to the House to judge how far the French government in view of the present conditions of the French army, would be willing to supply large exports of war materials for Spain.

The three totalitarian states — Germany, Italy and Russia — had armaments in a more advanced state than democratic countries.

Marriage at Nineteen Condemned by Judge

London, Ont., June 25 (CP)—Marriage at 18 is just a lifetime attached to a ball and chain, Police Magistrate of County Judge Joseph Wearing, as he expressed it at session of Division Court today.

Another ten years would have been soon enough to wed, the judge told Henry Chad, when the court learned the 19-year-old youth's bride to be was being sued by his mother for a $150 board bill.

"How old did you say you were?" asked Judge Wearing.

"Nineteen," replied Chad.

"How in the world did you come to get married at this age?" You might as well have tied a millstone around your neck and decided to carry it through life. You're in small dog-house but you can't be as smart as you look or you wouldn't have married when you were 18.

"You shouldn't have married for ten years at least. Have you your mother on board, money?"

Then turning to the mother, Judge Wearing said:

"The trouble is, your son is married. The chances are he will start a family right away and won't pay board."

Judgment of the court was for $110, to be paid at the rate of $2 each week.

powers' efforts to keep arms and men from Spain.

Intervention Goes on

"Although we have had to express very definitely our dissatisfaction with the failure of the scheme of non-intervention," the Prime Minister said "that the non-intervention has gone on and is going on in spite of the non-intervention scheme."

"Yet, it is also true that up to the present time we have succeeded in achieving the object which has been at the root of policy the whole time."

Chamberlain had this to say on the Ishii-Reich's charges that the Spanish government submarine attempted to torpedo the German battleship:

"German officers were convinced of what they thought was indisputable evidence they had been the subject of a plot. I myself do not exclude the possibility of the mistake.

German Claim 'Reasonable'

"In the circumstances the German claim they could not allow their ships to be exposed to risks of this sort was a reasonable one.

"I go a little further than that. When I think of the consequences to the German Navy and the material feelings of resentment and indignation that would be aroused by such an incident, I must say that the German Government in withdrawing its ships from the international patrol and limiting the incident as closed, have shown a degree of restraint we should all recognize."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Opposition Liberals, led the debate. Both the ministerial and the Opposition benches were packed and the spacious galleries and the distinguished strangers' galleries were noticed the ambassadors of France, Belgium, Spain, Russia and Portugal, and the ministers of Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Rumania.

Empire Backs League

Sir Archibald declared that the imperial conference found a common loyalty throughout the British Commonwealth for the League of Nations. He hoped the Government would derive encouragement from that sentiment and pursue in the immediate future a more active league policy.

He also hoped more general co-and the United States would be forthcoming. The opportunity to grasp this unique, he said, was fleeting, and if not made now the United States opinion would sour. Another important matter arising from the Imperial Conference was the situation in the Far East. Public opinion wanted a restoration of good terms between Great Britain and Japan.

Good Relations With Japan

"It is our duty to recognize the justice of Japans claim to improved access to markets and raw materials, and show our willingness to co-operate effectively with her in the maintenance of peace."

Turning to Europe Sir Archibald was thankful that the relations with France had never been warmer or more loyal.

French Friendship Cheered

Cheers greeting this statement, as they did his commendation of the government over the close solidarity in the present relations between Great Britain and France.

"There is at least one thing to be thankful for," he said. "That is our friendship with France, never more firm and loyal than it is now, based on a common ideal of freedom and peace and loyalty to the League of Nations."

He declared Germany should be made to understand that Great Britain's old friendships could not be sacrificed for the sake of new Germany say that Britain remains faithful to her obligations as a signatory of the league covenant.

"Nazi Germany should tell Germany that Great Britain desired her to rejoin the League, with equal status providing Germany accorded Russia similar equality.

"Once Germany returns to the League, joins in a measure of general disarmament and agrees to abide by third party judgment in international disputes, there is no price for her friendship we are unwilling to pay."

Ken Maynard Tells of Life In the Movie Studios and About His Horse "Tarzan"

Famous Screen And Circus Star Has a Winning Personality

ALWAYS RODE HORSES

"Tarzan" Knows Twenty Words of Command and is 12 Years Old

Six feet of rugged manhood, a face tanned by the sun and wind of the western plains, a charming personality that immediately draws one to him, a well modulated voice, its charm enhanced by the soft nuances of the western drawl and a manner which can not but impress all with whom he comes in contact. If one can imagine these characteristics confined in one man alone then a fair idea of the idol of the boyhood of Canada and perhaps the world will be had of the man of the death-defying feats on the silver screen, whose potent guns have rescued many a lady from the clutches of screen villains; Ken Maynard motion picture star, who today is appearing with the Al G. Brothers circus.

The handsome star paid a visit to the Ontario Intelligencer this morning, and his appearance was the signal for incessant heartbeats on the part of the feminine members of the staff, and intense interest on the part of the remainder of the staff.

Contrary to the general opinion that motion picture stars are a "stuck up" people, the Western star exudes an atmosphere of friendliness, a personality bearing that immediately caught on with the Intelligencer staff, gaily and flamingly, while his general bearing and easy "at home" attitude made it readily understood why he is so popular.

"Where you born" he laughed, "why yes, I first saw the light of day at Mission, Texas, and the first I remember I have of this world, is bouncing along on the horn of a saddle in front of my dad's father. From that day on the smell of horses and saddle leather has been in my nostrils. My mother was a ranch owner, and I was reared in an atmosphere I love next to cattle."

So strong did the "horse appeal" become, that young Maynard lived practically all his young days in the "hurricane deck" of a western bronco, and so proficient did he become that at the age of 16 the homely atmosphere of the ranch and plains called a rough riding act in a circus. Here his exceptional talents with horses, and saddle caught the eye of movie scouts and he was offered a contract. "That was fifteen years ago," he said, "since then I have been making motion pictures ever since."

"Right times a year," he said, "I appear before the camera and for seven months of the year I contract with my cowboy congress. So you see the life of a movie star is not sitting in easy chairs, frolicking on beaches and mooning around in the atmosphere of pretty girls. Oftentimes we leave for location at seven o'clock in the morning and work there until two and three o'clock the next morning."

Maynard, and his beautiful wife, who has held honors as Miss Indiana, and who is not connected with the movies, live in a fine home in Los Angeles, "in the stone's throw from Hollywood," he said, "and when I am not in front of a camera I am a cowboy at Los Angeles," making the word "at" very plain.

"Are the motion picture people the glamorous easy-living sort that the newspapers would have us believe they are?" he was asked.

"No, emphatically no!" he replied. "The motion picture industry is like any other. It has a problem to produce, and a big thrill for its productions. It is like any other business. It has its bosses, and employees and every one of them works hard. The stories are the stories of production and must keep up their standard in order to supply the demand. And the general public is one of the severest critics on the face of the earth. In our business, one is a star tonight, and a nobody tomorrow. The majority of the motion picture people are level-headed business men and women. Fame is fleeting, you know, and the stars of today have got away from the ancient idea of riotous living and extravagant spending of money. Of course there are rare exceptions, we have them too, but in the majority, Hollywood actors and actresses are ill keeping with the times and devote the most of their time to their work."

"The depression taught them that."

"That is right," he laughed, "we had the depression out here as well as you did here. Money was tight, and many of the big film producers suffered. Some of the smaller studios closed down, but that was also generally known. Fortunately, the appeal of the western pictures did not decrease with the depression, and I had the good fortune to keep on working."

His Pilot's License

But the thrill of riding his horse "Tarzan" is not the only thing in life for the big westerner. Nine years ago he applied for and received his pilot's license. Today he has the honor of owning the largest Stearman monoplane, an open-cockpit machine equipped with a Wasp engine.

"That is a hobby of mine," said, "in fact such a hold did it have over me at the start that I bought myself no less than seven machines, before I often-time in the plane and cruise down to Mexico, and other places. At one time I did a solo flight to South America. It is a lot of fun"

Ken Maynard, Western Ace, and motion picture star, who is in exclusive interview today given Ontario Intelligencer readers an insight in the life of motion picture stars. With his wonder horse "Tarzan" Mr. Maynard is appearing today with Cole Brothers Circus, and in a picture "Western Courage" at the Belle theatre tonight.

Maynard's first love is his beautiful horse "Tarzan." This greatcolored equine beauty is a Palomino and is twelve years old. He has been in the care of his master since he was a yearling colt.

"He is strictly a one-man horse", Maynard said, "and I have trained him to be that way. I never allow anyone else to ride or to handle him. He knows me, of course."

"Tarzan," smiled the star, "I think is one of the best trained horses in the motion picture business today. He was a star in the 'silent days' and he has adapted to equine stardom in sound pictures. But he had to be trained all over again when sound came into effect. He is very intelligent, knows at least twenty words. Tricks are all of one syllable, and he readily understands what is being said to him."

"Yes, he can fight, and fight viciously—that is in pictures, but in "private life" he is gentle, docile and any one can go near him."

An Admirer of Canada

"Canada is a swell country" said Maynard, "I toured it several years ago with the Ringling circus, but it looks much more beautiful now than it did then. Everything looks so green, and red. I have natural colors here in your trees and shrubbery that we seldom see in California. Out there things appear to dry up very quickly, but here they stay green to be fresh and green."

"I fell in love with your country the minute I set foot in it. In fact my wife and I, have been giving it the rave since early this morning, taking in the natural beauty of the surrounding district. The airport as you have down the road is a beauty. That caught my eye, and I would like to have seen more of it."

The husky westerner will leave the circus at the beginning of October to resume production on several western vehicles in the movie colony. He is at present under contract to Grand National Pictures, and expects to make four more before he goes on a vacation. "It takes about six weeks to make a western feature," he said, "annually there is a lot of hard work connected with it. But Los Angeles is peculiarly adapted to the making of pictures. Within a radius of two hundred miles, scenes representative of nearly every country in the world from the sands of the Sahara Desert to the snow-capped mountains of Canada, are to be had."

Asked by several members of the staff for his autograph, the smiling westerner, graciously complied, then generously added a autographed picture of himself.

Mrs. Maynard, a beautiful young lady, and as charming as her famous husband, smiling acknowledged an introduction. "Did you tell all about Yogimelli?" she asked her husband. "Yes, I told them all about you", he laughed. "I knew you would" that you did not call them your middle name." All of which is a standard joke among celebrities when being interviewed. The point being another "dark hidden secret," which they did not want published.

NO PLEA ENTERED IN THEFT CHARGE

Raymond Lawrenson Remanded a Week on His Own Bail

Raymond Lawrenson, Thurlow Township youth, who was apprehended on charges of stealing bicycle parts, appeared in Belleville Police Court held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., today charged with the theft of two bicycles from Belleville. Lawrenson was not asked to enter a plea, his case being enlarged for one week.

"This is a serious matter. This young man should procure the services of a solicitor, I'd suggest," interrupted Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., addressing his remarks to the Bench.

"Perhaps you are right, case enlarged for one week," retorted His Worship. Lawrenson being permitted his liberty upon his own bail.

Police state in the apprehension of Lawrenson they have broken up one of the largest bicycle-stealing rings ever to operate in these parts. Lawrenson is not operating alone, police state, he having two encaged accomplices, who may be summoned into Juvenile Court at the conclusion of subsequent investigations that are still needed to clear up the large number of bicycles cases still confronting the authorities.

Keeping at the police station today are five bicycles, that were recovered in a drive aided on the fifth concession of Thurlow yesterday, where the stolen bikes were being dismantled, rebuilt and painted before being stolen off the streets of Belleville during the past few weeks. This bicycle-stealing ring had the police completely baffled until early this week, when information received by Sergeant Harold Lewis aided in Detective Izard and Provincial Constable Wm. McBride apprehending a teen-aged lad following what proved to be a stolen bicycle on the third concession of Sidney. It was through the apprehension of this lad that the driver aided and as cache point for the stolen bicycles was unearthed. The stolen bicycles are today being restored to their owners.

MEETINGS CLOSE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

C. M. Reid Guest of Meeting Tells of Florida

The last weekly meeting of the directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce until September was held on Thursday and considerable business was transacted. Chief of. Mr. C. M. Reid, a former director and a Past President of the Chamber, now of Toronto, Merchandise Manager of Toronto, were guests at the meeting and were welcomed by the President, Mr. Leo B. Riggs.

Mr. Reid gave a very interesting talk on Florida, where he has spent the past six winters: one at Miami and five at St. Petersburg. St. Petersburg, Mr. Reid said, has a population of about fifty thousand and during the summer, but in the winter the population reaches well over double. The Chamber of Commerce in St. Petersburg is recognized as a great force engaged in advancing the interests of the city and is given complete co-operation and liberal support by the city authorities.

In addition to the President, Mr. Leo B. Riggs, the following directors were present at the meeting: Messrs. J. Ackerman, E. V. Illsley, H. E. Fairfield, J. G. Gallway, J. B. Joyce, Vice-Presidents and Secretary-Manager J. O. Herity.

Youths Push Boat Ashore, Police Wait and Nab Them

Charge Two Youths With Theft of 300 Pounds Scrap Iron

Seen in the middle of the Moira River transporting, it is alleged, 300 pounds of scrap iron across the river opposite the Fruit Machinery Company premises, Randall and Douglas Smith, two local youths were taken into custody by local police yesterday afternoon, as they waited at the bank for their arrival.

The Smith brothers were arraigned before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K. C. in today's local police court charged with the theft of 300 pounds of scrap iron from the premises of the Fruit Machinery Company. Randall Smith pleaded not guilty when charged. "We didn't steel the iron, we found it in the river and took it," explained Randall Smith, stating he was amanded for one week after Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C. suggested that a plea of not guilty be entered.

Douglas Smith, a 16 year old brother, pleaded guilty to the same charge, however. "This is this kid's first offence and I believe he should be released on suspended sentence," Prompted Mr. Donnan. His Worship meted out the proposed six months suspended sentence, while brother Randall was remanded to the custody of the county jail for one week.

According to local police the Smith brothers had taken a boat and rowed across the Moira River at a point opposite the Fruit Machinery Company. After loading approximately 300 pounds of scrap iron in the boat, the Smith boys are alleged to have commenced to push the loaded boat across river to the west bank, wading in the water up to their waists. Upon their arrival at the west bank / the Smith boys had walked directly into the hands of the police, who had been watching the entire proceedings in ambush from the bank, and walked out and arrested their men.

Jeanne nodded, and reluctantly allowed him to help her into the car. It was dangerous she thought to take such a risk. If Olly Bartlett saw them it might mean more weary days of job hunting. With a sigh she sank into the comfortable upholstery of the car. It was pleasant though not to have to walk, she told him as she gave him her address.

"First of all, Jeanne, I want to know what the matter is with you?" Lance deftly swung the car out on the avenue. "The last time I saw you I thought you were as happy as a lark, but today you know you look different. Something has happened."

Jeanne forced a little laugh. So Lance Larkin had noticed the change in her. Bryan had broken her heart for all the world to see.

"I think you are imagining things," she said lightly.

He must never know that all of her ballets had been shattered and that now she snared me cynical outlook on love.

He looked down at her quickly and Jeanne could feel the flush sweep up to her cheeks and her throat grow tight.

"Really there is nothing the matter?" But a note in his voice betrayed her.

"Yes," he said in a grave voice. "Well, perhaps some day you will tell me about it. Until then, Jeanne, remember this: if you ever need any help, call on me. I'll be very happy to do anything I can."

It was silly of her to be so moved by his words. Jeanne told herself sternly, turning away from him so that he would not see the hot tears that flooded her eyes.

Without saying anything more Lance Larkin drove on and Jeanne was grateful to him for not talking.

"My house is the third from the corner," she said as they swung around the corner and down the street past the long row of shabby brownstone houses.

"Aren't you living with your friend Sandra any more?" he asked her as he stopped the car at the curb.

Jeanne shook her head. "No, the apartment was too expensive. I thought I'd live here for a few months until I was certain about a job. It's not a very attractive place but it will do for the present."

She glanced up at the bleak, illlighted house in time to see a man stride down the front steps—a man in brown wearing a brown felt hat, walk, was familiar. Jeanne bent forward, her eyes shining. It was Bryan! Impulsively she reached for the door and then she saw him looking first at her and then at the car. And without a word or even more than a casual glance he raised his hat to her and walked swiftly down the street. Jeanne stared after him blankly. Why hadn't he stopped and talk, at least a few words? With difficulty she restrained the impulse to jump out of the car and hurry after him. She turned back to Lance Larkin who was regarding her inquiringly.

"Was that a friend of yours?" he asked.

A friend! Bryan! Jeanne pressed her hands to her mouth to keep from crying out.

"Yes, a friend," she said after a moment and her voice sounded strange to her.

Lance Larkin was still watching her but he said no more about Bryan. Instead he leaned over and patted her hand gently.

"It hurts me to see you like this, Jeanne. You are the one person I was waiting on. Have you too found that love isn't what you believed it to be?"

Jeanne nodded her head slowly. "Perhaps I was silly to care so much," she said more to herself than to him.

"One always does," Lance said soberly. "Only a few . . . ." He broke off with a short laugh. "She's very beautiful," Jeanne said.

"Yes," he agreed after a moment. "Beautiful and spoiled. She can have anything she wants with the result that nothing interests her very much."

"Except you," Jeanne interjected softly.

"No, she doesn't want me," he said harshly. "I'm just around. Good old Lance. But I can't seem to give her up. You see we played together when we were kids. Olly Bartlett has been part of my life ever since I can remember. He'd be all right except for that crowd she runs around with. I can't stand them but I go to her parties so I can see what they are up to."

"Why don't you marry her?"

He hesitated. "Sometimes I'd like to, but most of the time I just feel like paddling her. Olly is really a swell girl but Norma Carteret isn't doing her a bit of good."

"Norma Carteret?" Jeanne recalled the name thoughtfully.

"Yes, the actress. At least she was on the stage for a time. She and that roommate, Dodge Thorne, hang around Olly all the time just for what they can get out of her. There isn't an honest intention in ether of them."

"She may grow tired of them after awhile," Jeanne said.

"I've been hoping so but it's been going on for a long time," Lance told her bitterly. "But I'm a fine one, pouring out all of my troubles for you to bear on your slim little shoulders."

Jeanne smiled wanly. "Don't apologize. I'm sorry that you aren't happy. I always thought that a person like you with everything you ever wanted would never have anything but pleasure."

"Money doesn't mean that much," he said. "I think it's almost better to have just enough to keep you alive. After that it's just a burden."

"I'd like to think so," Jeanne said ruefully. "It has always seemed to me it would make things a lot easier. I'm beginning to agree with Sandra that it is money and not love that counts."

But Sandra hadn't taken money. She had taken love and Bryan.

Lance took her by the shoulders gently. "Don't say that, Jeanne. I don't want you to get like most girls. Money is all they care for. Ever since you've been with me I have had something all of the other girls lack."

"Until now," Jeanne interrupted him in a bitter voice.

And then she was ashamed for saying such a thing. After all one had to meet life without whining. She couldn't let Lance think that one bitter experience had undermined her courage and ambition.

"Forgive me," she said. "I'm just tired tonight. I don't mean what I've been saying."

"That's better," he said in a relieved voice. "It's a fine mess you, Jeanne, to let things get you down."

"From now on I won't," she told him with forced gayety. "And now I must go. I've probably made you late already."

"I'd love to have you dine with me," he said unexpectedly.

"It's sweet of you, but I think we'd better not, Mr. Larkin."

He bent forward impulsively. "Don't call me Mr. Larkin, Jeanne. Please make it Lance."

"All right, Lance," she said shyly.

"I hope you like your work with Gordon Bartlett," he said as she helped her out of the car. "You're a swell girl, Jeanne. Perhaps if I'd met you sooner life might have been different."

Jeanne shook her head with a smile. "I think you are tired tonight, too," she said. "Tomorrow you'll feel better."

He looked down at her, his keen eyes on hers. "Perhaps there is still a chance for me," he said in a quiet voice. "I've admired you for a long while."

INSTALMENT 5.

Without another word Lance Larkin turned and walked rapidly down the length of the ugly brownstone looming house to his car, leaving Jeanne to stare after him bewildered. What did he mean? It wasn't possible, she told herself, that a man like Lance Larkin would ever be really interested in a girl outside of his own world. He couldn't grow fond of a tired, discouraged Jeanne MacDonald when there was a beautiful and gay Olly Bartlett in his life. Things like that happened only in stories.

When the yellow car was out of sight Jeanne let herself into the house and walked upstairs to her room. With a gesture of despair she dropped her hat and coat on the chair and threw herself on the hard narrow couch. She could have been feeling happy about her new position; instead she was filled with doubts. The encounter with Olly Bartlett left her shaken and uncertain. There was the constant possibility of trouble with the girl because Lance probably called at the Bartlett's almost every day. Only Jeanne's desperate need for money made her feel that it was right to accept the position.

"I must work," she cried silently but now she wasn't thinking of the necessity of the weekly salary, of her mother's need of care, but of the crying need to keep busy so that she could forget Bryan. Even knowing what he had done to her life did not keep her from thinking of him constantly. Why had he come to the house? And why, when he did see her, did he turn away? For a moment she was tempted to call him but her pride held her back. If Bryan wanted to see her he knew now where she lived.

It was after Jeanne had eaten a cheerless supper of crackers and milk in her room that she tired, overworked handlady called to her from the lower hall.

"There's a young man down here to see you," she snapped as Jeanne came out into the hall.

Jeanne hurried downstairs wondering if Bryan had come back.

"So this is where you live!"

Jeanne crossed the lower hall to find Mart standing in the doorway of the living room.

"Hello, Mart." Jeanne's voice was tired.

"At last I've found you." He was looking down at her angrily. "Where can we sit down in this place?"

"Here in the living room." Jeanne led the way to a hideous sofa.

"I don't know what your idea was, hiding away from me like this," Mart said disarmedly as he sat down beside her. "It gave me a belt of a lot of trouble. I finally had to write your mother to find out where you were living. It made me feel pretty cheap."

"I was going to call you as soon as I found work," Jeanne said in a low voice.

"Well, have you found it?" he demanded.

She nodded. "Today."

"And you rushed right to the telephone to let me know," he said sarcastically.

Jeanne bit her lip. "Please, Mart, don't talk like that. I didn't call you before because I was sorry. You had no right to announce our engagement in Hilton . . ."

"Why not? I told you the night you lost your job I'd take care of you," he said stubbornly.

"I know, Mart, but you should have warned me. Every one in Hilton was congratulating me."

"And you didn't like it, did you?" he shouted. "Too proud to have people think you would be willing to marry Mart Denton."

"It's not that's at all, Mart, and you know it." Jeanne said hotly. "But if you think that's the only thing you should have told me."

"I now it, Jeanne." Mart said, his voice suddenly humble, and his dark eyes pleading. "But it was the only way I could get you. I thought if I asked you—well, you'd turn me down. It seemed to me that by putting it in the paper you might be willing to see it through."

Jeanne shook her head slowly. "Now I never will," she said.

He clutched both her hands in his. "Why not? I still mean it, Jeanne. I want to take care of you. Why can't we make a go of it? You're the only girl who has ever meant anything to me. Marrying you would make up for the rotten deal I've gotten at the office."

"Even if I wanted to marry you, Mart, I wouldn't now," Jeanne said evenly.

He stared at her bewildered. "What do you mean?"

"You told your mother that I lost my job. I met her in the station just before I left and she accused me of trying to marry you so that you would support both Mother and me."

"Oh, so that's it," Mart said dully, turning away from her.

"That is," Jeanne echoed in a fierce little voice.

He buried his face in his hands. "I might have known Mother would make trouble," he said after a moment.

"That's not fair, Mart." Jeanne's blue eyes were misty. "You must have given her the impression that you were marrying me because I needed help."

He was silent.

"Did you, Mart?"

"Well," he said reluctantly, "I knew she would never like my marrying you and the only way I thought it would work was to have her think you needed me so much I couldn't let you down."

Jeanne jumped to her feet. "That was a terrible thing to do. I know your mother wants you to marry Marilyn Freeman but there was no reason for you to tell a lie to get her to consent to your marrying me."

W. R. MORTON, PUBLISHER

CALLS IT MOSTLY SELFISHNESS

"Just plain, everyday selfishness" on the part of motorists is responsible for 75 per cent of Ontario's huge annual cost of traffic accidents, in the opinion of Jos. H. King, superintendent of the automobile and casualty branch of the Canadian Underwriters' Association.

"When motorists can show a substantial and permanent decrease in the accident and death rate on our streets and highways, they will unquestionably reap the benefit of their careful efforts in lower insurance rates," according to a statement made yesterday by Mr. King.

Referring to the current "Try Courtesy" campaign of the Ontario highways department, he remarked that its objective could be the means of saving tens of thousands of dollars for motorists who carried insurance. Many drivers, he thought, are paying a heavy price for selfishness and lack of courtesy in their insurance premiums or forcing other motorists to carry the burden for them.

In his opinion, many accidents are caused by "cut-in" drivers who create the circumstances for a mishap but do not participate in it themselves, and usually insist belligerently "they had nothing whatever to do with it."

"This type of road menace, says Mr. King, is usually in a great hurry to get somewhere "but if you asked him what he was going to do with the few minutes he saved at the risk of his own and several other lives, he would be hard put to give you a reasonable answer."

He painted a vivid word-picture of several hundred thousand motor vehicles swooping down simultaneously on the towns of Napanee, Newmarket and Tillsonburg and killing or maiming every single inhabitant—nearly 11,000 men, women and children.

"Fantastic you'd say," exclaimed Mr. King, "yet every year, largely through selfishness and lack of courtesy, we are allowing this very thing to happen in Ontario. How much longer are we going to let this annual massacre continue?"

Because of the many factors involving conditions of roads, drivers, weather, automobiles and other circumstances which bear on traffic accidents, Mr. King thought it would be difficult to compile accurate statistics showing the actual cost of discourtesy in motoring, but stated there was no question in his mind or in the minds of other automobile insurance experts that motorists are paying a heavy toll for thoughtless and inconsiderate driving.

In his experience women are outstandingly more courteous behind the wheel than men, although they may not generally be as good drivers.

"But," he added, "courtesy will go a great deal further in preventing accidents than a good driver who seems to think he is on a race track."

More extensive efforts are necessary, he maintained, to eliminate the night-driving hazards of "one-eyed cars and glaring headlights and abolish the danger presented by "parade leaders" who hold up a line of 10 or 20 cars by driving at an unreasonably slow pace. Such cars, Mr. King believes, should be made to accelerate their speed to meet the demands of traffic, or made to travel on secondary roads where their ambling pace will not interfere with safe highway conditions.

WAR DEBTS

Finland stands out among all the nations as the best payer of war debts in the world. The other day this nation alone of all debtors of the United States followed its own custom of making a half yearly payment.

The debts from the war keep mounting year by year and the likelihood of payment is taken less and less for granted. If it were not for the semi-annual payments by Finland, many people would quite forget about them, though those at the helm of finance not only in the U.S. but also in debtor nations know only too well this situation of mounting war debts which seemingly cannot be paid as conditions are at present.

There was some talk recently that the question might be opened up almost immediately but then it was officially denied. That is sufficient proof that the settlement by payment is so far away or so unlikely under the immediate outlook that there is little advisability in the holding of a conference on this problem.

The likelihood is that Finland will go on as she is doing with her regular six-month payments of $163,143 and that others will continue defaulting.

Nations seem to have too much to think about for the time being, economic questions are pressing at the exchequers, and present payments seem more and more impossible.

Still time has a strange faculty of changing the whole complexion of affairs and who can tell what the final arrangement will be.

A TRIP ON A SHOW BOAT ON THE HUDSON is one of the pleasures New York affords in the summer, one of the most popular of Manhattan's many attractions for visitors, from the Bowery to the Bronx and the Battery to Mulberry Bend, the bridges, the tunnels and the subway, to mention a few of the wonders New York can display. Captain Kay Parsons is master of the Showboat called "Bear Mountain", and she says "People come aboard to sing and dance, to get away from New York on a hot night. And it's a funny thing, we rarely ever have a drunk on board. People just don't want to get drunk out in the fresh air." The Showboat arrived this way: A rich New York matron conceived the idea of buying a boat and entertaining her visitors on trips up the Hudson. Once a week she entertained on board with Kay Parsons to boss the show called "Cotton Blossom Night", after the name of the first Mississippi showboat. The rich lady tired of her toy and Kay Parsons took over the boat and made a business out of it.

X X X

TWO THOUSAND PASSENGERS, mostly young folks, have a swell time every evening on the Showboat, singing and dancing, with Kay Parsons as master of ceremonies and she sure does get the crowd going. Here's some of Kay Parson's patter as reported by "Candide", of the New York Mirror, who took a trip to get a story for her daily coldmn:

"Now I want you young folks sitting on the floor there to just move back. After all, the old folks have a right to see my show and they've been in their seats for an hour. . . ."

The old folks cheer, the young folks boo, but move. Capt. Kay still sticks:

"All right, before the evening is over you fellows that are getting the best of it will be apologizing and saying you are sorry. All together now, let's have our theme song . . . Le-e-e-t me call you-u-u-u swe-e-etheart . . ."

And the battle is won, Capt. Kay Parsons the winner. It simply couldn't happen anywhere else. No mother ever handled a big and brawling family better. She talks to them:

"Now we've got a lot of parties with us tonight all arranged by my good friend Mamie Lemlein. I want a big hand for the Ladies of the Eastern Star . . . they're on board tonight . . ."

It's a camp meeting crowd, half young, half old—half boys, half girls. Next to the fresh air most fun they have is to sing old songs—Captain Kay at the wheel:

"Even the kids like the old songs. They don't know the words, but they hum the tunes. I guess "Frivolous Sal' is about the favorite. And they love the tear-jerkers like 'Only a bird In a gilded Cage.' The truth is, they just like to sing."

Up the Hudson for an hour or two from the Battery, under the pearl necklace of the George Washington Bridge- lovers looking up saying nothing, but feeling much.

The captain of the "Bear Mountain" could marry a young couple if they had a license and the wish—none ever asked him. It's a mighty fine place to propose. . . up the Hudson then back to the Battery.

And the young lady columnist voices her reaction in these words:

Like a stranger in a new world. Candide stood up forward and watched the passengers streaming off, reluctant subdued. Only one man was a little drunk and wobbly. He apologized to Captain Kay, where she stood, saying "Good night good night . . . " And the man who had kissed her loudest, he apologized too. "Good night . . . good night."

Candide stood and watched, amazed—we had seen 2,000 New Yorkers relax.

When You Stop for Coffee you are Courteous—

Try Courtesy

When You Start Again On Your Way

AT THE refreshment counter we all stop at times, clerk, truck-driver, sportsman, president, farmer, school-boy and merchant. Here we tarry for a moment with a pleasantry, a word about the weather, a query about direction—an interesting group of courteous people.

Then we climb in behind the steering wheels again but do we continue to think and act as courteously towards each other as we did at the refreshment counter? We should because we are all still the same normal, decent, human beings.

We should respect the rights of the other fellow—give him half the road—warn him with our horn when we want to pass to overtake him—dip or dim our lights when meeting him at night—drive fast enough to keep traffic moving but not so fast as to have to keep "cutting out" and "cutting in"—pass him with an ample margin so as never to crowd him—and in a dozen other ways think of him and treat him as courteously as we did at the refreshment counter.

The safety and pleasure of driving will be greatly increased when every driver resolves to Try Courtesy in all his thinking and driving. I, therefore, earnestly recommend that you do your part in bringing about safer driving and "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

Serious Consideration To Extension Voluntary Health Insurance Plans

Medicos of Western Ontario Explain System

TUBERCULOSIS TEST

Establish Resistance in Patient's System to The Disease

Ottawa, June 26 (CP)—Joint convention of the Canadian and Ontario Medical Associations closes today with the Ontario body steering a course in which it will give "serious consideration" to extension of voluntary health insurance plans.

Assurance that such consideration would be extended was given late last night by Dr. R. C. Paterson, newly-installed President, after Dr. W. E. Colbeck of Welland, retiring President, had outlined work done in Essex County in evolving a "punch card" system for recording health costs that could be adopted as a statistical basis for voluntary health insurance efforts.

Dr. Colbeck said the "punch card" system had been evolved as a result of an "unprecedented situation" which faced the medical profession in the southwestern Ontario county of supplying services to those on relief. By applying methods of modern business to their own work, Dr. Colbeck declared, the profession in Essex had planned what might prove "the little acorn from which a great oak would grow."

So successful had the work proven, he said, that Rockefeller Foundation, for the first time in history, had granted funds for medical economics and had done in charge of the Essex county work they might have more it they needed it.

Used in Dakota

Already, he added, the system had been fitted complete and was being used by medical authorities in the Dakotas and the State of Washington after they had watched it work in Ontario.

The retiring President announced also after the meeting that the association had given its endorsation to Incorporation of Associated Medical Services, a permanent voluntary health insurance organization growing out of experimental work conducted during the past year in three areas of the province. The services will give exclusive medical attention without extra charge to subscribing members who pay on a basis of $3 a month for married men and $1.50 for single. It will operate in Essex and Norfolk counties and in Toronto.

"Voluntary health insurance which is to be adopted in three Ontario areas is medical service on the pre-payment plan. I hope the people of Canada will speak to the value of subscribing for people hospital service as required" said Dr. Colbeck. Such a system gave local autonomy, direction and control.

Hope Industry Will Help

"We who have been interested in it and have watched the work of these men hope and pray that industry will see the light and will come forward and contribute a large part of the cost of these services for the good of the workmen and artisans of this province," he said.

Within six months or a year, he declared, "we will not only have figures on relief costs but also have accurate figures on hospitalization needs of 275,000 persons."

The retiring president made a plea for establishment of a liaison organization to work with the profession, the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, industry and labor. Such an organization would contain representatives of all four bodies, he hoped, and would provide the greatest possible measure of co-operation in improving the working of the Board.

Discussing the relationship of the medical men of the province to the Workmen's Compensation Board, he said: "From the employers' angle it is a very serious question, because industry and the employers of this province have turned into the Workmen's Compensation Board, since 1917, some $120,000,000—a direct tax on them and on us who constitute the population of this Province. So financially it is a big problem."

Play Important Part

"Our investigations quickly showed to us that we who are on the executive—and we know it is from doctors up and down the province—did not realize the important part that the doctor plays in the administration of this Workmen's Compensation Act."

Many doctors, he said, had not realized in filling out the Workmen's Compensation forms that they were certifying not only for such benefits but for a cash pension that might go to the injured man or to his widow and children.

It was borne upon them what a "terrible and fearsome responsibility they carried" and they quickly came to the conclusion that from the newly-established medical centre in Ontario required more co-operation between medical men and the Workmen's Compensation Board, he said. They had been going along with "laisser faire" methods since 1917, the year it was constituted.

Checking Tuberculosis

Dr. W. E. Ogden of Toronto Western Hospital Chest Clinic described work he and nine colleague, two of them negroes, have done during the last fifteen years in developing and checking a serological test which reacts to a tendency a patient may have to tuberculosis years before it develops in an otherwise recognizable form and long before it reaches the disease stage.

He said the test, something like the Wassermann syphilis test but more complicated to administer, gave the physician up to five years in the incubation period in which to establish resistance in the patient's system which would overcome the onset of the disease and leave him immune.

The Toronto physicians made the test part of a tuberculin test and questionnaire scheme they had worked out which "precludes tuberculosis as a disease or, failing this, practically guarantees against advance disease."

POLICE COURT

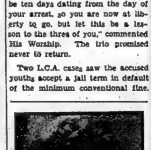
"How long will it take you to get out of this city?" asked Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. of Frank Demikay, transient who appeared in local police court today charged with vagrancy.



"Just about 30 minutes," replied Demikay as he was on the move and out of the prisoners' dock before His Worship added—"all right get going."

Demikay was apprehended following complaints of a transient panhandling on Church St. last night. He was under the influence of drink and panhandling arrested Chief Kidd as Demikay appeared today. "I've a job to go to in Port Colborne. I'm a sailor, you see," pleaded Demikay. It was following this statement that His Worship gave the accused as little time as possible to evacuate the city.

Earl Mowers, Belleville, Ralph Gilmour, Point Anne and George Dignard, Prince Edward County, all appeared for sentence today, after having pleaded guilty to the theft of 2,300 pounds of scrap from the Canadian Car and Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne recently. "This is the first offence for these lads and restitution has been made," said Crown Attorney Donnan as he intimated leniency would meet the ends of justice.

"Well you young men have been in jail for ten days now. I hope you have learned your lesson and will be of good behaviour in the future. The sentence of the court will be ten days dating from the day of your arrest, so you are now at liberty to go, but let this be a lesson to the three of you," commented His Worship. The trio promised never to return.

Two L.C.A. cases saw the accused young accept a jail term in default of the minimum conventional fine.

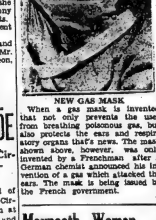
CALLIOPE WHEEL SNAPS ON PARADE
Trouble Department of Circus Replaces Wheel—Traffic Untangled

When the right front wheel of the steam calliope of Cole Bros. Circus buckled beneath the wagon in the intersection of Plains Road and Bridge Sts. during the circus parade today the largest traffic control in the history of this city resulted. It took the united efforts of three uniformed police and plainclothes constable to straighten out the traffic difficulties, many scores of automobiles and hundreds of pedestrians being affected.



In the vanguard of the parade with the mammoth steam calliope of Cole Bros. circus parade approached the intersection, proceeding north on Pinnacle St., where the gilt appearing brown four horsed team negotiated the right-hand turn into Bridge St., when in some manner the right front wheel of the steam calliope became detached and it limped lodged in the east track of the Canadian National Railway tracks. The horses strained and with an united effort pulled the vehicle around and the wheel snapped off at the hub. The horses were immediately halted and the remainder of the parade continued, leaving the calliope warm in the rear.

The lifesaving department of the Cole Bros. circus was immediately notified and the horses had been unhitched and driven light back to the circus grounds. It was while awaiting the arrival of the motorized trouble wagon, that the congestion of traffic became acute. Upon the arrival of the 'trouble' department, the large steam calliope was raised by means of a jack and a new wheel placed in the position of the broken one. The steam calliope was then transported to the grounds by means of the motorized tow truck with no serious damage being reported. It took fully 30 minutes before traffic was restored to normalcy, however.

LEAVES PEACE PARLEY

Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, is pictured as he left the peace conference with the steel mediation board at Cleveland, Ohio, for his home. Executives of three other steel corporations who were at the Conference, also left for their homes. Earlier in the day, the mediation board met leaders of the CIO, but nothing definite has yet been reached.

NEW GAS MASK

When a gas mask is invented that not only prevents the user from breathing poisonous gas, but also protects the ears and respiratory organs that's news. The mask shown above, however, was that invented by a Frenchman after a German chemist announced his invention of a gas which attacked the ears. The mask is being issued by the French government.

DAMAGE TO AUTO QUICKLY SETTLED
It wasn't exactly a case of the circus coming to Belleville, but it appeared more as if Belleville was going to the circus early this morning when the Cole Bros. Circus, featuring Clyde Beatty and Ken Maynard, moved into the city.

Being one of the first citizens to appear on the circus lot to watch the wonders of the erection of "canvas city," Mr. C. J. Longwell, 242 Front Street, was in an excellent ideal parking position for his automobile on Bleecker Ave. right on the direct route the circus wagons had to pass enroute from the railway to the circus lot.

Large motor tractors swung into action, hauling behind them miniature trains of circus wagons up Bleecker Ave. hill and into the circus lot. While negotiating one of the street intersections, however, the driver of one of the circus tractors failed to allow sufficient clearance, with the result that the rear wagon being hauled by the tractor, struck the left side of Mr. Longwell's car causing considerable damage to the fenders and body.

Constable Peley Thompson and a circus traffic officer were immediately on the scene of the trouble and before Mr. Longwell was even so much as notified of the accident, arrangements for the settlement of damages had been entered into. Mr. Longwell seemed satisfied with the negotiations that proved amicable to all parties concerned.

Although the general populace forgot momentarily the unloading of the circus wagons and the erection of canvas city during the excitement of the accident, the process of circus work and daily endeavours was carried on quietly and in unison. "The show must go on."

ARMED GUARDS MEN KEEP ORDER IN STEEL STRIKE ZONE

With the National Guard charged with the duty of maintaining order in Youngstown and Warren, Ohio and other cities that are critical points in the United States steel industry strike deadlock, the federal government mediation board held sessions in Cleveland, to attempt to reach some solution of the differences between independent steel companies and John L. Lewis' C. I. O. unions. Republican Steel Corp. at Warren ran locomotives with supplies and raw material, and cars with workers leaving the plant for the first time since the strike opened, through the picket lines. A carload of workers going home for the first time in 28 days are shown moving through the plant gates at top LEFT. At top RIGHT is Charles Taft II, chairman of the mediation board, pondering his troubles, while lower LEFT shows

U. S. A.'S YOUNGEST EAGLE TREES WINGS

SEVERE STORM UPROOTS CONEY ISLAND TREE

A storm which almost reached Coney Island recently, causing tornado proportions, twisted considerable damage to two building-tree shown above from its founda-ings. The storm pul lights out in tions and threw it against a home many homes, flooded streets and in the residential section of famed ripped roofs from several dwellings.

NEW C.I.O. LEADER.

Jacob Baker (Above), former assistant WPA administrator, is now to become head of an affiliated C.I.O. to organize U. S. A. government workers. With a nucleus of some 15 locals, the C.I.O. established this new "United Federal Workers of America" and Baker will lead them. He resigned from the WPA to take over his new union duties.

Tom Girdler, board chairman of Republic whose announcement of a 10% refusal by his company to enter into contracts with the C.I.O. union disrupted early peace parleys. Two National Guardsmen, fully armed and equipped for duty, are shown at RIGHT patroling the steel company plant-gates in their efforts to keep the opposing factions from a bloody warfare while a general view of the pickets gathered outside the Youngstown plant of Republic to bar the way to any would-be strike breakers forms the center panel. A total of 80,000 workers in seven states are affected by the strikes.

CREDIT CATCHERS FOR PROGRESS OF BOSTON RED SOX

Cronin Says Team Has Better Balance Than Last Year

CUBS LEADING

Maintain One Game Lead in National by Defeating Giants

By SID FEDER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rick Ferrell will just love this, but he'll have to blame it on Joe Cronin.

It seems (to Cronin) that the sudden surge of his Red Sox—eight wins in nine starts—dates from the trade that sent Ferrell to Washington, and that a large part of the recent success is due to the fact that Ferrell's successors at backstop are getting more stuff from the Boston pitchers.

How Joe has figured it out is a mystery. In eight years up there, Rick has probably been regarded as somewhat better than a green hand among the big-time mask-and-pad boys, Joe claims that the erudite Moe Berg, who was never good enough to take Ferrell's job, or Gene Desautels, fresh up from the minors, are bringing the Boston ball club to the forward in better style.

Facts and balance, Joe said today, that has shot the Sox into the first division. The way Cronin tells it, those gold "flops" of 1936 have as much balance now as a set of chemist girls.

Yanks Rally

After topping the White Sox in four straight and the Indians in two out of three, the Yanks wound up taking two in a row from the Tigers, whitewashing the Detroit 9-0 pitching behind the rejuvenated elbowing of Lefty Grove.

Since the Yankees after spotting St. Louis Browns a run in three innings came from behind to club out a 9-6 win, this defeat for the Tigers pushed the world champions' league lead to three full games. The White Sox were every other club in the loop, had a lot of fun with the weak and woeful Athletics, who posted a 21 to 2 umph.

Chicago's Cubs retained their one-game National League lead by banging out 15 hits in two many runs in an eighth-inning splurge, to whip the Giants 10-3 in the "other" league. The Cubs and the Cardinals bunched all their runpaking in those big innings and trampled Brooklyn Dodgers 13-3, thereby boosting their second-place margin to three full games by that game.

Leo Fetiz, the new "old dependable" of the Sees, stopped the Pirates for 4 and Cincinnati Reds for the Phillies' sixth-place shading by whipping the Quaker city Cloolers 6-0.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 25 (AP)—If you don't believe Joe Louis is a sock knockdown . Jim Braddock scored over Joe Louis Tuesday night, see the slow motion pictures....They show the sweat popping off Louis' nose when he was hit.... Mrs. Lou Gehrig has turned thumbs down on a Tarzan role for her Lou, so he will appear as a two-gun man in "Spots and Soldier" to be filmed in Hollywood next fall....Walter Kozak, the pro golfer, cleaned up $60,000 at Aquidneck the other day and staggered the betting ring..... Two-thirds of the wrinkles come when Saint Pierre romped home by five lengths in the opening set at 13 to 1.

Madison Square Garden officials were burned up when Bob Pastor (the heavyweight from Bayonne, New York State, no less) was introduced from the ring at the ringside one night....they'd be interested to learn Mike Jacobs is not going to consider Pastor as a possible challenger for Joe Louis.... Bobby Cruickshank, the former golf pro, and Tommy Armour's brother, Sandy, spent the last winter in the Civil War in the same German prison camp.....One more golf note and we're done for the last time the Royals have been able to win in their last six starts, limited the Bisons to seven hits.

Fine twirling prevailed through out the league with young Woody Davis of Toronto's Leafs heading the parade. Davis narrowly missed baseball's hall of fame as he let the Rochester Red Wings down with a one hit as the Leafs eked out a 1-0 triumph.

Norm't, Vic Tamulis and Syracuse's Jake Mooty allowed only win the American League batting eight hits each but the Yankee shortstop

BUFFALO BISONS IN SECOND PLACE

Leafs Win From Rochester With Davis Hurling One Hit Game

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bisons are back in second place in the International League and again they have the able right arm of veteran Bill Harris to thank for the step upward.

The 36-year-old veteran chalked up his fourth win in his last five starts as he twirled a five-hit 2-1 win over the Montreal Royals. Bill was good and had to be for he was matched against Lefty Murray, the same German prison camp.....One more time they found one another in the finals of the Scottish amateur championship.

Freddy Fitzsimmons of the Dodgers is hanging up a rep as one of the fastest working pitchers in the Majors.....His last two wins over the Pirates were scored in 1.45 and 1.38....Lou Gehrig isn't laying out the homers like he used to.....Seems to be concentrating on singles and doubles.

Open to Boys of The Province Between 18 And 21 Years

PAY EXPENSES

Filling a long-wanted need in the Province of Ontario a baseball training school is to be conducted at the Maple Leaf Stadium in July, with free coaching and tuition by heralded major league players, being afforded by the Toronto Baseball Club of the International League.

The school is open to Ontario boys aged 18 to 21 years and information being available from Bert Perry, Director of Publicity for the Toronto Baseball Club. Application forms for interested youthful baseball players throughout this district may be procured at the sports departments of the Ontario Intelligencer, however. These application forms must be filled out and returned to the Toronto Baseball Club prior to the opening of the school.

The school will be conducted from July 19th to 29th, inclusive.

The school will be in charge of competent coaches including Manager Dan Howley, of the Maple Leafs, President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League and former baseball magnate, Clyde Engle, former Boston Red Sox infielder and now baseball coach at Yale University, along with other members of the Toronto Leafs and other major league stars, whose services are being sought.

Tentative Schedule

The reasons given for holding this baseball school are listed as follows:

1. To improve amateur baseball in Ontario.

2. To give players the benefit of expert coaching.

3. To instill in them a desire to improve and encourage them to consider a career in professional baseball.

4. To pick out the best and offer them an opportunity to go south with the Leafs next spring, not necessarily to sign a professional contract, but in line with the C. S. A. A.'s permission to take players south as has been done in the past.

5. To determine, if possible, how many amateur baseball players there are in Ontario who have a good chance to make good in professional company.

Players taking advantage of the Maple Leaf baseball training school must provide their own transportation to and from Toronto and must meet living expenses during their sojourn in Toronto and their playing equipment, such as gloves, shoes and uniforms. The Toronto Club will supply gratis balls, baseballs, the use of the Stadium and the competent coaches that will be provided.

Stay Any Length of Time

It is not necessary to attend the entire baseball school if it is not within the means of the individual players. A local baseball enthusiast or youngster desirous of increasing his baseball knowledge may procure an entry blank and attend the school

President Maurice Callaghan, of the Belleville Yacht Club, informs us that Alderman Ernie Baldree has taken over the chairmanship of the club's sailing activities. It is understood strict attention will be paid to the sailing rules in the future. The local yachtsmen remained idle on the half holiday. preparing for Sundays Mike Cup race and planning for their proposed trip to Picton on Dominion Day. The powder boats will accompany the local flotilla down to VanDusen's Cove. The sailing races held in connection with the Picton Old Boys' Reunion and Gold Cup race, are being officiated by Belleville sailors. Incidentally the local Yacht Club will spend Wednesday and Thursday at Picton, the local yachtsmen providing the aquatic entertainment the day previous to the Gold Cup race.

"You wouldn't believe what's going on down at the Victoria Park Really it's disgraceful" stated a local sailor to us the other day. "There is a lot in the paper regarding broken bedsheets at Victoria Park, now if those people responsible would only light the park up nights, it would cease to be a rendezvous for lovers and we would put a stop to this destruction of property" emphatically stated the veteran yachtsman. Victoria Park used to be a delightful place to spend an evening, "away back when."

There seems to be a shortage of baby carriages this season, more on wheels, cart wheels and every old kind of wheels in the city of Belleville these days and all because of the Kinsmen's "Kid Kar" Derby on Dominion Day morning. This year's derby is to be a gala affair with a parade and all the trimmings to precede the actual race. Cheering bills, the Belleville floats, decorated bicycles, prizes for pets will be features during the parade and on display in Geo. Finch's store window, "Kid Kar" Kolling says the entries for the starters for the race will exceed those of a year ago. The race is to be filmed by a Canadian newsreel cameraman, while the semi-final and final runs will be broadcast over a Toronto station, it is hoped.

"The R.C.A.F. "Flyers" softball team, who are tops in the city's softball loop, are anxious to play an exhibition game with the Belleville leaders of the local softball league. The Flyers are coming here to Belleville next Tuesday night and play on the new Coleman Flats diamond. Incidentally Jack Bowler and Bill Todd have erected a fine set of bleachers on the softball fans can sit down and enjoy a game in comfort nowadays.

"Pepper Martin insists there is a witch hunt for bean-baiters", Powerhouses Jimmy Powers of the New York Daily News." Powers is calling pitchers murderers and I think it's silly", Pepper as saying. "There is not a single instance where a man deliberately took aim at a batter's head and scored a bull's-eye. It's impossible to hit a blobbing target at that distance. It's the batter's business to keep his eye peeled. When I'm up there, I'm looking out for John Leonard every second. I hate to see them lynching parties, simply because of some batter's carelessness".

The Canadian Club in the South Hastings Baseball League is filing an application with the Ontario Baseball Association for affiliation with the provincial baseball morals in the "C" series. We also hear the Pulpwood team, of the same league, may disband any old day now. They should well consider such a move if for no other reason than they are league champions of 1936.

Plenty of lusty hitting was seen when the Parrots beat the Belleville Sargents on the new Coleman Flats diamond 12 to 7 last night, a total of 28 hits being made, 14 each. A little more work around the shallow outfield positions where some hits fell is needed, and the new Coleman Flats diamond will be an asset to the game in Belleville. At least the patrons of the game can enjoy a softball game in peace and comfort, with relatively erects ed bleachers. The Parrots pulled a peg in the league race last night.

Says the Oshawa writer: "It isn't definite yet by any means but just the same, the Oshawa Athletics of Oshawa doesn't enter the T. & Y. Mercantile Hockey League this year. Looks as if the locals will play intermediate O.H.A. along with Petrolia, Barrie, Trenton and maybe a team from Kingston. Wouldn't be big enough this year. Now it wouldn't except for the long trip to Kingston. Belleville would be a logical fourth team, only the thought of bracketing the Petes with his Quinte lads would be most distasteful to Skipper Thomas. They'll likely play intermediate 'C' or 'D' again in 1937-38. First baseball, then rugby, then lacrosse and now hockey — Oshawa is getting away from those loops up around Toronto to keep in Central Ontario company. (Peterboro Examiner).

The heavyweight boxing situation today has all of the earmarkings of a Major Bowes programme — around and around she goes and where she'll stop, nobody knows." Louis and Braddock have departed from Chicago and Promoter Mike Jacobs with a lot of contracts, but little opposition. Now Jacobs wants Schmeling for Louis, but the black Hhuian is tied up with a contract to fight Tommy Farr in England. Jacobs has threatened to take Louis and his crown across the pond and chisel in on the proposed Schmeling-Farr show by tackling Louis in against Jim Harvey or Jack Doyle. What's the matter with Maxie Baer, and his down suiter? There is no use denying that Louis and Schmeling are the top fighters of the day, although Braddock is much more popular, now that he is the ex-champ, than he ever was before. His courage on Tuesday night won him many friends.

SCHMELING MAY MEET BRADDOCK

Mike Jacobs Outlines The Situation to the News-papermen

By EARL HILLIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, June 25—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs pulled the curtain on another act of his heavyweight show today and put on the stage—huge, nightstick and all—walked officer James J. Braddock, the late champion champion of the world.

Jacobs, impresario Jacobs may reverse the skit on short notice, equally brief cablegram or a long-distance telephone call. But he insisted that if Max Schmeling hopes to get a crack at the new titleholder, Joe Louis, the German first will have to meet Braddock, which appears to make Jersey Jim "Policeman" to the title he lost this week to the Brown Bomber.

This was the latest of a series of developments which broke out like a rash from the Champion Louis' right hand tipped Braddock over at Comiskey Park Tuesday night. Others were (1) That Louis has an offer of 42½ per cent of the gate receipts with a $75,000 guarantee, to meet Jack (Canary) Doyle or Len Harvey in Wembley Stadium, London, next August, and (2) Braddock and Max Baer, the playboy ex-heavyweight champion, will fight in August, either here or in Los Angeles.

Reading, Pa.—Wally Dusek, 240, Canada, pinned Mayes McLean, 200, Cedar Rapids, I.A.

St. Louis—Louis Thesz, St. Louis pinned Dory Dixon, Decatur, Ill. (only heavyweight (exact weights not available).

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Mike Belloise, 131, New York, recognized in New York as featherweight champion, knocked out Jimmy McLeod, 133 1-4, Tacoma, Wash., (7).

New York—Harry Balsamo, 162, New York, outpointed Casper La Rosa, 162, New York (10).

New York—Ralph (Indian) Mortado, 132 1-2, outpointed Lou Trevebrigde, 137, Miami, Fla. (8).

Boston—Andy Callah, 143 1-2, Lawrence, Mass., won on a technical knockout from Nat Bor, 147 3-4, Fall River, Mass. (9).

To Chill Match

Back of the sudden renewed burst of promotional activity on the part of Jacobs—who seems to have the heavy situation well under control—apparently was a desire to do something about the "Synthetic Championship battle between Schmeling and Tommy Farr, British titleholder tentatively set for August 9 at London's White City Arena.

Jacobs had planned a joint promotion with the Calgary Stampede, General A. Critchley of White City to match Farr with the winner of the Louis-Braddock engagement, but the White City group lined up Farr to meet Schmeling for the "title." Inferring, of course, that Schmeling was champion by virtue of once knocking out Louis and then being walked out on by Braddock last June 3.

With the idea being that any match involving Louis might "chill" the Farr-Schmeling event, Jacobs said he was seriously considering the Louis-Harvey-Doyle offer.

PERCIVAL STORES DROP LOCKMEN

Belle-Sargents Could Not Make Their Hits Count

Making their hits count into runs the Percival Store softballers stopped the onrush of the Belleville Sargents with a 12 to 7 victory over the "lockmakers" at the new Coleman Flats softball diamond last evening. Although both teams were hitting the ball hard and well, the Percivals made their hits count into runs. Wildness on the part of the Bell-Sargent hurlers paved the way for their own downfall, however.

Dan Ridley started on the hilltop for the "lockmakers", but was replaced by Eddie Schrieder in the fourth when the Percivals batted around their batting order to score four runs. Earl Clarke hurled for the winning Percivals. Each team found the opposition pitching for a total of 14 hits each, however.

Clarke helped his own cause with a double and two singles, Pointer had a brace of two base blows, while Thrasher and Philp hit in the clutches. Lupenetz led the Sargent batters with three, Mc-Martin, Hughes and Ridley adding lusty hits to their average. The Percivals, trailing by two, scored four runs in the second and were never headed from that point. Some exceptionally fine fielding was afforded the patrons of the game.

The lineup:

Belleville Sargent: Lupenetz 3b, McMartin cf, Kizer lf, Hughes rf, Dole 1b, Dale McGuire ss, Eharis Robinson c, J. McGuire and Pointer 2b, Ridley and Schrieder p.

Percivals: Williams 3b, Harriage lb, Sinfield lf, Clarke p, Smith and Thompson cf, Thrasher 3b, Pointer c, Riggs 2b, Philp ss.

Score by innings:

Youth Celebrates Circus Day From First Break of Dawn

Cole Bros. And Clyde Beatty Combined Circus Arrives on Schedule and White City Speedily Covers Show Grounds—Many Interesting Sights and Sounds Including Unloading—Tent Erected—Street Parade —Steam Calliope—Elephants and Clowns

Today is circus day!

Kiddies of Belleville went to bed last night dreaming clowns with funny painted faces, giraffes with necks that reach up into the clouds, elephants with flopping heads and wiggling trunks, pretty girls in pink tights and fluffy skirts blowing kisses while cavorting upon the backs of brass mounted horses, fat as butter, and goodness knows what else.

And today the dreams come true for the circus—not one of your ordinary circuses—but the gigantic affair floating the magic pavilion of Cole Bros.—with Clyde Beatty and Ken Maynard known to all urchins and oldsters as the "big show" is in Belleville and in addition to the performances this afternoon will serve up another exhibition tonight at the show grounds, Pine Street and Dufferin Avenue. All for the delectation of youngsters and their elders who are secretly rejoicing that the circus has come to town, that they intend "just to take the children."

Excellent Street Parade

Thousands throughout the downtown streets and office windows shortly before noon when the gorgeous and picturesque street parade passed in review. There were scores of elaborately carved and gilded wagons, floats and animal wagons and hundreds of horses from the heavy Percherons and Percheron to the tiny fleet-handed ponies. Trumpeting bands, tooting calliopes, lumbering elephants and humping camels were all to be seen. Indeed, by far the longest and most elaborate seen here in a decade.

The circus came from Kingston where it exhibited yesterday, the first of the three long trains chugged into town early today. Other trains arrived at intervals and this morning the railroad yards were filled with long trains of yellow cars loaded to the last inch of space with all the strange, weird, polyglot collection of the "big tops".

Crowd at Unloading

Shortly after the arrival of the first train began the work of unloading and the transfer of the red wagons, tableaux, allegorical floats and dens to the show grounds. Urchins that ordinarily kick upon getting up at a reasonable hour do their family chores slaps last night with one eye open and cord attached to their big toe to be pulled through the window by a neighborhood chum so as to be on hand with the arrival of the circus. And they were on hand, hundreds of lads—to welcome the red wagons, to lead the Shetland ponies and in general acting as a sort of reception committee.

With the circus in town, Belleville Kidland is agog and grandmothers of ruthless office boys are about due for such a devastation as comes only with the circus or the opening of the baseball season. Also there is considerable anticipation in the ranks of the grown-ups with many a dad getting ready to brush up the brandies of going to the circus because "the kiddies want to go."

"Some Circus," He Says

And if obe may believe half of what the circus man says, it is "some circus," answering even the dreams of a hero and better than the most gorgeous dreams a kid ever had. No mad feats through the dictionary, says the circus man, to give vent to pent up enthusiasm, for Webster never made provision for such a bunch of thrills as the circus promises to uncork here today in the five rings, the steel arena and upon two stages, upon the hippodrome track and giant aerial enclave. In addition to the time honored acts and features, without which no circus would be complete, there will be a whole flock of new acts.

Clyde Beatty, famous wild animal trainer, is this season hauling two score lions and tigers, newly recruited from forest and jungle. Ken Maynard, famous Western screen star, will appear with a great congress of cowboys, cowgirls, Cossacks and a troupe of 24 Sioux Indians. Harriet Beatty, wife of the famous Clyde, not to be outdone, is presenting for the first time in this area together a Nubian lion and royal Bengal tiger that simultaneously ride an elephant.

From Europe come the Aurelia troupe of nine bareback equestrians; the Zoeppe Family, equilibrists, newly imported from Spain, are seen in an amazing act; in the dome of the big top the Gretonas add thrill upon thrill in a lofty wire act; Harold Barnes, the juvenile dancer on the tight wire, and the Aerial Gillespies together with the Flying Haroids, are other stars. Sixty clowns furnish fun for the little folks. There are 1,000 people and 800 horses in the menagerie contains upwards of 50 cages and dens comprising the Clyde Beatty collection together with 30 elephants and the largest blood ergating hippopotamus in captivity.

"Serenade of Spain"

A monster pageant with scores of story book characters beloved by the children starts the circus performance proper. It is called the "Serenade of Spain" a gorgeous processional fiesta participated in by upwards of 1,000 men, women, horses, elephants, camels, yaks and other strange beasts, the forest and jungle. There are 100 dancing girls; great choruses of trained singers, vast orchestras and golden toned organs. The wardrobe used in the vast spectacle represents an expenditure of $75,000. An entire train is used to carry the equipment used in the monster prelude to the main performance.

Reserved and admission tickets are on sale at Doyle's Drug Store, 291 Front Street. On the show grounds the white ticket wagon is continuously accessible for the purchase of reserved seats. General admission tickets will go on sale at the red ticket wagon simultaneously with the opening of the doors.

At midnight the last of the circus trains will be pounding over the Canadian National rails towards Hamilton for exhibitions Saturday. And circus day will be a memory.

This way for the big show!

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma took me downtown shopping and it was such a wind day men's hats was blowing off and pieces of paper was flying around like kites making me feel grate and making ma bawk in horrer and saying, the idea of my coming out on a day like this, I should of had more sense and know better.

Why, ma, G, what's a matter with it? I said, and ma said, What's a matter with it? Haven't you any sensation of me said.

Sure, ma, G, my sensations feel wonderful, I said. Holey smokes, ma, if I didn't have my cap jammed way down over my ears I wouldn't be able to keep it on without holding it on, I said, and ma said, Well enough knows I'm holding my hat on, but the fact doesn't fill me with any such glee and satisfaction, quite the contrary This is gaudy, and such heat, we mite as well be in the mist of a desert, she said.

O boy I can feel it blowing rite through my clothes, aint this grate, ma? I said, and she said, You heard my sentiments unless you're deff as well as impervious. Goodness my hair, she said, and I said, O boy look at that newspaper, it looks like skeeting. Jimming ma, do you think it could ever blow strong enough to scalp a baby? I said, and ma said, If anybody ever gets me out in weather like this again it will serve me rite for not learning from experience.

Well good nite, ma, what's better than rain ain't, and the harder it comes the more of it you get, I said, and ma said, I can't stand this another second, I'm not going to wait for a trolley, I'm going to call a taxy regardless of the expense.

G, why dont you, ma? I said.

A taxy sounding like even more fun than the wind, and ma called one and we rode home in it.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 25—(CP)—More cheerful tone pervaded the Toronto share market today on news of improved sentiment toward gold in London. Base metals failed to hold all the day's gains but golds were strong throughout. Action, however, was much slower in the last hour. All groups were up for the day.

Net gains of about 50 cents were showing at the close for O'Brien and Macassa and 30 to 40 for Buffalo-Ankerite, Sisco, Pickle Crow, Central Patricia, Premier, Read-Authier, Slave Lake and Sylvanite. Smaller gains were boarded for Pamour, Little Long Lac, Teck-Hughes, Argosy, Base Malartic, Bankfield Consaurum, Gunnar, Kirkland Lake, Mackenzie, Paymaster, Moneta, Chibougamau Ferron, Toburn and Tawagmac.

International Nickel stepped back from the morning top of 58 1-4 to close around 58 3-4, off 5-8. Consolidated Smelters sat 1-2 and Pend Oreille was off slightly at the close. Hudson Bay and Noranda advanced a point to 1 1-2 and final sales went through at gains of 25 cents or more for Waite Amulet, Ventures, and Sudbury Basin. Aldermac added about 15 and Falconbridge 50. Eldorado and Mining Corporation gained about 10 cents each.

In the industrial section closing prices were higher for construction, implement, beverage and miscellaneous issues. Ford A gained 1-2, Bell Telephone advanced 4 points and gains of fractions to a point were boarded for Great Lakes paper Common, Hardings Carpets, Wiredound Boz, United Steel, Loblaw B, Canada, Cement and Gypsum. Canadian Dredge closed 2 1-2 up at 43.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The stock market took the downhill path today after making early gestures towards extending a previous climb.

Losses ranged up to about 3 points for the most active shares in the fourth hour, with Steel and Copper shares in the forefront of a slow retreat as traders accepted profits at the week-end.

The decline seemed to have originated more in the lack of buying interest than in any extensive shift to the selling side.

Trading continued at a small's pace with transfers at the rate of about 550,000 shares for the day.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

Market Comment

The break in the mining market in the last month or so is being compared to the industrial smash of 1929; some of the declines in mines amount to as high as 80 per cent. from their high which gives one an idea of the losses suffered by the public.

The peculiar thing about the break of the last few days, when the majority of mining issues were under severe pressure and suffered their sharpest setback, was the fact that the question of the price of gold was not heard. This would appear to conclusively indicate that an over-extended position is being adjusted. Practically all traders speculating in mining stocks on small margins have been wiped out.

As always happens in a wide reaction, stocks declines to levels not at all warranted by conditions. In the case of the mines this is particularly true in a large number of cases. Yields on the majority of producers have mounted to ridiculous heights and a few months hence, traders and investors will be pointing to the bargains now available and wondering why they couldn't muster the confidence to acquire equities that looked exceedingly attractive.

It should be borne in mind that the break in the mining market will not affect the workings of producing mines. In other words, whether Lake Shore is selling at $50 or at 40, work at the property will continue uninterrupted. This applies to the entire group of producers. The only unfortunate factor in the entire situation is that low prices has again taken a bad trimming, but those holding the better class mining issues would be well advised not to sacrifice their securities at current depressed levels.

In the past six months a great change has taken place in the southern part of Turner Valley. Present activity being at greater rate than at any time since the hectic days just preceding the big smash in the fall of 1936. Private advices from Calgary say that at no time in the past has optimism been so high as now and that activity in Turner Valley and fields in the plains has done much to make the public forget social credit and the problems of the Aberhart Administration.

British American Oil

A dividend of 25 cents a share quarterly is being paid on the common stock of British American Oil. This augurs well for the future, because current business is showing an improvement over a year ago besides the results obtained from their subsidiary in the United States are very gratifying. Under such circumstances, it is natural to surmise that the $1. a share regular dividend will be reinforced by a bonus payment once the final figures for 1937 are available.

Bulwarks of Prosperity

Scarcely less important than the dependable news service they provide every day is the contribution the Canadian daily newspapers make, as an industry, to the economic welfare and prosperity of the nation.

Apart from the work of collecting, transmitting and editing news from every corner of the world, many subsidiary trades and enterprises have been established and prospered that the personal service your daily newspaper provides could be extended and maintained.

Directly and indirectly the daily newspapers of Canada provide employment to tens of thousands of Canadian citizens in all parts of the Dominion, from logging camps and paper mills to the printing presses of your local daily newspaper.

Today, it is estimated that more than a half million Canadians are dependent for their livelihood upon the newspaper industry.

Consequently, in addition to providing an essential service to more than two million families every day, the Canadian daily newspapers make an important contribution to the economic and industrial welfare of the nation.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Tom and Daphne's Difficulty

By Jane Osborn

At Daphne's suggestion Tom and Yules had come for a little quiet beach rainwinter afternoon, and there sat Daphne looking very small and a trifle bewildered on the divan of the formally furnished drawing room and there sat Tom at least twice feet away looking to Daphne much more tall and massed than she had ever thought of him.

Daphne walked across the room to Tom and laid the little box containing the engagement ring on the pie-crust table beside his chair. Tom rose at the same and sat down sedately when she had gone back to her place on the divan.

"Of course it will be embarrassing for me—breaking the engagement every one knows I'm going to wed," Daphne bit her lips and looked at the finger that seemed so bare and forlorn now that Tom's diamond no longer sparkled there.

"I suppose it is better to feel embarrassed than life-long regret," said Tom not daring to look at Daphne.

"Please, Tom, don't make me feel sorrier than I do. I know I'm not your fault just as much as it was mine. The only reason why Aunt Marion objected to you so much was because she wanted to make a match for me with some young friend of her own, and father didn't really object—only he said that if you did marry me you would have to give up your own ideas of a profession—and work in with him. It has always been that way in the family and as you would some day share the fortune made from the factories he felt that it was only fair for you to help shoulder the responsibilities."

"Naturally I refused to accept that proposition" said Tom dryly. "It is just as much a tradition in my family for the sons to study law."

"And, mother's objections are not real objections. It's just general principles with her—and it is with your mother. You know your mother said she wouldn't come to the wedding."

"Naturally I am as fond of my mother as you are of yours—still, Daphne—" Tom shifted his gaze from the portrait to Daphne's face. Their eyes met and two tears were trickling down Daphne's cheeks.

"If there was only some one whose advice we could ask" said Daphne. "Some old person who has had experience. We may be doing the best thing Tom, and we may be wrecking our chance for happiness. Tom, isn't there some one in your family who isn't prejudiced—and who could help us decide?"

Tom thought for a moment. His idea of Daphne's shrank him as admirable.

"I know, Daphne," he said at last. "There's your grandmother. Perhaps she could help us."

Daphne protested for a moment or two, for Daphne had always been a little afraid of the majestic old lady. But together they went beside to the community. Mr. Arthur Wilson was chairman for the evening entertainment.

Mr. Elmer Post conducted community singing with Mrs. J. Pfaff-ist presiding at the piano. Mr. John B. Hagerman of Milville rendered two pleasing solos.

Miss Mona Wright read the following address:

TARZAN'S QUEST

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Soon Tarzan and his captive came to the edge of the forest and across the plain the ape-man beheld the formidable ramparts of the Kavuru village. He saw, too, the strange airplane, and beside it the bodies of the pilots who had been slain by the Kavuru.

While he paused, considering some means of entering the village, his party caught up to him. "This man had told me that ape and Annette are alive," he explained to Brown; "but they are in great danger. They are in the temple, in the canyon beyond the village."

"I don't see what good it does us to know just where they are," Brown sighed; "we can never get into that place." For several minutes Tarzan was deep in thought; then he spoke, proposing a mad and dangerous scheme as the only solution to their problem.

Brown shook his head. "We might be able to get in that way, but how in blazes would we ever get out?" "Our problem now is to get in," the Jungle Lord answered calmly; "we shall not have the problem of getting out until later. Perhaps we shall not come out."

Home Improvement Loans Boon To Many in Belleville

One Man Converted Home Into Duplex And Enjoys Revenue Provided—Home Improvement Becomes Epidemic, Bringing Out Private Funds—Bachelor Apartments—How it Works in the Country.

Not only is the Home Improvement Plan providing employment for many classes of trades and people beautifying homes and adding much needed improvements to city and rural residences in Belleville and district, but it is also opening up hitherto unexploited channels and sources of revenue.

For instance there is the case of an elderly citizen of Belleville, at present employed but who faces retirement on pension in the near future. Under the system of the Home Improvement Plan, he borrowed sufficient money to convert his home into a duplex dwelling, and is now renting the newly acquired addition to his home at a good rental. He now has no eed to worry for the future, for not only will the revenue derived from the new source pay for his loan but will add substantially to his income when the loan is paid up. Thanks to the Home Improvement Plan, his home is beautified, has been added to substantially, and is paying a dividend which in all probability would not have been made possible had the new plan not come into being.

Bringing Out Private Funds

Another important phase which is directly responsible to the Plan is the fact that a large amount of private funds which in all probability would have lain dormant are now being utilized in the remodelling and beautifying of many homes throughout the province. This was typified here in Belleville recently when a lady called upon her banker with regard to borrowing a sum of money under the new system with which to remodel her home. Upon being given the information and told the benefits to be derived, the lady in question decided to utilize private funds of her own. Consequently more money is being placed in circulation, more people are being employed, and building and business in general is undergoing a stimulation which it otherwise would not have experienced to such an extent.

Bachelor Apartments Produce Revenue

Another instance of the tremendous possibilities and practicalities of the Home Improvement Plan is seen in the case of a city resident who through the medium of loans secured under this system converted a practical "wilderness" into a land of plenty. This particular case is the story of a man who realized the possibility of not only supplying business and labor with an added stimulant, but utilised the money secured by loan in providing a source of income.

14 hundred square feet of waste land underwent practically overnight a magical transformation. Now instead of the drab colors of unused property, there stands a trim, modern building containing three three-roomed bachelor apartments, which will provide sufficient income within the next year to more than liquidate the amount of the loan. In a short time this fine property will bring in a revenue to its owner which will not only pay for taxes, etc., but also supply a handsome income.

Machine Shed and Electricity

Not only have residents of the city taken advantage of this fine opportunity to improve and add to their dwellings, but many rural dwellers have realized their ambition to beautify their homes and erect much-needed additions and improvements to their buildings. One farmer today boasts a modern machine-shed, one which will house practically all of his heavy farm equipment. Others have, in conjunction with the Hydro Commission, installed electricity in home and barns. New additions have been added to farm homes in many instances, and in some cases the installation of a modern bathroom has been the result of the advantages offered under the Home Improvement Plan.

Further instances of how the Home Improvement Plan is working in Belleville and district will be given in Saturday's issue.

The accident percentage is increasing on highways away from cities during the hours of dusk and darkness, he said, while it remained stationary or is decreasing in places where roads are lighted.

Test Lighting.

In some places where experimental lighting has been started the accident list has dropped sharply, he said. He is one of the 19,000-watt lumen sodium lamp, in use on many highways in the United States.

Elliot Strathy, Toronto, discussed the Home Improvement Loan Plan and urged greater support for it through Ontario.

This afternoon delegates were guests of the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce and the local Hydro System on a trip to the Queenston power house, Niagara Glen and other points.

T. Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, in a speech declared the associations should shoulder some of the responsibilities of Hydro. He outlined how consumption in Ontario since 1929 and pointed out that under old contracts, recently cancelled, consumers would be paying $11,283,000 for power, but actually are now paying only $7,372,000.

Sweeping Financial Powers Given French Premier

Germany, Italy Reject Plan

Italian Press Sees Concessions Likely For Return To Patrol

London, June 29 (AP)—Germany and Italy rejected today a plan by Great Britain and France to patrol all of Spain's coasts in the interest of non-intervention.

Soviet Russia, one of the "big five" on the European non-intervention subcommittee, approved the proposal.

The blunt refusal of Count Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to Rome and Joachim von Ribbentrop, German Ambassador, brought a speedy end to the sub-committee's session, which lasted less than two hours.

Membership of Sub-Committee.

The sub-committee is scheduled to meet again on Friday.

In addition to France, Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Russia the other members of the nine-power subcommittee are Belgium, Portugal, Czechoslovakia and Sweden.

Rome, June 29 (AP)—Convinced victory is in sight for the Spanish Insurgents, Italy and Germany were authoritatively reported today determined to block British and French efforts to extend their non-intervention patrol.

Informed circles expressed the belief Premier Mussolini had sent his Ambassador-to London, Count Dino Grandi, precise instructions to reject the Franco-British plan to take over the patrol abandoned by Germany and Italy.

The Rome press confidently predicted a diplomatic victory for the linked German and Italian stand.

Movement of Youth Defined

Rotary Club Hears Address On Situation in Germany, Russia

An interesting study of the Youth Movement in Germany and Russia was made by R. E. G. Davis, Personnel Secretary of the National Council Y. M. C. A. and he briefly outlined impressions gathered in a recent visit to both countries during and after the Olympics in Germany, before the Belleville Rotary Club, Monday. An intensive effort to train the youth of both countries for service of value to the state is being made, beginning at eight years of age and continuing until past twenty, both boys and girls being regimented and given physical and military training, with some culture thrown in for good measure by Russia. Germany emphasizes the military training, which includes the manual of arms, extended as the groups advance in years. The youth of both countries are being taught to subordinate everything to the state and both are so charged with enthusiasm, as the result of the training, that they are willing to give their lives, if necessary, for the state. Religion is anathema to the state and the youth are taught that Christianity is a menace to the effectual thing, and that the real aim in life is to become men of blood and iron, fighting men. Conditions in Germany and Russia at the present time as observed by the speaker were depicted in very interesting manner, showing the trend of events as directed by dictators.

Mr. Davis was introduced by President Joe Shortt and Past President C. T. Nolan expressed Rotary appreciation.

Guests present were Rotarian Tom Edis, Red Deer, Alberta; Dr. F. E. Malott, Brockville; George Calrson, Judge Deroche.

Vocal solos were contributed by Rotarian Jack Deacon.

Sandy-Burrows and Leo Riggs directed the musical program. Steve Flintoft was sergeant-at-arms.

Premier King Has Long Talk With Hitler

'Most Interesting and Most Valuable,' He Comments

MEETS GOERING

German Newspapers Welcome Canadian Prime Minister

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

Berlin, June 29 (CP)—For an hour and a quarter this morning Premier Mackenzie King talked with Chancellor Hitler today.

"Most interesting and most valuable," he told the writer afterwards. But further than the nature of their conversation he refused to go.

"All I can say is that it was most interesting and most valuable," the Canadian premier said.

Talks With Goering.

Earlier in the morning Mackenzie King had a talk with Hermann Goering, half with Air Minister Goering.

His talk with Hitler took place in the House of the Reichs-president on the Wilhelmstrasse. It is the old House of Prussian Parliament. Above floated a large flag with a silver swastika.

In the courtyard immediately in front a company of Berlin guards were drawn up in field-grey uniform. As Mackenzie King stepped into his car they gave to attention and presented arms to the accompaniment of rolling drums.

Visits British Embassy.

Mackenzie King immediately drove to the British Embassy where he lunched with Sir Neville Henderson, the British Ambassador. Among the party were General Goering and Baron Von Neurath, Foreign Minister, son of the famous war general.

The Canadian premier's talk with the Fuehrer was longer than was anticipated. Lunch was delayed several minutes as a consequence.

Berlin papers meanwhile gave a warm welcome to the visiting statesman.

After relating his activities since arriving Sunday on the invitation of Robbins Gentzel, Ribbentrop, German Ambassador, at London, the Voelkischer Beobachter, chief Nazi organ, proceeded:

Nazi Organ Welcomes Mr. King.

"The Canadian Prime Minister is a welcome guest of Germany, especially in the capital which, moreover is not visiting for the first time. In 1900 he lived several months in Berlin and in the Province of Hessen-Nassau, where numerous families of settlers of German origin are to be found.

Chautempo Wins Vote Of Confidence in Stand To Conserve French Gold

U. S. Opinion Is That Nations In Triple Pact Will Act

EXCHANGE IS HALTED

Franc Devaluation Has Been Removed in London

Paris, June 29 (CP-Havas)—By a narrow margin of 17 votes to 16, the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee tonight approved the bill giving the Chautempo government extended financial powers until Aug. 31.

The measure, presented to the Chamber by the government earlier today, now goes directly to the lower House for debate and a vote tonight.

Paris, June 29 (AP) — The new government of Camille Chautemps, struggling to save France's financial structure, won a vote of confidence today from the Chamber of Deputies —293 to 162.

Chautemps won the vote on his demand that chamber questioning of the government be postponed until his urgent demand for sweeping financial powers is disposed of. The demand will be voted on later.

Necessary Powers Sought.

He asked for the "necessary powers" to re-establish France's fiscal structure on a firm basis and restore the country's confidence in itself by curbing speculation, abandoning gold reserves, balancing the budget, watching over prices and "reviving national economy."

Chautemps made a long talk of new franc devaluation with the country temporarily and technically off the gold standard.

France Seeking Aid

The new popular front government struggling with a financial crisis that caused France temporarily to leave the gold standard, today was reported seeking aid of Great Britain and the United States to stem the flight of gold from France.

Parliamentary circles disclosed this was one of the first acts of the weekold government of Premier Camille Chautemps to deal directly with the crisis.

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Officials of the United States Treasury said today the monetary agreement between France, Great Britain and the United States remained in force despite temporary suspension of the Frenchman's right to exchange his paper money for gold.

To Prevent Upsets.

They predicted the participating nations would act if necessary to prevent upsets in the relation between dollar, pound and franc during the French crisis.

Paris, June 29 being the French government has stopped the exchange of francs for other money, the process used in buying and selling goods between nations.

EXCHANGE HALTED (AP)—The first reaction of traders here to the devaluation declaration of the gold moratorium today was that a devaluation of the franc was forthcoming.

Flow of French Funds.

Devaluation often has been rumored in the Bourse of Commerce this quarter, and the decision of the Chautemps government was viewed by many as the result of conti-nuation.

The exchange market today.

Wheat Futures Soar Upward

Touched Peg Price After Reaching High Mark On Monday

Winnipeg, June 29—(CP)—Inspired by bad crop news, wheat prices moved forward in big gains on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange again today.

Rounding up 4 5-8 to 5 cents a bushel yesterday, prices climbed again today to close with further gains of 5 to 6 cents a bushel. The July future ended at 1.42 1-2 to 42 5-8, October $1.35 1-4 and December $1.33 1-2 a bushel.

Touching the five cent fluctuation limit for a single session, prices were strong throughout on lack of rain in western Canada and further rust reports from the United States wheat areas. Traders interpreted western Canada's lack of rain as seriously curtailing yields.

I. W. C. Solloway Liable $3,211,813 to Liquidator

Ontario Court Appeal Upholds Judgment of Lower Court

ONE ITEM EXCEPTED

Toronto, June 29 (CP)—I. W. C. Solloway of Westmount, Que., is liable for payment of $3,211,813 to G. T. Clarkson, Toronto, liquidator of Solloway, Mills and Company, Limited (Dominion Company), which has carried on widespread stock brokerage in Canada seven years ago, Ontario Court of Appeal ruled in a judgment delivered today.

The finding sustains a judgment of Mr. Justice Rose, which upholding an order, with the exception of one item, of O. E. Lennox, official referee, finding that Solloway had received through misfeasance $3,286,591.35 from the company. The one item the appeal court found was supposed to be part of the capital assets of the partnership, Solloway, Mills and Company which passed to Solloway Mills and Company, Limited (Dominion company) and in respect of which the court issued a direction to the clerks to the members of the partnership.

The judgment was written by Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson and concurred in by Chief Justice Sir Wm. Rowell and Mr. Justice C. A. Masten.

In respect of the excepted item, the Chief Justice suggested in his reasons for judgment that the Appellant Company, Solloway, Mills and Company, limited, against Solloway and H. M. Mills or the partnership, should recover the $84,790 involved and interest.

Chief Justice Rowell said the court had found that with the exception of a small percentage, all the transactions of Solloway, Mills and Company were "bucketing transactions", that the company did not purchase stocks that its clients instructed it to purchase and that it disposed of stocks that its clients entrusted to it, and that it was trustee of such stocks.

World Pretty Small Place

Peterboro Man Meets One From Belleville At Coronation

The world is a pretty small place after all, at least so thinks A. O. Phillips of Peterborough, who tells an interesting story of how he struck up an acquaintance with a fellow Canadian during the hectic days of the Coronation in England. Phillips appears was watching preparations being made for the taking of a dahlia in connection with General Post Office publicity near Greenwich Observatory, London.

Overhearing a hearty specialize say, "I am a Canadian," Phillips introduced himself as another from the Dominion and found the other man to be Mr. Jack Haig, member of the firm of Haig Brothers, insurance firm of Belleville, who was reared in Campbellford.

"Do you know Dr. Thomas of the C.G.E. or Bob Pearce of the Examiner?" asked Mr. Haig.

"Yes, I know both" came the reply. "Do you know Charlie or Rod Devlin of Campbellford?" queried Phillips.

"I was a man at the latter's wedding in Campbellford", replied the former Campbellford man.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Atlantic weather! If mountainous seas have no charm for you, cross the ocean between now and early September. The waves will then generally be at their worst for sailing. It is delightful. The air is bracing, and early morning and evening are quite cool. Take a top coat for deck chairs comfort and early and late deck walking. Set even with the cool temperatures one may very easily get tanned or sunburned for the sun is the hottest the rays strong. The sea under a clear sky is blue, and the sea haze softens the sharp outline of the earth's saucer.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, June 29—There is low over the lake region of Eastern Canada and the United States with an area of high pressure extending southwestward from the Great Slave Lake. # Wages, Hours of Labor and Prices Set by Barbers' Assoc.

Petition Signed and Will Be Forwarded To Labor Minister

GOVT. REPRESENTED

Following a detailed definition and a keen insight into the classes of acts of legislation recently passed by the Provincial government, insofar as they affect the barbering industry, given by Mr. A. O. Jennette, Industrial Standards Officer of the Department of Labor, Toronto, sixteen master barbers and five employees representing the greater majority of the trade in Belleville, last night unanimously endorsed a petition to the Honourable the Minister of Labor in which they submitted a schedule of wages, and hours and days of labour, and affixed set of prices to be charged for operations, all at a meeting held in the Y.M.O.A.

31 Signers to Petition

Twenty-one signatures were affixed to the petition, last night. Proxies of several barbers unable to attend the meeting will be obtain-ed by Mr. Jennette, Secretary of the Belleville Barbers Association, and attached to the petition by Mr. Jennette as soon as can be set by him after which it will be forwarded to the Minister of Labor.

The prices as set by the conference, and which are in accord with the schedule adopted by the Barbers Associations of Lindsay and Woodstock are; Adults haircuts and trim, 35c; Children's haircut 35c, shampoo and trim, 35c; facial 15c; shampoo, plain, 25c; facial massage, plain 35c; razor honing, 15c; leather strop, 10c. All the above are minimum prices.

No employer shall contract for any less price than those as set out in the schedule. Charge must be made for each and every operation: No premiums must be given with charges for. While the schedule calls for certain closing hours, and half holidays these will not supersede municipal by-laws. In other words half-holidays in Belleville will remain the same, as laid down by the city by-law.

Three Classes of Labor

The wage list as adopted by the local association and set down in the petition calls for three classes of labor. Men on a straight salary, those on salary and a commission, and part time workers. The amounts as adopted by the association were passed unanimously by those in attendance. These are the same as were as then adopted by the trade in Lindsay and Woodstock.

In his address to the conference in which he pointed out the advantages, and benefits to the trade, Mr. Jennette stated that the Industrial and Labor Board on dated 1st June, 1937, had authority of the members of any association must add at least 75% additional to this nature. While sixteen shops out of a possible twenty-one were represented at last night's conference, the speaker suggested that every shop in the city be signed up now as possible be obtained and the list be kept open.

Lively discussion of several points took place during the session.

"What can be done if a member of the association refuses to live up to the set down?" Mr. Jennette was asked.

"This is an act, a statute, just the same as any other law, and is punishable by fine or imprisonment in a magistrate's court. Just the same as any other law-breaker," he pointed out.

During the setting of prices a minority held out for a price of forty cents for adult haircuts, but on the advice of the speaker reduced this figure to thirty-five cents. "It would be a wise precedure," warned the speaker. "You are trying to stabilize prices here, and we are trying to do it in Ontario. If you have shops here that are charging lower rates, you will only convey the idea that you are trying to get them out of business. Then if prosperity increases, the advance can be undertaken satisfactorily."

Advisory Committee

Establishment of an Advisory Committee, whose functions will be to look after the complaints of employers and employees, and to generally watch over the affairs of the local Association was compulsory with the drafting of rates and schedule, Mr. Jennette stated. This committee will be selected from members of the local Association and will be comprised of five men, representative of employers and employees, 18 be chosen by the Minister of Labor. The following men were nominated at the conference last night: Employers—C. R. Belanger, Tim Hinman, Arnor Bennett and M. J. Naphan. Employees—William Warrener, Jack Garfield, R. J. Boyle, Bruce Root and Lorne Starr.

Following is a copy of the petition signed last night:

To the Honourable the Minister of Labour:

We, the undersigned members of the conference of employers and employees in the barbering industry, in the Belleville zone, held on the 28th day of June, 1937, in the City of Belleville, and adjourned until a later date, have the honour to submit to you the attached schedule of wages and hours and days of labour which have been agreed to by the members of the conference or their representatives whose signatures are affixed hereto and we humbly request you to approve thereof and to recommend to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council that the said schedule be put in force during the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council."

The committee was composed of Aldermen J. W. Bartow, Harold J. Armstrong, A. Kennedy, Laurie Lewis, C. R. Clapp and Fire Chief Wm. Lynch.

Belleville, Ontario,
June 24th, 1937.

To His Worship the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Belleville.

Re: Report on Storage of Gasoline, etc.

Gentlemen—

We, your Committee appointed to investigate the storage and transportation of petroleum, benzine, gasoline, distillate or naptha within the Corporation limits of the City of Belleville, beg to report as follows:

The following is the condition of storage tanks now installed in Belleville.

Imperial Oil Company

2 large storage tanks approximately 500,000 gals. each above ground.

Group of 5 smaller tanks, No. 30 to 34 not dyked.

2 capacity of 12,000 gals. each
1 capacity of 14,000 gals.
1 capacity of 12,000 gals. each.
1 capacity of 14,000 gals. each.

Two of the above contain gasoline, two non-explosives and one oil. Storage tanks under oil room building used containing 8 to 50 drums of naphtha, which is one of the highest explosive liquids handled, and this should be looked into with regard to proper regulations.

British American Oil Company

Group of 6 elevated tanks on steel structural.

3 tanks, 12,000 gals. each, containing gasoline.

2 tanks, 12,000 gals. each, containing fuel oil, stove oil, and coal oil.

This group is not dyked.

1 large storage tank, capacity 10,000 bbls. each, earth dyked, and proper caution taken to keep dyke gals clear of grass, which should be removed and not allowed to grow and dry.

McColl Bros.

Equipment—5 tanks, not dyked. 4 tanks used for gasoline, 3 at 12,000 gals. each and 1 at 15,000. 1 tank used for coal oil, 12,000 gals.

Oil storage not properly protected against fire hazards.

Reverse Refineries Oil Company

5 tanks, not dyked.

2—12,000 gallon tanks, gasoline storage.

1—15,000 gallon tank, fuel oil storage.

1—15,000 gallon tank, distillate storage.

1—10,000 gallon tank, coal oil storage.

Shell Company of Canada Limited

3 tanks, not dyked.

3 tanks, 10,780 gallons, gasoline.

1 tank, 10,780 gallons, fuel oil.

Drums of naphtha found outside exposed to sun; this is very dangerous in case of expanding or other means of ignition, which would cause a heavy loss and probably a life.

Superiest Oil Company

5 tanks, not dyked, 14,000 gallons capacity each, containing gasoline and distillate.

The battery of four tanks is situated near the old cricket field, where a heavy growth of grass is present, and is also very close to other property when the weather is hot and the grass is dry.

Canger Gas Company

2 tanks, approximately 30,000 gallons each, not dyked.

Permission was given to have allowed to grow close to tanks and is a similar dangerous condition as reported in connection with the Superiest Company.

Re: Storage of Gasoline, Petroleum, Benzine, etc. in the City of Belleville.

We, your Committee appointed to investigate the above matter in the interest of all adjoining property, and with a view to avoiding the dangerous conditions existing, recommend as follows:

1. That this Council authorize the Fire Chief and Assistant Fire Chief who are now legally appointed as Assistants to the Provincial Fire Marshal, as authorized by Fire Marshal's Act, of the Province of Ontario, to co-operate with the Provincial Fire Marshal in seeing that regulations of the present Act are strictly enforced, (as outlined by him in the Act on previous occasion) within the limits of the Corporation of the City of Belleville.

2. And further that all service stations or other business places where gasoline or other inflammable petroleum products are stored or handled be required to comply with the regulations as covered by the Act referred to.

Council Rescinds the Motion To Allow Motorcycle Race

Delegation Received By Council and Petition Accepted

LETTER RECEIVED

There will be no motorcycle race for the Canadian Championship in this city this year, the City Council at their regular session on Monday evening rescinding the motion passed on March 4th of this year sanctioning the race. A delegation headed by Ex-Mayor W. H. Panter and including Miss Laura Watson and Miss Jennie Stevenson appeared before the council to protest the race and the council were also in receipt of a large petition signed by residents and taxpayers living in the district over which the race was to have been conducted. Ex-Mayor Panter for the delegation and Aldermen Aikman and Lewis, who spoke in favor of the race there was little discussion on the question and when the motion was put to rescind the motion of March 4th, all members of the council supported excepting Aldermen Baragar and Lewis.

Ex-Mayor Panter Heard

Ex-Mayor Panter opened the discussion stating that he had been heard there was to be another motorcycle race on the West Hill and as a resident of that district thought some other place could be found for the race to meet. Miss Watson another spokesman for the delegation mentioned the fact the noise that was made, the damage done to the lawns in the vicinity of the course and the fraying of nerves due to the continued noise of the engines of the cyclists were in the city. The speaker stated she had no objection to the racing names for the petition as everyone in the district was opposed to the holding the race on the West Hill.

Mrs. Stevenson also spoke at length, her remarks being directed along the same lines as the previous speakers. The speaker complained of the noise and thought it could be eliminated by the proper action of the council. "We have to put up with noises from motorboat races and from motorcycling for 4 days when we have the fair but we considered it a sectional grin and bear it," said Miss Stevenson. "Then there is the people the law to hold the race at all and as I canvassed the district I did not find hardly anyone, who was in favor of the race being held on the West Hill. I am sure the council will look at this question in the right light and cancel the permit to hold the race."

Opinid Publicity Claim

Before the motion was put, Alderman Baragar stated that the council should be considered as per for their inconsistency. "The race last year gave this city untold publicity and I am of the opinion that the committee can guarantee three times as many people this Year," said Ald. Baragar. "Anything that has publicity has its objectors. Some time ago, when I was president of the Kinsmen Club we started a drive, that was objected to in some quarters but we raised a considerable sum of money and spent $4,000 on two playgrounds in the west end. I take a credit to any city in Canada and those playgrounds are the pride of citizens of Belleville one cent. There was opposition to parade through the city and untold unfair statements made but the ones who were most opposed to the parade being are the ones now most in favor of it. There is a motion on the East Hill to hold race as some of streets over which they would have to race are not fit for travelling. There has been a considerable number of complaints about the cycle Club in advertising this race in Canada and the United States and I think the club should be reimbursed for this amount."

Alderman Lewis was sorry, that the council saw fit to turn down the race as it was clean sport and clean sport was advocated by King George, the Prince of Wales in Toronto and others. "Sport is a deterrent to crime" said the speaker wherever sport is carried on among the younger and youthful members of our community there has been a diminution of crime." After the council had rescinded the motion passed on March 4th allowing the race, Alderman Baragar did a motion on the table stating that the Motorcycle Club be reimbursed for expenses thus far incurred but as no sum was mentioned in the motion, the matter was referred back to the committee for more data, which Ald. Baragar promised to provide for the council at the next meeting in the fall.

Letter Received

A letter was received from City Solicitor A. E. Hudgins in regard to this matter and the council asked that it be given to the press and published and the letter is herewith published in full.

June 25th, 1937.

J. Wilfred Holmes, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Re proposed Motorcycle Race.

Pursuant to Recommendation dated June 24th from City Solicitor I advise the Council as to the City's position with reference to permission granted to the Quinte Motorcycle Club to hold a motor race I was polished out that traffic on highways regulated by the Highway Traffic Act; that section 25 thereof provides for the rate of speed which, by the last amendment, shall not exceed 30 miles per hour; that section 25 thereof prohibits the driving of a motor vehicle upon a highway in a race or on a bet or wager; and that section 60 of the said Act purports to repeal all By-laws of a municipal council or board of municipal commissioners which are inconsistent with the Provisions of the Highway Traffic Act.

Since the term "highway" includes street, avenue, etc., it follows that the terms of the Highway Traffic Act, herein referred to, are applicable to the streets of the City of Belleville.

Under the Provisions of Section 80, which purports to be passed by the Highway Traffic Act, it would appear that a number of By-laws purported to be granted by Recommendation and Certificate of order in Section 50 be repealed and the permission would be rendered abortive.

In as much therefore as the regulating of speed is now provided for by the Highway Traffic Act, and the Provisions of the memorandum from the office of the Minister of Highways, does not consider that the Municipal Enactment it would seem advisable, having in mind that the permission granted is ultra vires, that the same should be rescinded.

Yours very truly,
A. E. Hudgins,
City Solicitor.

PAIR ROLLER SKATES
FOR LUCKY TICKET
Youthful Elmer Keller, of 20 St. Paul Street, is all smiles today. For on Saturday night, May 29, the lucky one drawn by His Worship Mayor W. D. Arnold in connection with the large number of entries submitted in the Kinsmen's Club Kiddies' Kar Derby, was the lucky ticket for a pair of roller skates as a result of his holding the lucky ticket.

Young Keller received his prize this morning marking out the start and finish of the Derby on North Front Street, which was the scene of circles as Derby Drill.

Interest and enthusiasm in this unique sporting event is gradually increasing and last minute reports from Kid Kar Derby officials state that a record crowd will in all likelihood take place here on Dominion Day. Last minute preparations are rapidly nearing completion and with practically every member of the club in training for the event, the spectacle look exceptionally bright for a big crowd. Motor Police Officials will be taken of the Derby and otherwise will likely be drawn for the important theatres of Canada.

City Engineer to Report On Cost of Sidewalk After Delegation Meets Council

Need For Walk On West Side N. Front From Bridge To School Claim

SUMMER RECESS

Council Will Not Meet Again Until September 20th

Belleville City Council has recessed for the summer months and will convene for regular sessions on September 20th according to a recommendation passed at the regular session on Monday evening. Owing to the amount of detailed business, that had to be transacted to allow for this recess, the committee meeting preceding the regular session of a lengthy nature with the result, that the session did not end until midnight. Mayor Arnold, who presided at the meeting apologized to the delegates, that were waiting to interview council for keeping them so long at the opening of the session but business proceeded at a lively pace until all business was completed and the members bade their fellow Aldermen goodbyes and wished for all a happy holiday. The members of the council was present for the meeting and Alderman Armstrong was in the chair for the Committee of the Whole and also for the Committee on by-laws.

Council Promises Action

The question of constructing a sidewalk on the west side of North Front Street from the overhead bridge to the King George School was again before the council with a large delegation representing the Board of Education, the principal of King George School and residents, who have children attending that school. Each of the delegation spoke at length and Mayor Arnold promised earnest consideration of their plea and while the council was in business under the head of motions, it was unanimously adopted that "the engineer report to the council the cost of constructing the sidewalk at the first meeting after the recess."

Delegation Heard

W. J. Harrison, trustee and representing the Board of Education stated, that a sidewalk had been advocated at this particular place for the last five years and that one should be built to protect the children for "some day", said Mr. Harrison, "there is going to be a serious accident." Mr. L. A. Kells, principal of the school stated he was most convernant with the situation and he expressed the opinion that it was a most serious condition. "I don't want to accuse the council but I doubt whether the members realize the condition that exists. There is no place in the city, that is quite as dangerous. Children have to cross a Provincial Highway four times a day. It has been said here tonight, there might be a serious accident. There have been serious accidents, one child sustaining a fractured skull while another received a concussion. I cannot see what argument can be advanced for not building this sidewalk."

Albert Miller, who is a resident in the vicinity of the school and who has a child attending King George School, stated he lived next to a resident, whose child was hurt by crossing the road in traffic and he was of the opinion, that something should be done to alleviate the condition. Jack Arnott stated he had two children, who were pupils at the school and each day they were told to cross the street at Gordon Street but as children will do they wait to cross the street just before arriving at the bridge. "At this point," said Mr. Arnott a car cannot be seen for more that twenty feet and since the speed limit has been increased there has been an added danger. I have signed three petitions and will sign many more until some action is taken." The speaker asked the council not to consider money with respect to a child's life and that he would appreciate any action the council might take to alleviate the condition.

Roller Loaned

The steam roller will be loaned to the Beaches Committee at every opportunity when it is not needed for work on the Public Works Department but the Beaches Committee will have to provide for the payment of labor and fuel costs according to a recommendation passed. An account of $80.80 for work done at the Tourist Camp brought forth some discussion, when Alderman Barlow asked under whose sanction the money was spent without application to council Alderman Greenleaf, chairman of Tourist and Publicity stated he considered the work necessary as the wiring at the camp was of a dreadful state.

Alderman Barlow: "I thought a chairman of a committee could only spend up to $25.00 without authority from the council"

Alderman Greenleaf: "That work has been carried on since along in April." There was no further debate and the account was ordered paid.

A transfer of property between the city and the Stephens-Adamson Company was left in abeyance by a recommendation passed but before the council closed its session, the special property committee was given certain powers to deal with the matter.

To Open Playground

A letter was received from George Laughlin, supervisor of playgrounds, asking assistance in the opening of the grounds on Saturday, July 3rd. This request was gladly granted, the City Engineer to give as much assistance as possible to the supervisor. A request for a reduction in assessment due to wrong measurements of property it was alleged in the complaint was referred to the City Assessor and the City Engineer with power to act. The Council will spend $25.00 on advertising the city in a tourist guide to be published. The members felt it was money well spent and that the city would reap untold benefits from the expenditure.

Victoria Park will be lighted according to a recommendation that was passed last evening. The cost will be $9.50 per light per annum and the action was approved on the understanding that the Parks Board take care of the payment for the current year out of their present estimate submitted and will use every endeavour to prevent any increase of their future estimates on this account and that proper officers of the City be authorized to execute any contract necessary to give effect to this recommendation. The action of the council will fill a long felt want with respect to this park, where many of the citizens while away many a pleasant hour.

Bill Referred Back

A short discussion ensued when a bill for $86.30 was presented for the repair of the city scales before they were replaced by a new one. Alderman Cushing, chairman of Market and City Property, stated the bill should not have come to the council at this time and he moved, that it be referred to the City Engineer for checking and a report to council. This motion was carried. Alderman Barlow gave a detailed statement to the council with respect to the scale situation, that it was his impression, that there was a possibility of putting the scales in working order and passing government inspection by the grinding of a few bearings. Alderman Barlow stated he was informed by the government inspector, that even with the work done the scales might not pass inspection as the scales were badly worn and this turned out to be correct and a new set of scales were purchased. "It was never intended that there should be the amount of new material purchased, that has been rendered in this bill," said Ald. Barlow. Alderman Cushing stated the work had been done but the bill should not have been presented until it was checked and a report given by the City Engineer and in closing the Alderman moved the motion, that was adopted. Alderman Jennings asked "who authorized the new material" but the question was not answered as the motion was put and carried.

Request Granted

The Indigent Committee was granted $134.00 to cover five funerals held so far this year and the The Day authorized for the Softball Association was moved forward to July 3rd. Under the heading of by-laws there were a number passed through the various stages without discussion. One provided for the payment of moneys during the summer recess, while another appointed Robert Goody as official cheese weigher as requested by the Belleville Chamber Board of Trade without any cost to the city. Authorization was given the Special Property Committee to execute conveyances with the City Solicitor during the summer recess and authorization was given for the adjourned tax sale with Alderman Cushing and Barlow as representatives of the city's interests.

Under the heading of General Business, Alderman Baldrey asked if the representatives of the Council on the Hospital Board why visitors were not allowed in the public wards in the evening, unless special permission was obtained "I am only speaking on behalf of the working people, who have no chance to visit sick friends during the day time," said Alderman Baldrey. Alderman Wills, a member of the Hospital Board gave an explanation to Ald. Baldrey, That was perfectly satisfactory to the member. There being no further business the council adjourned.

Rowe Foresees A Shortage

Leader Says It Might Handicap Industrial Progress

Guelph, Ont., June 29 — (CP)— Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, foresees a power shortage "that might handicap the industrial progress of Ontario," unless steps are taken by the Provincial Government to obtain new sources of supply.

He made this statement at the annual meeting of the South Wellington Liberal-Conservative Association here last night, in the course of an attack on the Hepburn administration's Hydro policy. He declared cancellation of contractions with power companies was a mistake.

Mr. Rowe reiterated his opinion that it is the Government's duty to uphold the right of free association for workers and pledged the Conservative party to carry out this obligation. He said, "Our duty is to maintain the right for the workers of Ontario to join what Unions they please so long as they keep the laws of the Province."

The speaker charged Premier Hepburn played politics in his handling of the Oshawa General Motors strike. The Premier's policies, he added, had yet to be endorsed by any one Liberal group.

Keep on the WISE MAN'S SIDE

LETTERED across the speedometer dial of every new General Motors car are the words, "Safety First". It is not by chance that they appear there, but as a double reminder to the drivers of our cars.

First, they express the creed of engineering, designing and building that guides General Motors in these fast-moving days. Safety first and safety always is written indelibly into every General Motors blueprint—alloyed in the very metals that give shape and strength to General Motors cars. Dedicated to safety are the great advancements of recent years—the Knee-Action ride, the solid steel Turret Top, Unisteel body construction, Multi-Beam Headlights, Centre-Control Shockproof Steering and the perfection of the Hydraulic braking system—all of which were pioneered or popularized by General Motors.

Everything for safety is built into General Motors cars. But safety still depends on the hands that hold the steering wheel and the mind that governs what they do. So we put "Safety First" on the speedometer to remind you that the wise and good driver watches his speed and takes no chances.

Won't you remember this when you're driving? Keep on the wise man's side of fifty—and help to make our highways safe.

FIREMEN HEROES

Firemen who gave their lives to prevent the spread of fire which might have meant losses of other lives and destruction of large areas of property, are in very deed heroes. Their action falls into line with the thought expressed by Macaulay in his poem of ancient Rome when he was speaking of the warriors who died for their country: "For how can men die better than facing fearful odds, for the ashes of their fathers and the temples of their gods." Putting this thought in modern dress one might express it, "How can men die more heroic deaths than in the performance of duty in the protection of life and property!"

The fireman has a task which calls for great sacrifice, it may be. Man cannot always direct his course so that he can avoid risk. Fires are full of menace, of destruction and of death. Against this awful tide of primitive life and of civilization, this monster released, which wipes out every vestige of progress and life if unchecked, the fireman sets himself, with the aid of modern equipment. But even with every modern safeguard, there is the danger of falling timbers and walls, and more particularly in this age, the danger of explosions is no small one.

The fireman goes to his duty like a soldier, he does not hesitate.

Those, whom firemen protect, cannot fail to see the noble task these men bind themselves to perform as representatives of the citizens.

Such dire events as the disaster at Montreal points once more to the fact that progress and civilization demand a sacrifice, and in the turn of events three Montreal men lost their lives, faithful unto death.

VICTIMS OF CIVIL WAR

The unpardonable sin against the childhood of Spain is indicated in a comment of the Guelph Mercury on a deplorable situation which will not reach the culmination of the tragic effects it brings, within this life. The Mercury says:

"A New York Times dispatch, telling of the arrival in England of some 3,800 children from war-wracked Bilbao, contains some fearfully tragic paragraphs. As, for instance, this one: It was not the children's physical condition, however, that caused most concern.....The saddest by-product of the Spanish civil war is their overwrought mental condition, brought about by the terror of the air raids. The war has left many of them abnormally nervous, perhaps for the rest of their lives. They have spent hour after hour huddled in refuges with their frightened mothers, while rebel airplanes droned overhead, dropping bombs.....Scores have seen brothers, sisters or little friends killed or maimed near their homes. Can any sensitive persons read that without feeling that the humblest of an inhabited town—by anyone, in any land—is one of the most shocking crimes of all the ages?"

These words unfortunately can do little good for the poor little Spanish boys and girls, some of whom have seen war's bloody face and have been forced to dig trenches under fire almost without cessation. But it may help to save other children from such a living horror, worse than any nightmare which any man ever saw, and more terrifying than any ghost that is said to have visited a man or woman with this exception that those visited with the sight of these terrors were the innocents and not the perpetrators of crime.

Not all the victories and speeches of the Loyalist and insurgent heads can wipe away the sin which rests on Spain that it should have reached such a pass that children would have to go through such horrors of war; to have their minds seared to the extent that no medical aid nor balm can ever fully heal them to the nonchalance and quiet of normal mental life. The tablets of their poor little brains have been seared as if with a hot iron and neither in this life nor in the next can they quite be what they ordinarily would have been. Indeed they are really a part of what they have met—in their case, the greatest aggregation of shocks and terrors that ever startled the pulse and imagination of childhood.

Childhood requires peace and security and has been given a bed of horrors and a playground wherein the devilish passions of men are inflamed to deal death.

They are the children of that Spain which was spared the horrors of the Great War, to fall victims of the most horrible civil or fratricidal war in history.

It is better to be nobly remembered than nobly born.—Ruskin.

He who is lord of himself and exists upon his own resources, is a noble but a rare being.—Brydges.

If a man be endued with a generous mind, this is the best kind of nobility.—Plato.

CONTEMPLATION

The bright new prospect that seems full of cheer
Like to a bubble fades before the eye,
Whn it is held within the vision clear;
Showing up flaws that we had once passed by.
So does a river sparkle in the sun
When for the moment, we are on the land
Yet when its course in a frail canoe we run
Then may be felt, it bars of rock and sand.
Nothing as worthy rests on Judgment's throne
Without the smile of Time and Tides' consent;
Who can yet gauge the roundness of a stone
That on its path has not its motion spent?
A perfect rose may pass within a night
Swift brought to ruin, by an unseen blight.

MIDWEEK HOLIDAYS ARE NOT appreciated by merchants, nor are they favored by those who wish to make a more or less extended trip over the holiday. Sidelight Pan suggests to this column that this would be a good thing for service clubs to take up. Start a movement to have all public holidays, where possible, observed on Mondays. Monday is the quietest day in the week. Each day after Monday business gets livelier and gets into its stride in the middle of the week when not disrupted by a public holiday. Monday holidays provide a welcome extension of the week-end, especially in the summer time, and the idea is worthy of consideration.

FOLKS WHO HAVE THE "I TOLD you so" habit are an irritation and to some an abomination, intimating as it does that the "I told you so" speaker is much wiser and far-seeing than the one addressed. But, as David Harum said, "A reasonable amount of fleas are good for a dog—keeps him from brooding on being a dog"—and variety being the spice of life, as we are told, the fact that it takes all kind of people to make a world, makes it more interesting.

PRESCOTT CHAMBER OF COMmerce has started a campaign against shad flies, pest of the river ports. Cooperation has been asked of Brockville, Iroquois, Cardinal, Morrisburg, and other places which suffer the annual visitation of these plaguey insects in an effort to enlist the aid of the government entomologists in a war of extinction or prevention. Shad flies are a sorry pest at certain times during the summer when St. Lawrence River towns are blanketed by the pesky things brought by the wind in clouds and plastered on buildings and windows. They have been so bad at times as to be shovelled from the walks like snow—and that's no exaggeration.

RETAIL MERCHANDISING RUNS into figures larger than most folks who are given to fancy thought imagine. Ottawa has been given a test by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which has a yen for prying into figures and finding out where things come from and where they go to and why, and how much. A special survey of the retail trade of the City of Ottawa shows that last year there were 1,593 retail establishments in operation in that city with sales aggregating $53,024,600. In 1930 there were 1,495 stores and sales of $59,664,000. Retail sales in 1933 were estimated at $42,000,000. So when you consider that more than a million dollars a week are spent in Ottawa retail stores last year, it is more than ever evident that the retail trade is a very important contributor to the prosperity of any municipality.

Letters to the Editor

"The Salvation Army Flint Michigan Band."

Belleville, June 26th, 1937

The Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ontario.

My Dear Sir:

I am writing you in regard to a matter that has aroused a considerable amount of comment during the last few weeks both by residents of this city as well as those from many others, and as nearly every reader is aware that next week Picton celebrates their Centennial, during that event a very fine band has been engaged by the town to take part in the various activities during next Saturday and Sunday, July 3rd and 4th, but much to the dissatisfaction of many this band has not been given its correct name neither by the various bulletins given out nor by the different newspapers that have printed reports regarding same, each one stating that the "Flint Michigan Band" would visit Picton, instead of "The Salvation Army Flint Michigan Band."

Why such a mistake should be made so many times and by so many papers etc., is beyond me, and I think whoever is responsible for this error has certainly cast a reflection on The Salvation Army, an organization that has shown the entire world that first-class banding is. One would almost think that they were ashamed to let people know that the band they are leading is of the Salvation Army, but I state emphatically here that people will attend just as well and better if they know it is a Salvation Army Band, when they know what the organization stands for, and the great good its bands do for one and all.

"The Salvation Army Flint Michigan Band" is of very high standing as a band and I think in return it deserves its proper name from now on. Many have asked and are asking what is this "Flint Band" so I am personally hoping that this letter will answer many of those queries, and that it is one unit of musicians of the great family of Salvationists of which there are about 150,000 bandsmen and half as many choristers.

Thanking you Sir, for your very valuable space in the column of your paper, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,
"S. A. Bandsman"

Popular Teacher Is Feted by Friends

Miss Muriel Milligan, Rawdon, Honored By Pupils and Y.P.S.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 23, the pupils of the Allan School enjoyed a party at the school. The guests were Anna Sharp, Edna Hubble, Shirley Scott, Jackie Rose, Gordon Reid and Mrs. Frank Reid.

The early part of the afternoon was spent in playing games and then all repaired to the school room. Miss Gladys Sharp read the following address to the teacher Miss Muriel Milligan who has taught in this school for four years and Miss Helen Hay made the presentation of a lovely silver and gold bracelet set with an amethyst stone.

Hay White also spoke a few words of appreciation of the teacher's work in the school room and James Heard announced the gift.

Quarrel Ends In Man's Death

Shot Himself After An Argument With His Daughter

Chatham Ont., June 29—(CP)—An argument with a daughter as to whether she would be permitted to go to a movie ended in death for Cyril Komon who, police said today, shot himself with a shotgun last night. It was announced no inquest would be held.

The daughter, 17-year-old Mary Komon, was under medical treatment after having reportedly swallowed face lotion during the argument, in which the girl's mother also was involved. While Mary was being treated by a physician, Komon, according to police, retired to a closet and ended his life with a single-barrelled shotgun.

Komon, 36, came to Chatham a year ago from Dover Township. He was a Czechoslovakian. He and his wife and daughter worked at a local institution.

AT THE CAPITOL

Re-opening Thursday, July 1st—Two Grand Hits

Elizabeth Hearst, gray-haired woman who has devoted most of her life to educating the Southern mountaineers, came to Hollywood to see that the movies did right by her people in the film, "Mountain Justice," coming to the Capitol on Thursday, July 1st, as bit No. 1 on our grand re-opening double bill. The Capitol is going to show only the best in entertainment from now on, new and improved sound equipment, at low summer prices.

"I read that they were going to make a picture with a setting in the Southern mountains," Miss Hearst explained, "so I came out to Hollywood to present my credentials and applied for the job as technical advisor. I got it."

Mrs. Hearst, on the "Mountain Justice" set every day, working with Helen Hunt and Hobart to insure authenticity in speech, customs and atmosphere of Judith's forgotten people. Her suggestions were followed, without question.

But it wasn't all work for little Mrs. Hearst. She got a lot of fun out of "working in the movies," and made a good many friends at the studio. She even got to see a little of Hollywood's night life, and for the first time in her life spent an evening at a night club. One of her greatest thrills came when she saw "Mountain Justice" on the screen.

"Mountain Justice" is a gripping melodrama based upon a young girl's ambition to bring the benefits of civilization to the benighted people of her remote village in the hills. Thwarted by nearly all of them—especially by her own father—she almost sacrifices her life for her ideals of betterment.

Romance blossoms in starred as the young girl, who is forced to kill her father to save her own life and that of her sister; George Brent is co-starred as a young attorney who believes in her and aids her. Among the other notables in the cast are Robert Barrat, Guy Kibbee, Marcia Mae Jones, Mona Barrie, Elizabeth Risdon and Fuzzy Knight.

Shown as bit No. 2—A swell musical comedy, "This'll Make You Whistle."

"Sidewalk Secrets"

Because you hate clothes that are dependent on you for perpetual care . . . "let them up" from time to time with a Langley Re-let cleaning.

MADOC CONCLUDES 48 YEARS TEACHING

E. C. Srigley, Formerly of Madoc, Is Honored By Windsor School Staff

Madoc, June 30—Forty-eight and one-half years of teaching in Ontario's secondary schools, the last 36 of which were spent in Windsor, came to an end at the close of the current school year for Mr. E. C. Srigley, director of the commercial department in the Windsor vocational, when members of the staff afforded him a testimonial dinner at the Essex Golf and Country Club.

A pioneer of commercial education, Srigley started in the field before such schools were equipped with typewriters. Mr. Srigley, who retires on a pension at the end of this month, was presented with an occasional chair by his colleagues. W. D. Lowe, principal of vocational education, called on Mr. George F. Dean, Mr. Srigley's successor to make the presentation address, which was in part as follows:

We all know Mr. Srigley as a gentleman, as a scholar, as a teacher and as a true and loyal friend. We of the staff, like the student body, have found him a wise and sympathetic counselor and guide. As a pioneer of commercial education, coming over 36 years ago, he has meant much to Windsor, when Mr. Srigley first came here, there were only 60 commercial pupils registered, last fall there were more than 900.

Mr. Srigley can look back to the time when there were only four or five commercial teachers at the Ontario Educational Association convention and was always pleased. His was the first school to give telephone switch-board instruction in Ontario, perhaps in all Canada, some twenty years ago. He has striven to maintain that leadership in introducing new ideas into commercial education.

Each year the inspectors of the department of education have had words of praise for his department, and on occasions have told him his work was the best in the province, and each time he has modestly attributed the credit to his staff.

Further tribute was paid the retiring commercial school head by George Campbell, supervisor of schools; Dr. Cecil Race, principal and Mr. S. R. Ross, the vice-principal.

Mr. Srigley is a former Madocer and is married to the former Lillian Pollock, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Whyard, both of this village.

The June meeting of Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Reid on Friday afternoon.

President, Mrs. T. L. Nickle in charge opened the meeting with a short period of community singing and the Institute Ode.

After the business period splendid reports of the district annual meeting which was held at Cooper Hall given by Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. T. L. Nickle; Mrs. E. J. Reid in charge of discussion on Community Activities and on current events. Plans were made and discussed as to an objective to work for during the coming year. MOTORISTS:
To really enjoy
"THE HOLIDAY"
Try Courtesy
every inch of the way

JULY 1st is Dominion Day, Canada's own holiday when we commemorate the founding of the Dominion. Schools will be closed for the summer and cottages opened. The gay round of outdoor summer life and pleasure will begin.

How better could you start it than by resolving to "Try Courtesy" in all your driving. Regard the "other fellow" in a friendly manner and extend to him the same courtesies of the road that you would like him to extend to you.

Remember he and his family are also on pleasure bent and may have farther to go than you, so let him pass if he wishes to. Keep to your right side of the road and do not overtake him on hills, curves or blind spots. Sound your horn when you are about to pass. Drive with the utmost caution where children or cyclists are present. Hand-signal your intention to slow down, turn or stop. Drive in your own traffic lane in both town and country and do not "cut in and out".

Do not startle those "afoot" by driving too close or by sounding your horn "at the last moment".

Concede to the other fellow his rights as a motorist and do not insist on your own rights when it is dangerous to do so.

These are but a few of the many ways in which you can demonstrate that you believe in the new spirit of the road—"Try Courtesy".

You and your fellow-motorist will enjoy the holiday much more if you "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

TRY COURTESY
The new spirit of the road

Premier King

"We hope our distinguished guests will feel himself as much at home (Hemlich Pushlem) as he did as a student 17 years ago."

The Beobachter prints his photograph.

Student Days Recalled

The Berliner Tageblatt says:

"The Canadian Prime Minister, Mackenzie King, in 1900 spent several months in Berlin as a student. He has retained from those days friendly recollections of Berlin and Germany and today speaks with lively pleasure of his Berlin experiences.

"His native town in Canada (in Waterloo County where so many place-names indicate German founders) bears the name Berlin. In 1908 Mackenzie King was elected to the House of Commons for the first time by a following of essentially German descent. (In Erster Linie Deutsche Gefolgschaft).

"In 1921 he formed his first Cabinet. In 1935 he succeeded the Conservative Prime Minister, R. B. Bennett, and with very skilful and successful balancing of Canada's American and Empire interests rendered great service to his country.

On World Trade

"Mackenzie King may be assured that he will find here a most sincere understanding of every similar effort for the adjustment of conflicting interests in world trade."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, after a similar sketch for Mackenzie King's career, says "We hope the Canadian Prime Minister may again spend happy days in Germany—a land to which, though his renewed visit, he brings friendship."

Honesty is Best Policy

Honesty is the best policy and should be fittingly rewarded, at least that is the opinion of a small Belleville youngster who is a swimming and sailing enthusiast, and who wants his name withheld from this story.

It appears, that the lad's parents brought him a brand new bathing suit. He lost no time in trying it. While swimming he decided it was a grand day for a sail, and hastily dressing he leaped into his sailing punt, and swept out into the bay with his craft heeling over with a spanking breeze.

His eyes widened with amazement and fear, when he suddenly realized after sailing for a short time, that he had left the new suit thrown over an old wharf near his favorite swimming spot. Hastily putting about, he raced for the wharf, where his worst fears were realized. The suit was gone.

Sorrowfully he turned his way homeward, where he told his parents of his misfortune.

For two or three days, he haunted the various swimming spots in the hope of discovering the suit. Then in his despair, he again took out his punt to forget his misery on the waters of the bay. But as he was about to cast off he noticed a lonely looking youngster sitting on the beach. Feeling the need of human company he invited the stranger to accompany him.

"Sure," acquiesced the boy. Together the two strange friends swept out into the Bay. Then the stranger spoke up: "Say, do you mind if I go in for a swim?" he asked. "Sure, go ahead."

The boy stripped off his clothes, and there in front of the host's astonished gaze stood revealed the new bathing suit!.

"Say, is that your suit?" he asked. "Sure" came the reply.

"Where did you get it", "I found it two days ago, hung over an old pier. Why is it yours?"

"Yes. I lost it the other day. I went for a sail and forgot it."

"Gee, I'm sorry.—Here take it". And without more ado the stranger took off the suit and handed it to his former owner.

"Gosh, that's great of you", said the now delighted boy, "Here, I want to give you something" and reaching his hand in his pocket, he handed the honest stranger, four coppers. "That's all I have", he said.

Wellington Scouts Have Noble Record

Residents of Wellington have forgotten the prospects of a bumper canning crop, the European situation and other events of importance, in the excitement of the second local Boy Scout hero to make an appearance in the space of a few years. Alfred (Jimmy) MacDonald, heroic exploit of last Saturday when by his fine efforts he saved the lives of youthful Bobby and Betty Thompson from the sailing the splendid sacrifice made by Jamie Calloy, MacDonald is aPtrol Leader in No. 1 Wellington Troop, Boy Scouts, a few years ago Calloy, who was lounging on the pier near the village, suddenly heard a call for help. Hearing a thirty-year-old man flung his hands in the air, as he went down for the third time. Calloy plunged in to his rescue and gave his life in a valn attempt to save the life of the drowning man. Calloy was given a posthumous award in the form of a medal from the Royal Canadian Humane Society.

Troop No. 1 Boy Scouts of Wellington hold an enviable record in the saving of lives.

SAY MAN TRIED TO TAKE PIANO OUT

Sure enough, two officers arrived to find a revolving negro struggling to get the big instrument out of a hallway to which he had moved it from Mrs. Solomon's apartment. ## N. Y. GIANTS CAN FORGE TO FRONT

Play Second Division Teams While Cubs and Cards Battle

By Bill Boni Associated Press Sports Writer

For the sake of their pennant chances, it is to be hoped that the New York Giants back in the days of their individual and respective childhoods, studied closely the parable of the little dog that ran away with the bone while the two big dogs were fighting over it.

As major league activity was resumed today on all fronts, with the eastern and western teams at home in each circuit, the Giants found themselves in much the same spot as that smart little pup, while from now until the all-star game on July 7, they will be disporting against the National League's second-division outfits, the Cubs, Cardinals and Chicago will play each other for keeps.

This morning the standing found the Cubs in front by seven points and a half game over the Cards at 10 points and half a game over the Chicks, while the two front-runners are knocking each other off—the Cubs also have a four-game set with the Pirates in store, a reasonable amount of the "breaks" may bring the New Yorkers back into the lead they relinquished to Chicago just two weeks ago.

Where three men have shouldered the pitching burden for the Gas House gang, and seven have distributed it evenly for the Cubs, the friendly layer-cake some sort of balance between the two.

HOWARD KRIST A WHOLE SHOW

Rookie Hurler Allows Only Three Hits and Hit Home Winning Run

(By the Associated Press)

Howard Krist, a rookie right-hander, had his night under the arc lights last night and dominated a pirate league.

Krist pitched the Rochester Red-Wings to 1-0 decision over the Buffalo Bisons, the only game in the International league, for the other games scheduled, an afternoon contest between Baltimore and Newark was rained out. Krist allowed but three hits and finding his mates powerless against the Bisons Big Bob Kline, slammed out a double in the fifth to score Martin Marion with the games only run. Kline pitched a seven-hitter and got one of the Herd's three singles off Krist.

We wonder if there is any law in this land to prohibit sailing races on the Sabbath? If there isn't the Belleville Yacht Club might well consider changing their racing day from Wednesday to Sunday. There is no admission charged nor award given for weekly sailing competition sponsored by the Belleville Yacht Club. Golf, tennis and other competitive sports are played on Sunday, why not sailing races? Some of the boat owners feel it an impudition to be called upon to lose a half day's wages to race every Wednesday afternoon, although in the majority of cases the punt sailors have Wednesday afternoon as a half holiday.

We, along with a goodly number of citizens, envied the old time hillbills what to witness the thrilling finish of Sunday's Mixed Cup race in the rain. If citizens are sufficiently interested to stand in the rain and watch the progress of these sailing races on Sunday, perhaps that is the more opportune day on which to stage their races. As one sailor agreed—it might help to stimulate the sailing if sailing races were held on Sunday one week and the next week on Wednesday. Alderman Exile Baldero has taken over the reins of the Belleville Yacht Club as chairman of the sailing committee and Exile is out to do or does not affect the league standing insofar as the locals are concerned, except they are that much behind the Peterboro Athenaeums. The Flying Rovers expect to gain sweet revenge on Friday, however, when the Oshawa squad play the return game at the Trenton Arena.

We observe our friend (?) and contemporary "Doup" Campbell, Oshawa sport scribe, has filed himself into an Oshawa lacrosse uniform and behold if he didn't award himself with an assist last night. If friend Campbell can "lay on the gad" at lacrosse in the same style as he manages to keep with the pen he will spend much of his time in the penalty box, but as we expected his name was a minus quantity in the penalty list last night.

We might have had the game, but we didn't back down or lose any of the fights that caused a penalty to be handed out. Chief Delaney last night after the game. It seems the CLO's are still sore in Oshawa and at one time decided to take their arguments into the ring. Incensed Bisons, the Rovers' defence, cashed a few of them with the result they were soon seen climbing back into their seats. It was a typical lacrosse battle with no spectators et al. The return game should be a honey George.

ROVERS DOWNED BY OSHAWA TEAM IN BOXLA GAME

Lacrosse Team Suffers First Defeat By 17-10 Score

NO RESERVE STRENGTH

"Honey" Thompkins Led Attack, Scoring Three Counters

Sadly lacking in reserve strength the Belleville Flying Rovers fell before a concerted onslaught of attack, especially in the third period, as the Oshawa "Labours" downed the Rovers 17 to 10 at the Oshawa Stadium last evening.

It was the Rovers' first reverse in four starts, but the result had no bearing on the ultimate standing of the league, the Rovers retaining their second place position without hazard. The game was marked with numerous outbreaks of ructicuits, with the result, that 200 mile Canadian championship motorcycle race in Belleville on Labor Day, when he will defend his North American honors.

We were in error yesterday when we stated Russ Kitchen let the Napanee Oilbards down with three hits. The Oilbards collected six hits off Kitchen while the Petes were limited to three hits in victory, being held hitless for the last five frames by Blaszich. . . .

Old Jupiter Pluvius dampened the aspiracts of all local sports last evening, the softball games and the Kiwanis at Latta ball game were all rained out. For the entertainment of the softball fans, however, an exhibition softball game between the R.C.A.F. "Flyers", leaders of the Trenton League and the Cordial tops in our own local loop, at Columbus Flats.

The Belleville Flying Rovers ran into their first defeat last evening at the hands of the Oshawa "222". Labour upset the lime being 17 to 10. Sadly lacking in reserve strength the Rovers only had three substitutes available and eventually the lack of alternates took its toll in the third quarter, when the homesters scored seven big goals. It was the Rovers' first defeat of the carnival season and does not affect the league standing insofar as the locals are concerned, except they are that much behind the Peterboro Athenaeums. The Flying Rovers expect to gain sweet revenge on Friday, however, when the Oshawa squad play the return game at the Trenton Arena.

We observe our friend (?) and contemporary "Doup" Campbell, Oshawa sport scribe, has filed himself into an Oshawa lacrosse uniform and behold if he didn't award himself with an assist last night. DEMPSEY SPANKED

Jack Dempsey sumbitted to a good-natured mauling when his friends put him through their paddling machine. It was the "Manassa Man Mauler's" 42nd birthday anniversary. He entertained friends with a dinner party at his restaurant in New York.

"Froggie" Green as the crew. The Scrapper and one other local punt left the local waters last evening. The greater number of the local craft will get away tomorrow morning, escorted by two power boats, however.

Twig Woodley's Kiwanis Juniors expect to climb out of the cellar position in the South Hastings League on Wednesday night with a win over the Latta nine. The Kiwanis kids tasted their first taste of victory last week and will be tougher opposition in the future. The game is being played at the Fair Grounds.

BALAXY IS ONLY FAVORITE TO WIN

(By The Canadian Press)

Outsiders handed the favorites a six to one shellacking at Hamilton race track yesterday. Balaxy, in winning the second race, was the only choice to click. The P. Delaney filly beated Argrey by one length to pay $2.80 for $2.

Bill Rainey Big Fish was right at home on the off-track and romped away with the Jersey Stakes. Rainey followed him across the line a length and a half back and a short head in front of Boscobel. Big Fish was a 9 to 1 chance.

The popular colors of H. R. Bain were in victory twice during the afternoon. Lalfort, at 10.30, was hard-ridden by Pat Gilmillard to gain a neck decision over the Eric Sergeant in fifth third race while Isleworth, also piloted by Remillard, had it rather easy in winning the finale by a length and a half from Mettle. Isleworth was worth $14.15 for $2.

Plenty of excitement was evidenced in the fourth contest when three horses hit the finish line blanketed. Brother Thomas was given the verdict by a nose while Happy Flint was a short head in front of Blast.

Jockey Eddie Burns got himself a "double" when he brought Missouri Jim home in front in the sixth race. He repeated the stunt on Big Fish. Missouri Jim paid off at $23.50.

Rex M. won her second straight Meldrum at Blue Bonnets in Montreal when she took down the Windsor Hotel Cup from Standout. The little mare forged to the front when straightened for home and had plenty in reserve to stave off the rush of Standout. Winston D. pulled up in third place. Rex M. ran the seven furlongs in 1.25 3-5 and returned $5 for $2.

Victoria—On Thursday evening June 24 about one hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hubbs at Victoria to give a miscellaneous shower to their eldest daughter Alice in honor of her approaching Marriage to the Rev. Robt. Wragg of Peace River.

Following is the address:

Dear Alice and Robert

This gathering of your friends and neighbors of Victoria, vainly marks a prospective change in your life and is an expression of our best wishes for your future happiness.

Alice you have grown up among us from childhood to womanhood playing, studying with many of us at school, meeting with us in Sunday school, helping in entertainments, visiting in our homes and entertaining us in yours.

Now with your approaching marriage you will take up new duties and responsibilities in another community.

We have greatly appreciated your help while you have been with us.

Robert, although you are a stranger to the most of us we sincerely welcome you to our Homes whenever you find an opportunity and we congratulate you on your life work and do hope as you endeavor to lead others to God you may be blessed.

In life's pathway, whether rough or smooth may the star of love and trust never grow dim on your horizon. As you tread the rugged slopes of the journey together may a hand be placed on yours and a voice be heard to say "Fear Not, I Will Guide Thee." And at last as you journey westward may the golden gates stand ajar and the kind voice of the Master say to you. "Welcome Thou."

And now we ask you to accept this shower of gifts. May your influence count only for good in the new life which you have undertaken and may these gifts remind you always of the neighbors of Victoria community and friends.

Prohibition is the opposite of true temperance

It is plainly in the interest of the Brewing Industry to promote True Temperance, to defend itself and its thousands of workers against the effects of extremist propaganda.

But it is also to the public interest that the whole story should be told.

Those messages, then, are intended as a genuine service to the great majority who are not extremists on either side . . .

In 1916 when Prohibition came to Ontario, sincere temperance people voted for it. They gave it eleven years fair trial. But it failed!

Then the same sincere temperance people voted for its repeal — and substituted government control.

But government control cannot be effective without self-control — for that was why Prohibition was a failure.

Apart from the fact that Prohibition led people to drink who never drank before, just to show that no law could infringe their personal liberty . . .

Apart from the habits of secret drinking which Prohibition bred . . .

Apart from the contempt for all law which sprang from the breaking of this one law by high and low . . .

Apart from all other sorry consequences of Prohibition, the sorriest of all was that Temperance education ceased!

Instead of teaching the individual self-control, reliance was placed on law-control.

Let us now pick up the trail again where it left off in 1916. For in those days, at least, it was not smart to be intemperate.

Let us again regard the drinker as the problem, not the drink!

● This advertisement is inserted by the Brewing Industry in the interest of a better public understanding of certain aspects of the problems of temperance and local option.

Holiday Bride

By ANN DEMAREST

Aunt Cecile looked at her with a strange smile. "You are a very nice child. I almost wish, my dear, I'm not remaining in New York. I would if it weren't for this dreadful winter rather than's setting in. I can't stand the cold. I've spent the last ten years following the sun. When the Italian Riviera goes too cold I go to Egypt."

"I wish you were staying," Jeanne said impulsively.

She liked Cilly's aunt so much that she almost forgot who she was as they stood there talking. And then suddenly she realized that she had to be careful. What would Cilly Bartlett do if her Aunt Cecile decided to stay in New York?

Then let the consequences crowd the drug store and it was then that Jeanne saw a familiar figure at the cigar counter by the doorway. She stepped back hastily but before she could turn the man had seen her.

The man was Bryan!

It probably took only a few seconds for Jeanne to regain her composure but it seemed at the time to take long moments for her heart to stop its wild beating.

"Here is Bryan!" she cried out to herself. "This time don't let him go. Perhaps his word will be plain away these unhappy weeks."

She was conscious of one thing only—Bryan's dark eyes meeting her pleading blue ones, levelling almost accordingly. There was no warmth in his gaze. Jeanne drew back, a sob choking her throat. What could she say to make him look at her, not as he was now but as he did that last night they were together when he was planning their wedding. And then she remembered Aunt Cecile standing there by her side and the danger of this meeting. She must speak to Bryan and Cilly leave hastily before Cilly's aunt could discover anything. Without raising her eyes again to Bryan she murmured good evening. And when Bryan answered her she could still feel his dark gaze on her. With a brief nod, Jeanne started to pass him but Aunt Jecile detained her by the arm. She turned from Jeanne to Bryan, her sharp eyes curious.

"So this is a friend of my little Cecile," she said softly, looking up at Bryan with a smile.

INSTALMENT 13

It was with great difficulty that Jeanne kept from gasping aloud. She turned panic-stricken eyes to Bryan and begged him wordlessly not to give her away. He was eyeing her strangely.

"Little Cecile," he echoed softly, and a smile flickered at the corner of his mouth.

Hastily Jeanne introduced Aunt Cecile to Bryan. The words sounded strange to her own ears and she wondered what Bryan must be thinking. Not that it mattered, as he told herself bitterly. The only thing that was important now was to keep Aunt Cecile from suspecting that the girl who was accepting her hospitality was not her niece. Jeanne felt a sudden sense of shame for deceiving this kind old woman.

"I haven't seen you for a long while", Jeanne said to Bryan, trying to sound casual.

He inclined his head briefly and his eyes when they met Jeanne's for a moment were hooded and hostile but his tone when he answered her was carelessly bantering. "I am afraid that is your fault. You seem to have much occupied with Mrs. Cecile."

Jeanne c'ew a quick breath when he called her Cecile. Evidently he could be counted on not to betray her. But his voice, when he added the Cecile, brought a quick rush of color to her cheeks.

"I'm sorry to hurry off," he said, turning to Aunt Cecile, "I'm delighted to have met you and your niece again, too. She's a very eludive person."

Aunt Cecile eyed him shrewdly. "You don't look as though you'd let anything or any one elude you, young man, if you made up your mind to it."

Bryan flashed an amused smile at the old lady and then with a bow to her left them, and Jeanne followed Aunt Cecile to the elevator, thankful that the meeting had passed off so well. She was worried though about the next hour or two she would have to spend with Cilly's aunt.

"A nice young man, that Patterson boy," Aunt Cecile said unexpectedly as they settled themselves before the open fireplace in the living room of her suite. "He's a bit hot-headed, I expect, but a man must be to get anywhere. Any one with half an eye can see that you are in love with each other. What's the matter? Have you quarreled?"

Jeanne's eyes were full of tears. She turned her face quickly to the fireplace so that Aunt Cecile would not see her. "No, we didn't quarrel," she said in a forlorn little voice. "He just decided not to see me any more."

"Nonsense. You must have done something to him."

"I didn't really."

Suddenly Jeanne had an overwhelming desire to confide in Aunt Cecile. It was dangerous, she knew, but there was no necessity for mentioning Sandra by name, and Aunt Cecile was going away and would never know that it wasn't Cilly Bartlett who was in love with Bryan Patterson.

Haltingly she told the old lady that she and Bryan had planned to be married and that he suddenly decided to go out with another girl. Aunt Cecile listened, shaking her head incredulously.

"If he is in love with any one but you, I miss my guess," she said briskly. "Who is he, anyway? You've never mentioned him in your letters."

Jeanne realized for the first time with a shock that of course Cilly wrote to her aunt occasionally. What would these letters be like and whom would Cilly have mentioned? Lance, perhaps. But it was too late now to back out. Aunt Cecile was waiting for an answer.

"He's no one you would know," she said hastily. "He's from Boston."

"Boston! What is his first name."

"Bryan."

"Of course I know him, or at least of him. I knew his father years ago. He was an engineer, not practical enough to make money, but the Pattersons are a fine family."

Jeanne nodded in surprise. "Yes, Bryan is an engineer too."

It was strange, she thought, that Aunt Cecile had known Bryan's father.

"He's a fine-chap. Looks like his father, too. I'm glad you have sense enough to fall in love with a man who has some ambition. Most of these New York boys are good for only one thing and that is spending money."

Jeanne pressed her small white teeth against her lips. "I'm not in love with him any more. I was once but that is all over now."

Aunt Cecile ignored her. "I want you to call him tomorrow, Cecile, and invite him to have dinner with us tomorrow night."

"I can't do that," Jeanne gasped. "Of course you can. If he is the man you want, don't let any slight misunderstanding keep you apart. Tomorrow night I want him to come —to talk about his father."

Jeanne nodded miserably. "All right, I'll call but I'm sure he won't want to come when he knows I'm with you."

"We'll see, but I'll bet you a new frock he will accept."

Add then to Jeanne's relief Aunt Cecile dropped Bryan and told Jeanne about a trip she had taken to Greece in the fall, and for an hour they chatted. Finally when Jeanne rose to go Aunt Cecile walked with her to the door.

"Don't worry, my child. I'm sure things will work out all right. Any man knowing you would realize what a fine girl you are; even if you are my niece, I must tell you that. I'm very proud of you." She bent over and kissed Jeanne good night affectionately.

Jeanne took a taxi back to the Bartlett's in a daze. Cilly's maid was waiting up for her but Jeanne dismissed her and sank into the white chair by the dressing table with a sigh of relief. It was heavenly to be alone after the events of the evening.

Being with Aunt Cecile had been a strain, but meeting Bryan had been sheer misery.

"I can't call him," she cried to herself. "He doesn't want to see me and he'll think it is my idea."

And now, she wondered, would she ever be able to explain the reason for deceiving Aunt Cecile. She would have to tell him the truth.

Slowly she slipped out of the turquoise frock and hung it carefully in the closet, and throwing one of Cilly's negligees around her she went into the mirrored bathroom. So many reflections were a mockery. Instead of one pale, taut-mouthed Jeanne she saw dozen of them. Everywhere she turned she could see the anguish in her blue eyes. She knew now that no matter what she told herself Bryan was the man she loved. How could she go on caring for him, she asked herself fiercely, when he so evidently no longer loved her. Without even a casual word of explanation, he had let her go and taken Sandra in her place, as though their dreams were as light and temporary as dance music.

When she crept into Cilly's white bed with its soft, cool linen sheets she thrust the thought of Bryan aside fiercely. He must no longer count. The notions of living must be gone through alone. Tomorrow she would call him to please Aunt Cecile. There was no way to avoid that but even if he came to dinner with them he must not for one moment know that she still loved him. And when Jeanne finally fell asleep that night her throat ached from not crying aloud in loneliness.

Some time during the night she wakened to hear a bell ringing insistently. Bewildered, she sat up in bed and rubbed her eyes. And then it rang again and she realized that it was the telephone in the hall outside of Cilly's room. Jeanne switched on the bedside lamp, slipped out of bed and hurried into the hall. Parks, whose room was off the kitchen, was apparently sound asleep.

"Hello," Jeanne said sleepily.

"Jeanne?" It was a man's voice, Jeanne's eyes widened in surprise. She didn't recognize the voice. Any way, who would be calling her in the middle of the night at the Bartletts'?

"Who is it?"

"You know who it is, all right. And then, when she heard the rough laugh, she knew. It was Mart Downes.

"So this is where you are keeping yourself. I tried all evening to get hold of you. I might have known where you'd be," he said in a sneering voice.

Jeanne bit her lips to keep from screaming with annoyance. Mart had not called her for days and of course of all times he had to find her at the Bartletts' and make a fuss about it.

"Listen, Mart," she said patiently, "I have to talk to you over the week-end.

He interrupted her. "You don't have to tell me that. I know all along there was something funny about that job."

Mart's voice was thick; suddenly Jeanne realized that he had been drinking. She switched on the hall light beside her and looked at the clock. It was after three. He would never have called at such an hour otherwise.

"I'll talk to you some other time, Mart," she told him firmly. "Do you know what time it is? You must get some sleep."

"I don't care what time it is!" he shouted.

"Well, I do, and I'm going to hang up. You have no right to call at such an hour."

"You're a fine one to talk about rights. I'm supposed to be engaged to you and this is how you act."

"Good night, Mart," Jeanne said and hung up the receiver.

It was no use talking to him when he was in that condition. Quarreling some enough when he was sober and when he had been drinking he was even worse. As Jeanne turned to go back into Cilly's room the telephone started ringing again shrilly. She stood in the doorway undecided as to what to do. And then Parks appeared down the hall wrapping a heavy bathrobe hastily about him.

"Was that the telephone, Miss MacDonald?" the butler asked.

"Yes Parks." She hesitated. "I answered once and the young man has been drinking. I thought it was better not to talk to him. Now I don't know what to do."

Strawberries Hold in Price

General Sales Made At Ten Cents Box And Nine By Crate

Homegrown strawberries gscended on the city market this morning in one of the largest quantities seen in a week, but contrary to public opinion that they would decline prices maintained a fairly good level. A fine quality of the berry was offered at two boxes for twenty-five cents, while not a few were quoted at three boxes for a quarter, but the general price quoted to Thursday morning shoppers was a straight figure of ten cents the box. A few vendors offered their stock at nine cents in the case-lot.

New peas were fairly plentiful with the Thomas Laxton variety proving the most popular. Prices however showed only a slight decline from those of the week end, with quart lots being offered at thirty cents generally although some vendors held out at thirty-five cents the quart and twenty cents per pint.

New potatoes were not as plentiful as was expected and sold at 60c per six quart basket with a number of vendors offering at ten cents per bunch. Eggs were scarce and were offered at twenty-two cents per dozen.

Strawberries Hold in Price

General Sales Made At Ten Cents Box And Nine By Crate

Homegrown strawberries descended on the city market this morning in one of the largest quantities seen this season, but contrary to public opinion that they would decline prices maintained a fairly good level. A fine quality of the berry was offered at two boxes for twenty-five cents, while not a few were quoted at three boxes for a quarter, but the general price quoted to Thursday morning shoppers was a straight figure of ten cents the box. A few vendors offered their stock at nine cents in the case lot.

New peas were fairly plentiful with the Thomas Laxton variety proving the most popular. Prices however showed only a slight decline from those of the week end, with quart lots being offered at thirty cents generally although some vendors held out at thirty-five cents the quart and twenty cents per pint.

New potatoes were not as plentiful as was expected and sold at 60c. per six quart basket with a number of vendors offering at ten cents per berry box.

New cabbage at ten and fifteen cents per head, new beets, lettuce, carrots and onions at five cents the bunch rounded out an attractive vegetable display. Asparagus was quoted at ten and fifteen cents per bunch. Eggs were scarce and were offered at twenty-two cents per dozen.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, June 29th—Sales of butter at the Canadian Commodity Exchange picked up substantially yesterday. One thousand boxes were sold on spot at 24 1-8c, at which level the market was quoted at the close. There was also the sale of a butter future, aggregating 22,600 lbs., November next, at 23 1-4c. The view was expressed that the use of the Canadian Commodity Exchange will be made by butter traders from now on. June butter futures wound up the day at 24 1-4c; July futures appeared for the first time and were quoted at 24c to 24 1-4c; November butter futures were 23 1-4c to 23 3-4c. In the afternoon the open market, spot—was being quoted 24 1-4c to 24 3-4c, mainly at the lower figure, compared with 24 3-4c on Saturday.

The cheese market was 15c for No. 1 Canadian Cheddars; 12 1-2c to 15 1-4c for No. 1 Ontario colored; 14 1-2c to 14 5-8c for No. 1 Quebec white and 14 5-8c to 14 3-4c for No. 1 Quebec colored.

The egg market continued firmer, particularly on top grades. Graded shipments were selling in used fresh cases on spot at 22c for A-large, 22c for A-medium, 20—20 1-2c for B and 18—18 1-2c for C. Offerings were quoted at the Commodity Exchange at 20c, 22c, 21c and 18 1-2c respectively.

DR. HETT LOSES APPEAL FOR REINSTATEMENT

Character of Cancer And Anxiety for Remedy Called 'Real Question'

Chief Justice Rowell Gives His Reasons For Judgment

PUBLIC 'SHOULD KNOW'

Justice Riddell Dissents For Majority Report of Appeal Court

Toronto, June 30—The Ontario Appeal Court today dismissed an appeal by Dr. John E. Hett of Elkhorner against his disbarment by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

Dr. Hett's name was struck from the college roll after he refused to reveal a formula for a serum used by him in treatment of cancer. The college council and the Kitchener doctor had failed to prove his serum was a cancer cure, as he claimed, it to be.

The Appeal Court recently deferred judgment on Dr. Hett's appeal after vainly suggesting that an independent committee inspect the proportion of the serum. Dr. Hett said he would not, in fact has treatment before any scientific body if he was obliged to reveal the secret formula.

The court's ruling was a majority judgment with Chief Justice W. E. Rowell and Mr. Justice R. Mid-dleton sustaining the Medical Council's finding while Mr. Justice W. H. Riddell dissented. Mr. Justice Riddell said he knew no misfeasance of Dr. Hett.

Fatal Shooting To Be Probed

Trusty At St. Vincent de Paul Killed By Guard's Bullet

Montreal, June 30 (CP)—A formal inquiry was launched today into the fatal shooting of Onesiphore Michelin, whose third term at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary was cut short by a guard's bullet.

Warders from the huge penitentiary just outside Montreal were summoned to an inquest over the body of the 32-year-old "trusty" from Three Rivers, Que., who was shot through the head yesterday during an alleged attack on a guard.

Before the inquest opened Coroner Jules refused to divulge the name of the guard who shot him; but they said he had fired to frighten Michelin after the convict had climaxed an argument with another guard-Zoilque Aube—by leaping on Aube, with eight strikes in Cape Breton Island fell to the Liberals. On the mainland, only the double ridings of Colchester and Cumberland and the single-member Queens constituency returned Conservatives. In Cumberland, the Opposition Party gained one seat from the Government—their only advance.

Carried 25 of the 30 Seats, Having Three More Than Last Time

HARRINGTON LOSES

Every Cabinet Minister Returned With Increased Majority

Halifax, June 30 (CP)—Nova Scotia's Liberal Government under Angus L. Macdonald faced a second term of office today, its majority of the last four years swelled in a general election.

A wave of ballots carried 25 of the Legislature's 30 seats to the Liberal column in the voting yesterday—four more than the Government Party had at dissolution—and swept the Conservative Opposition leader out of the House as his party sank to its lowest representation in more than a decade.

Personal defeat overtook the Opposition chief, Gordon S. Harrington, in his home riding of Cape Breton South. While the 46-year-old Premier was holding his own seat in Halifax South.

'Most Serious Monetary Steps in 20 Years'—Bonnet

FIRST DOMINION DAY'S MEMORIES STILL FRESH

(By Addison Vandervoort

It is hard to realize that three score years and ten have elapsed since this writer, with, I daresay, a few others in town attended as small persons the picnic held at the old hickory grove on the Bay shore, South of Dundas Street, just east of the city, on the very first Dominion Day. I suppose it was the crowd more than what was said that remains in the memory, but I do recall that it was a real fine day. This hickory grove was a real grove then: It is doubtful if any of the trees are left.

Hickory Groves

I recall another small hickory grove on Zwick's Island, and still another a little south of Pine Street at the north end of the old race track that ran south along Albert Street, and where Foster Avenue now is. I recall also how I used to be up in those trees gathering nuts, when they were about to fall.

Recalling days of old, I remember when the fall fairs were held in Taylor's Field, lying between Ann and William Street, blocking Queen Street, which ended here to be resumed on the east side of the field. The soldiers drilled and the band played here: this was about the time of the Fenian Raid. A grand stand was erected here on special occasions.

An Old Theatre

A few will recall the old theatre on George Street, a little north of Queen Street, where the inside exhibits of the rail fairs were held and where Tom Thumb and Commodore Nutt, with their tiny wives, were exhibited.

In those far off days to go out in the woods, just east of the town on Saturday when there was

John Coulson Wins Heat in Premier Race

Toronto Oarsman Wins Handily Over Norwegian Opponent

CAMPBELL OUT

P. H. Campbell Defeats Don Club Star By 2½ Lengths

20 (CP)—John Coulson made his 20 (CP)—the Coulson made his opening bid for the classic Diamond Sculls a winning one today by beating C. A. Christiansen of Norway as the Royal Henley Regatta opened out Toronto's other entrant, Chuck Campbell, was eliminated by P. H. Jackson of Leander.

Noel J. de Mille, of Vancouver, now rowing for the Reading Rowing Club of England, also met defeat in his preliminary heat, before the strong stroking of J. Hasenohrl of Austria. The European star won easily in nine minutes, forty seconds.

Coulson, wearing the Argonaut Club colours, pulled into an early lead over his Norwegian opponent and won impressively, by three lengths. His time, 11 minutes, 40 seconds over the course was given as seven minutes, 20 seconds.

Financed Own Trip.

Campbell, member of the Don Rowing Club who financed his trip to England himself to make his first appearance for the emblem of amateur sculling supremacy, was beaten by two and a half lengths. Jackson's time was seven minutes, 11 seconds.

Coulson will go into tomorrow's second round of eliminations heats along with today's other winners.

The winning young Toronto oarsman won handily. His long, powerful strokes gave him a one-length lead 100 yards from the start and he was paddling at the finish line.

His time only four seconds more than E. Ruffi of Germany needed to win last year's final against T. H. Tyler of Hull Rowing Club, in the course then was a mile, 550 yards.

It was a far more auspicious start than Coulson made in the 1936 Diamond Sculls. After drawing a bye in the first heat, the Argonaut Club racer snapped an oarlock soon after the start of his opening race against Tyler and the Englishman paddled his victory.

England's Chief Hope

Jackson is England's chief hope of recapturing the classic sculls, left undefended by Ruffi. He gained an early lead and was never seriously challenged despite the gallant bid made by Coulson in the final sprint.

Coulson will go into tomorrow's second round of eliminations heats along with today's other winners.

Lower Level of Franc In Market s of World Is Forecast by Experts

Conservation of Gold Supply in France Is Sought

TO STOP SPECULATION

French Senate Backs Up Plan of Premier Chautemps

Paris, June 30 (CP-HAVAS)—The gold content of the franc as last quoted was abrogated tonight by government decree. The new content will be fixed later, the decree stipulated.

The French Senate today voted the Chautemps government full financial power by 187 to 82.

The Chamber of Deputies already had approved the measure.

Enactment of the "decree power" measure permits Georges Bonnet, financial minister, to let the franc seek its own lower level in world markets, take steps to conserve France's sapped gold supply, stop speculation in bonds, control prices, try to balance the budget and attempt economic recovery.

Most Serious Steps.

Bonnet told the Senate that in asking for the bill it was requested by the government in "the most serious steps of those taken during the past twenty years."

All that is needed now for Finance Minister Bonnet to issue his decree, which are expected to include devaluation, is publication of the new law in the official journal tomorrow morning.

With no other ministers, he went this evening to the Elysee Palace to put the first decrees into shape for President Albert Lebrun's signature.

The new finance minister urged the upper body to throw its full support behind the government's demand for decree powers to deal with the financial crisis.

Inflation Ahead.

Inflation, devaluation and new taxes are considered certain under the finance minister previously had won the Senate Finance Committee's approval.

This, it was believed, the franc would slip to about 23 or perhaps 24 to the dollar as compared to the last closing on June 28 of 22.42.

Before the Senate committee voted for the bill, Premier Chautemps and the members he approved decree powers for the Socialist government although he opposed them for the first reading of Leon Blum.

The Blum government, he said, "seemed less directed toward a political financial recovery than a policy of nationalisation."

BUNNY AUSTIN DEFEATED

Wimbledon, June 30—(CP)—Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany, today defeated Bunny (Bunny) Austin of Great Britain in a gruelling semi-final match in the All-England Tennis Championships and qualified to meet DoDo Bridge, United States star, in the final.

Conservative Party Holds Edge in Election Returns

Twenty-five Liberals returned with five Conservatives in the 30-member house. Liberals gaining three more seats than in the election of 1933.

Opposition leader Col. Gordon S. Harrington defeated in his own riding of Cape Breton South by 435 votes.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald returned in Halifax South by 1,124 votes as compared with his 630-vote majority in 1933.

All members of last session's cabinet seeking re-election returned; each with increased majorities with the exception of Attorney-General J. H. MacQuarrie.

Parker Given 6 Year Term

Newark, N.J., June 30 (AP)—Ellis Parker, Sr., Chief of the Burlington County detectives, was sentenced to six years in a federal penitentiary today and his son, Ellis, Jr., to three years for plotting the kidnapping of Paul H. Wendel.

The Parkers were convicted a week ago today of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel, former Trenton lawyer, to obtain from him a false confession to the Lindbergh baby kidnapping. The "confession" investigated two years before, delayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann three days.

In a prepared statement, the Hearst offices said that in its Wendel investigation the public would say:

"With this issue, the Rochester Journal and the Rochester Sunday American will cease publication.

"Its circulation, assets and the publishing plant have been purchased by the Gannett Newspapers.

"The news service reports and many of the features that have been appearing in the Journal will hereafter be published in the Rochester Times-Union and in the Democrat and Chronicle".

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thomson
Science Service Meteorologist

Rain and crops: Tons of water are transpired by every one acre of crop plants. When one considers weights of plants, and that one inch of rain is equal to 113 tons per acre, he is apt to think that after a good rain the plants have absorbed plenty. Not that a plant potually holds is only a small part of the total. Water transmits food to and through the plant, and is then transpired through the leaves and evaporated. It is estimated that 1 ton of dried dry plant matter from 230 to 1,000 pounds of water is transpired. The amount depends upon the climate and kind of plant. It is estimated that it takes about 300 tons to an acre to mature a 56-bushel corn crop.

Dodges Charivari in Ohio To Run into it in Hastings

Innocent Boast of Groom Brings Retribution For Fleeing Celebration

PAUDASH LAKE SCENE

Canadians as a general rule are not so dumb in fact at times they are quite smart, at least so think a young bride and groom from the United States of Ohio who are spending their honeymoon in a cottage at Paudash Lake.

Arriving there a few days ago, the youthful Benedict lost no time in relating to the natives the story of their escape from the wedding guests, who, he said "had made plans to charivari us. Actually," he informed his listeners, "is a noisy celebration which we in the States give to newly married couples. But we decided, "fooled them. My wife and I dashed out a few hours before and came up here." And the young groom chuckled at the thought of how he fooled his relatives.

But his enthusiasm was shortlived. Among his listeners was a young fellow who apparently took this all-in-the-day's-work that Canadians did not know what a charivari was.

That night, as the happy couple sat in the cool seclusion of their cottage, they were startled by a shattered with the report of shotguns and a noisy cacophony of scrap filled the air. Tin pans were beaten with heavy objects. Cans were rattled. Yells and hoarse cries added to the general bedlam.

A little frightened, the groom came to the door, then recognizing the celebration, good naturedly took his part in the affair. He invited the unbidden guests in and dispensed with the usual formalities. "Well," he grinned, "it looks as though I've leaped out of the frying pan into the fire."

And the young

Japanese Sink Russian Ship

Hsinking, Manchoukuo, June 30 (AP)—A Japanese army communique announced today that Japanese-Manchoukuoan land forces had sank one Soviet Russia gunboat, inflicted casualties on another and repulsed a third vessel after being fired upon at Blagoveshchensk on the Amur River.

The communique asserted three Soviet boats, "invading" South Kantchatu Island below Blagoveshchensk "opened fire on Japanese-Manchoukuo guards". The Japanese naval action followed.

The Manchoukuo government immediately filed a vigorous protest to Moscow against the alleged invasion.

The Amur River runs along the northeastern Manchoukuo-Siberian border.

H. Daubney Pulls Young Lad, Helpless From a Creamy, From Water

Picton, June 30 (Special)—Tragedy was averted in front of the newly erected Prince Edward Yacht Club yesterday afternoon, when Herbert Daubney, resident of this town, plunged into the waters of the Bay of Quinte and rescued the ten-year-son of Fred Wright, local Bell Telephone employee, and former resident of Belleville, following a crash among the latter's considerable distance from shore.

Italians Claim France, Britain Favor Spanish Valencia Gov't

Hence Italy Turns Cold Shoulder To Italy's Own Proposal

FRANCE'S RECOGNITION

Rome, June 30 (AP)—Informed Italian circles asserted Great Britain and France of favoring the Spanish Valencia Government today and returned a cold shoulder on the proposals Italy herself advanced six months ago for withdrawal foreign volunteers from the Spanish civil war.

In these circles it was said that the "partiality of France and Great Britain toward the Valencia government—now makes a fair realization of the proposal improbable."

They contended recently increasing efforts to solve the Spanish crisis by removing volunteers were being favored by sympathizers of the Valencia government in the hope of weakening the insurgents' chances of success.

Italy, with Germany, recognizes the Insurgent regime headed by General Francisco Franco as the true representative of Spain and asserts the Valencia government has only "pirated authority in international law."

The Italian Ambassadors to London and the German representative visited Premier Neville Chamberlain yesterday in rejecting the Franco-British proposal to take over the duties abandoned by Italy and Germany when they left the patrol, charging repeated attacks on their warships by the Valencia government made their cooperation impossible.

Fascists believed approval of the French-British plan was certain to be withheld.

Playgrounds to Open Tuesday

Kiwanis Club To Officially Open The Grounds With Ceremony

Appropriate ceremonies will be held, when the official opening of the Kiwanis playgrounds takes place on Tuesday night. Both east and west hill playgrounds will be opened by the Kiwanis Club and a short program will be carried out according to Major Sprague president of the club.

On Tuesday the club was addressed by Ken Couch, Rotarian of Trenton, who gave a very interesting talk on "What have you got in your wheelbarrow, Mister?". This address was given as an editorial in the June issue of Maclean's Magazine by Roe Fulkerson, editor of the magazine, but Ken Couch, added a few touches to the editorial and made it an address worthwhile. He told of the different men, who were pushing wheelbarrows through life and of getting much kick out of it, while others were doing a real service to humanity and were always blithe and gay at their work. The speaker was introduced by Jack McIntosh and the appreciation of the club was expressed by Arthur Ellis, George Griffin, Frank Dommico, and Leo B. Wiggs, the last three named enjoying the address when it was given at Kiwanis International at Washington last year.

Bill Hughes, famous trainer of rugby teams, sprinters, fighters and other athletes and himself a former champion of the ring told the club the benefits of sport to a community and offered his service in any capacity to bring about a better sporting community in this district.

William LaRue To Stand Trial

Alleged Youth Stole Two Pay Cheques of $175 Value

William W. LaRue, 19-year-old Belleville youth, who was arrested in North Bay, recently on charges of the theft of a motor car, was brought to Belleville today to stand trial on two charges of the theft of pay cheques, amounting to $175 in all.

Young LaRue has been wanted by Provincial Police since last March, in which time he is alleged to have stolen his father's pay cheque for the sum of $87.50 and a similar pay cheque the property of George Little from the mails. The elder LaRue and Little are employees of the Provincial Fish Hatchery, situated east of Belleville.

William W. LaRue was brought to Belleville, from North Bay, last night by Provincial Constable Wm. H. McBrien and lodged in the county jail on remand until Monday next, when he will face charges of thefts from the mails.

It is alleged by Provincial Police that the younger LaRue removed letters from the family mail box at the intersection of Herchimer Ave., and Highway No. 2 in March last, the elder LaRue and Little receiving their pay cheques through the mail in the same mail box.

In a statement issued to Provincial Constable McBrien, the young er LaRue, stated he left Belleville, in March and spent some time in the Niagara Falls, returning to Napanee, where he was employed on a farm until some weeks ago. When apprehended in North Bay LaRue and a companion were on their way to the police station to report a motor accident.

"Where is your driver's license?" asked a North Bay policeman.

"I haven't any and this is a stolen car," nonchalantly replied LaRue indicating the car he and his companion were in possession of.

A check-up by North Bay police revealed the automobile had been stolen at Napanee some time ago. LaRue stated he did not remember taking the car. "We were drinking wine and I don't know who took the car", he is reported by police to have stated. It was following this arrest in North Bay that Provincial Police authorities were notified of his apprehension.

'Schools Out!' Cry Rings Out

Joyous Outcoors Now Claims Entire Attention

"School is out!" This gladsome cry rang through the schools of the city yesterday afternoon as joyous youth, with the cloud of examinations dispelled by the sunshine of forthcoming holidays shook the dust of schoolrooms, and the monotony of the three "R's" from their figurative feet, and poured out into a world which held for them a gladsome round of swimming, camping and other summer recreation which the youth of the land revel in.

Two months of summer suns; of welcome departure from the cloister-like atmosphere of the schoolroom, and satisfaction of the joys and delights of the avirunder lure the beaches and the other warm weather joys lighted the face of the youngsters as they trooped from the various schools to their homes.

Schoolbooks along over shelves in Belleville's youth celebrated notify in groups, pairs and singly as they dashed homewards yesterday afternoon. Freedom were the shouts of the last few days when the ominous clouds of examinations hung over young minds like a pall; forgotten was that day in September when the clang of the school bell will again call them back to their studies. They live for the present, do these youngsters, and for the time, with the weight of world problems yet to hang heavy on their shoulders, they left behind them with a careless abandon, the responsibilities of the classroom, as they rushed out into a world filled with sunshine and security. They have yet to worry about the war-clouds hanging over Europe; there is not to be awake at night scheming, planning and regretting duties not to worry about examination, and obtaining of a livelihood. Theirs is the pure wholesomeness of the middle of youth to enjoy to the fullest, the things that nature has given by a bountiful nature. Summer is ahead, with all its joys. School is out.

Trust a Schoolboy To Get an Idea

Ingenious youth put to a practical test yesterday, the old adage that "Necessity is the mother of invention." Four of the youngsters weighed down with schoolbooks on their return from school, devised a plan which not only answered the question of transportation of the tomes but in a large way contributed to a distribution of labor. Securing an old window shutter, the quartette deposited their books on it, then each holding in corner, marched gaily along Victoria Avenue to their respective homes. Another great problem was solved.

Character Of Cancer

Public Anxiety for Remedy

"The real reason for having regard to the widespread and malignant character of the disease and the anxiety of people to secure a remedy," said Chief Justice Royal in his reasons for judgment. "Has a physician who claims to have discovered a secret which will cure cancer but which has not been submitted to any scientific test nor disclosed to any scientist or any other medical man and which has not in fact been proven to be a cure for cancer, and who advertises by circulars to the patients that he has a cure for cancer and solicits patients through those circulars done something in the pursuit of his profession which would reasonably be regarded as disgraceful or dishonorable by his professional brethren of good repute and competence?

"Such conduct may, I think, be reasonably regarded as disgraceful and dishonorable by his professional brethren of good repute and competency."

Medical Council's Decision

The Chief Justice said the Medical Council and its disciplinary committee had found as a fact that to make such a claim as Dr. Hetit's, without having first established the serum would cure cancer, constituted "infamous and disgraceful conduct" in a professional respect within the meaning of the statute.

"After the most careful consideration of all the facts disclosed in this appeal, I have come to the conclusion, though not without some hesitation, that the court would not be justified in reversing this finding of the council," said the Chief Justice.

Public Should Know

"It is of the greatest importance that if there is real merit in Dr. Hetit's serum the public should have the benefit of it. If there is no real merit the public should know it."

His Lordship recalled his proposal that Dr. Hetit should submit to some independent scientific body to be tested. The Chief Justice said Dr. Hetit, through his counsel, had declined to agree to this proposal.

"I hope Dr. Hetit will yet change his mind and act upon the suggestion of the court, and, if he does so, the final step will rest with him," he continued. "If the court had the power to direct the restoration of Dr. Hetit's name it would probably said to suspend him a definite period, but as the meantime he has disclosed his formula, it would be disposed to do so but Section 34 of the Act does not appear to give this court any such power."

"Was there evidence before the discipline committee on which they could properly find as a finding set forth in their report?" asked the Chief Justice. "After a careful perusal of the evidence I am satisfied there was.

Hetit's Contention.

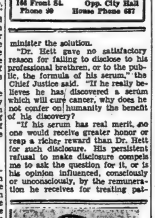
"Mr. R. H. Greer (Dr. Hetit's counsel) contends that the charge, even if substantiated, does not constitute infamous or disgraceful conduct in a professional respect, within the meaning of the statute. If there had been added to the charges the words 'and the formula for which he refused to disclose', the evidence would have undoubtedly supported the whole charge and the council would have been fully justified in deciding that he had been guilty of infamous or disgraceful conduct in a professional respect.



"The question—and it is a difficult one—is whether to claim to have discovered a specific cure for cancer, which claim is unsubstantiated, constitutes infamous or disgraceful conduct in a professional respect. In order to answer the question we must look at the surrounding circumstances as disclosed in the evidence."

Refusal To Disclose.

His lordship remarked before the medical council Dr. Hetit refused to disclose what the specific was or how it was prepared. Dr. Hetit's reason was he was afraid he might lose the benefit of his life. He was prepared to disclose the formula if, after examination of his patients by the medical council, it reached the conclusion his specific was of value. In all cases Dr. Hetit insisted he admister the solution.

"Dr. Hetit gave no satisfactory reason for failing to disclose to his professional brethren, or to the public, the formula of his serum," the Chief Justice said. "If he really believes he has discovered a serum which will cure cancer, why does he not confer on humanity the benefit of his discovery?

"If his serum has real merit, no one would receive greater honor or reap a richer reward than Dr. Hetit for such disclosure. His persistent refusal to make disclosure compels me to ask the question for it, or is his opinion influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the remuneration he receives for treating pa-

More Rose Records

A beautiful rosebush in the pink perfection of glorious bloom is the cynosure of the eyes of many admiring spectators who pass the home of Mr. J. Godden at 40 Elm Crest Avenue. Known as the "Seven Sisters" the bush is a mass of clustering blooms, with seven and eight flowers in each cluster. In all the bush has approximately 240 blossoms in full bloom with numerous buds which yet have to open. A remarkable feature of the flowers are the different shades of pink which color the petals. From a near white, the colors range in a pink motif to a color almost light red.

Crisp, delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes are full of the elements that supply energy. Always crisp because they're packed in the patented WAX-TITE inner wrapper.

272 Blooms

But constituting the record for the number of blooms on one bush is the "Captain Hayward" bush growing on the property of Mr. F. A. Britton on College Street. This splendid bush, according to Mr. Britton has 272 blooms adorning its branches. These are of a deep pink color and show an exceptional petal spread. Mr. Britton, a former naturalist, claims he has had blooms from this bush which measured nearly six inches petal spread when in full bloom.

Toronto, June 30 (CP)—Undergoing an examination of the lungs in a Toronto hospital today a patient was found to have two extra ribs, and an X-ray picture was made to preserve a record of this rare occurrence.

STORM DAMAGES AT COBOURG

Cobourg, June 30.—(CP)—Damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused by an electric, hail and wind storm which cut a swathe a mile wide and 10 miles long southeast from Castleton to the Campbellford highway. In some cases the 30-minute storm destroyed 90 per cent. of the orchard crop, all the strawberries, 30 per cent. of the grain and a large section of tomatoes. Hailstones were three inches in diameter, farmers reported.

Napanee, June 30.—(CP)—A freak hail storm of about 10 minutes duration swirled in a winding course north and west of here yesterday while a light shower of rain was falling generally in the district. Some of the hail stones were large as marbles and two miles from here the hail was reported about a half-inch deep. Tree leaves were stripped off and grain hammered down on some farms but no heavy damage was reported.

CANADA'S 70TH BIRTHDAY

Seventy years ago on July 1st, there came into being a nation, destined to fill no mean place in the world. It was Confederation Day of the four Provinces. In the words of the editorial writer of the Daily Intelligencer on that momentous occasion, "Not in the history of the world was such a scene witnessed as that which passed before the eyes of four millions of Canadians. The day dawned upon a new nation, born, not as nations usually are, amid scenes of strife of carnage and of blood, but ushered into being quietly, peacefully and tranquilly as the mid-summer morn which signalized its birth. There was no clanking of arms, no pomp and circumstance of war, no ruins of burned villages. But our conquering heroes came with the garlands of peace upon their brows and along their pathway were strewn the fruits of a peaceful, bloodless victory. All honor to the men to whose self-sacrificing spirit, undaunted courage, and true-hearted patriotism we are indebted for this inestimable boon to Canada—to mankind."

Canadians of that day naturally could not see what the self-sacrificing acts of the great political leaders meant. We today can see it in a united Canada instead of separate provinces. Seventy years' experience has proven the wisdom of those statesmen patriots who gave the world Canada. Canada was then a land with possibilities, her attainments had not reached full stature, which indeed has not yet been developed because of the immense possibilities incident to such a step.

Canada is greater than the total of the provinces. That is the creators and builders of this nation saw. And the greatness of Canada at the first Dominion Day is not what the greatness of Canada is at the end of seven decades.

Canadians can truly believe that those Fathers of Confederation who made this Dominion were inspired to take the only possible and inevitable step. But this move for union required courage and self-sacrifice. There have been many times in the histories of nations when the good of all was not the motive but in this Dominion's case Confederation was from the first and has been the good of all from the first suggestions to the realized unity we know as Canada.

Twenty years ago this memorable day passed unobserved except in a quiet way because on a score of foreign battlefields Canadians were on duty with the nations with a similar ideal of a federal union of the great nations which would make ever again unnecessary and impossible a holocaust of the young and vigorous youth of the world. Ten years ago the day was observed with great rejoicing, and there was an entire week-end of holidays. This year the observance will be marked with less ceremony but nevertheless it will be observed by every Canadian in the spirit of happiness and measureless content that he was born in a land so blessed as this land and under protection of law and order and democracy. But five years hence, the seventy-fifth anniversary of the coming to nationhood of the Canadian provinces will be celebrated wholeheartedly with due ceremonies.

Birthdays are happy events and on this occasion when more and more the people are thinking of their heritage the observance should be more than usually happy even if there is unrest abroad in the world.

While Canadians are observing the Dominion's birthday they must not forget that what was and is Canada had its beginning long before the nineteenth century, long before July 1st, 1867. It goes back to the early sixteenth century and the following centuries. Canada would not be today what she is were it not for the rich sources from which this Dominion has sprung, heritages of worth, of different racial strain, all of the highest type and suited for the gigantic task of moulding a nation. Our country arrived late on the world's formative stage but she has the heritage of all the best in her chief racial origins and precious British liberties. In her ancestors her history goes back far beyond the discovery of America to those lands which bore the ancestors of the early settlers who were to build this Empire of the West.

SCIENCE MARCHES ON

Prof. J. B. Collip of McGill University a graduate of Belleville schools, told recently at a meeting of the Canadian Medical Association at Montreal that sixty per cent of hallitosis victims were the under-activity of the pituitary gland while 28 per cent were over-active. A new treatment for hallitosis-producing diseases is accomplished by the use of extracts.

Here is an evidence into what fields the modern scientist is digging in his researches. Hallitosis might be considered a disease which the scientists would not easily rout, but on second consideration it is realized what a boon to mankind would be the elimination of this disease which causes distress to the individual who is the victim and to others.

This is but an index of the work of science in its blessings to the human race.

WHICH MAN ARE YOU?

There are men in whose presence your cares disappear,
In the light of whose smile there is joy;
There are others you meet take the sun from the day,
All the cheer in your heart they destroy,
And all of you know them—they're part of your life,
You greet them wherever you go—
The man you delight to accept as a friend,
And the man you would rather not know.

One thinks about others, and one of himself;
One interests, while one is a bore;
To one you will give all the best in your house,
The other won't get past the door.
And one makes you feel you're a prince of a chap,
And one sets your worth very low—
The man you delight to accept as a friend,
And the man you would rather not know.

While one's easy manner is balm to your soul,
While he puts you at peace with the world,
The other leaves nerves that are jagged and frayed,
In perpetual disorder they're whirled.
One has something of God, one is wholly of Man,
One is simple, one bursts with Ego—
The man you delight to accept as a friend,
And the man you would rather not know.

Which person you are is revealed in your acts,
For these you can have no defense;
From your thoughts spring the deeds that betray the real YOU,
Whatever your sham and pretense,
And it's worth while to know that the earth can be yours,
For the best things in life we bestow
On the man we delight to accept as a friend,
Not the man we would rather not know.

—Bill Smith, in Toronto Globe.

KINSMEN'S KID KAR DERBY IS THE big attraction for Dominion Day in Belleville. The Derby will be held in the morning in order that the Bellevillians may spend the afternoon with their neighbors in Picton who are celebrating the Centennial of the birth of that picturesque and prosperous burg. This is the second annual Kinsmen Kid Kar Derby, born in the fertile brain of Impressario Cleo Colling, Kinsman extraordinary and reputed author of the phrase, "One touch of nature makes the whole world Kinsmen." Kinsman Cleo is the Big Boss of the Kid Kar Derby and he has able helpers. There would have been no Derby without Cleo. Sixty keen young speedsters of Belleville and district have fashioned their own speed cars ready for the dash down the hill for glory and prizes. Twenty-three heats will decide the issue, an indication of the wealth of entertainment offered spectators. The Derby will be preceded by a grand street parade—which will be in a class by itself—bands of music n'everything.

"PANCAKE HILL" IS BY WAY OF becoming famous for now another claimant has arisen for the honor of being the only original "Pancake Hill", which, of course is in West Huntingdon. Quinte Sun intimated that Pancake Hill was opposite Trenton on Prince Edward county on the Ridge Hill. Faugh! and a couple of pooh poohs! to the Sun, the only original Pancake Hill as immortalized by that eminent Hastings historian, Gwen Herity, is in West Huntingdon, on the well-known Ridge Road, two or three miles east of West Huntingdon. It gets its name from the fine buckwheat cakes here which makes the finest flour for pancakes known to commerce and discriminating palates.

Would Distribute Concerts

To the Editor of Ontario Intelligencer.
Dear Sir:

You no doubt have heard the saying "Music Hath Charms to Calm the Savage Breast."

This letter is to draw the attention of somebody to the fact that at the last Municipal Elections the people of this city as a whole voted money for music. The Municipal Band has given concerts at Agricultural Park, Tourists Camp, Theatres and Church Lawn but we the people of the north have yet to hear a tune. Why have we music lovers in humble homes who are not able (not having cars) to enjoy these concerts. These concerts at the Tourist Camp are O. K. but do the tourists help us to pay our share? No. Those who gain are the merchants not the people who pay but do not enjoy the pleasure they help to pay for. As a suggestion a concert (also) at King George School also at Pine St. School with room for everybody rich and poor, merchant and artisan, low and Gentile all mixed as they will be someday! Why so many concerts for tourists if that is the idea? We pay, not they. Let us have a concert. It might help to quiet nerves very much tried in these trying times.

To the boys of the band I hope they won't mind coming to us and let us hear and see a band we are all proud of and if an oversight it is not too late to please the people of North Ward. A letter appeared in your paper just after the election by Mr. Trumpet Mr. Trump re concerts. I thought if I would perhaps his letter would result in correcting the situation so I would assist if possible. Not wishing to hide still not wishing publicity I am signing under cover you may use either as you see fit. I feel the Press has the chance to help and where the public pay see that all classes get their share we will all some day when we won't be able to hear the band.

I remain a music lover,
One of the Savages

SEEKING WAR?

Robert-Jean Farinacci (Above), member of the Fascist grand council and former secretary of the party, asked immediate severance of relations with Great Britain and France, in the publication "Il Regime Fascista." Farinacci said in part "considering the present military inefficiency of britain and the internal weakness of France, it is better to strike the blow than in the distant to-morrow which will be more advantageous to our enemies." The article was promptly repudiated by the minister of public culture. Farinacci was one of the earliest Fascist leaders and has a wide following in his native land.

EUROPE ON GWING TENSE AS SPANISH WAR FEVER SPREADS

Frankly admitting that Germany came out with flat demands for complete defeat of the Loyalist government pledging Italy to join Germany in direct action should a new crisis involving the two nations arise. The developments darkened efforts by Britain and France to keep the war from flaming into a world holocaust. In this map sketch the artist has depicted, along with the leaders of the nations most closely involved, the frenzy of uncertainty into which Europe has been thrown, with portent-laden messages flashing from capital to capital and from capital to envoy as the factions strive for their own particular ends in the struggle. It is an excellent indication of the current situation.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

Don't accept constipation and its miseries. Realize that 2 pounds of bile flow from your liver into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food just decays in the bowels. Gas blats up your stomach. You get constipated. Headaches and dizziness get into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and "punk" all over.

A mere movement of the bowels doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they have been used by millions for over 40 years to relieve just the condition pictured above. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists.

Weddings

JACKSON—HUFFMAN

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized in Old St. Andrew's United Church, Toronto, at 3.30, June 30th, when Frances Ruth Huffman, Reg. Nurse, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Huffman, became the bride of Ernest J. Jackson, eldest son of Mrs. Jackson and the late Mr. A. J. Jackson, now of Forest Hill Village, Toronto. The church was decorated with orange blossoms and pink and white peonies for the ceremony which was conducted by the Rev. Eric L. Cowell, recent graduate of Emmanuel and Victoria College and groom of only a week.

The bride was in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Donald Macfarlane, looked charming in a gown of white mousseline de soie, made on simple lines and short in front. Her flip length veil of fine net was draped to her head with a cluster of orange blossoms and small calla lilies. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas, baby sweetheart roses and babies breath.

The bridesmaid, Miss Winnifred Thomson wore Iris blue net made on simple lines and a matching waist length veil draped to the head with a cluster of pink and blue sweet peas. She carried a bouquet of lavender and pink sweet peas and babies breath.

Mr. Joseph Wilson was best man and Master Bruce Huffman ushered in the bridal party, attired in regular blue flannel coat trimmed with white braid and short trousers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, where Mrs. Huffman received the guests wearing a long black sheer crepe dress with matching picture hat and a corsage of sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a black and white flowered chiffon over white taffeta, large white picture hat and a corsage of sweetheart roses and bits-of-the-valley.

The couple then left on a motor trip, destination unknown. The bride travelling in a tailored costume of May wine Lace O'Shamrock with white sharkskin trimming and white sharkskin seventeen inch length cape and matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Toronto. Both were former residents of Hastings County.

CLARKE—ANDERSON

A quiet marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, when Margaret Elaine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson of Melrose, became the bride of Mr. William Douglas Clarke, Shannonville, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke, of Shannonville. Rev. W. H. Clarke, father of the groom, officiated.

The bride wore her mother's wedding dress of white organdy and the veil worn by the groom's mother at her wedding. Her bouquet was of roses and baby's breath.

The bridal party took dinner in Belleville, after which the young couple left on a wedding trip to Haliburton County, where they will spend a few days at the summer home of the groom's parents. Upon their return they will reside in Windsor.

no school, was one of the joys of boyhood days. Who can recall the second west of Charles Street, that made such a nice place to skate, in winter. There were a number of oak trees near by; a visit to the vicinity a short time ago, showed but a solitary tree remaining. The passing of time had removed the forest, as it has so many of those who knew the neighborhood, on the first Dominion Day.

In those days, boys made their own playthings, such as kites, bows and arrows, cricket bats, wooden guns, at the time of the Fenian Raid, when boy companies with their wooden guns, was one of the means of passing the time. In those days the young folk in our neighborhood went to Sunday School and kept the day more strictly than now. We heard very little slang and any vulgarity was regarded as something shocking! There have been many changes since then. We took keen pleasure in going on the boy hunt our elders and in swimming after school near Bleeker's Mill. I have to laugh when I think of one of my friends, being in the habit of having rest, as it has so many of those who knew the neighborhood, on the first Dominion Day.

AT THE BELLE

Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur In Grand Love Romance

Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur, a fascinating pair of screen lovers come to the Belle Theatre tomorrow (Thursday) and Friday, matinee daily in a film romance as fresh and sweet and charming as the Paris in which it blooms.

The occasion is, "History is Made at Night," Walter Wanger's latest screen special, and this story from the twin typewriters of the indefatigable team of Gene Towne and Graham Baker fairly sparkles with bright, gay, flippant dialogue that we wager you'll be quoting for weeks.

The handsome Boyer has never been seen to better advantage than as Paul Dumond, Paris man about town and glorified head waiter, and lovely Jean Arthur is also at her charming best as Irene Vall the New York mannequin who yearns to break the bonds of her unhappy marriage to the jealous, domineering shipping magnate, played by Colin Clive.

The Story

The story opens on a novel note, with Paul, the handsome and mysterious stranger, playing knight-errant to Irene when her husband sends his chauffeur (Ivan Lebedeff) to her hotel suite to compromise her so she'll be compelled to drop her divorce proceedings. Paul floors the chauffeur, carries off Irene and a glorious romance is begun as these two fascinating and fascinated strangers dine and tango 'till dawn in the smart Paris cafe where Paul is unknown to Irene, head waiter. The ever reliable Leo Carrillo provides another grand portrayal as Cesare the temperamental chef of the cafe.

A tragic note is introduced when Irene learns here and finds that Paul's blow has killed the chauffeur. Now Vall feels he can force her to drop the divorce proceedings to save the handsome stranger.

She returns to New York with him, but finds she cannot remain with Vall and takes a job as mannequin.

Amazing Climax

Paul, meanwhile, has pursued her to New York, where he and Cesare take over a fashionable cafe, Victor's.

Irene, learning she is wanted in Paris in regard to the murder, offers to return with Vall to help save Paul. But when he takes her to Victor's for dinner and she sees that Paul is free, the lovers are reunited and plan to return to Paris together aboard Vall's new crack liner and save the prisoner who is being unjustly held there.

One of the most unexpected and amazing climaxes in screen history follows.....One that would be unfair to reveal here . . . and the story ends on a happy note.

Hollywood's ace director, Frank Borzage has lavished the production to his usual splendid direction, the entire cast acts splendidly, and the final result is one of the grandest pieces of entertainment that has graced the hearts of talented Belle and vicinity screen lovers in months.

"History is Made at Night" will make cinema history. Mark it a "must."

"Marked Woman" Gripping

When an actress of Bette Davis' dramatic stature is cast in a film that is powerful, vivid and dynamic .....That's real entertainment.

So it is no wonder that the audience at the Belle Theatre sat breathless through the Warner Bros. melodrama, "Marked Woman" which opened there yesterday.

Last year Bette received the award of the Academy of Motion Arts and Sciences (top prize of all the best performances) by unbodiedly will put her among those considered for the 1937 gold statuette.

Starring Bette Davis and featuring Humphrey Bogart and Eduardo Ciannelli in addition to a number of other prominit players, "Marked Woman" will be repeated again tonight for the last times along with a very interesting Newsreel introducing up-to-the- minute world events and a funny Ken Murray multiple-reel comedy.

TO WED SPENCER

Pictured here is Mrs. Norma Johnson, fiancee of Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, first husband of the Duchess of Windsor. The marriage will take place in Southern California. Commander Spencer is in the U. S. navy and both bride-to-be is a Los Angeles socialite and widow of Homer Johnson, Johnson Motors, Ltd., Pontiac motor manufacturer. Mrs. Johnson and the commander met in 1925.

2. Carbbrooke Ena, bred by F. M. Rutherford, Secy., and now owned by Senator W. A. O'Connor, Scarboro. This cow having several R.O.P. records, one being over 23,000 lb. milk, and over 1000 lb. b. fat.

Mr. Louis O'Neill — Live Stock Director of the Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto, chose as his subject: "Bovine T. B., and Bangs Disease in Cattle." He emphasized the fact that pure-bred breeders were an asset to the health of the people of the community, and to use of tuna, presented a survey of the provincial status.

Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb, recent Ayrshire entrant, and Canadian Countryman writer, was third speaker. Mr. Robb, as a writer has well known his attitude and a person whom everyone was glad to see and hear. He spoke on "Life". He graphically eulogized the superior life of a pure-bred cow, in comparison with the inbred, who with tears in her eyes, lamented the fact that spring were not of the "type" of her superior sisters. He deplored Depression living, and regretted that our educational systems have directed to professional men from the beautiful, ideal 'life' of the farm, and country.

H. N. Carr, M. P. P., also delighted the gathering with his presence and a few remarks.

Mr. Fraser, Secretary, National Dairy Council, Ontario, was next speaker, after which Mr. Alex Kline, chief member of the local Club, was announced, and spoke briefly.

Also, Mr. Frank Napier, Secretary, National Ayrshire Breeders.

The gathering then dispersed from the dinner tables to the yard at the rear of the boat, where cattle judging, from the Carlsbrooke herd, in four classes was held.

MARKET COMMENT

During the last few months, the stock market has had to contend with a large number of unfavorable developments. First, the statement emanating from President Roosevelt that commodity prices, particularly of raw materials such as copper, steel and automobiles were advancing too rapidly and that the United States would stop making further purchases at a more reasonable price level developed. At the same time Great Britain intimated that it had made most of its war purchases a year previously. The result of all this was a sharp setback in base metal securities, which affected all security markets.

Just at about this time, reports began to appear in the press of the tremendous amount of gold held in the United States Treasury and rumours were promulgated that a severe rise in the gold price was being contemplated. As a result of these rumours, security markets throughout the world became depressed. Now that these rumours were forthcoming from Government heads, the damage had been done and the market, like a letter spring, rebounded.

Due due consideration of the many contributing factors to the market decline, as enumerated above, one must come to the conclusion that the worst is over and that stocks, therefore, are a better buy today than at any time in many a year. While the cancelling of a war, world conditions cannot get worse so the natural conclusion is that any change is bound to be for the better.

Red Ruffing's Pinch Single Gives Yankees Victory Over A's but White Sox Keep Pace

Detroit Falls Back But Still Real Contender In Race

DEAN BEATEN

Acts As Relief Hurler In Ninth And Cubs Score Three Runs

(By Orio Robertson)

Associated Press Sports Writer)

It's not exactly the way Col. Jacob Ruppert would have it but nevertheless the manner in which the Chicago White Sox are snapping at the Yankees' heels has brought joy to the remainer of the American League.

Col. Ruppert would much rather see his world champions out in front spread -eagling the field as they did last year when they held an 8½ game advantage over the second place Tigers on the last day of June. The White Sox were just another ball club down in sixth position.

Pinch hitting for Red Ruffing's pinch single in the ninth after George Selkirk had been retired, blasted out home runs earlier in the game, helping the Yanks defeat the Athletics 4-3 yesterday. The White Sox kept pace with them, however, as they turned back the Tigers by the same score for their ninth straight triumph.

Close Race in National

Although the American league pennant scrap is much closer than usual, National League fans in the junior circuit one better in that only three games separate the pace setting Cubs and the fourth place Pirates.

The Cubs came and tumble 11-9 triumph over the Cards, in which Dizzy Dean pitched one inning and was charged with the defeat; the Giants 4-3 decision over the Phillies in 10 innings, and the Pirates' double victory over the Reds by the score of 3-1 and 12-8 brought the four leaders closer together.

In addition to the Giants-Phillies affair, in which Gus Hoppe held the Champions' attack with four hits, Brooklyn and Boston were over-time with the Bees winning 1-0 on pitcher Lou Fette's 12 inning single. The Red Sox and Senators battled the same length of time to a 5-3 tie while the Indians whipped the Browns 7-5.

FLYERS DOWNED BY CORBINS 14-12

Exhibition Tilt Is Free Hitting Affair Between Smart Teams

In a friendly exhibition softball game played at Coleman, Plaia last evening the Corbin Kozak, leader of the Belleville Senior Softball league, triumphed over the R.C.A.F. "Flyers," tops in the Trenton Town league, by the score of 14 to 12. The score about indicates the play as the two teams clubbed up plenty of hitting power and gun bases with abandon, two circuit blows being registered and numerous extra base hits.

Coach Dan Cowley of R.C.A.F. hockey fame, used three hurlers in a futile effort to stop the slugging Corbins, while Manager Rawden sent Connie Harris the route for the locals. Corbin took an early game lead, before the largest softball crowd of the season, but a mid-game spurge by the Flyers saw the teams at closer terms, until the Corbins bashed out five big runs in the fifth to assume a lead they protected well. Although hitting featured the pastime, numerous errors paved the way for the efforts on the part of the moundsmen, Harris being the victim of several unreasonable errors on the part of his team mates. Corbins outhit the Flyers 17 to 14.

"Shud" Ekhler, with two doubles and two singles was tied for hitting honors by Frank Lamore, of the Flyers, who had a circuit blow and three singles chalked up in his favor. "Tarzan" Ripby clouted the apshelion for a home run, a double and a single in three tries, getting a walk the fourth time to give the big blonde a perfect day at bat. Harris helped his own cause with a trio of clouts, while Tuttle connected for a double and triple. Adds to Flyers' batting feat only Laurie Gibson and Higgerty were successful in solving Harris' giants, these two Flyers getting two hits each, Gibson a triple and double.

The line-ups—Corbins—Barriage ss, Hinds 3b, Ekhler, Reid 1b Ripby lf, St. Louis cf, Hanna rf, Tuttle and Knoll c, Harris p. R.C.A.F.—Higgerty cf, Ernie McNeely and Zittle lf, Gibson 3b, Lamore c, LeGoodyle 2b, Herbert 1b, Cain ss, McKee lf Davis, Snider and Spanna p.

CEMENTMEN WIN OVER AAJMAAS

Losers Fade Badly After Building Up Four Run Lead In Second

After garnering four big runs in the second to take a commanding lead, the Aajmaa hurlers faded badly in the subsequent frames to drop their scheduled City League softball game to the Point Anne squad by the ultimate score of 11 to 7 in the Cement Village.

A fourth inning rally netted the homesters six runs and saw Stone, Manager Glen Bowler's starting pitcher shifted from the hilltop, Harold Dracup then taking up the hurling duties, but the damage had been done. Although the Aajmaa kids found Lorne Balemah, ace moundsman of the "Cement Boys" for seven hits, they failed to connect consistantly after their second inning rally, while the Point Anne squad made their even dozen safeties count into 11 runs.

After being retired in order in the initial frame the Aajmaa batsmen of four bits, which coupled with a brace of miscues resulted in four runs for the visitors. A walk and two hits gave the homesters two runs in their half of the third, but the next frame saw the Cement boys really apply the willow with telling vengeance as they poled out six hits, many for extra bases, shelled Stone from the mound and netted six runs. Two walks and error were squeeze into the hectic frame.

Manager Sedore's gang of swatters Green and Gaulin pounded out a hit each in the seventh and eighth. Dicky Smiths continued to add runs in brace of hits each, for Point Anne, while Bateman casterially assisted his own cause with two timely hits. Ronsky and Moon were the only Bowler charges to connect for more than one safety, as Bateman kept the hits scattered after the second. The leadership of the Senior city softball loop is at stake this evening, when the league leading Cementmen take the Belleville Sergants tangle a league fixture, while at Coleman the Jersey to Point Anne for fracas with the lowly Aajmaas.

The line-ups—Aajmaas—Adams 3b, Ronsky 2b, Moon cf, Amo lf, O'Neil 1b Feete and Rowbotham c, Mason field ss, Cooper and Reynolds rf, Stone and Dracup p. Point Anne—Genereaux 3b, Dickey rf, Bero ss, Green c, Gaulin 1b Murray lf, Whitehead 2b, Bateman p, Smith and Morton cf.

U. S. Golfers Win Ryder Cup

Southport, Eng., June 30 (AP)—Scoring its first victory in golf football, the United States Ryder Cup team today retained the international golf trophy by defeating Great Britain's picked team of professionals, 6-4.

The triumph, first for either side on the other team's home grounds, brought the standing in the series that was begun in 1927 to four matches for the Americans and two for the British.

Most decisive of the five United States victories in today's singles matches was scored by open champion Ralph Guldahl, who routed the British champion, Alf Padgham, by 4 and 3. Gene Sarazen, veteran of each of the past five teams, brought home the point that assured the invaders of retaining the trophy. Another veteran, Ed Dudley, came in with the victory that put the Americans in front to stay.

Makes Up Deficit.

When Sarazen, who made up a three-hole deficit on the last nine, turned in his one-up defeat of Percy Alliss, he brought the score to United States six, Britain four, with two matches still to be completed.

Even the weight of the home crowd was three two and tied the final score, the Ryder Cup would have remained in the United States hands. But Dudley, whipping Alf Perry, British open champion two years ago, by 2 and 1, and lanky Henry Picard, winning from Arthur Lacey by the same margin, sewed tre match up tight.

Sam Sneed Wins.

Guldahl, Sarazen, Dudley and Picard were joined in the winners' circle by Slammin' Sam Sneed, who, in his bow to international competition, gained a 5 and 4 decision over Richard Burton.

TINKER AN EVERS HONOR LATE COMRADE CHANCE OF BALL FAME

The historic battle cry of the old-time Cubs, "Tinker to Evers to Chance," lived again for a time with two of the famous trio paying honor to their missing leader. Johnny Evers and Joe Tinker were guests of honor at Frank Chance Memorial Day at Wrigley Field, Chicago, in which many other famous old-timers took part. Chief feature of the sentimental ceremony was the presentation of a bronze plaque to be erected as a permanent fixture at the field in honor of the "Peerless Leader," Frank Chance. Two members of the immortal infield, Joe Tinker left, and Johnny Evers, are seen here, holding the plaque to be erected in honor of Frank Chance.

CALLING 'EM
Between the Lines
with
Ken J. Colling

Bright and early tomorrow morning those ardent disciples of Izaak Walton will realize their season's ambition, an opportunity of attempting to lure the black bass and the fungo beauties. The season for catching these game fish in these parts opens tomorrow morning at sunrise and doubtless the highways and byways will be literally covered with motorized caravans wending their various ways to the fishing beds. It seems history does not record the identity of the first fisherman, nor is it common as to the earliest methods used to lure fish from the depths.

An Idea Long existed that fishing with line, rod and reel originated in the time of Pt. the Egyptian King, in the far-flung centuries before the Christian era. This opinion was reached by the simple process of looking at Plaque 161, found in the tomb of Pt., which sketched a man holding a fish pole in one hand and a reel in the other.

This rod and reel conclusion was accepted for many centuries, and might still be so recorded, had not a curious fellow made a minute study of the "drawing" or carving, and discovered that the "reel" was merely the round end of a club which the man held in his hand, perhaps for an express purpose of "conking" fish too large and powerful to land by line. Further consensus of opinion of historians is that Persia was the first nation to discover that fish were edible, about 5,000 years ago. But who cares, who or when fishing was first enjoyed just as long as we can come home with the prized beauties and if not, there's always the conventional "fish story" regardless as to the day's luck. The fisherman never to have lost a much larger one than he caught is not a true disciple of Izaak Walton, believe it or not.

The Corbin Lock softballers polished off the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" 14 to 12 in a friendly softball tilt at the Coleman Flats last evening without much ado. The game developed into a free hitting contest, much to the satisfaction of the large gathering. Corby, who captained the Flyers' hockey team, was self-styled manager of the Flyers' softball squad, and showed no mercy to his hockey teammates, derricking Ernie McNeely for messing up a fly ball. Laurie Gibson, Lucky Leonard and Higgerty were other members of the Flyers' hockey team on the squad. Had the Corbins been pressed at all we feel they could have taken the game by a much wider margin, but exhibition games are never taken seriously by either club.

Yesterday's Stars

Lou Fette, Bess.—Held Dodgers to seven hits and drove in winning run with 12th. inning single.

Staff-Reporter Listens in on A Domestic Drama With The Wife in Leading Role

Not Just a Case of Keeping Up With the Smiths But One of Utilizing Opportunities—She Knew What She Wanted and How to Get It—Other Women Can Do Likewise

The attractive young matron glanced at her husband seated at the opposite side of the breakfast table reading the morning newspaper.

Deeply ensconced in the sport pages he failed to notice the look of worry on the pretty face of his wife.

Finally his wife could stand it no longer. "Jack," she said, "there is something I have been waiting to tell you for some time....."

"Huh," yes, Mary, what is it?"

"I am really serious about this, Jack..... I wish you would pay attention to what I am going to say."

"All right, little woman, let's have it," smiled her spouse, placing his paper on the table.

His wife arose from her chair and crossed the room to where he was sitting. "Jack," she said, "what I am going to say is about our home..... Can't something be done about it. It is falling into a bad state of repair. The paint is beginning to peel off it, the roof needs fixing and there are a lot of things to be done to it. Our relatives will be here soon on vacation and I am actually ashamed to ask them here when the house is in such a condition."

Her husband shook his head. "I am sorry, Mary, but there isn't much we can do about it. I know it is badly in need of repair, but I am not a millionaire, and the salary I am getting will not permit of any repairs this year. You know as well as I do that it is almost impossible to obtain long terms of credit with the trades and building firms, and I cannot go into debt any further. We are now paying instalments on a lot of things and I cannot see my way clear to do it just now."

"What I can't understand is how the Smiths across the way can afford to fix their homes up the way they are doing," said Mary. "I know for a fact that he doesn't get any more salary than you, yet look at the improvements he is putting on the house."

"I don't know either," returned her husband. "He is certainly making his home look fine."

The next morning a shining-faced wife greeted her husband. "Jack," she smiled.... "I have found out the secret of the Smith's apparent prosperity. It isn't prosperity at all. Do you know what can be done? You can go to your banker, and under this new Home Improvement Plan borrow amounts up to $2,000. to improve, modernize and beautify your home. Mrs. Smith told me all about it yesterday at the Bridge Club," she continued excitedly.

"Is that right. How do you pay it back?" asked friend hubby.

"Oh, that is the easy part of it. You can get time up to three years in which to pay back your loan, in monthly instalments," his wife said. "Oh, Jack, won't you please go down and see the banker about it. We can pay the loan back every month and we won't miss it."

"All right, little woman I'll see what can be done."

The next few weeks saw the little home the centre of a hive of activity. Workmen, painters, carpenters, and plumbers went into swift action, remodelling and beautifying, and installing a modern bathroom.

Today the young housewife views with pride the brand new, shiny appearance of her home. No more does she feel ashamed to invite her relatives for the week-end. It all came about through the easy terms and facilities of the Home Improvement Plan. Not only did she have the satisfaction of seeing her home beautified but she also felt the glow of pride as she realized she had by her efforts stimulated business and employment.

Holiday Bride

By ANN DEMAREST

Parks eyed her strangely, picked up the telephone and answered. With a few curt words he hung up. Lily silenced Mart because the telephoning did not ring again after Parks returned to his chair. And Jeanne went back to Lily's room and crept into bed. Lily had little sympathy she had ever had for Mart was vanishingly small now. He seemed to be making trouble. Warped by his own frustrated ambitions, he took his bitterness out on every one around him. Now, at least, Jeanne thought with relief, Mart would be willing to break their so-called engagement. With that cleared up, there would be a little less complication. She fell asleep thinking of the days with Bryan when the future looked so secure.

INSTALLMENT 13

Wakening in the morning to find herself in Lily's luxurious bed and surrounded by her beautiful possessions almost blotted out the unhappiness of the night before. Jeanne bathed and dressed slowly, delighting in the unaccustomed leisure.

Parks served her a delicious breakfast in the sunny room where Jeanne had had breakfast every day. If it wasn't until she had finished the last drop of coffee that she allowed herself to thing of the unpleasant task ahead.

Calling Bryan was not going to be easy, so Jeanne went to the telephone in the library where she would not be overheard by the servants. Slowly she lifted the receiver, relaxed to did the number that would connect her with the man she loved. She could tell Bryan nothing that he was always there on Saturday morning, why not come that on this particular Saturday he wouldn't be there; that for some reason he would be away and she couldn't get in touch with him. But Bryan, was in, and Jeanne's low voice made Jeanne's slim body tremble so that she had to lean again against Gordon Bartlett's desk to steady herself.

"Hello, darling, Bryan," she said in answer to his business like "Hello!"

"Yes." Just that. No warmth in his greeting, just a brusque word.

Jeanne swallowed over the lump that was rising in her throat.

"I have a favor to ask you," she began hesitantly, and then with a feeling of despair she went on ahead breathlessly telling him about Aunt Cecile and explaining her reason for calling him.

"So it's all a joke, this masquerading as Cilly Bartlett," he said.

"Not--exactly, Bryan. I'm sorry now that I ever agreed to do it but at the time I didn't feel that I could refuse," Her voice broke. "I need my--job so badly, you see."

For the first time in that strained telephone conversation Jeanne thought she could detect a note of warmth in his voice when he said, "I suppose I can manage during old you could do. How long do you have to go on masquerading her limit you new her niece?"

"Only until Monday," Jeanne said. "She is leaving then for California."

"What I can't understand is why she wanted to see me," he went on, his voice brusque again.

He didn't want to come. She could tell that. Perhaps he had a date with Sandra.

"I don't care whether he comes or not," she told herself stormily. Aloud she said, "She knew your father, Bryan."

He was silent for a moment and then he finally said in a tired voice, "All right, I'll call for you about seven."

"That's nice of you but you need not bother. I'll be at the hotel. Just come there and ask for Miss Bartlett."

"Very well."

Jeanne's voice faltered. "Thank you, Bryan. It's awfully good of you. I appreciate it."

Before she could finish Bryan said a brief good-bye and Jeanne could hear the receiver click as he hung up. She turned away from the telephone miserably. Bryan was apparently going to dinner with them because of his father. He seemed determined that some of the old feeling he had had for Jeanne should show in any way.

The day seemed unbearably long. Parks had been warned and when Aunt Cecile telephoned early in the afternoon for Cilly he called Jeanne to answer it. The old lady was delighted when she found that Bryan was coming, and she asked Jeanne there was no work to be done to get to the hotel about six-thirty. There was no work to be done for Gordon Bartlett until he came back from Boston so Jeanne tried to occupy her mind by reading, but it was almost impossible. With Bryan and the coming evening in mind, she found herself turning pages listlessly, unable to concentrate. Several times the telephone rang and Jeanne waited for Parks to call her with a drinking party. She was afraid Mart would be on the line, demanding an explanation but to her great relief he did not try to get in touch with her all that day.

It was while she was dressing for dinner that Parks and Jeanne found Lance Larkin on the wire.

"How does it happen you are working on Saturday afternoon?" he asked.

Jeanne's heart sank. Cilly had not seen him before she left for the house party to explain. It never occurred to Jeanne that he would find it difficult trying to tell Lance. The telephone and she was then over the line waited for Lance's awful outburst of anger.

"I suppose Cilly talked you into this mad scheme and you couldn't tell me! What a chump I am!" he said. "It's a rotten shame, Jeanne. You certainly aren't having a very nice time working at the Bartletts'."

"It was really a pity for Cilly to miss the house party, Lance," Jeanne protested. "She was looking forward to it."

"Who's giving this house party? Lance asked slowly, after a long pause.

Jeanne could feel the misery in his voice and she felt a sudden regret that she had mentioned it to him. Yet there seemed to be nothing to do but tell him.

"Dear Lord".

Again he was silent and then finally he said gently, "It's all right, Jeanne. I shouldn't be talking it out on you; you aren't to blame. But Cilly Bartlett's a little fool to risk making her aunt angry just for that man."

"Perhaps it will work out all right, Lance." Jeanne said, trying to be cheerful. "She hasn't suspected so far that I'm not her niece and she is leaving town on Monday."

"It's an awful chance, though, Lance said. "Oh, well, good luck, my child. I want to see you when this is all over."

Talking with Lance delayed Jeanne so that she arrived at the hotel only a few minutes before Bryan was announced.

Aunt Cecile was in a gay mood. "I'm delighted to have you two young people to dine with me," she said. "And Cecile, you're as pretty as a picture in that evening gown, isn't she, Bryan?"

Bryan bowed stiffly. "She is always pretty," he said.

The old lady insisted on taking them down to the hotel bar for sherry. "I had to show you off," she said jauntily as she led them into the dining room.

This time Cilly's aunt had ordered the dinner in advance and while they were waiting for it to be served Bryan chatted with her. He looked handsome as usual in his dinner clothes but Jeanne thought that he might be ill. His face was drawn, his cheeks were flushed and his eyes were too bright. Could anything be the matter with him, she wondered, with a quick stab of apprehension.

But if Bryan were ill he did not allow it to spoil the evening. He was generous to the old lady and charming to Jeanne but she could see that he was only playing a part. Not once during the long dinner did he unbend sufficiently to her save the most casual of remarks and he darted and avoided her pleading gaze.

It was almost unbearable, Jeanne thought to have to sit next to him her own bare arm so close to his black broadcloth sleeve, realizing all the while that they were so far apart. They had loved each other so intensely once, yet now they might have been strangers. If Aunt Cecile noticed that he and Jeanne were strained, she did not betray it. She asked him about his father, who had died ten years before, and Bryan told her about the splendid work he had done up to the time of his illness. Aunt Cecile seemed so interested that Jeanne wondered whether Cilly's aunt had ever been interested in Bryan's father. If she had, that might explain her reason for wishing to have Bryan for dinner.

It seemed hours to Jeanne until the dinner was finished and they had their coffee in the lounge. And then Bryan finally rose to go. Jeanne refused his polite offer to see her home.

"I'll wait to the door with you," she said.

Aunt Cecile tactfully took the elevator up to her rooms while the two of them walked through the lobby to the revolving doors.

"It had been a very pleasant evening, Jeanne," he said stiffly.

Jeanne took his arm impulsively and the ermine wrap slipped down over her smooth shoulders. Under the bright lights he looked very ill. "Bryan, what is it? Aren't you well?"

He drew his arm away. "Can that possibly make any difference to you?"

Her blue eyes clouded with tears as she looked up at him.

"Yes, yes . . . it does make a difference."

He laughed harshly. "You can hardly expect me to believe that. Oh, but--"

He had turned away from her. "I think it would be better if we didn't see each other again," he said under his breath.

She nodded dully. "Why didn't you call me, Bryan? I'm not begging you to see me again but I can't understand why you didn't let me know how you felt about me. Instead, I'll find out from Sandra."

"I should have thought it was perfectly obvious how I felt without asking you," he said coldly. "I have told me that it was money and Lance Larkin you wanted."

"Money!" she gasped. "Bryan, what are you talking about? I don't want money."

Again he laughed harshly. "If I hadn't been blind I should have known long ago when you wouldn't marry me until we saved more, but I never dreamed you were waiting for some one wealthy to come along."

"I don't understand. I wasn't. You know--"

He looked down at her, an odd light in his eyes.

"Indeed, we won't discuss it, Good-bye, Jeanne."

Jeanne stared and then appeared through the revolving door, leaving Jeanne to stare after him, bewildered.

"Good-bye, Bryan," she whispered.

17,671,200 MILES OF FLIES

How Long Would it Take to Kill Each One?

From May 1st to September 30th, it is estimated that a female house-fly would have approximately 5,598,720,000,000 descendants. Supposing a fly is a fifth of an inch long and all these flies were laid end to end, there would be more than 17,671,200 miles of flies.

This sounds like a serious problem but fortunately, they don't all live and people instead of bothering about putting them end to end, put them to an end once and for all.

And the best time to do the killing is when the flies first appear. Each fly killed then eliminates the danger of millions later.

Flies are a menace to health, they carry the germs of summer diarrhoea, typhoid and other dangerous diseases. Not a word of good can be said in their favour.

There's only one way to keep them down the menace. Breeding places such as uncovered bins, poisonous manure, rotting matter of any kind should be eliminated. Screens on doors and windows and coverings for all food and drink should be used. But, best of all, if flies do enter the home, have a few Wilson's Fly Pads placed around. If used regularly, according to directions they will KILL all the flies in short order.

Liberal Party

No Deposits Lost

Lone deviation from the two-party fight, Cape Breton East ranked Labor candidate Percy C. Mercer behind Liberal L. D. Currie but well ahead of Conservative Rod Kerr. Currie gained 4,223 ballots, Mercer 3,380 and Kerr 2,206.

Every member of the Macdonald Cabinet seeking re-election went back with an increased majority with the exception of Attorney-General J. H. MacQuarrie in Pictou. The Attorney-General and his running mate, W. G. Munro, were elected in the double riding county with decreased majorities.

One feature of the election was that not a single candidate lost his deposit.

Premier Doubles Majority

Premier Macdonald was re-elected in Halifax South with a majority of 2,148 votes, almost double his majority when he first became Premier in 1933, Capt. Roslyn Routh defeating Opposition Leader Harrington, elected George M. Morrison by 685 ballots.

The overwhelming support that has been given to the Liberal Party in this election can only be interpreted as an expression of satisfaction with the work which we have accomplished during the past four years, and with the program we have in mind for the future," said Premier Macdonald.

"The Government will go on with the work it has started. It will continue to strive with all its might for the advancement of the interests of Nova Scotia and its people.

"The Liberals went back into power with three members more than they had when elected in the general election of 1933.

Highways Minister A. S. MacMillan was returned in Hants with a majority of 1,000 votes as compared with his lead of 725 in 1933. Minister of Health Dr. F. R. Davis was one of two Liberals elected in Lunenburg, his lead of 1,079 after his margin of 1,320 in the last election.

Mines Minister Elected

One of the first victories conceded was that of Mines Minister Michael Dwyer, who steps through Cape Breton centre with a margin of 1,250 as compared with his lead of 694 in the same riding last year; another early concession was that of George Nowlan, President of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association, to Minister of Agriculture J. A. McDonald in Kings. Mardonald added more than 1,000 to his lead in 1933.

Liberals swept all five Halifax seats, three in the city and two in the county.

The four Liberal gains were chalked upon Cape Breton Island, in Cape Breton North, South and West and, Victoria.

Among the defeated candidates were F. W. "Casey" Baldwin, first British subject to fly an airplane, who lost his seat in Victoria to Liberal John M. Campbell, and Hon. J. Fred Fraser, former Provincial Secretary, who was defeated in Halifax East by Geoffrey Stevens.

Minister Without Portfolio J. W. Comeau was elected in Digby, defeating E. B. Pugh by 1,027 ballots, compared with a 1,569 victory last time. H. L. Tierney won in Guysborough for the Liberals, taking the place of Minister Without Portfolio C. H. Cahan who did not run.

Largest majority of the day, however, was recorded by Conservative Percy C. Black in Cumberland. Black had a majority of 2,226 while his running mate A. R. Smith had a 1,135-vote edge to chalk up a Conservative gain. The double riding split its affiliation in 1933.

Increased Majorities

Colchester returned two Conservatives as it did in 1933, each with a majority considerably larger than the Opposition candidates gained then. Conservatives supported Conservative John J. Cameron by the smallest majority of their Party, 205 votes. The county went Conservative by 110 ballots in 1933.

"As in 1933, so today's verdict is emphatic and unmistakable," said Col. Harrington in Sydney. "In these circumstances I am quite content to accept the result publicly proclaimed. There has been a very substantial Conservative vote polled throughout the whole Province and that is there to build upon for the future."

ORANGEMEN TO TALK ON IMMIGRATION

Ottawa, June 30 (CP)—The Grand Orange Lodge of British America continued secret sessions today, discussing proposed changes in the constitution, a spokesman said.

The same spokesman said he believed later in the day the meeting would debate a resolution favoring increased British immigration to Canada. The Grand Lodge, he added, was generally favorable to increasing immigration of high type from the British Isles and looked with some measure of approval on the Hornby plan of assisted immigration and land settlement.
